YOUTHS FULL OF PRANKS

CELEBRATED HALLOWE'EN IN A WAY THAT MADE THEM FUN.

Small Boys Out in Force, and With No Curfew Bell to Call Them In, They Played Tricks on Unsuspecting Seniors.

Last night was Hallowe'en but it was generally celebrated on Saturday night. There were many social gatherings about the city and borough and many of the young people spent their evening in playing all sorts of games and tricks appropriate to the occasion. There was no curfew bell to warn the youthful Plainfielders within doors as the darkness fell and the new moon shone through the leafless branches of the trees over in the west, so they wandered about the quiet streets and played all manner of jokes on the unsuspecting residents of this good city.

It was a beautiful night, no breeze stirring and cold and sharp with the approach of Jack Frost. The new moon did not light up the scene but little and the black intervals between the electric lights served to screen the scurrying celebrators of the eve of All Hallow's Day. The small boys were out in force all over the city. They watched the police with a careful eye and kept carefully in the background while he was in the neighborhood. They tied doorknobs together and rang the doorbell. False letters were chalked on the doorsteps and all manner of innocent little jokes were played on the unwary.

Showers of corn, wheat and rice were flung at the windows and doors. Solitary pedestrians were suddenly greeted by a similar shower as they rounded a corner. Some of the small boys provided themselves with small bags of flour which they used with whitening effect on the backs of those that passed. There was a thump on the back, a puff of something white and the intruder was gone leaving his victim to brush off the flour that covered his clothing.

Cords were stretched across the sidewalk and the hat of the pedestrian suddenly left his head. As he murmured something at the instigator of the joke, a mocking laugh came out of the darkness and away scampered the jokers. There were plenty of other tricks that furnished the Plainfield small boy with lots of amusement during the evening.

The police reported that the city was comparatively quiet during the night. They encountered the usual number of small boys and the usual number of gates disappeared in some mysterious way and were found next day a block or two away. Bonfires sprang up in the gutter without any apparent reason and there were a score of other reasons.

REVIVAL INTEREST.

Meetings in the Grace M. E Church are Resulting in Much Good.

Saturday evening the revival meetings were continued in Grace M. E. church, and with good results. Considering it was Saturday night the attendance was remarkably good and the interest was excellent. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. C. E. Hasselgrave, and the sermon was preached by Rev. W. P. Drew. His discourse was based on the words "Be Strong in the Lord," and he spoke at length concerning the various kinds of strength which everyone admires in this present day. He presented many practical truths and they were well received. During the evening there were selections by the quartette, and at the close of the meeting an altar service was held, at which time a large number of those present went forward to the altar and joined in a united prayer for the unconverted.

Yesterday morning Rev. C. E. Hasselgrave preached a sermon on the subject of "Introduction to the Christian Life," which was listened to with great deal of interest. In the evening the sermon was preached by Rev. Aboth Osborne, from the text, "Christ the Revealer of God." There was a very large attendance at this service and the power of God was deeply manifested. The singing by the quartette was a feature. Tonight another service will be conducted by the quartette, and they will return next Friday evening again. In the meantime services will be continued by the pastor of the church and the workers.

Last Gun of The Campaign.

The second and last gun in the present political campaign in Plainfield is to be fired this evening. A meeting of the Republican Club will be held in the Republican headquarters at 8 o'clock. The object of the meeting is to advance the cause of Republicanism in general and that of Roger F. Murray in particular. Murray is a member of the club and he will be there to meet the young G. O. P. men. Speeches will be made by different young men and the inner man will be provided for.

RAHWAY QUIT IN A HUFF.

WOULDN'T FINISH FOOTBALL GAME.

It Was Evident That They Were Being Defeated When the Referee Tried to Call the Game.

The principal football game of Saturday afternoon in Plainfield was played on Martine common. It was one of the contests in The Journal League, and the contesting elevens were the Plainfield Crescent Football Club and the Rahway Y. M. C. A. What the real result of the game was is still a matter for doubt. The game was remarkable for the continued arguments and delays. It was tacticly understood that the Crescents won by a score of 6 to 0.

According to the rules of the league no team shall average more than 145 pounds per man, but the Rahways came with a team weighing 155 pounds per man at the least.

The first half was hard fought. The ball moved up and down the field with a slight advantage in favor of the Rahway team whose team work seemed superior. Rahway made her only gains through the line, however, in which she was far heavier. In all the game not one Rahway runner was able to circle either end.

One of the Crescents was injured in a scrimmage and time was taken out while he had a chance to recover. Rahway's back kicked the ball to the Crescents twenty-yard line, but as play had been suspended, no Crescent man was playing back, but Titcomb started after the ball.

A Rahway man grabbed the ball, but Titcomb nailed him and another Rahway man taking the ball on a forward pass, carried it over the line.

The referee was a Rahway man, and while he admitted play had been suspended on account of the injured player, he said he had ordered play just as Rahway kicked the ball.

It finally ended in allowing the play by giving the Crescents ten yards for a forward pass.

Here is where the trouble commenced. Oliver, Rahway's full back, injured himself so badly he had to retire and Rahway's captain refused to continue the game, saying it was getting dark. The referee called play and after a discussion the Rahway captain and the referee agreed to finish the 10 minutes of play remaining.

The Crescents pushed the ball down the field at a rapid pace when all of a sudden the referee called the game. He gave as his reason "on account of darkness."

Captain Perrine, of the Crescents, told both the referee and captain of the Rahway's that he should make a touch down and claim the game, unless the play was finished. They answered that they didn't care what he did.

Cuming took the ball over for a touch down and Pendergast kicked the goal and claimed the game—6-0.

The blame seems to rest more with the referee than with the Rahway captain.

The teams lined up as follows:

Crescents.		Rahway.
Close	centre	Black
Ryder	right guard	Mooney
Hardingham	right tackle	Godfrey
Richardson	right end	Cutie
Woolston	quarterback	C. Miller
Cathcart	fullback	Oliver
Pendergast	right halfback	Byers

FIRE IN UPPER END OF BOROUGH.

A Quantity of Hay in a Barn Accidentally Set on Fire.

Saturday night about 9:30 an alarm of fire was sent in from Box No. 152, corner of Grove street and Linden avenue, by Joseph Newman, who lives near Somerset street on Linden avenue. Mr. Newman discovered a fire in W. J. Conroy's barn near his residence and hastened to give the alarm. In the meantime, John Stites, who also lives nearby, saw the fire and he ran with a pail of water to put it out. This accomplished a great deal of good, for when the fire department arrived there was very little for them to do, and in fact they were not obliged to use water from a hydrant. The West End Hose Company responded almost as quickly as the main department, but they were not needed. It was very evident that someone had dropped a match in the barn near the main door, where there was a quantity of hay. This seemed to be the general opinion of all present at the fire. The damage was very slight owing to the quick discovery on the part of the neighbors. The fire department was quick to respond and made excellent time in reaching the scene of the fire.

Sidetracked Looking for Work.

Hugh Hawkins was en route for one of the local factories Saturday evening when he became sidetracked. Patrolman Myers escorted him to the jail and he remained there until this morning when the City Judge suspended sentence on him. He was an inoffensive offender.

REAL LIVE PICTURES.

CHARMING ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY CHEERFUL WORKERS.

The Views Shown in a Frame of Evergreen and Were Artfully Arranged—The Subjects and Those Who Participated.

A wonderful picture gallery, with real live pictures in it, was shown to an appreciative audience in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Saturday evening. The entertainment was arranged by the Cheerful Workers' Circle of King's Daughters. The wonderful pictures were shown in a frame of evergreen that stood in the centre of the platform and was hidden by a curtain except during the intervals when the pictures were being exhibited.

They were really a series of charming little tableaux, supposed to represent paintings and posters. The latter showed some of the well-known advertisements, which were delightfully gotten up. "Hatching a Plot" was a tableau of two little boys apparently in earnest conversation. It was very good. One of the most charming of the advertising "living posters" was that of Lundborg's Toilet Perfumes and Powders, "Only for the Bon Ton," by the Misses Kaufman, both dressed in quaint, old-fashioned gowns.

Considerable amusement was caused when the picture, "In the Good Old Days," was presented. It showed an Indian brave with a fierce moustache kneeling at the feet of his true love. As the curtain was pulled one side the moustache fell off, to the great confusion of the fair little brave, Miss Matie Wadsworth.

The programme was as follows:

Painting—"A Japanese Girl," by Tada Vantine, Elsie Harman; Sulphene—"Four drops sufficient," Matie Wadsworth; Ivory Soap—"It floats," Wilhelmina Patton; Life's Comedy—"Subscription $1 a year," Helen Harman; Cleveland's Baking Powder—"Best in the market," Maysie Day; painting from life—"Hatching a Plot," Elias Rowland and Gray Harman; piano duet—Florence Beebe and Maysie Day; Baker's Chocolate—"Absolutely pure," Gladys Kaufman; painting—"Gypsy Girl," by Donzetti, Elizabeth Cady; Lundborg's Toilet Perfumes and Powders—"Only for the bon ton," Grace and Gladys Kaufman; Chocolate Menier—Florence Beebe; Fourhand selection—Grace and Gladys Kaufman; [illegible]—"A most satisfying drink on a winter's day," Ursula Rowland; Lowney's Chocolate Bonbons—"Name on every piece," Wilhelmina Patton; Pears' Soap—"After a royal game use soap of equal fame," Edith Fisk; painting—"A Spanish Girl," by George Wharton Edwards, Matie Wadsworth; recitation—The Wind, Elizabeth Cady; Armour's Best Laundry Soap—Elsie Harman; McCreery's "Liberty satin is the best," Helen Harman; Corticelli Embroidery Silk—"Warranted not to fade," Grace Kaufman; violin solo—"Air de Ballet," Helen Harman; Williams' Shaving Soap—"The traveler's favorite," Elizabeth Cady; Sunart Camera—"A snap shot," Maysie Day; Rubifoam—"Whitens and preserves the teeth," Raymond Miller; painting—"A Modern Queen Elizabeth," Sir Walter Raleigh, Elsie Harman; Hartford Tires—"Unequalled," Matie Wadsworth; piano duet—Misses Wadsworth and Harman; Barbour's Irish Flax "Recommended for its purity and strength," Ursula Rowland; Cottolene—"Most Economical and Digestible," Wilhelmina Patton; Ayers' Cherry Pectoral—"Household remedy for coughs and colds," Edith Fisk; Brick's Mince Meat—"Nun nicer," Elizabeth Cady; How to Know New York—"A guide for hayseeds," Florence Beebe; Fehr's Talcum Powder—"Heals and soothes all inflammations," Maysie Day; painting—"In the Good Old Days," by Wm. Gilbert, Misses Wadsworth and Harman; Photo in color—Latest picture of Cheerful Workers' Circle of King's Daughters, Prof. Langhorne.

The entertainment was conducted under the management of the president of the circle, Miss Gertrude Walz, assisted by Miss Edith Tracy and Miss Mary Howe Miller. Willard Wadsworth and George Richards collected tickets at the door. E. H. Ladd, Jr., acted as master of ceremonies. The affair was well attended and will net a large profit for the circle, the exact amount of which has not yet been ascertained.

LOST HIS PYTHIAN UNIFORM BY FIRE.

A Small Fire Did Considerable Damage in Lewis Mohring's House.

An alarm of fire was turned in at 10:20 o'clock this morning from box 34, at Liberty and West Fifth streets, and the firemen upon reaching the scene found heavy volumes of smoke pouring from the second story windows of Lewis Mohring's house, 526 West Fifth street.

The smoke was so dense that the firemen had the greatest difficulty in forcing their way to the upper story. There a quantity of clothing in one of the sleeping rooms was found burning. The flames were quickly extinguished. The clothing, including a valuable Knights of Phythias uniform belonging to Mr. Mohring, was completely destroyed. The house was also damaged somewhat by water. The loss is about $150, covered by insurance.

—The hardware stores will close at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

A CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

ALL SAINTS' SOCIETY IN SCOTCH PLAINS FIFTEEN YEARS OLD.

Rev. Edward H. True, the Rector, in Charge of Celebration—Principal Service Was the Union Sunday-School Meeting

The fifteenth anniversary of All Saints' church, of Scotch Plains, was celebrated with appropriate services yesterday.

The early celebration of Holy Communion took place at 9 o'clock in the morning with the rector, Rev. Edward H. True, M. A., officiating. The church choir of twenty-five voices furnished the music. At 10 o'clock the Sunday-school assembled and morning prayer was held and the Sunday-school lesson taught.

The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, the altar being entirely covered with white blossoms. At the close of the Sunday-school lesson litany and Holy Communion were held and Rev. Floyd Appleton, curate of Grace Episcopal church, of Plainfield, preached an eloquent sermon on "The Readiness of the Saints." About forty communicants were present at this service.

The principal service of the day was the union Sunday-school service of the Baptist, Methodist and Episcopal churches of Scotch Plains, which was held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. One side of the church was occupied by the Sunday-school children, who entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion. The Scripture lesson was read by Rev. J. S. Braker, pastor of the Baptist church, and Rev. Mr. Winans, of the Methodist church, prayed. George E. Hall, of the Baptist Sunday-school, made an address to the children upon the question of Sunday-school work, showing the financial needs of the movement. George H. Krause, of Roselle, recording secretary of the Union County Sunday-school Association, spoke on the glorious opportunities for training offered in the Sunday-school to the younger boys and girls, the older scholars and the teachers. Rev. George Angleman, of the Methodist church at Hampton Junction, next made an address upon the dignity and the rewards of Sunday-school work.

The Sunday-school lesson, referring to Paul's sea voyage and shipwreck, was taught in an interesting manner in ten minutes by H. Robinson, of Fanwood.

Rev. Otis A. Glazebrook, D. D., of Elizabeth, was next introduced and spoke upon the importance of training for the young. As the man is in the boy and the woman is in the girl, the speaker said, so is the church in the Sunday-school. He expressed pleasure at the work of the county Sunday-school association in arranging the union meetings bringing the children of different denominations together, and impressed upon the scholars the need of truthfulness and self sacrifice in a successful life. An offering was taken for the Union County Sunday-school Association, and the afternoon service closed with the hymnn "Blest be the tie that binds," and a benediction by the rector,

At the evening service the full evening choral song was given by the choir of Holy Cross church, of Plainfield, and the rector gave a short talk.

TRACTION COMPANY ENJOINED.

Cannot Use the Road Which it Captured Sunday Last.

Chancellor McGill issued an order Saturday morning in Jersey City, directing the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company to show cause why an injuction should not be issued against it, restraining it from operating the trolley road it built between Somerville and Bound Brook last Sunday, and also restraining it from building a road anywhere in the State of New Jersey. The order was issued on information and a bill filed by Attorney General Samuel H. Gray, at the relation of a property-owner of Bridgewater township, Somerset county.

The bill was obtained by Gilbert A. Van Doren, who lives in the road in which the trolley road was built last Sunday, and was represented before the Chancellor by Williard P. Voorhees, of New Brunswick, counsel of the Brunswick Traction Company.

After hearing the bill the injunction was granted. It is made returnable November 9th. The papers were served on James Bergen, counsel for the New York company, and its engineer James Herbert.

—The delivery department of the Public Library will be open at the usual hours on Election Day. The Johnston collection of coins have now been placed in the art gallery and is open to the public.

ON THEIR WAY TO HEAVEN.

CHRISTIANS ANSWER A POLICEMAN.

Said They Belonged to Christ and Invited Patrolman McCue to Go Along With Them.

A number of strange men, members of the congregation that meet in a hall on West Second street, and known sometimes as Brethren, were about the city yesterday passing out tracts Near the corner of Park and North avenues they commenced to preach. Immediately a number of people gathered about the preachers to listen when Patrolman McCue appeared on the scene. The following conversation then took place, Policeman McCue asking the questions:

"To what do you belong?"

"To Christ," was the reply.

"Where are you going?"

"To heaven," came back the fervent answer.

"Well, why don't you get there?"

"We are as fast as we can, and we would like to take you along."

At this point the officer informed the men that they would have to secure a permit if they desired to preach in the street. Later they were seen by a Daily Press reporter. They said that it was evident that Christ was being persecuted in Plainfield, and that there were lots of people who would like to hear the Gospel. They read several verses of Scripture to the reporter and gave him several tracts, after which they extended a hearty invitation to come to the meetings held on West Second street.

SPIELKARTENFEST TICKETS.

Went on Sale This Morning and There Will be a Brisk Demand for Them.

The sale of reserved seat tickets for the great hospital show began this morning at the drug stores of T. S. Armstrong and Charles Hall, and will continue throughout the week.

The sittings on the northerly or left hand side of the hall are sold at Armstrong's; those on the right hand side are sold at Hall's.

Season tickets, good for six admissions, are sold at $2.50, a saving of 50 cents compared with the cost of six single ticket. These may be had at the drug stores above named, also at Shaw's, Randolph's, Barker's Rowley's, Moy's and Mallinson's drug stores.

The season ticket does not cover a reserved seat. But such ticket may be exchanged at Armstrong's or Hall's for reserved seat tickets, an allowance of 50 cents being made on each admission.

Arrangements have been made for the sale of school tickets, with the kind permission of the principals of the public schools.

A Good Sermon and Good Singing.

The large congregation of Trinity Reformed church in attendance at the Y. M. C. A. Hall yesterday morning, listened to a very instructive and entertaining discourse by the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., on the subject of "Public or Congregational Worship," from the text Psalm 95:6: "O, Come, let us worship and bow down; let us kneel before the Lord our Maker." A quartette choir, consisting of Miss Stella Drake, soprano, of Newark, and Mrs. E. H. Bird, contralto, and Messrs. Robert M. Clark, tenor, and F. S. Cutter, basso, were present at both the morning and evening services. Their singing was much enjoyed.

Farmer Made His Escape.

Saturday night about 6 o'clock Charles Bloom's horse and wagon was standing in front of Kirch & Long's grocery store, on Somerset street, when a farmer from over the mountains in a hay wagon collided with Mr. Bloom's rig and almost wrecked it. It did not take the man in the hay wagon much time to get away and make his escape. Mr. Bloom and Chief Marshal Wilson gave chase and traced the man for a considerable distance, but were unable to catch him or learn who he was. Mr. Bloom thinks that he knows the man and intends having a warrant issued for his arrest.

An Election Day Outing.

The members of the Plainfield Camera Club and their friends will enjoy an outing to Chimney Rock tomorrow morning, provided the weather is pleasant. They will meet at the club rooms in the Babcock building, and go by stage to the scene of their morning's outing.

Returns By Telephone.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company will receive full returns from the election in Greater New York and in this State tomorrow evening, and they will be furnished to all subscribers who care for them free.

Mayor Wilson's New Office.

Borough Mayor John F. Wilson has changed his office from the borough Council rooms to the room used for holding court, over the lockup, and he can be seen there any morning.

TAILOR'S SHOP ROBBED.

THE THIEF MADE OFF WITH TWO OVERCOATS AS BOOTY.

The Third Time That The Place Has Been Burglarized—An Unsuccessful Hunt for Money—Barking Dogs Frightened Thief

Plainfield's enterprising burglar was on deck again Sunday morning while most everybody was sleeping, and helped himself to two overcoats from the little tailor shop of Isaac Shrager, on Madison avenue, near West Front street.

Shrager seems to be a favorite with the local crooks, for this is the third time that his shop has been visited. The two previous attempts were unsuccessful, and this time the dogs of the neighborhood disturbed the burglar in the midst of his labors and caused him to leave in unseemly haste.

Entrance was gained through the skylight, which had been left unlocked. The establishment is a little one-story affair with a flight of stairs conveniently near to the roof. There the burglar found the skylight and dropped inside. The rear window was opened and the contents of the shop, including sundry overcoats and suits, were thrown outside. The shop was thoroughly rummaged for cash, but there was none.

The neighbors heard the barking of dogs at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, and it is supposed that the burglar was frightened away by the noise. At any rate he went suddenly, for he left a heap of clothing under the open window, and the only articles missed are two overcoats. The clothing in the shop was that left there to be cleaned, repaired or altered.

The police found the window open and the heap of stray overcoats, trousers, coats and vests beneath it, but the burglar left no clue as to his identity.

REALTY CHANGES.

Plainfield Matters of Record During the Past Week.

The following property transfers have been recorded in County Clerk Howard's office, Oct. 22d to 29th, inclusive, as published in the New Jersey Contractor and Gazette:

A Military Funeral.

The funeral services of the late William F. Kiernan, of New York, cousin of Miss Elizabeth Kiernan, of Steiner place, were held Saturday morning at St. George's church, Stuyvesant Square, New York. Members of St. Andrew's Brotherhood attended in a body and a detachment of Company H, 7th Regiment, N. G. N. Y., formed a body guard, and the bearers were also from Mr. Kiernan's regiment. Mr. Kiernan was well known in this city, where he made many friends during his visits, and his friends will hear of his death with sincere regret. He was ill only a short time with an attack of nervous prostration which caused his death. He is survived by a mother and sister. A large number of friends assembled at the funeral to do honor to the memory of the young man who had been tireless in every good work connected with St. George's parish.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Brief Items of More or Less Interest to Plainfielders.

Rev. George Needham, the evangelist, left Plainfield this morning to be absent sometime.

Miss Mary Urmston, of Rahway, is the guest of Mrs. F. O. Smith, of West Front street.

Norbut R. Pendergast, of Elizabeth, has returned to his home after a short visit at the home of Gen. Eli Long, of Grove street.

George E. Sanders, of 427 Orchard place, is convalescing from a seven weeks' illness. He took a short walk yesterday and greatly enjoyed the balmy air and sunshine.

James Stowell Anthony is now associated with the Walker Company, manufacturers of electric machinery, Cleveland, Ohio, where he is in charge of the printing and advertising department.

Garret Q. Packer was called to Montgomery, Somerset county, yesterday, to see his father who is in his ninety-first year, and is fast losing his eyesight. Otherwise Mr. Packer's father is bright and active.

FREE CUBA OR FIGHT US

Former Minister Taylor's Defiant Challenge to Spain.

RIGHT OF INTERFERENCE

Declares that This Country Has Perfect Right to Interfere in Cuba's Behalf, and Calls on Congress to Act.

New York, Nov. 1.—The Hon. Hannis Taylor, who has just returned from Spain, where for the last four years he has been the American Minister, conducting the delicate diplomatic negotiations which from time to time have arisen out of the Cuban war, has contributed to the November number of the North American Review, which will be published to-day, an elaborate review of the present prospects of the Cuban question, in the light of his special experience and observation. As a result of his study of this difficult problem, Mr. Taylor expresses the conviction that Spanish statesmanship is perfectly impotent to solve it either promptly or wisely.

The deplorable state of things existing in Cuba he characterizes as being not only shocking to humanity, but a special and grievous burden to the people of the United States. American commerce with Cuba—nearly a hundred million dollars annually at the outbreak of the war—has been almost wiped out; American investments in the island have been nearly destroyed or rendered unproductive, and many American citizens reduced to want, while some of the men have died in Spanish dungeons. But, most of all, the question enters as a disturbing factor into our internal politics.

Our Patience Unexampled.

The patience with which we have endured such evils during the three wars which have taken place in the last twenty-nine years, and which collectively have lasted nearly fifteen years, Mr. Taylor describes as unexampled. During the present war, in addition to material losses, we have been in a state of semi-war with Spain, our fleet having become largely a coastguard and our diplomatic relations having been so strained that for more than a year Mr. Taylor's residence in Madrid had to be guarded by soldiers night and day.

The uncertainty thus produced, Mr. Taylor points out, is now the one obstacle in the path of the prosperity we have so long hoped for. The Cuban question canont be settled by Spain, Mr. Taylor contends; it must be settled by the people of the United States.

"In the presence of the final issue of death and destruction sharply presented by Spain itself, the people of the United States must take counsel as to their moral and legal rights in the premises under those incontestable principles of international law that govern the New World."

In approaching the consideration of the question what the duty of the United States is in these circumstances, Mr. Taylor passes in review the historical incidents through which the Monroe doctrine has secured a place in international law, and he quotes former President Cleveland's message to the second sesion of the Fifty-fourth Congress, which reads as follows:—

Mr. Cleveland's Message.

"When the inability of Spain to deal successfully with the insurrection has become manifest, and it is demonstrated that her sovereignty is extinct in Cuba for all purposes of its rightful existence, and when a hopeless struggle for its re-establishment has degenerated into a strife which means nothing more than the useless sacrifice of human life and the utter destruction of the very subject matter of the conflict, a situation will be presented in which our obligations to the sovedeign of Spain will be superseded by higher obligations, which we can hardly hesitate to recognize and discharge."

Mr. Taylor strenuously insists that this contingency, so clearly pointed out, has become an accomplished fact.

"If Spain is now attempting to destroy Cuba," says Mr. Taylor, "and thus to extinguish not only her own rights, but our own therein, her sovereignty has already passed under the jurisdiction of that fundamental principle upon which rests the international law of the New World. By virtue of that higher law we now have a perfect legal right to stay her hands, not only in our own interests, but in those of civilization."

But even if the Monroe doctrine did not suffice to justify the United States in taking action in such a crisis, Mr. Taylor finds in the more ancient principle of intervention, long recognized as a fundamental principle of international law by all nations, including Spain, full justification for such a course.

The Practical Remedy.

In conclusion, discussing the practical remedy, Mr. Taylor emphatically asserts his belief that "the simple application by the government of the United States of moral pressure—provided that such pressure is exerted by the legislative and executive departments acting together in firm and hearty concert—will now be sufficient to accomplish the end in view.

"What I hope to see," he says, "is the prompt adoption by Congress upon its reassembling, of a joint resolution embodying three clear and definite propositions—the first asserting our right and duty not only to ourselves, but to humanity, by virtue of the universally recognized doctrine of intervention, as well as by virtue of the Monroe doctrine, to put an end to the dreadful conflict so long raging in Cuba, because it involves not only the constant disturbance of our internal peace, but also the destruction of great commercial and property interests of our citizens; the second asserting that, after enduring patiently all such evils incident to fifteen years of war in Cuba out of the last twenty-nine, the Government of the United States has offered in vain its friendly offices as peacemaker to Spain in hope of aiding her without offence to her susceptibilities in bringing to a close a strife so destructive to the material interests of both countries; the third declaring that the Government of the United States, in view of Spain's refusal to accept such friendly and respectful mediation, has now resolved to exercise upon its own responsibility its entire moral influence, to the end that the war in Cuba may be brought to a speedy close, provided Spain fails to accomplish that result in a reasonable time, to be clearly indicated."

Resolution Should Be Firm.

The undertone of this resolution should leave no doubt as to the fact that if the application of such moral means fails to produce the necessary result the United States reserves to itself the right to take such other or further action in the premises as may be made necessary by future events.

Should such a course be followed, Mr. Taylor believes, the Spanish people, worn out by an unfruitful struggle of which the masses, who are mainly called upon for military service, are thoroughly weary, will see that the continuance of the conflict is impossible, while foreign nations friendly to Spain will counsel her to pause in the presence of such serious contingencies."

"If, on the other hand," says Mr. Taylor, "Spain should resolve to resist our moral authority in the matter, she could do no more than suspend diplomatic relations. The passage of such a resolution as has been indicated could not be justly regarded as a casus beli, and yet it would be surely fatal in its results. It would be completely hit the mark that the fierce bird of prey that is now whetting its beak upon the vitals of Cuba would fall from its perch pierced through and through."

LEAPED TO DEATH.

Two Men Jump from a Bridge as Test of Their Bravery.

St. Paul, Nov. 1.—The most thrilling double tragedy in the hisory of Minnesota occurred at 4.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the high bridge over the Mississippi. At that hour the crowd on the bridge was horrified to see a man's form shoot down from the rail on the east side of the structure. Before the rapidly descending figure reached the water, 200 feet below, another man mounted the rail and swung off feet first.

The bodies struck the water not five feet apart. They came up once, but sank from view, and were no doubt washed down the stream by the current. Boats were procured at once, and the river was dragged for some time, but neither body was found.

It was nearly two hours before any trace of the identity of the men could be obtained. In the evening it was discovered that they were two members of the St. Paul Cigarmakers' Union, Henry Bergenkruger and Jacob Amos.

At 3 o'clock they sat in a Sixth street restaurant. While there they got into an animated conversation, and became so excited that the proprietor stopped to listen to them. Bergenkruger insisted that Amos had no courage, whereupon the latter said he had quite as much as Bergenkruger.

Each appeared to be willing to make any sort of a test of his bravery, and a suggestion by Bergenkruger that they jump from the high bridge was eagerly taken up by his companion.

They left the restaurant talking about the big plunge, and the next that was heard of them was that they had actually made the leap.

$14,000 RECOVERED.

Proceeds of a Mail Robbery Surrendered by a Postal Clerk.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 1.—Walter B. Houghton, of this city, who was arrested Friday night charged with stealing a registered package from the United States mails containing $15,000, has given $14,700 of that amount to United States Marshal McDermott. Houghton said, after his arrest, that he would burn the stolen money if he were prosecuted. His attorney, Judge John W. Lacey, to-day advised him to return the money.

Houghton took the marshal to his father's yard, where he took five one-hundred-dollar bills from between the boards forming the side of the barn. Then from the earthen floor of a chicken coop he dug up a package containing $14,200 in gold, a watch and chain and six diamond studs.

Houghton said that he discovered soon after leaving Cheyenne that he had received a registered pouch for which he had given no receipt. Between Laramie and Hawlins he cut it open, took two letters containing the money and jewels and burned the merchandise packages and the pouch in the car stove.

He confessed to his mistress on his return to Cheyenne what he had done and gave her $300 of the stolen money.

He spent $60 and had kept the rest intact in the hiding places described. Houghton's mistress, Mabel Foster, who is in Denver, will be arrested for receiving the stolen money.

NEW JERSEY ELECTION.

Republican Faction Fights May Cost the Party Several Senators.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 1.—Both the Republican and Democratic leaders are claiming all six of the Senators who will be elected next Tuesday. This unusual condition is due to the local quarrels and rumored deals in Burlington, Cape Max, Middlesex, Sussex, Hunterdon, and especially in Passaic.

The campaign has had the effect of bringing together the Democratic factions, and therefore the result will have an important bearing on the future of the two parties in New Jersey. If the Democratic hopes are realized and they elect three of the Senators and a large minority of the Assembly, they will be encouraged in the belief that the people are ready to restore them to power, and next year they will name strong candidates for Congress, Governor, Senators, and the Assembly, and try to hold the United States Senatorship.

Miss Irene Edwards and Chester A. Edwards, of Bayonne, were guests yesterday at the home of Samuel H. Edwards, of LaGrande avenue.

Free Pills.
Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of Constipation and Sick Headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guarranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c. per box. Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

Miss E. M. Hammond, of Easton, is a guest at the home of C. T. Nightingale, of Sandford avenue.

The True Remedy.
W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guarranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gordon Williams, of Summit avenue, have returned from their wedding trip spent in the eastern states.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of West Second street, have gone to the home of Mrs. John R. Truell, of Central avenue, where they will spend the winter.

Mr. N. N. Osburn, well-known at Woodstock, Mich., was troubled with a lame back. He was persuaded to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It gave him relief in one night. This remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

Miss Mary Randolph has left her home on West Second street, and is now living with Mrs. Catherine Randolph, of West Front street.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.
I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to bilious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. D. R. Page, of Elmwood place, has recovered from her illness.

Miss Bertha Stevens, of Grandview avenue, has recovered from her slight illness.

Walton Beals, of New York, was the guest of Walter Place, of Grove street, yesterday.

A young son has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bennett, of Duer street.

Miss Sadie Long, of Brooklyn, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bushnell, of Park avenue.

William Kitchen, of the borough, was the guest of Elizabeth friends Saturday night and Sunday.

H. S. Thatcher, of East Front street, has returned from a visit to Woodbridge, where he was called on business.

Word has been received from E. F. Randolph, who is at Spring Valley, N. Y., for his health, that he is much better.

"The worst cold I ever had in my life was cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes W. H. Norton, of Sutter Creek, Cal. This cold left me with a cough and I was expectorating all the time. The Remedy cured me, and I want all of my friends when troubled with a cough or cold to use it, for it will do them good. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, cor. of Park and North avenues.

THEATRICAL.

William Jerome and his company of fun-makers in the latest and newest laughing absurdity, "A Jay in New York," comes to Music Hall next Thursday evening. "A Jay in New York" is made up of bright musical numbers, funny situations and pretty girls and is well supported by a splendid company. Mr. Jerome has connected himself with such people as the Blondells, W. C. Davis, Hayes and Bandy, Maude Nugent, Morris Hanson, Robert North, Lottie Davy, May Haskell, Mary Dean and many others. "A Jay in New York" comes to us highly endorsed and should be seen by every one who enjoys an evening of music, song and comedy.

Good Times have come to those whom Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured of scrofula, catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism, weak nerves, or some other form of impure blood,

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Easy and yet efficient.

What's in a Name?
The name of the maker has everything to do with the value of a Piano. Tell us the name on the fall-board and we'll tell you all there is to know. By it we can say just what is the standing of the factory, whether good, bad or middling materials were used, what is its musical worth and what is its money value.
The names of the Pianos that we handle are well known all over America. Each individual name has a solid reputation back of it that puts beyond question the musical excellence of the instrument. If you buy a CHICKERING, HARDMAN, GABLER, VOSE, STERLING or STANDARD, you will own a Piano the quality of which is above criticism.

FOR SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE.

Golden Rule Circle Holds a Successful Sale and Fair.

The Golden Rule Circle, King's Daughters, of North Plainfield, held a successful sale and fair Saturday afternoon and evening, on Somerset street, in the store formerly occupied by J. J. Stahl. The store was prettily decorated in autumn style by the members of the circle and it presented an attractive appearance. There was lots of good things on sale and the attendance throughout was so large that nearly everything was disposed of between the hours of 2 in the afternoon and 11 o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. Most, as chairman of the affair, deserves great credit for the able way in which she managed it, with the assistance of the members of the circle. Miss Bessie Valiant and Miss Clara Van Fleet were in charge of the candy table; Miss Bertha Stevens looked after the sale of bread and pies, while Miss May Conroy presided at the fancy table. The grocery table was in charge of Miss Minnie Marsh, and the choice assortment of cake was easily disposed of by Miss Lizzie Hoagland and Miss Cora VanArsdale, and Miss Mabel Stevens and Miss Nettie Bauersachs had full charge of the ice cream. At the door was Fred Williams who received the necessary cash and tickets.

The members in charge feel thankful to all who assisted in any way in making the affair such a success, and they are much gratified with the result of their efforts.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

NO PRESS TOMORROW.

Tomorrow being a legal holiday, and business as a rule will be generally suspended in Plainfield, The Daily Press will not be issued.

DIGNIFIED ACTION NOW.

In our news columns today is recorded the information that an injunction has been issued against the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company seeking to restrain them from operating the trolley road which they deliberately stole the right of way for in Bridgewater township a week ago yesterday. A week ago today The Press stated in this column that the company had acquired temporarily, and by usurpation of the laws of the State, that which could only be acquired permanently by the constituted processes of government. And it is just so. To retain that which their practical acts of anarchy have put them in possession of for the time being, the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, represented by the counsel, will now have to go before a fair and just judiciary and by the presentation of cold truths and logical arguments appeal for the privileges that they want. Their force of numbers and awe inspiring demonstrations of might will have no place in determining the result.

Today the law providing that all trolley cars operated in New Jersey shall have vestibuled platforms, goes into effect. There is some question about its legality and the street railway magnates in certain sections are using it as a loophole to avoid complying with its intention. As a rule, however, the law is being observed, and especially so in this city, where the cars are all vestibuled. It is designed to protect the sturdy motorman from the ravages of severe winter weather, and with such a humane purpose everyone ought to be interested in seeing it strictly observed.

Orders come from Washington that letter-carriers, too, must wear on their arms stripes telling their length of service. If length of service be made to depend on merit, every additional stripe will be a badge of additional honor.

There is no such thing as a winter girl in the sense that we say there is a summer girl.

Pythians to Pay a Visit.

The officers and members of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, from Goodwill Lodge, No. 15, of this city, will attend the meeting of the Grand Lodge which will be held at Asbury Park Thursday. William Kline, of Goodwill Lodge, will be installed as Grand Keeper of Lodges and Seals for the State, and the other members in attendance from this place will be James Scott, Charles Jefferson and William Downes.

The Westfield Universal football team will play the Rahway Juniors on the North Broad street grounds tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Lincoln High School football team played a game with the Echo team of Cranford, on the North Broad street grounds Saturday morning, and was defeated by the score 4 to 0.

John B. Green officiated at both services in St. Paul's church yesterday. Today the new rector, Rev. Charles Fiske, began his duties by conducting the morning service in observance of All Saints' Day.

The cases of Griffin against H. B. Smith, on contract, C. A. Smith & Co., against Horatio Johnson, on contract, and Bener against Herder, landlord and tenant, are set for trial in Justice Collins' court this afternoon.

The football game which was to be played between the Westfield Club and the Cranford teams on the North Broad street grounds tomorrow has been withdrawn by the Cranford team, which sent notice Saturday declining to play.

Rev. Dr. Liggett, of Rahway, the present moderator of the New Jersey synod, preached in the Westfield Presbyterian church yesterday morning, and in the evening a responsive song and praise service, led by the church choir, was held.

The house of Andrew Booth, on South Broad street, was discovered to be on fire about 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening. The alarm was sounded and the firemen responded promptly. The fire, which originated in a clothes closet upstairs, was burning fiercely when the engines reached the scene. By energetic work, however, the flames were confined to the room in which they started and were soon extinguished. The furniture and clothing in the room were destroyed by the flames. The damage, amounting to about $150, is fully covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have been caused by rats nibbling at matches.

ESCAPED BY USE OF LASH.

Exciting Experience of a Westfield Carpenter With Highwaymen.

J. N. Wilcox, a carpenter living in Westfield, had an exciting encounter with three highwaymen, near the Picton railway station, Saturday night. He was driving along where the road is skirted by a dense growth of trees, known as Bloodgood's woods, when a stone was hurled at his head and the next instant the highwaymen were attempting to climb into the wagon, calling upon Wilcox to hold up his hands. Instead of obeying their commands he drew a heavy whip and lashed the men and his horses with it vigorously. It was a wild ride that Wilcox had through the dark woods with the highwaymen clinging to his wagon and threatening to kill him if he did not stop. The carpenter is a powerful man, however, and the highwaymen were finally forced by him from the wagon, and they disappeared in the woods again. It is supposed that the men are members of a gang of tramps which has infested the neighborhood for some weeks.

MUSIC HALL'S NEW MANAGER.

Maze Edwards, of Elizabeth, to Run Local Dramatic Productions.

Maze Edwards, the genial and popular business manager of the Star, severs his connection with that playhouse today, to take up the sole management and direction of the Stillman Music Hall at Plainfield.

Mr. Edwards has during the time of his association with the local house made for himself many warm friends. His direction of affairs was always for the advancement of the interests of the house, and that his efforts were appreciated is evidenced by the esteem in which he is held not only by the public but by the employes of the theatre. Mr. Edwards goes to his new field of labor with the best wishes of success from all. He will continue to reside in Elizabeth with his family, during the winter at least.—Elizabeth Journal.

Price 50c. Money Back If You Want It.

FRANK ROWLEY, DRUGGIST, 45 SOMERSET ST. TEL. 213 A.

HE WANTED HIS 65 CENTS.

BUT HIS DEMAND COST HIM $2.

Mr. Jones, With a Cargo of Jersey Lightning Aboard, Was Making Too Much Noise on the Street.

"I want my 65 cents," demanded Professor Walter Jones Saturday evening, and his dusky face blazed with wrath. A crowd gathered to see what was the trouble and Patrolman Saunders had great difficulty in keeping Park avenue clear.

Jones continued his demands, but Mr. Jackson, another colored character, was obdurate and would not pay 65 cents or anything. Jones had taken some "Jersey lightning" to drive the chills away, and he was rather excited. Patrolman Myers arrived on the scene and tried to quiet Jones, but the latter saw not the brass buttons and blue coat of the officer, and swore at him. So Jones and the officer went to jail with a crowd bringing up the rear.

"Oh, Mr. Myers, turn me loose," begged the prisoner, but it was no use and he remained in the lockup until this morning.

"This is Prof. Jones, isn't it?" quiried Judge DeMeza, as the rather delapidated looking professor was arraigned before him.

"All that is left of him, Judge!" sorrowfully answered the prisoner. Then he told how Jackson would not pay, and how he needed the money and had insisted on having it Saturday night. He professed to be awfully sorry and expressed a desire not to visit the county jail. Considering the circumstances, the Judge let him off with a fine of $2.

SOCIAL SIDE OF HALLOWE'EN.

Many Young People Entertained Friends Saturday Evening.

Miss Helen Martin, of Hillside avenue, entertained twenty of her friends at her home Saturday evening in honor of Hallowe'en. The evening was spent very pleasantly in the usual games and tricks.

Miss Nettie Langdon, of New York, gave an informal Hallowe'en party at her home in that city Saturday evening, and several young people from this city were present.

The members of the class of '98 of the Plainfield High School and a number of their friends were entertained at the home of Miss Ellen L. Osgood, of Myrtle avenue, Saturday evening. Twenty-six young people were present and made the evening a very delightful one. All the usual Hallowe'en tricks and games were played besides a number of novel and exciting ones.

Miss Helen Eggerding, of Arlington avenue, was given a Hallowe'en surprise Saturday evening, the affair being arranged by the Misses Saxton. About thirty young people were present and enjoyed themselves hugely dancing and participating in Hallowe'en games.

Miss Minnie Diehl, of Somerset street, gave a birthday party Saturday evening in honor of the twentieth anniversary of her birthday, and there were about fifty of her young friends who spent a very pleasant evening playing games, dancing, etc. Music for dancing was furnished by Frank Titus, of Washingtonville. Miss Diehl received a number of useful presents from her friends. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Denise, Miss Maggie Randolph, the Misses Nelson, Miss Elizabeth Gunn, Mrs. W. F. James, Miss Emma Diehl, Messrs. Nelson, George Diehl, Wm. Diehl, James Gunn, John Gunn and Charles Hewitt.

—The contract cases of Thompson against Smith and Thompson against Smith et als, in Justice Newcorn's court, have been adjourned for a week.

THE GEORGE FUNERAL

A Great Multitude Pays Tribute to the Dead Philosopher.

100,000 VIEWED THE BODY

The Funeral Was the Largest Civic Demonstration that Has Ever Been Held in the United States—New York in Mourning.

New York, Nov. 1.—Without martial display, but with all the honor and respect that the living can show to the dead, the funeral services were held over Henry George yesterday. It is estimated that 10,000 men were in the funeral procession. Almost all the labor organizations in this city, Brooklyn, Jersey City and the suburbs, comprising in the aggregate some two hundred thousand or more members, sent delegations to represent them. Besides these there were thousands of men representing various civic organizations. Judging from the estimates, the funeral was the largest civic demonstration that has ever been held in the United States. Men conspicuous in all walks of life were present, and it was a thoroughly representative American procession, in which men in all stations in life and of every shade of belief and opinion joined.

At 5 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. George's body was taken from the Union Square Hotel to the Grand Central Palace. Five hundred policemen were on duty about the building. The building was opened to the public at 7:45 o'clock in the morning, and all desiring were given an opportunity to view the remains and pay their last respects to the dead leader. The doors remained open until 2 o'clock.

The crowds in the earlier morning were comparatively small, but gradually increased, until, by 11 o'clock, thousands were pouring into the building. The number passing in one hour was estimated at 4,000. After 10 o'clock it became a crush, and people were passing by the casket at the rate of more than a hundred every minute. There was no time to stop at the bier, for there were many behind. The people bent down for an instant, looked at the white, calm face, and passed on. And there were many who, perhaps, had not accepted the tenets of Henry George, but their reverence was none the less sincere.

At 2 o'clock fully 90,000 persons had bent over the casket. A remarkable feature of the occasion was the number of children who were in line. Those who were too small to see over the edge of the casket were lifted up by their parents and allowed to take a last look at the remains.

At 2 o'clock the line of the mourning fellow-citizens of Henry George was shut off and none without tickets for the exercises were admitted.

The services over the remains were held at 3 o'clock. The eulogists were Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn, Rev. Heber Newton, Rev. Dr. W. S. Rainsford, Rev. Lyman Abbott and Bishop Henry C. Potter. Dr. Heber Newton was the officiating clergyman in the services. He was Mr. George's pastor.

Mr. George was an Episcopalian, but dwarfed his orthodoxy to his belief in the goodness of all men, irrespective of creed. So it was but natural that clergymen of every denomination volunteered their services. Rev. Dr. McGlynn, than whom no man was closer to Mr. George, delivered the chief eulogium. Mrs. George is a Roman Catholic.

Immediately after the funeral exercises the floor of the building was cleared of seats, and the body lay in state until 6.30 o'clock.

The funeral procession started from the Grand Central Palace about 7 o'clock. Col. George E. Waring, Jr., was chief marshal and attended to the military formation.

A platoon of mounted police headed the procession. The pallbearers were:

Tom L. Johnson, August Lewis, Andrew McLean, Thomas G. Shearman, Arthur McEwen, Louis F. Post, Jerome O'Neil, Charles Frederic Adams.

The honorary pallbearers were Mayor W. L. Strong of New York, Mayor Frederick W. Wurster of Brooklyn, Willis J. Abbott, Albert L. Johnson, John P. Cranford, Charles W. Dayton, George Cary Eggleston, Horace White, Edward McHugh, Bolton Hall, John Filmer, Charles O'Connor Hennessy, John Swinton, E. Lawson Purdy, John H. Girdner, A. Van Deusen, John H. Waters, M. R. Leverson, Frank Stephens, Robert Schalkenbach.

The line of march was down Lexington avenue to Forty-second street, to Fifth avenue, to Broadway, to Chambers street, to Centre street and the bridge.

The casket rested on a black-covered catafalque. The funeral car was drawn by sixteen black Percheron stallions, with a member of the guard of honor at the head of each. Behind the funeral car followed the carriages of the family and their immediate friends.

There was music in the procession, though it was Sunday. The law forbids music at Sunday funerals unless the funeral is conducted by a military, a veteran or a secret society. The last clause let the music in, as Mr. George was an Odd Fellow.

In the same plot in Greenwood Cemetery in which lies the body of his daughter, Mrs. Atkinson, the remains of Henry George were laid at rest.

The Interment To-day.

Brief and simple services were held at 10 o'clock this morning at the family residence on Shore road, Fort Hamilton. The Rev. Mr. George and the Rev. Mr. Latimer, of Philadelphia, cousins of the deceased, both Episcopal clergymen, officiated. The body was carried to Greenwood and interred in the family lot on Ocean Hill, looking out on the Atlantic. Immediate neighbors of the family were admitted to the services.

Woman Kills Woman.

Boston, Nov. 1.—Nellie J. Petterkin, 42 years old, shot and killed Catherine F. Murphy, wife of John S. Murphy, while in a fit of jealousy this afternoon. The crime was committed at the home of the Murphys.

Mrs. Petterkin, who is a widow, formerly boarded with the Murphys, on Mount Pleasant avenue. There was jealousy between the women over Mr. Murphy.

evidently, and the business should be done by all means. Buildings require paint. Of course a house may be left unpainted and let to become weatherbeaten and a wreck. That doesn't pay, though; it's much cheaper to paint, and our paints in all colors are the best in the market for durability under the most trying conditions. They are well adapted to our exposure and we sell everything in the line of paints and painters' supplies at short prices.

The Tables Turned.
We have almost solved the servant girl problem.
Instead of the maid being mistress, we have made it possible for the mistress herself to be mistress.
The tables are turned, and we have turned them.
We have accomplished it to the mutual satisfaction of everybody. The plan is so simple that the wonder is nobody ever thought of it before.
Cheap but good laundering of general house linen enables every housekeeper to have the washing done out of the house. For instance,
Counterpanes 10c each.
Table Cloth 5c "
Sheets - 3c "
Towel, Napkins 1c "
What does our proposition mean? It means no more washday odor about the house. It means satisfied servants, because a maid will not be insolent if she can escape washdays and the delay of other work caused by bad drying days. Our booklet "Tables Turned" tells all about our new plan. You can have it for the asking.

ELECTIONS TO-MORROW

General Officers to be Chosen in Ten States.

3 UNITED STATES SENATORS

The Elections in Several of the States Will be of Special Importance, Notwithstanding it is an Off Year—The Big Fight in Greater New York.

Washington, Nov. 1.—The present is an off year in politics, but elections are to be held to-morrow in several States which are of considerable importance. The States interested are Colorado, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia. The various general offices to be filled are given below. Special interest attaches to the election of the Legislatures of Maryland, Ohio and Virginia, because each of them will be called upon to choose a United States Senator.

Colorado will elect a Judge of the Supreme Court, for which two candidates are in the field, the nominee of the Republicans and the fusion nominee of the parties advocating free silver, their ticket being headed "Civic Federation."

The people of Iowa will elect a full State ticket, to serve two years, and part of its Senate and its full House of Representatives.

The only general officer to be chosen in Kentucky is the Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

In Maryland two minor State officers are to be chosen, and members of the Legislature, who will elect a United States Senator, the term of Arthur P. Gorman, Democrat, expiring March 3, 1890.

Massachusetts elects, as usual, its full State ticket and Legislature to serve one year. For the State officers there are five full tickets in the field. George Fred Williams, Democrat, will oppose the re-election of Gov. Wolcott, Republican. The vote of Massachusetts in recent years has been:

	Dem.	Rep.
1896. President	90,530	278,976
1896. Governor	103,662	258,204
1895. Governor	121,599	186,280

The people of Nebraska are to elect an Associate Justice of their Supreme Court and two Regents of the State University.

In New York are to be chosen the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, the Assembly, five Justices of the Supreme Court, and one member of the State Senate and one Representative in Congress, to fill vacancies.

The first election of municipal officers for Greater New York occurs.

The vote of the State in recent elections has been:

	Nat. Dem.	Dem.	Rep.
1896. President	18,950	551,369	819,838
1896. Governor	26,698	574,524	787,516

New Jersey will select a successor to James Smith in the United States Senate, besides the election of six Senators and sixty Legislators for the lower House.

In Ohio a full State ticket is to be chosen, and the Legislature, which will be called upon to choose a United States Senator to succeed Marcus Alonzo Hanna, Republican, who was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the Hon. John Sherman to become Secretary of State in President McKinley's Cabinet.

The people of Pennsylvania will elect their State Treasurer and Auditor General and a portion of the Legislature.

Virginia is to choose State officers, to serve four years, part of its Senate and the House of Delegates, and the Legislature thus constituted will be called upon to elect a United States Senator.

New York's Big Fight.

New York, Nov. 1.—Upon the eve of the New York election it is impossible to say with any degree of certainty whether Seth Low, the candidate of the Citizens' Union, or Robert A. Van Wyck, the Democratic candidate, will be elected Mayor. That one or the other will be chosen all judges whose opinion is worth considering are agreed. The Tammany leaders and the managers of Low's campaign appear to be equally confident.

The Republicans, while still professing to believe that Gen. Tracy has a chance of election, have thrown him over and are preparing to stab him in the back. Instructions have been issued to election district captains to turn as many votes as possible to Van Wyck, and the Tammany candidate may thus receive 10,000 Republican votes in the entire city. If he is elected certain machine Republicans are to share in the spoils.

Young Henry George will probably hold most of his father's following, both from reasons of sentiment and from the desire to honor the memory of the late leader and because he is the only candidate who represents in full the ideas for which George contended. It is possible that his vote may be even larger than would have been cast for his father.

If there is any loss owing to George's death it will be divided between Low and Van Wyck, and Low will get the larger share. The result of the election is made doubtful by the intensity of feeling among the people, the effet of which cannot be gauged and which may destroy all precedents.

In the State it is probable that Justice Alton B. Parker, the Democratic candidate for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, will defeat Judge William J. Wallace, the Republican candidate. The Republicans will probably retain a majority in the Legislature.

Officials Go Home to Vote.

Washington, Nov. 1.—The departure of the President and Secretary Sherman for Ohio has been followed by an exodus of department officials and clerks from Washington. Most of those who left the city yesterday will cast votes in the Ohio State election. Today a large number of New York people will leave the city to take part in the New York contest. It is expected that a very large number of voters will also leave to-night and Tuesday morning for points throughout Maryland.

Secretary Bliss left Washington Saturday night for New York City, and will vote for Gen. Tracy Tuesday. He will return to Washington Tuesday night immediately after the election.

GOLF.

A five-men golf team from the Town and Country Club, of Elizabeth, came to Plainfield last Saturday afternoon and played a match game with the team from the Hillside Club. The home team had quite a walkover, and at no stage of the game was there any doubt but what they would win. Below are the scores:

Hillside.		Town and Country.
Walz, C.	3	Williamson	0
Glenny	0	McKenzie	1
Kaufman	0	Brewster	1
Wharton, J. H. P.	7	Fisher	0
Richards	5	Pierson	0

Next Saturday the monthly handicap contest of the home team will be played, and on the following Saturday the Suburban Club, of Elizabeth, will play a match with the home team.

WHIST.

The Brooklyn whist trophy was played for by the New Jersey Association and the Atlantic Association at Jersey City, Saturday evening. The result was in favor of the challenger, the Atlantic Association, by a margin of nine tricks out of the 7,800 played. After the game was over it was discovered that an error had been made which if allowed will make the match a tie. The New Jersey Association protested it. Plainfield was represented by Messrs. McCutchen, Townsend, Howell, Rogers, Reed and Matthews, of the Park Club. Messrs. Reed and Matthews were highest in their section. The entire Park Club won by 8 tricks.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Park Club has entered the Central New Jersey Bowling League, and members are now practicing for a position on the team. The series of games will commence the last of November.

Miss Esther LaBew has returned to her former position in Woodhull & Martin's store.

John Powelson, accompanied by his friend, Edgar Rogers, of Elizabeth, spent yesterday with Mr. Powelson's uncle, Chief Marshal Wilson and family, of Somerset street.

GEORGE WORTH BUT $15,000.

Received Practically Nothing from "Progress and Poverty."

New York, Nov. 1.—The only property that stands as the accumulation of the years of labor of Henry George is the house and grounds at Fort Hamilton, where he passed the last year of his life. This home is entirely paid for and it stands in Mrs. George's name. It is worth about twelve thousand dollars.

Henry George had in bank perhaps fifteen hundred dollars more, and he carried a small amount of life insurance. The whole amount of his estate will not exceed $15,000.

There are in addition the copyrights on all his books. The sale of "Progress and Poverty" is said to have exceeded any other book except "Robinson Crusoe" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin." But much of its circulation has been in foreign countries, and from this Mr. George received no return except $225 for one English edition.

Mr. George's interest in the promulgation of his principles led him to order his publishers to distribute to members of the labor unions thousands of free copies of his books.

What is left for the support of Henry George's widow, then, is a comfortable home, perhaps four thousand dollars in money and the uncertain income from the sale of his books. "Progress and Poverty" had a sale of 1,000,000 copies in England. The Sterling Publication Company, of which Richard George is the manager, is really the old "Henry George & Co." revived. This company will continue to handle the books of the philosopher. An edition of "Protection and Free Trade" has already reached a circulation of 200,000 in this country.

Watts: "Don't you think that the man who knows when to stop talking is about as wise as they get."

Potts: "About, but not quite. The greatest brain is in the possession of the man who knows when not to begin."

"Why is the circus lemonade pink in color?" asked Benny Bloobumper of his papa.

"It is blushing for itself," replied Mr. Bloobumper.—New York Journal.

BLANCO VISITS WEYLER.

The Deposed Captain-General Turns Over His Command.

Havana, Nov. 1.—Capt.-Gen. Blanco had an interview lasting an hour on Saturday with Gen. Weyler, the deposed Captain-General, on board the steamer Montserrat, on which the latter sailed Saturday for Spain, at which Gen. Weyler formally resigned his command to Gen. Blanco. The latter then returned to the shore, and the Montserrat shortly afterward started on her voyage.

Gen. Blanco has issued an address to the insurgents of the island, in which he says that he has come to Cuba with the sincere desire of bringing lasting peace. The Government, he adds, has confided to him the duty of implanting reforms and upholding the sovereignty of Spain. In pursuing a broad, generous policy he will endeavor to re-establish liberty and fraternity among the inhabitants while strengthening their adhesion to the mother country.

GEN. BLANCO.

Gen. Blanco promises justice to all, and declares that prosperity will once more reign in Cuba. The protection of Spain will be accorded to all conforming to the law, while all those who refuse to do so will be proceeded against with the utmost rigor. Gen. Blanco has also issued an address to the soldiers.

When he debarked from the vessel which brought him from Spain he was greeted with a salute of twenty-one guns. An enormous crowd assembled to welcome him, and a deputation of Autonomists expressed their loyalty and adhesion. The chiefs of the volunteer corps also waited upon the new Captain-General and expressed similar sentiments.

Weyler's Departure.

Havana, via Key West, Nov. 1.—The demonstration in favor of Weyler on his departure for Spain was not important. A few Spaniards went to the palace before the ex-Captain-General Monserrat, in which he sailed for Spain.

They shouted "Long live Weyler!" Long live Spain!" and returend to their homes. That was all. The Autonomists, Marquis of Montoro and embarked in the Spanish steamer Senores Galvez, Fernandez de Castro, Juan Ramirez and Cueto called also on Weyler to express their regret at his departure.

Weyler has deposited in London $3,000,000, which will be transferred to Madrid as soon as he arrives in Spain.

A Spanish guerrilla force fell into a Cuban ambush near Managua, within sight of Havana city. The whole force was killed by the insurgents, led by Col. Juan Delgado.

CRANK AFTER M'KINLEY.

Scholder Held in Chicago—Threatened Three Kansas Governors.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 1.—Edward Scholder, who is held in Chicago because of threats against the life of President McKinley, is a Kansas crank who has torrorized three Kansas Governors, having threatened to kill them if they refused to pay a claim which he contended was due him from the State. He walked into Gov. Lewelling's office in 1893 and demanded settlement, but the police locked him up. He said he intended to kill the Governor. Two years later, at Fort Scott, he threatened to come to Topeka and kill Gov. Morrill, and recently he made similar threats upon the life of Gov. Leedy.

Then he decided to wreak vengeance upon the head of the national Government, and started to Washington. He got as far as Chicago, and, repeating his threat there, was locked up consisting of suits, overcoats and trousers now being sold at 33c on the dollar. A great purchase and a great sale of the entire stock of a very widely known clothing manufacturer. Cash is King, and the money on the table enables us to sell this extraordinary purchase at less than 33c on the dollar. This sale would prove the greatest sensation of the day if maker's name could be published, but owing to the fact that nearly every retailer of prominence has a stock on hand from these manufacturers, the latter to protect the former, stipulated that their name must not appear in advertisements. The name, however, appears on every garment, which is an absolute guarantee of peefect satisfaction.

BOUGHT UNDER THE AUCTIONEER'S HAMMER

$12,000 Worth of Clothing for Men and Boys,

THREE FRIENDS FOR CUBA.

Filibuster Starts for Havana Towing a Cargo of Cattle.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 1.—The famous tug Three Friends left here last evening towing the schooner Hartley, loaded with cattle for the Havana market. She left the river amid the booming of cannon, screaming of whistles, and other salutes. The side of the cruiser Versuvius was being crowded with men and officers as she passed.

Back of this trip lies a rumor that the Cuban Junta has sent the Three Friends to Cuba in the hope that her previous reputation may cause the Spaniards to seize her and thus afford an excuse for American men-of-war to enter Havana harbor. Some time ago United States Marshal McKay secured a contract for carrying cattle from Punta Rassa to Cuba. The quarantine rules prevented any chance for making money, and then he decided to carry a cargo from this port. When it was announced that the Three Friends was to tow the schooner the captain of the Vesuvius was on the watch at once, and he paid a visit to the tug to ascertain how far she was to tow the schooner.

From private sources it is learned that something is in the wind, and that the Cubans are waiting impatiently the result of this trip. If the Three Friends is seized in Havana they reason that the Government must interfere.

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING TRANSACTS CONSIDERABLE BUSINESS.

It is Decided to Make New Election Districts—City Farming is a Failure—Several Changes Wanted in Ordinances.

The regular November meeting of the City Council was held Monday with all members present. The regular order of business was suspended so that the matter of widening Westervelt avenue could be considered. Clerk MacMurray then read the new ordinance providing for the opening of the avenue, and an opportunity was given anyone present to offer objections to the work. David Kelly, an owner of property on the avenue, said that he was willing to give land for the proposed opening, and the same was accepted.

Mr. Barrows offered a resolution to the effect that owing to the fact that Council cannot agree with property-owners for the opening, that A. D. Thompson, W. A. Pinto and Alonzo P. Ayers be appointed commissioners for that purpose, and that November 18th be set as the time when property-owners can meet said commissioners.

The sewer extension ordinance was called up and adopted on its third reading and ordered engrossed and advertised.

The street commissioner was authorized to include in his report Watchung avenue, from Front street to Greenbrook as regards the extension of the sewer.

The following petitions and communications were received and took the usual course: Residents of East Sixth street asked for additional street lighting. Another light was asked for to be located on Crescent avenue near Third place.

Residents of the West End asked for a light near Vail's grove in the vicinity of Fourth street. A crosswalk was asked for on Liberty street near Third street. A letter was received from Mrs. Anna E. Serrell, claiming $75 as damages from the loss of rental of her building as a court room, for the reason that the City Judge has kept in his possession the keys to the room. The matter was reported to the police committee. The Electric Light Company notified the Council that lights as ordered had been erected.

Street Commissioner Gavett reported that fifteen sewer permits were granted during the past month, and Inspector of Buildings T. O. Doane reported the granting of twenty-one permits.

Overseer of Poor G. E. Marx reported that three cases are now being cared for and that up to date the expenses of the poor department are $500 less than last year.

A communication was received from the members of the Board of Registry, asking for the $25 each due them for the 1896 election. Matter was filed.

Mayor Fisk in a letter stated that he considered the arc light the best for city lighting and suggested that they be located 250 feet apart, that the wires be placed under ground, and that all wires be placed under ground; that the Council consider plans for laying a permanent pavement, after sewer and water connections are made.

The reports of the collector, treasurer and corporation counsel were received and filed. Regarding the petition of the Board of Education asking for the blowing of the fire alarm on one-session days, the fire committee reported adversely and the request was not granted.

Mr. Frost offered a resolution providing for the transfer of $1,200 from the special fund for the purpose of moving the Slape house on West Front street to a point near the Industrial Home, and making necessary improvements. Mr. Runyon offered a resolution which provides for the redistricting of the city by wards for election purposes. Each ward will have two districts, except the Fourth ward, which is provided with three districts. The ordinance was adopted on second reading, and ordered engrossed and advertised.

Another ordinance was offered by Mr. Runyon which provides for the licensing of theatrical shows, etc., and imposes a reasonable fee for such exhibitions as come within the bounds of the ordinance. The ordinance provides for a fine of $100 or 60 days for violations, and conforms to the State statues on the subject. It was adopted on second reading and took the usual course. Mr. Runyon submitted a changed resolution regarding the license question, as the one previously adopted seems to be not altogether clear. The new resolution provides for license or prohibition and a cross of the pencil will give the sentiment of the voter. Another resolution was offered by Mr. Runyon that the fire committee be empowered to purchase

NEITHER TEAM SCORED.

SAN REMO AND PLAINFIELD A. A. MET ON THE GRIDIRON.

The Game Was an Exciting One and Entirely Free From Unpleasant Features—Neither Team Kicked Goal from Field.

After twenty-four hours of continuous rain the sun came out yesterday afternoon to see one of the most exciting football contests ever held in Plainfield. It was fought out on Martine common between the eleven of the Plainfield Athletic Association and the San Remo team of the New York Athletic Club. For forty minutes of play the ball went back and forth over the gridiron but neither side was able to force it over their opponent's goal line. Fully five hundred people witnessed the game.

The San Remo boys are old rivals of the Plainfield team and were only defeated last year by a score of 6 to 2. Both teams were considerably strengthened when they met yesterday afternoon but the visitors gave a better exhibition of team play and interference than the local players, although the score was 0 to 0, the visitors made the best showing, keeping the ball in Plainfield's territory most of the time. They were a very gentlemanly set of young met and behaved themselves as well on the field as off. There was no scrapping on either side and the game was a remarkably clean one, although the field was muddy.

Plainfield had the kickoff, but lost it by twice kicking out of bounds. Plainfield lost the ball on four downs, and then the San Remos forced the fighting to Plainfield's thirty-yard line, where McMillan unsuccessfully tried to kick a goal from the field. He afterwards made three other attempts, but failed, once by a very narrow margin. The ball moved back and forth from the centre to Plainfield's twenty-five-yard line, Wenck and Cathcart kicking frequently as both sides found trouble in gaining the necessary five yards in four downs.

Ryder succeeded in catching a kick fumbled by a San Remo back and ran fifteen yards before he was downed. Several times the ball was kicked across Plainfield's goal line only to be brought out to the twenty-five yard line. The first half ended with a sensational run of thirty yards around right end by Smith. Score: Plainfield, 0; San Remo, 0.

San Remo had the kickoff in the second half, but Plainfield soon carried the ball back to the centre. The ball went down the field and McMillan again tried for goal. Luder passed the Plainfield line and ran 25 yards to Plainfield's 20 yard line to be downed by Darling, who took Smith's place in the second half. Freeman secured the ball on a fumble and carried it out of danger. Both sides punted and the fight continued in Plainfield's territory. Darling was injured in the last minute of play and Smith took his place. San Remo tried another drop kick at goal, but failed and time was called.

The visitors were short one man at the start and Nathan E. Lewis played tackle and then centre for them. They were so pleased with his playing that they tried to make him a regular member of the eleven. Milne played a brilliant game at guard and succeeded in frequently blocking the quarterback's pass. Cathcart made a number of pretty tackles between the line. The Plainfield boys showed a lack of practice. The teams lined up as follows:

PLAINFIELD A. A.		SAN REMOS.
Serrell	right end	Smith-Freess
Hallock	right tackle	Freess-Zimm
Brown	right guard	O'Donnell
Cuming	centre	Steen
Milne	left guard	Carr
Ryder	left end	McMillan
Waring	quarter back	de Casanora
Freeman	right half back	Zimm-Mitchell
Cathcart	full back	Wenck

Referee, Roger Erickson, of Plainfield. Umpire, Harry Lovell, of Plainfield. Timekeeper, A. E. Meredith, of Plainfield. Linesmen, A. Willis West and Laurens H. VanBuren, of Plainfield. Time of games, Two twenty-minute halves.

Cross Country Run.

The members of the athletic association of the New Jersey Military Academy held a cross country run Saturday last. The hares were John Hull and Lindley M. Hillman, and they led a party of six runners a lively chase for ten miles through the neighboring country. The pursuers were within a hundred yards of the hares at one time, but the trail led up the side of the mountain and grew so faint that it was difficult to find.

A Satisfactory Settlement.

The trouble between Mrs. Sadie Jones and the Rathbone Sisters has at last been settled. The suit that was brought by Mrs. Jones in Justice Nash's court never came to trial, and the matter was settled in a manner satisfactory to both sides.

A LIGHT VOTE CAST IN CITY.

NO GREAT ISSUES TO STIR UP CITIZENS TO A SENSE OF THEIR DUTY TO VOTE.

Hundreds in This City Who Did Not Go to the Polls—Spencer Elected Surrogate in Somerset—Roger Murray Received a Small Complimentary Vote—The Result in Other Sections.

With no great State or National issues projected into the campaign election day passed off in a most quiet manner in Plainfield yesterday. A very light vote was polled, as will be seen by consulting the tabulated returns printed in The Press today. The total vote this year was only 1,954 while a year ago the Republican candidates alone polled 2,303, the total vote being 3,181. The registration this year was somewhat less than last year, but it is evident that hundreds of citizens who were entitled to vote did not do so.

As might be expected with these results prevailing there was little activity shown around the polls. The Democrats practically had no workers whatsoever. There was spasmodic attempts on the part of the Republicans to get out a full vote, but they came a long way from accomplishing that end. A few of the enthusiastic young workers were about in carriages endeavoring to get disinterested and feeble voters to go the polls by providing transportation gratis.

A fair number of complimentary votes were cast for Roger F. Murray by Republican. The average majorities of the Republican candidates were about the same as the candidates at the last city election received.

The results in the city follow:

SOMERSET COUNTY.

Factional Fight in Somerville Resulted in Spencer Losing Votes.

A serious split among the Somerset county Republicans caused the vote for Newton H. Spencer, Republican candidate for the Surrogateship to fall considerably below that of his ticket companion, Van Doren, candidate for Assemblyman. In the total plurality in the county, Spencer was one hundred behind Van Doren and but for the large complimentary vote from North Plainfield borough, the election might have resulted in Spencer's defeat.

The trouble was in the six districts of Bridgewater, two of which include Somerville. It will be remembered that George W. Cooper, of Somerville, was the chief opponent of Spencer in the contest for the nomination. The faction that supported him were not satisfied with the choice of the convention and many of them began to work on the quiet for George Vosseller, the Democratic candidate for Surrogate. Cooper's faction was principally in evidence in Bridgewater township and Bound Brook borough They also had active workers in the First district of Bernards and in Branchburg.

The regular Republicans learned of the so-called treachery of their coworkers and there was a lively effort to overcome the influence of the Cooper faction. The Cooper faction was thoroughly in accord with VanDoren's nomination and made no effort to hurt his candidacy, but turned their influence to the defeat of Spencer. Votes for Vosseller were exchanged for votes for VanDoren with the Democrats, it is claimed. Then great quantities of Vosseller pasters were used to flood the county. The regular Republicans in Somerville claim that the adherents of Cooper pressed Republican tickets with Vosseller pasters on them into the hands of many of the voters. Theodore Hoffman, father-in-law of Cooper, was on the Somerville streets almost all day openly handing out these tickets with the Vosseller pasters.

In Bridgewater township Vosseller received a plurality of 297, while in the contest for the one Assemblyman, VanDoren, the Republican candidate, received a plurality of 104. This, it is claimed, was a direct result of the alleged "crooked" work on the part of the Cooper faction. In Bound Brook borough, a similar state of affairs existed and the combination of Vosseller and VanDoren received the most votes.

It was to North Plainfield that Spencer looked for his strongest support and it was that borough that probably gave him the election. His popularity among the voters outside of his own party increased his plurality to over 400 in the two districts. Even in North Plainfield, however, the same influence, that played a prominent part in the election in Somerville, were at work, and some fifty ballots were cast there that bore the Vosseller paster.

Election night was very quiet in Somerville. The regular Republicans made their headquarters in the office of County Prosecutor N. Y. Dungan and there received the returns by telephone, telegraph and messenger. Even before 10 o'clock it was evident that Spencer and VanDoren were elected, but there was much comment on the general cut that Spencer received in Bridgewater. What the result of the split in the party will be, the Republicon leaders decline to say at present, but it will probably result in changes in the personel of the leading workers of the G. O. P. in Somerset county.

In North Plainfield Township there were 77 Republican and 43 Democratic votes cast, of which Spencer, for Surrogate, received 100, and his opponent, Vosseller, received 44. VanDoren, for the Assembly, received 76, and Layton, Democrat, secured 44.

THE STATE.

Democrats Made Great Gains in Nearly Every County.

Democratic Senators were elected in Burlington, Cape May, Hunterdon, Middlesex, Passaic and Sussex counties, and, although the result could not change the control of the Senate, interest in this phase of the election was intensified by the bearing the result would have on the election in 1899 of a successor to United States Senator James Smith, of Newark. The State Senate consisted of 18 Republicans and 3 Democrats. It now stands, Republicans, 12; Democrats, 9.

The bitter fight being waged by Governor Griggs and Vice-President Hobart against Senator Sewell and John Kean, of Elizabeth, who aspires to succeed Senator Smith, made the canvass in the six counties electing ASSEMBLYMAN-ELECT MURRAY.

State Senators particularly interesting.

The election passed off very quietly throughout the State, the only bustle being caused by the endeavors of those who had failed to have their names placed on the registry list, to secure certificates from the County Boards of Election.

The 60 members of the Assembly are elected annually, and those chosen this year will not have a vote for United States Senator. Of the last Assembly the Republicans had 56 and the Democrats 4 members. The indications are that the next Assembly will consist of 26 Democrats to 34 Republicans, a Democratic gain of 22.

UNION COUNTY.

All the Republican Candidates Elected by Comfortable Majorities.

The entire Republican ticket was elected in Union county by a comfortable majority. George T. Parrot made an exceptionally good run for the surrogateship throughout the county, meeting with a loss only in Rahway, the home of his Democratic opponent, John L. Crowell. In Elizabeth Parrot ran way ahead of his ticket, and in some of the other townships and cities he received a large vote. He was elected by a majority of about 2,200.

The three Republican Assembly candidates, including Roger F. Murray, of this city, were elected by majorities averaging 1,500. Squier and Houston, the other two Republicans, made big gains in Elizabeth, while Murray received a complimentary vote of 73 in this city. In other towns their majorities were about the same. Murray's majority in the county will be 100 to 150 less than that of the other Republican candidates.

Dr. C. W. O'Connell, the Republican candidate, was elected coroner by about 1,600 majority. He received a large complimenty vote at his home in Cranford.

SONS OF VETERANS' FAIR

THE EVENT BEING WELL ATTENDED BY THE FRIENDS OF THE BOYS.

Washington Hall Nicely Decorated and the Booths Filled With Charming Faces—Dancing a Feature—Names of Helpers.

The Sons of Veterans' fair, being held in Washington Hall, on West Second street, is now well under way, and the prospects are that the boys will do well.

Monday evening the fair opened, but owing to the very stormy weather the attendance was slight. Last evening there was a large crowd present, and all the tables and booths were well patronized. The committee in charge have done well in decorating the hall, thereby making the place attractive. A feature is the dancing, and many are attracted to the hall for that purpose.

The fancy table is in charge of Mrs. Westphal, Mrs. Harsel, Mrs. N. B. Smalley and Mrs. Morse. At the candy table are Mrs. H. C. McVoy, Miss Hughes, Miss Koller and Mrs. Willard Sutton. A feature is the supper room, arranged on the stage, where a person can secure a first class supper for twenty-five cents, and those who wait on the table consist of Mrs. I. L. McVoy, Mrs. Day, Mrs. Thomas Doud, Mrs. Charles Stephens and Mrs. Walter Walker. The soda stand is in charge of H. S. Thatcher, John Naylor and George Bedford, and those who have charge of the dancing are Fred Sutton and Willard Sutton.

The general committee of the fair consists of E. P. T. Smith, chairman; Raymond McVoy, treasurer; Frank Clarkson, secretary; George Bedford, Fred Sutton, Charles Graves, John Naylor, H. S. Thatcher, assisted by Woman's Relief Corps committee as follows: Mrs. I. L. McVoy, Mrs. H. C. McVoy, Mrs. Charles Westphal, Mrs. Walter Walker, Mrs. N. B Smalley, Mrs. Harsel, Mrs. Day and Mrs. Stephens.

Mrs. Stephens has very kindly painted and donated to the fair a handsome oil painting which will be disposed of the last of the week, and the Woman's Relief Corps has contributed a handsome quilt which they made themselves. Various attractions will be offered each evening and a good time is promised all who attend. This evening a concert will be given by the Plainfield Cornet Band. Those who come for the purpose of securing their supper will not be charged the regular admittance fee of ten cents.

A HALLOWE'EN SUPPER.

Methodist Women Gave a Pleasant and Successful Affair.

Hallowe'en was celebrated at Vincent chapel Monday evening when the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church held a Hallowe'en supper which was followed by an evening of games appropriate to the occasion. The rain did its best to thwart the efforts of the ladies but was unsuccessful and the affair was well attended.

A good substantial supper was served in the basement of the church under the charge of a committee composed of Mrs. L. M. French, chairman, Mrs. Charles H. Lyman, Mrs. G. Q. Packer, Mrs. I. W. Pangborn, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. Charles E. Horne, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. N. Y. Hull, Miss Jackson and Miss Mulford.

The chapel was decorated for the occasion with numerous jack-o'lanterns which were hung about the back of the room and around the large open fire place where an old-fashioned wood fire burned. On several tables were piled the necessary apparatus for many Hallowe'en tricks. Apples were hung in the doorways.

RETURNED STOLEN POCKETBOOK.

But Kept the Money as the Thief Said He Needed It.

Nearly a month ago, a pocketbook belonging to Miss Sarah Richardson, of LaGrande avenue, was stolen from her at the North Avenue station. Several days ago it was returned.

The circumstances of the theft were that one morning Miss Richardson was at the station. She left her pocketbook, valued as the gift of a friend, on the window sill while she went to by her commutation ticket. The pocketbook contained about $30 in bills. When she returned in a moment, the pocketbook was gone. She advertised for it, but in vain.

Several days ago she received a package by mail, postmarked Pullman, Ill., containing the pocketbook minus its contents. A letter accompanied it saying that the pocketbook was returned but that the money was kept as it was needed there. There was no clue to the identity of the writer.

THE STATE ELECTIONS

Mark Hanna Has a Close Fight in the Buckeye State.

MARYLAND IS REPUBLICAN

Gov. Wolcott Re-elected in Massachusetts—Pennsylvania Gives an Off Year Majority, While New York Joins the Democratic Column.

The following States elected legislative tickets yesterday:

Delaware—Assemblymen in Northern Delaware.

Iowa—Assembly and Senate.

Maryland—Senate and Assembly.

Massachusetts — Senate and Assembly.

New Jersey—Senate and Assembly.

New York—Assembly.

Ohio—Senate and Assembly.

Pennsylvania—Assembly in Northern Pennsylvania.

Virginia—Assembly and half of Senate.

STATE TICKETS.

Colorado—Supreme Judge.

Iowa—Governor and State ticket.

Kentucky—Clerk Court of Appeals.

Maryland—Comptroller and Clerk of Court of Appeals.

Massachusetts — Governor and State ticket.

Nebraska—Supreme Judge.

New York—Chief Judge Court of Appeals.

Ohio—Governor and State ticket.

Pennsylvania — Auditor-General and State ticket.

Virginia—Governor and other officials.

The following States will elect new Legislatures Nov. 9: Nevada—Senate and Assembly; Washington — Senate and Assembly.

New York State Democratic.

New York, Nov. 3.—The Democratic landslide in this city proved too much for the Republican candidate for the Court of Appeals, and although Judge Wallace's vote up the State was good for 48,000, Alton B. Parker's election is assured.

Albany, Nov. 3.—Returns indicate a Republican majority in the Legislature upon a joint ballot of twenty votes. The vote of the State was one-third less than last year.

Judge Parker's majority is 60,000.

New Jersey.

Jersey City, Nov. 3.—The vote in Jersey City yesterday was very light. It fell nearly four thousand below the registry. The registry was 27,667, and the vote 23,747. The vote last year was 23,099, or 9,352 more than this year. The Democratic candidates for Assembly have a plurality of about 3,500. William Delaney and Charles Hoffman, Democratic candidates for Coroner, have the same plurality. The plurality in the county will reach 7,000.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 3.—New Jersey is again Republican by a plurality over all, but the Democrats made large gains in Passaic, Sussex, Hunterdon and Cape May. This was owing in part to the severity of the storm early in the day, which kept Republicans at home, and to disaffection over county tickets.

The Senate will probably contain a Republican majority of 13 instead of 18, as last year, giving the Democrats 8 members.

The Assembly will have a safe Republican majority of about 35.

In the contests for Surrogate and County Clerk candidates for legislative office were bowled over on both alleys. Democrats suffered as well as the Republicans in this particular. This was the case in Mercer, where Corey, for Clerk, is credited with defeating Gummer, while the entire Republican Assembly is elected.

The State Senators elected in New Jersey yesterday are:

Burlington—Howard E. Packer, Dem.

Cape May—Robert E. Hand, Rep.

Hunterdon—John R. Foster, Dem.

Middlesex — James H. Van Cleef, Dem.

Passaic—Christopher Braun, Dem.

Sussex—Lewis J. Martin, Dem.

The Senate now stands: Republicans, 14; Democrats, 7.

Newark, Nov. 3.—Essex County elects entire Republican ticket by 4,000.

Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—The Republican city ticket, headed by Col. Clayton McMichael for City Treasurer, was elected by majorities exceeding 50,000, and the plurality for the Republican State ticket will also go beyond that figure. Swallow, the Prohibitionist candidate for State Treasurer, received many votes from those who have not heretofore voted the Prohibition ticket.

Reports from all over the State show a light vote everywhere.

Harrisburg, Nov. 3.—About 70 per cent. of last year's vote was polled. The Republican ticket has about the usual off-year majorities in the State.

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—The factional fight among Republicans has resulted in a small vote throughout the State.

L. G. McCauley, Auditor-General, and J. S. Bacon, State Treasurer, were elected with usual majorities.

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—The returns from the election came in slowly, but enough are at hand to indicate that the Republican State ticket has been elected, but by a plurality of more than 100,000. Comparatively little interest was shown, and as a result an unusually low vote was polled.

James S. Beacom, the Republican candidate for State Treasurer, will probably be elected by a plurality of 120,000. Dr. Silas C. Swallow, the Prohibition nominee for that office, will show a large vote, for among his supporters were a large number of disgruntled Republicans and an equal number of Democrats, who, seeing that their party had no chance, decided to support the Prohibition nominee. Levi G. McCauley, the Republican candidate for Auditor-General, will defeat his Democratic opponent, Walter G. Ritter, by an overwhelming plurality.

In the city election here the Republican ticket had practically a walkover. Horatio B. Hackett and Col. Clapton McMichael are elected by more than the usual party majority to the respective offices of Register of Wills and City Treasurer.

Ohio Democratic.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 3.—The Star concedes that the State has gone Democratic for Governor.

Indications are that Hamilton and Cuyahoga counties go Democratic.

The Democrats have carried the Legislature, and Hanna is beaten.

Gov. Bushnell has carried Ohio in his campaign for re-election by about 25,000 plurality, and the indications are that a Republican Legislature has been chosen, which will secure the return of Mr. Hanna to the United States Senate.

The Republican State Committe concede the loss of Hamilton County, but say that there were not sufficient returns from Cleveland on which to base any estimate. With the loss of fourteen members of the Legislature in Hamilton County, and also of twelve members in Cuyahoga County, the Republicans do not expect to carry the Legislature. The Republican State Committee say confidently that they will carry Cuyahoga and make gains in other counties. They say that they had anticipated losses in the cities on account of local fights on bossism and other factional troubles, but that they had the best reports from the rural districts.

A heavy rain prevailed all day, and this no doubt affected the rural vote. The Republican gains seem to come from the rural Democratic counties and the Democratic gains from the Republican counties in which the large cities are.

The Republicans by no means concede the loss of their State or of the control of the Legislature, but admit that the result will be close on both. Owing to the condition of the roads the bicycle couriers are having trouble in giving the prompt service that was expected from the rural precincts.

Massachusetts.

Boston, Nov. 3.—Gov. Wolcott is re-elected by a vote of 168,875. George Fred Williams receives 81,295.

Wolcott's plurality last year was 158,863.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 3.—Gov. Roger Wolcott, Republican, was re-elected by an estimated plurality of 88,000 over George Fred Williams, Democrat. This is a falling off of the Republican plurality of 1896, when the same candidates were in the field, of nearly 70,000 votes. The Republican vote fell away 30 per cent. from that polled last year, and the Democratic vote fell off 20 per cent.

The entire Republican State ticket is elected by substantially the same plurality as that given to Gov. Wolcott. The Republicans will also control the Legislature by the usual preponderance. The Democrats, however, have made slight gains in House and Senate, regaining the seats normally theirs which were won by the Republicans in the tidal wave of 1896.

Iowa.

Des Moines, Nov. 3.—This State gives a strong Republican majority, although there was a falling off in the total vote of 75,000 votes and a small Democratic gain.

Shaw, Republican, was elected Governor.

Maryland.

Baltimore, Nov. 3.—Indications return the State safely Republican. This means the retirement of Senator Gorman.

Nebraska.

Lincoln, Nov. 3.—The Democrat-Populist fusion ticket carried the State by about twelve thousand. The vote was light, but one important office being voted for—that of Supreme Court Judge.

Colorado.

Denver, Nov. 3.—Indications point to the election of William H. Gabbert, Populist-Democrat, for Supreme Judge by 20,000 over Judge Hoyt, the incumbent, who is a candidate on both the McKinley and silver Republican tickets. There was much opposition to Judge Hoyt among the silver Republicans on account of his acceptance of the McKinley Republican nomination, though he declared that such acceptance must not be construed as an abandonment of the silver cause.

Kentucky Is Democratic.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 3.—Shackleford, the silver candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, received a big vote in the rural Democratic strongholds, and made a winning race with the Republican nominee, Bailey.

His majority in the State certainly will be 10,000, and it may be 20,000. The silver Democrats appear to have been successful in their local contests.

South Dakota Republican.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 3.—Last year South Dakota gave a majority for Bryan and elected a Populist Legislature. Yesterday the Populists were overwhelmingly defeated. The Republicans elected six out of eight Circuit Judges and have possibly elected the others. A light vote was polled, and the Democrats generally voted for the Republican candidates.

Virginia.

Richmond, Nov. 3.—The usual Democratic majorities were polled at yesterday's election. The State elected an Assembly and half the Senate.

Democratic Mayor for Buffalo.

Buffalo, Nov. 3.—Dr. Conrad Diehl, Democrat, was elected Mayor yesterday by 6,000 majority. The rest of the Democratic city ticket got about 3,000 majority. District-Attorney Daniel J. Kenefick is the only Republican surely elected on the county ticket.

Democratic Mayor in Kingston.

Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 3.—William D. Brennier (Dem.) is elected Mayor of this city by 94 majority. Ulster County gives 25,000 plurality for Parker for Chief Judge, and elects the Democratic county ticket by about 1,000.

Albany Elects a Democratic Mayor.

Albany, Nov. 3.—This county gives a Republican plurality of about 1,500, compared with 800 in 1895. Van Alstyne, Democrat, is elected Mayor of Albany city.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guarranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Miss Katheryn Dwight, of Rockview avenue, is entertaining two cousins.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

William Miles, of Somerset street, will soon take up his residence in Newark.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to billious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Meeker, of Raymond avenue, are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby daughter.

"The worst cold I ever had in my life was cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes W. H. Norton, of Sutter Creek, Cal. This cold left me with a cough and I was expectorating all the time. The Remedy cured me, and I want all of my friends when troubled with a cough or cold to use it, for it will do them good. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, cor. of Park and North avenues.

—A meeting of the Martin Act Commissioners will be held tomorrow evening.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Do It Yourself!

A stranger on visiting most Piano stores would feel like a fish out of water, unless a salesman stood by and explained about the prices, etc., of the various Pianos. It's not so here. You can walk through these warerooms and inspect every Piano in the building, if you want to, and no attendant need accompany you. You can be your own salesman and find out all there is to know without asking a question.

There's a bright red tag on each Piano here; the price is stated in plain figures and so are all the other points. It's an unusual way, but a little experience of Piano stores will teach you that it's the one sure and honest way.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., NOV. 3, 1897

LOCAL HONORS.

With the city provided with an Assemblyman and the borough honored with the selection of one of its citizens for a responsible county office, Plainfielders are quite well satisfied with the result of election in this particular section. Mr. Murray is young, ambitious and filled with the business qualities that guarantee Plainfield a faithful and alert representative in the lower house of the State Legislature. Mr. Spencer has a long acquaintance with public duties, is just and agreeable to one and all, and can be depended upon to conservatively execute the duties of surrogate of Somerset county in a manner that will reflect credit upon himself and give satisfaction to all who may have dealings with him in the course of his term of service.

BEGGING IMPOSTORS.

Organized Aid Warn People Against Almsgiving That is Not Charity.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—From the reports that are constantly coming to the Organized Aid Association, there seems to be a dozen or more persons systematically begging in the city, the majority of whom deserve no help. A large part of them come here from other towns for the sole purpose of begging, and when sent out of town return, finding Plainfield too profitable to leave. Please permit me to use a little space in your columns to describe several sample cases and warning the public against wasting their means in aiding people who beg from door to door.

No. 1.—An elderly woman, asks for food and coal, claiming to be in extreme need. The Relief Association has considered her case and refused to aid her, because she has an able-bodied son who can support her.

No. 2.—A woman accompanied by two children is asking for work and aid in finding a home for the children. She belongs in New York and has been once placed on the train with a ticket in her hand, but soon returned. She gives various references of places where she has worked, but when looked up they are generally found false. When stopping at a hotel her orders for beer were numerous. She has followed the same course of begging at Mamaroneck.

No. 3.—Mrs. ——— asks for money for a crutch, or to pay her way to another city. She gives different addresses at different places and is not known when the addresses are looked up. She begs at Dunellen and New Market as well as Plainfield.

No. 4.—A woman claiming to have been deserted by her husband is asking money for rent. She has now been telling this story for two years, but she has an able-bodied husband afflicted with intemperance and laziness.

No. 5.—A strong-appearing woman, about fifty years old, claims to have no home and no means of livelihood. In fact the city furnished her rent and fuel until June and then offered her a place at the Industrial Home, which she refused to accept.

No. 6.—A woman really too old to work, who asks for work to pay rent or for other assistance. She too was offered a place at the City Home but refused it, preferring to depend on the charity she could obtain from door to door.

No. 7.—A young man, seemingly not strong but able to find money for drink, has been offered work by the Relief Association, but has not accepted.

No. 8.—A man is asking aid for a blind wife and five children. He is an able-bodied laborer living in Netherwood with no family in this country.

Such are a few of the cases known to us Aid given them is not charity; it is an encouragement to begging, and serves to entice beggars here from other towns. The purpose for which the Organized Aid Association exists is to investigate all cases where aid is sought or needed and to put those who are worthy in the way of obtaining it without being pauperized, and to discourage begging from door to door.

Every case reported is carefully investigated by the agent of the association, and the facts are recorded for future reference.

The records and resources of the Association are free to any one who desires information and its work and the cause of true charity would be materially aided if householders would refuse such appeals and refer them to the agent of the Association, Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, at 544 West Front street.

Sincerely yours,
H. M. Maxson,
For District Committee of O. A. A.

THE LADIES TAKE HOLD.

A Church Auxiliary to Aid in Paying for Improvements.

The meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, held at the home of one of its members, Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Sr., Sycamore avenue, Monday afternoon, was largely attended despite the downpour of rain. The devotional meeting, preceding the business meeting, was in charge of Mrs. R. A. Meeker and was spiritually refreshing to all. The upholstering of the pew-backs and cushions of the church was freely discussed by the ladies and it was unanimously agreed by them to assume the expense and take up the work, and have it done by George Schlereth, as stated in The Daily Press of Wednesday last. This will relieve the consistory of the church of one of the much-needed improvements they had in mind to do during the church improvements, but were compelled to shrink from doing on account of a scarcity of funds.

GIRLS PLAY BASKET BALL.

Under the Direction of Walter L. Long, They Held First Practice.

The girls of the Plainfield High School made their first attempt at basket ball, yesterday morning, in the gymnasium in the Whittier building. Ten of the Senior class were on hand and Walter L. Long, captain of the Y. M. C. A. basket ball team was there to coach them. Most of the time was spent in explaining the principle points of the game. Then the fair athletes tried a little practice at throwing the ball around and catching it, passing and throwing goals. They were delighted with the game while Long was much pleased with the showing they made and prophesies a strong team from the class of '98 at least.

A communication was received from the school trustees of Fanwood township accepting the offer of the Westfield Board to pay for transfers of pupils upon the same terms as agreed upon last year. The report of Principal Edwards showed the average attendance for the month to be 593. There are 42 more pupils on the roll than last year.

LITTLE SCHOOL BUSINESS.

Board of Education's Monthly Meeting Was a Short One.

It took the Plainfield Board of Education barely fifteen minutes to transact their business for the month on Monday evening. The regular batch of bills was read and ordered paid. All the members of the Board were present.

The report of the tax collector showed that taxes to the amount of $2,252 and interest $11.93, making a total of $2,263.93 had been collected and deposited to the credit of the Board. The Plainfield Water Supply Company sent word that they had decided to connect all the schools by meter and charge the regular rates for the water supply of the schools.

The auditing committee reported that the books of the Board had been audited and found correct. Mr. Lounsbury, as chairman of the building committee, reported that the screens had been put in the Whittier building for basket ball and Superintendent Maxson told the Board that the Girls' Athletic Association had agreed to pay for the wire for the screening.

President Probasco told the Board of a visit he had paid to the Irving School and that he was highly gratified at the work that was being done there by the teachers and he advised all the members of the Board to pay a visit there.

There was no other business and the Board went into executive session.

PASTOR GIBSON RESIGNS.

He Feels That it is for the Best Interest of all That He Retires.

A meeting of the officers of the Mt Olive Baptist church was held last Monday evening in the church for the purpose of considering the recent trouble between the church and its pastor. The meeting was an informal one and nothing definite was done. Rev. P. S. Gibson has, however, decided to offer his resignation as pastor, and this will be done at a meeting to be held next Monday evening at the same place. Mr. Gibson, in conversation with a Daily Press reporter yesterday, stated that he had no desire to make any trouble for the church, and he thought the best way out of the present difficulty was to resign from his position quietly.

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

eleven winter overcoats for the paid firemen at a cost not to exceed $22 each. The same was adopted.

The plans and specifications offered by Street Commissioner Gavett for the extension of sewer mains were filed.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Barrows that Council meet November 22d, at 8 o'clock in the evening to receive bids for the work of building the extensions to the sewer mains as heretofore provided for.

Mr. Frost stated that the work of the city farming their property was a failure and could not be made to pay, and he desired that the street and sewer committee be given permission to lease it if they can do so profitably. The land has nothing to do with the sewer beds, but is located opposite the beds on Dunellen avenue.

Mr. Barrows called up the telephone ordinance on its final reading. It provides for the placing of telephone wires underground. It was adopted, as was also the ordinance providing for a grade crossing on Berckman street near the railroad.

The street and sewer committee was allowed $200 for the additional repair of storm sewers.

The committee on police was authorized to put improvements in the lock up at an expense of not more than $450. Mr. Barrows stated that the owner of the building has agreed to take $50 from the rent for next year, and that it would be impossible for the city to make a change for another year. The above committee was also allowed $250 for police uniforms and $50 for a bicycle. The sidewalk ordinance was read and it was found that George F. White had failed to lay a walk in front of his property, located at 1,338 and 1,346 Watchung avenue. It was ordered laid by the Council and a lien will be placed on the property for the payment of the work. After Mr. Barrows made a motion that Council meet November 22d, at 8 o'clock in the evening, the meeting adjourned.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular adjourned meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union held on Thursday, Oct. 14th, 1897, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present except Freeholder Littell—1.

The minutes of the previous meeting, (reading of bills being omitted) were approved as read.

No petitions, memorials, reports of committees or resolutions were presented.

NEW BUSINESS.

County Collector Wood stated that County Attorney Codington, (who was unable to be present at this meeting of the board,) had informed him that he, (Mr. Codington) had examined into the matter of the crossing of the county road at Aldene by a railroad, and had found that said railroad was to be operated by steam; also that under the charter of said railroad company, and under the provisions of the general railroad law of this State, he did not think there was anything to prevent the said company from laying its tracks across the county road, as before mentioned, which report was received

The following bills, audited and approved, were read, and on roll call ordered paid, viz:

Noticed This Before.

You Probably Have and May Have Spoken About it Before.

The reader of this newspaper, if he takes the time and trouble to look carefully through its columns, will probably find half a dozen statements attached to the foot of reading notices about medicinal preparations. Note this fact. In each and every case, as far as Plainfield is concerned, as far as the reader's knowledge of the party is concerned, he might just as well live in the moon. Make another note of this. The only remedy on the market which gives testimony at home, local proof in every city and town in the Union to back up its claims, is Doan's Kidney Pills. They all try it but they cannot do it. Why they are unable to do it can safely be left with the reader to draw his own conclusions. Here is Plainfield proof for Plainfield readers:

Mr. Charles Giese, cigar manufacturer, of 25 Elm place, says: "I have been subject to attacks of kidney complaint for the last two or three years. Most of the pain was in my back and hips, and I could not stoop or straighten up without feeling sharp and shooting twitches. When I sat for any length of time I grew stiff and sore, and was compelled to get up and move about Last spring I grew so bad I had to do something for it. I had read a great deal about Doan's Kindney Pills being such a good medicine for kidney troubles, so I got a box of them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I used them according to directions, and after two or three days I felt better. I continued their use until the pain disappeared and I am only too glad to testify to the fact that Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name Doan's and ake no substitute.

The Tables Turned.

We have almost solved the servant girl problem.

Instead of the maid being mistress, we have made it possible for the mistress herself to be mistress.

The tables are turned, and we have turned them.

We have accomplished it to the mutual satisfaction of everybody. The plan is so simple that the wonder is nobody ever thought of it before.

Cheap but good laundering of general house linen enables every housekeeper to have the washing done out of the house. For instance,

Counterpanes 10c each.
Table Cloth 5c "
Towel, Napkins 1c "

What does our proposition mean? It means no more washday odor about the house. It means satisfied servants, because a maid will not be insolent if she can escape washdays and the delay of other work caused by bad drying days. Our booklet "Tables Turned" tells all about our new plan. You can have it for the asking.

VAN WYCK FOR MAYOR

Chosen to Rule Greater New York by 80,000 Plurality.

TAMMANY'S BIG VICTORY

The Vote for the Tammany Ticket About 225,000—Low Second in the Race—Henry George's Total Vote Will Hardly Reach 20,000.

Tammany has made a clean sweep in the Greater New York.

Van Wyck has been elected Mayor by a plurality of 82,000. His total vote will reach 228,000.

Low is second, with a vote that will not exceed 146,000.

Tracy's total vote approximates 100,000.

George's vote is estimated at 19,000.

The result shows that fully 80,000 of the registered voters in the greater city failed to cast their ballots.

Justice Robert A. Van Wyck was elected first Mayor of Greater New York by a plurality which denotes beyond a question that the rule of Richard Croker is preferred to that of the reformers. The fight was made against Croker direct. The reformers quarrelled at the beginning of the campaign over the prospective spoils of office, and never after came together. Mr. Low and Gen. Tracy were both Republicans, but they fought each other furiously, thus antagonizing many interests which would have been with them otherwise. All independent organizations supported Mr. Low, and with the support of the Republican machine, so-called, he doubtless would have been elected.

The death of Henry George did not probably affect the result, except possibly to make greater Van Wyck's plurality.

The interest in the election was international. The excitement over the contest was intense. There were eight candidates for Mayor in the field, and the rivalry between four of these was of the fiercest kind.

There were 200 offices to be filled at this election, for which there were 854 candidates. The 567,000 registered voters were divided among 1,500 polling places, of which 833 were in Manhattan and Bronx boroughs. Notwithstanding the increased size of the districts and the enormous size of the blanket ballot there was little difficulty experienced in casting the vote, although in view of the number of split tickets it was hard to count the vote.

The death of Henry George caused one complication. Although his son was named as his successor on the ticket it was considered necessary to put pasters bearing the name of Henry George over the name of Henry George in order that there should be no mistake as to the intention of the voter.

Such a complication as this probably never before happened in an election. In some districts these pasters were omitted by the inspectors, and the question arises whether this fact invalidates the vote for George thus cast.

The balloting yesterday was conspicuous for the quiet manner in which it was conducted. There was little trouble with the police, and comparatively few men were arrested for illegal voting. No colonization of voters was apparent.

During the campaign Justice Van Wyck maintained a most dignified demeanor. He never said a word of villification of another candidate.

After the first week of the campaign had closed John C. Sheehan predicted that Tammany would win with a big plurality. When Henry George died matters for a moment were complicated, but in a short time Mr. Sheehan recognized that the death of the great economist would add to Van Wyck's vote.

Tammany Hall never polled in this city less than 38 per cent. of the full vote. The organization three years ago, when the wave of reform was sweeping over the city, polled 40 per cent.

Even last year, when the gold believers forsook the party and supported the Republican candidate, Tammany still rolled up 40 per cent. of the total vote.

It was easily figured out as soon as the various Mayoralty candidates got in the field that if Tammany could maintain the percentage of the total vote that she had held in former years she would win easily.

For, giving Tammany 40 per cent. of the total, that left only 60 per cent. to be distributed among Gen. Tracy, Seth Low, Henry George, Patrick Gleason, the Socialist candidate and the Prohibition candidate.

As it was assumed that Tracy, Low and George each had a considerable following, it became apparent in a moment that Van Wyck would have things pretty much his own way.

What was true of the city of New York was in a large measure the case in Brooklyn. The lowest percentage ever polled by the regular Democracy in Brooklyn was 33 per cent. of the total vote.

All New York turned out last night to celebrate fittingly the close of the election in the open air. With voice, and the blare of horns, the click of rattles and the shriek of whistles, people celebrated from the time the victory was first foreshadowed to the final certainty, which took the sting of excitement from it and left it flat and stale. Those whom the victory didn't please, if they wouldn't add to the noise at least wouldn't diminish it, and to the celebrators belonged the city and the highways and byways thereof.

London Comments.

London, Nov. 3.—The Chronicle, commenting on the result of the Mayoralty contest in New York, says that the election of Van Wyck is a deep source of anxiety and disappointment.

Continuing, it says that it had hoped that New York would have risen to the great opportunity and shown Europe that a pure, progressive democracy was a possibility. Their overthrow ought to stimulate the reformers to greater activity.

Candidate in Virginia Dies.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 3.—Col. James Cohcrane, the Republican candidate for State Senator from the Ninth District, was stricken with apoplexy yesterday morning. He died in a few moments. He had ordered his buggy to go to the polls, and while waiting for it he was stricken.

Senator Platt Voted in Oswego.

Oswego, Nov. 3.—Senator Platt came to Oswego on Sunday night. He voted before 9 o'clock in District 5, opposite A. H. Wag's house, where he boards when here. He was in the booth such a short time that he must have voted a straight ticket.

Warner Elected Mayor of Rochester.

Rochester, Nov. 3.—Monroe County gives Wallace, for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, 5,500 plurality. Rochester City elects George E. Warner Mayor by the combined vote of the Good Government and Democratic parties.

The Total Vote.

The total vote in Plainfield was 1,954. While some wards show an increase over previous elections, others show a falling off. In North Plainfield borough the total vote was 823.

SPENCER'S FRIENDS JUBILANT.

Enthusiam Over His Victory Was Vented in a Joyous Way.

It was about 11 o'clock last evening when the supporters of H. N. Spencer learned that their favorite was elected to the office of Surrogate, and they at once prepared to celebrate. Their enthusiasm knew no bounds and was kept at fever heat until 1 o'clock. Bon-fires were started in front of Mr. Spencer's residence and at various points in the borough. The leaders of the fun entered Mr. Spencer's place of business and confiscated a large number of new brooms. These were lighted and with great pomp the bearers carried them about, at the same time shouting loudly the name of Spencer. The climax of the celebration was reached when the crowd rushed into the headquarters of the "Cracker-barrel Club" and completely carried Mr. Spencer from his seat and placed him in a wagon. A number took charge of the parade, while a large delegation followed on behind with the lighted brooms. The line of march was not a long one but it answered the purpose and all felt satisfied.

During the entire evening crowds were present at Mr. Spencer's place and the interest was great. After nearly everyone had retired for the night an alarm of fire was sent in from Box 134 at the corner of Mountain and Westervelt avenues. The key for the box was obtained from P. Ageny's house, but as yet the party is unknown. It was a false alarm and the firemen had their run for nothing.

To Trot for $250 a Side.

Next Saturday afternoon there will be a match at trotting at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, when John Case, of Three Bridges, and R. A. Fairbairn, of Westfield, will match their horses for $250 a side. An entrance fee of 25 cents will be charged, and there will be other attractions on the programme.

—The Sanger and Turn Verein will hold its monthly meeting Thursday evening of this week.

WINNING WAY THEY HAVE

PARK CLUB WHIST NOW HOLD PERMANENTLY THREE PRIZES.

Their Fifteenth Victory in Contests for the State Challenge Cup was Secured Last Night From The Jersey City Club.

Another trophy has passed into the possession of the Park Club, thanks to the excellence of the playing of their whist four. Last evening the Park Club won its fifteenth victory for the Park Club challenge trophy offered by that club to the New Jersey Whist Association last November. The trophy was to become the permanent property of the club winning it fifteen times. This is the third trophy that has been offered to the whist players of the State, and all three are now safely reposing in the Park Clubhouse, the permanent property of that club, a very evident proof that they are well entitled to the name of champions of the State of New Jersey.

The fifteenth and last victory was played last evening in this city against the Jersey City Club, represented by Messrs. C. Bowly, D. Bowly, Mecabe and Watson. The regular four, Messrs. McCutchen, Townsend, Howell and Rogers, played for the holders of the trophy.

The first round was a stand-off, both sides scoring the same number of tricks. Then the Parks waked up to occasion and played in their old time form. They gained a lead in the second round which they increased in the third, winning by eight tricks. The score at the close was 19 to 11 in favor of the Plainfield team.

Then the Jersey City players took a farewell look at the trophy, shook hands with their opponents and departed.

That will end the State contests for the present until another trophy is put up. Meanwhile the Parks will have to defend the national challenge trophy of the A. W. L. which they now hold. The next match will be played for that trophy Saturday evening at the Revere House. The challengers on this occasion are the American Whist Club, of Boston, one of the strongest in the country.

UNION A G. O. P. COUNTY.

The Returns Show a Plurality of 2,424 for the Surrogate.

Union county remains solidly in the Republican column, as shown by the complete returns received yesterday. George T. Parrot, Republican, for Surrogate, has 2,424 plurality, and the Republican Assembly ticket has an average of 2,240 plurality. The Socialist-Labor party also showed increased strength and polled its largest vote so far in the county. The Prohibitionists are losing ground.

Following is the county official vote: Surrogate, Parrot, R., 8,118; Crowell, D., 5,694; Coughlin, Socialist, 632; Osborn, Pro., 259; Parrot's plurality, 2,424.

Assembly: Houston, R., 8,109; Squire, R., 9,972; Murray, R., 7,849; Jackson, D., 5,776; Wolfeskiel, D., 5,771; Lawrence, D., 5,665; Gould, Socialist, 634; Campbell, Soc., 629; Eidenmuller, Soc., 629; VanCise, Pro., 298; McLeod, Pro., 287.

Average Republican plurality, 2,240.

Coroner: MacConnell, R., 7,930; Dolan, D., 5,898; Herstein, Soc., 643; Myles, Pro, 277.

MacConnell's plurality, 2,092.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Rev. J. H. Johnson, pastor of Grace M. E. church, will address the men's meeting in Y. M. C. A. Hall next Sunday afternoon, and the Drew Quartette and Miss Blair will assist in the singing.

The directors of the Children's Home meet in the Y. M. C. A. building this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the executive committee of the King's Daughters at 4 o'clock.

Probably very few peoply fully appreciate the importance value of a knowledge of Spanish, especially to young men. The time has come when a young man must possess some special adaptability to certain lines of work in order to secure a good situation. With the rapidly increasing export trade of the United States with Spanish speaking countries of the world, especially Mexico and South America, there is a growing demand for men and women who can read, write and speak Spanish. Consequently the man or woman having these requirements, is fitted for a position, which one lacking these qualifications would be totally unable to fill. Not only is Spanish useful, but it is an accomplishment, one which comparatively few people possess and the study of the language is a pleasure and a delight. The Y. M. C. class meets this evening at 8 o'clock in the Association building.

BEAUTY 'FEST "CREATIONS."

PRETTY AND APPROPRIATE GOWNS.

The Illustration Shows How Cleverly Some of Spielkartenfest Dancers Will be Dressed.

Current gossip has it that the dressmakers of Plainfield never were as busy as they are at the present time.

All of the fashionable establishments are working long after hours in their endeavor to turn out "creations" for next week's 'Fest.

Many novel designs are being produced and it is doubtful if at any previous affair in Plainfield such a display of handsome costumes has been seen, as those that will be worn at the Spielkartenfest.

Our illustration shows two of the most striking and appropriate gowns that have yet been devised; although, doubtless, many similar ones will be seen. The owners of these gowns are two of Plainfield's most fashionable women. Matrons, too, but clever in the art of designing gowns and these costumes are products of their own originality. The lovers of the beautiful and novel costuming will witness a rare scene when the doors of the Crescent Rink are opened next Monday night.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES.

Several Formal and Informal Events of a Pleasant Nature.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard Smith gave the first of their "at homes" at their residence on Madison avenue, last evening. They were assisted in receiving the guests by Mr. and Mrs T. C. Smith and Miss Ernestine Smith. Mrs. J. Everett Kimball and Miss Fannie Clark, of Providence, R. I., presided at the dining table while Miss Luella Clawson and Miss Mable Maxson assisted in serving the guests. The dining room was decorated in pink and green, the principal decorations consisting of carnations and ferns.

The "Sixteen Social Sisters" met at the home of Miss Cora Young, of East Fifth street, Tuesday evening, and enjoyed an evening of whist. The first prize was won by Miss Mabelle Force, and the second prize by Miss Cora Young.

A Hallowe'en party was given at the home of James A. Harned, of Craig place, on Monday evening. The evening was spent in dancing and playing appropriate games.

A number of young people who are stopping at the home of Mrs. E. F. DuBois, of Park avenue, gave a Hallowe'en party Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Martin, of West Front street, gave their son, Willard Martin, a surprise party last evening in honor of the celebration of his birthday. There were about fifteen young people present. Games, music and refreshments was the programme for the evening.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs George Morehouse, on Johnson avenue, was a scene of gayety and festivity Tuesday evening. The occasion was the celebration of the eighteenth anniversary of the birthday of their daughter, Miss Edith Morehouse, when a number of friends assembled to make merry. Refreshments were served in variety and abundance during the evening. The music was highly commended and was furnished by Hughey Gray, D. J. Sisk and John Hewitt.

Late Mr. Lincoln's Funeral.

The funeral services of the late Felix T Lincoln were held yesterday afternoon from the house, 308 East Fifth street. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the departed, officiated, and spoke words of comfort and cheer to the bereaved ones. He spoke of the exemplary Christian life of Mr. Lincoln, and drew many helpful lessons therefrom. At the close of the service Mr. Snodgrass offered a fervent prayer invoking Divine aid and blessing on those present. Interment was in the Plainfield avenue cemetery.

Scotch Plains Postmaster.

C. S. Carpenter, at Hilton, and N. Dunn, at Scotch Plains, were named as fourth-class postmasters yesterday.

—A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the Reform Club meeting this evening at Reform Hall. An especially interesting programme will be presented.

MR. SPENCER FIDDLED

HELPED TO ENTERTAIN THOSE WHO ASSISTED TO ELECT HIM.

Borough Council Rooms Sounded With Joyous Noises for the Nonce—Music and Speeches Furnished by Many Celebrants.

As an aftermath result of the election of North Plainfield's old warhorse politician, H. Newton Spencer, to the office of Surrogate of Somerset county, there was "a hot time in the old town last night." The particular scene of the warm affair was the Borough Council rooms. For the nonce, there was a "spiel" without the "kartenfest." The ubiquitious and usually discursive members of the famous Cracker Barrel Club were much in evidence, as well as other distinguished citizens of "over the brook." But the affairs of Nation, State, county and town, and unto those of the neighbors, were relegated far away in the effort to simply let "joy be unconfined" in celebrating the election of Mr. Spencer.

Speeches of a congratulatory order were made by Lawyer Robert M Clark, Former Councilman W. C. Smith and other Republicans who felt elated over the selection of their townsman. The Surrogate elect had a few words to say himself, and he said them very nicely, too.

A part of the evening was taken up with music. Mr. Spencer is no Ole Bull by any means when it comes to wielding the bow over the catgut strings, but he demonstrated the fact that he could fiddle quite as well as when, as a young man, he furnished music many a time for an impromptu dance among some of the neighbors. Songs were rendered by Messrs. Clark and Schutt who were cheered to the echo.

Considerable fun was experienced when "Buck" Jackson, of dusky hue, appeared and gave the boys a song accompanied by instrumental music. "Dory" Vroom presided at the piano, Harry Spencer picked the guitar and Addison Spencer and Willard Force twanged the banjos. The orchestra was complete with the violin in the hands of Mr. Spencer. The music put everyone in the best of humor and, in a word, all felt happy under the genial hospitality of their host. Former Councilman Smith delighted the audience by singing one of the old familiar plantation songs and was cheered to the echo. All extended to Mr. Spencer their best wishes for his success and congratulated him on being elected to the office which they think he richly deserves.

HELD DOWN UNDER FOOT OF WATER.

Exciting Experience That a Football Player Had at Cranford.

To be drowned on the football field would be a rather novel fate, but such came very near being the closing scene in the life of Thomas Thomas, Jr., of Dunellen, Tuesday afternoon.

Thomas was playing half back on the Alis team of this city that went to Cranford. The field was one grand morass and the players could hardly keep their feet. There were several large puddles there, one of which was fully twelve inches deep. Thomas was running with the ball when one of the Cranford men tackled him and he fell headfirst into the deepest puddle. Another Cranford man sat on his head to prevent him from squirming.

Now the other players forgot about the water and it was nearly a minute before Thomas was released. Then he had to be dragged out of the water in a temporarily unconscious state. The muddy water was drained out of his mouth and ears and he recovered his senses after a few moments and was able to resume the game, although rather weak from the results of the experience.

Gifts to Home For the Aged.

A barrel will be packed today in the lecture room of the First Baptist church for the harvest home reception to be held on Tuesday of next week at the Home for the Aged, 285 Roseville avenue, Newark. Friends for the of the old folks will kindly send their gifts of money, provisions, linen, etc., to the church at that time. Money will be gladly received by the managers at any day or hour.

Girl Athletes Active.

The girls of the different classes at the High School in this city held special class meetings, yesterday afternoon, to elect class managers for the basket ball teams. Each class elected two managers who will confer with the executive committee of the Girls' Athletic Association and arrange for the practice of the different class teams.

TRAGIC AND SAD DEATH.

MRS. CHARLES M. RAYBERT STRICKEN AT HER FATHER'S BIER.

Suffered a Nervous Collapse From Which She Died in Three-Quarters of an Hour—Of a Highly Nervous Temperament.

A tragic scene was enacted in the Methodist cemetery on Plainfield avenue yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock, when Mrs. Charles M. Raybert, of North avenue, suffered a nervous collapse, from which she never revived, as the casket containing all that was earthly of her father, Felix T. Lincoln, was lowered into the grave.

Last Monday afternoon Mrs. Raybert's father died after a lingering illness of eighteen years. During the latter days of her father's life Mrs. Raybert was subject to severe nervous strains, and she worried a great deal concerning him. When his death occurred her sorrow seemed almost unconsolable, and during the early part of the week her condition was much worse.

Mr. Lincoln's funeral was held yesternoon from his late home on East Fifth street. Mrs. Raybert attended and seemed to bear up remarkably under the severe trial, although she evidenced considerable nervousness.

After the last sad religious rites had been performed by Rev. W. C. Snodgrass at the grave, and as the remains were being lowered into their last resting place, Mrs. Raybert was seized with a severe weeping spell. She was leaning on the arm of her husband when suddenly he noticed that she was tottering. It was evident that Mrs. Rabert was conscious of her weakening condition as she exclaimed between her sobs:

"Catch me, I'm going."

As she half fell she whispered that she was unable to see anything. These were the last words that Mrs. Rabert ever uttered. In an unconscious condition she was carried to the carriage in which she had been driven to the bier of her lamented father, and hurriedly taken to her home on North avenue.

Drs. Probasco and Murray were summoned and arrived at her side in a few minutes. Dr. Probasco prescribed for her. It was not thought by the physicians that the end of her life was so near. Her pulse seemed to be excellent and the physicians told the family that what she needed most was to have absolute quiet and that they need not be surprised if she should remain unconscious for sometime.

The physicians had scarcely left the house about 5 o'clock when the family discovered that she was dead. She passed away without a struggle or effort. Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, who officiated at Mr. Lincoln's funeral, was present with the family at the time.

The surviving husband and daughter are grief-stricken over the loss of one who has been such a model wife and mother. She was a woman who thoroughly loved her home and family and not one thing was ever left undone that would add to the comfort of her family.

The funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon next at 2 o'clock from the house.

ENDEAVOR RALLY.

State Officers to be Present and Deliver Addresses.

The Endeavorers of Plainfield are asked to bear in mind the rally to be held in the First Baptist church Monday evening, November 8th, at which Dr. French, of Newark, and Dr. Brett, of Jersey City, the newly-elected State president, will deliver short addresses.

Song service in charge of Horace J. Martin, at which Sacred Songs, No. 1, will be used.

Let the local Endeavorers show their loyalty by giving a hearty welcome to the State executive committee.

Preceding the rally a supper will be given the members of both State and local executive committees in the First Baptist church.

An Idle Rumor.

There was a rumor prevalent at Somerville on Monday and Tuesday that the Brunswick Traction Company was about to try the same tactics as their opponents, the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, and lay their tracks over the bridge to Raritan during the night, but the rumor proved without foundation.

For What?

The subject for the Christian Endeavor service at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow evening will be "Trust Christ—for What?" Rev. J. W. Richardson, the pastor of the church, will conduct the meeting. All are cordially invited.

DEAD DOG VALUED AT $25.

IT WAS KILLED WITHOUT REAL CAUSE

The Owner Was a Deputy Sheriff and Immediately Put the Slayer Under Arrest.

The case of Walpole against Klendal, in tort, was tried before Justice Joseph Clark in the parlors of Emery's Hotel, at Scotch Plains, yesterday morning. The case is one which has awakened much interest. On September 22d, while Constable Robert Walpole and his son Lynus were fishing on the upper Passaic river they allowed a valuable bird dog they had taken along to run about on the bank of the stream. The dog was walking quietly along the bank in view of its owner, when the report of a gun broke the silence and the animal leaped into the air and fell dead.

The next moment Kendal pushed his way through the bushes and stood forth with his gun still smoking in his hands. He admitted having killed the dog and threatened to shoot again when the Walpoles seized him and put him under arrest. He submitted, however, when he saw the deputy sheriff's badge of the elder Walpole. He was taken before Justice Kelly, of Summit, and left his gun as security for his appearance for trial. The case was thrown out later by the Summit Justice because Walpole did not appear at the hour set for the trial. The plaintiff then commenced suit over again before Justice Clark, of Scotch Plains. After listening to the evidence yesterday the Justice awarded Walpole $25 damages for the loss of his dog. The defendant's attorney gave notice that the case will be appealed. Former Councilman Hetfield, of this city, was the attorney for the plaintiff.

DISORDERLY HOUSE RAIDED.

The Judge Sentenced Prisoners to Jail and to Pay a Fine.

Sergeant Kiely and Patrolman Higgins raided a "disorderly house," on West Fourth street, yesterday morning at 3 o'clock, and arrested the two occupants, Mary O'Sullivan and James Corrigan. Mistress Jane L. Tobin, who resided there, claimed to in ignorance of the trouble. The prisoners were arraigned yesterday afternoon. Corrigan was sent down for fifty-nine days and ordered to pay a fine of $50. Mary O'Sullivan was sentenced to go to jail for sixty days and pay a fine of $25.

The police raided another "disorderly house" this morning, and Roundsman Frederickson arrested the alleged proprietor, Frank Doughterstein. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced by the City Judge to a fine of $50 and thirty days in jail. The other occupant, Ella Wilcox, and two small children, were sent home to New York.

Eva Harrison, of Bound Brook, thirty-five years old, applied for a night's lodging at the station house last night. She was locked up. Her language there was so disorderly that the Judge sent her down to Elizabeth for thirty days.

PASTOR GIBSON SURPRISED.

Friends Came Unexpectedly, Had a Good Time and Gave Gifts.

A surprise was tendered to Rev. and Mrs. P. S. Gibson at their home, corner of Liberty and West Third streets, last evening by some of the members of the Mt. Olive Baptist church. It was arranged by Mrs. Flora Twine, Mrs. Martha Yetman and Mrs. Dollie Ward. The programme for the evening consisted of vocal and instrumental music. Some desirable presents were given, including $16.50 in cash. Pastor Gibson made a short address in which he thanked his friends and well wishers for their presents. Included among the guests were Miss Norah Carry, Miss Eliza Ford, Mr. and Mrs. M. Robinson, Miss Ida Boice, Miss Sarah Lewis, Miss S. Lewis, Mrs. Edna Johnson, Miss Mary Carry, William Burton and many others.

Band Gave a Concert.

The Plainfield Cornet Band gave a concert last evening at the fair being held by the Sons of Veterans in Washington Hall, and the attendance was fully as large as on the previous evening. There are many attractions and the members of the camp are much pleased with the patronage accorded them by their many friends. Additional attractions will be offered this evening and for the rest of the week.

First Alis Team in Hard Luck.

The first and second Alis teams met yesterday afternoon for an exciting game of football. The first team won by a score of 3 to 0. Captain Phillips, of the first team, injured his knee so that he will be confined to the house for a few days. Cuming misunderstood a signal and ran his nose into another players head which temporarily laid him off.

KILLED WHILE WORKING

LAWRENCE M'CANN'S LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY A GIANT PLANER.

It is Supposed That He Fell on the Ponderous Machine While in a Fit—His Remains Brought to Home in This City.

A sad accident occured at the C. & C. Company's factory at Garwood, at an early hour this morning, when Lawrence McCann, aged 24 years, of this city, met his death by being crushed in one of the company's giant planers.

McCann belonged to the night force, and went on duty as usual about 6 o'clock last night. He was placed in charge of one of the planers and continued at his post until about 3 o'clock this morning. McCann is subject to some nervous disorder, and twice during the night he was seized with a fit, and had to stop work for a time.

About 3 o'clock he sat upon the bed of the planer, watching it work, when he was seized again with a fit and fell into the pit of the machine, where he was caught by the shifting bed and badly crushed. None of the fellowworkmen saw the unfortunate man fall, and it was thought for several minutes by those nearby that he had left his post and gone to another part of the factory.

In a short time the foreman of the factory went to the planer and discovered McCann's body lying senseless in the pit of the machine. The planer was at once stopped, the injured man was lifted out, and a physician was summoned from Westfield. Before the physician arrived the injured man breathed his last, living less than half an hour after receiving his injuries. He did not at any time regain consciousness.

This morning at 11 o'clock the remains were brought to this city by Undertaker Casey and taken to the home of the dead man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCann, at 452 West Third street.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

BURGLARS AT BOUND BROOK.

P. O. Belding & Co's Store Ransacked and the Plunder Carried Off.

P. O. Belding & Co's men's furnishing store at Bound Brook was robbed by burglars Tuesday night. Entrance was gained by breaking a glass in the rear door. The loss will reach between $1 200 and $1,500.

The burglars, it is believed, are identified with those who have been operating in Somerville, Raritan, New Brunswick, Plainfield, and the surrounding country.

Every case in Belding & Co's store was emptied, as were most of the shoe boxes. From the show windows two pairs of shoes and a bicycle were taken.

Tracks in the rear of the store show that a wagon was backed up to one of the store windows. Into this vehicle the plunder was thrown and in it the intruders drove away.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew Elect.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew of Grace P. E. church held its annual meeting in the guild rooms of that church last evening. The officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: Director, G. M. Randall; vice-director, Sinclair Stuart; secretary, Berry Egan; treasurer, George Clay. Reports from the old officers were received telling of the work done in the last year.

Interest in Saturday's Races.

The trotting matches that have been arranged to take place at the Gentlemen's Driving Park next Saturday are attracting a great amount of interest, not only among local horsemen but also in all the surrounding towns. It is expected that a large crowd will be present to witness the events, which will be the most hotly contested in several years in local horse circles.

Justice Mosher's Court.

The case of Laungbaun against Jackson, for possession of premises, was tried in Justice Mosher's court this morning and judgment was rendered for the plaintiff. Summons were also issued in the case of Ettynger against Hamilton, for possession of premises, and Graves against Hodge, on contract. Both cases will be tried next Wednesday.

—The Christian Endeavorers of the First Baptist church and their friends, are invited to attend an impromptu social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H Batchelor, 826 West Seventh street, this evening at 8 o'clock.

—Colonial, Jr., oil heater, sold by Edward White, is just what you want these cool mornings.

—In a big store like Boehm's there is always odds and ends of bargains that prove attractive for customers. Boehm's new advertisement in tomorrow's Press will tell of some of these things and they will be worth reading about.

A MYSTERIOUS SUICIDE

Jessie Parsons Blew Out Her Brains in a New York Hotel.

HAD WEALTH AND BEAUTY

Found Dead in Her Room, and No One Knows Why She Sought Destruction—She Was Worried by Her Wealth.

New York, Nov. 4.—The body of Miss Jessie Parsons, who shot herself at the Hotel Manhattan on Monday night, was sent yesterday afternoon to Pound Ridge, N. Y. The mystery of the death of Miss Parsons deepens as her friends fail to find a sufficient motive for her suicide.

Try as they may those who knew her cannot understand why she, a young woman, handsome and rich, and seemingly with everything for which to live, should have put a bullet in her brain. And they are amazed at her cold, calculated farewell to the world.

The only things that suggest themselves as causes for her suicide are the responsibility of managing her estate of $120,000, her acknowledged fear that all was not well with the estate, and her chagrin at what she considered inability to amount to anything in the world. This last thought was born of a failure to prepare satisfactorily for an entrance to Barnard College.

Her half brother, William E. Parsons, Jr., of No. 581 Broadway, has intimated that remorse caused her suicide. In explanation he said that he and five other children of Dr. William E. Parsons by his first wife had contested their father's will when it left all to Jessie.

"She won the suit, however," Mr. Parsons said, "and I think she killed herself for remorse. She knew she hadn't done right in fighting for the money."

Miss Parsons' father, Dr. William E. Parsons, was a leading dentist of this city fifty years ago. He retired from business twenty-two years ago and died in April of this year at Pound Ridge, where he had lived in retirement.

Mrs. Parsons, Miss Jessie's mother, died five years ago, Dr. Parsons having married her, it is said, the day after his first wife died.

That Miss Parsons was a woman of business even to the last minute of her life was attested by the notes found on the table beside her dead body.

These calmly bade farewell to her two chief friends, Herbert Barrett, a young boy whose father, S. St. John Barrett, of 464 Eighth avenue, she had often visited, and Louis Werner, of Tarrytown, who had been Dr. Parsons' attorney.

She then went on to dispose of certain immediate sums. Checks for the amounts were found in Miss Parsons' satchel.

It was thought that Miss Parsons' estate was involved in some way from one sentence in the letter she left for Mr. Werner:

"I know I am a fool, but perhaps things will straighten out some time."

Then came the requests about the checks, one for $550 to meet the immediate necessities of Miss Louise Bullen, Miss Parsons' aunt, at Yonkers, and another of $56 to arrange for her burial.

And in the letter bidding good-bye to her life and her friends, Miss Parsons thought to explain that the $500 check closed her account with the Lincoln Bank.

When Miss Parsons' father died he made her sole executrix of his estate. She undertook at once the entire management of it, seeking advice but rarely of her father's attorney.

Once she told Mr. Werner that she did not feel mentally capable of managing the estate, but she seemed unwilling to intrust it to other hands.

It was some time after this that a new ambition seized her, and she determined to enter Barnard College.

When it came to passing the entrance examinations Miss Parsons found she was a failure. But nothing daunted, she engaged a tutor, and after a while she began to appreciate that the task was too great for her. Chagrin and disappointment weighed her down, and she gave up her studies in despair.

It may have been this despair at thwarted ambition that caused her suicide, and it may have been family troubles, as Mr. Werner has suggested.

The Barretts are as dumfounded as the others at Miss Parsons' death. They cannot assign a cause, and they say they knew her as a happy, light-hearted young woman, who appeared to be the last person in the world to commit suicide.

Pay Day for Election Bets.

New York, Nov. 4.—It was pay day for those who made bets on the election all over town yesterday. Owing to the general cancellation, because of the death of Henry George, of wagers made prior to his death, the money that changed hands represented, in the main, bets made on Saturday and Monday. The amount was not so large in the aggregate as at a number of previous elections, but, nevertheless, it represented a very considerable total. In the Wall street district the amount in stakeholders' hands was in excess of $200,000.

Subscriptions for Luetgert.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Adolph L. Luetgert received a visit at the County Jail yesterday from William Charles, his partner, who was constantly at his side during his first trial. Charles informed Luetgert that almost $1,000 had been subscribed by his sympathizers to aid in the defense. Since the conclusion of the recent trial Charles has been busy securing subscriptions from the friends of Luetgert and is meeting with considerable success.

Big Real Estate Deal.

New York, Nov. 4.—A real estate deal of considerable magnitude was consummated by ex-Senator William Reynolds, in Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, when he paid $1,250,000 to the West Brooklyn Improvement Company for thirty-two square blocks of city property for a Brooklyn syndicate. The tract extends from Fortieth street, West Brooklyn, to Sixty-fourth street, and from Eighteenth avenue to New Utrecht avenue, and contains 4,000 lots.

NEWS AT THE CAPITAL

Democrats at Washington Jubilant Over Tuesday's Elections.

THE IMMEDIATE RESULTS

Will Doubtless Have An Important Bearing Upon the Congressional Elections Next Year—Senators Whose Terms Expire in 1899.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Tuesday's elections will doubtless have an important bearing upon the Congressional elections next year. The two great parties are already forming their lines for that great political contest, which will be hardly secondary to a Presidential campaign. Democrats are jubilant over Tuesday's result, and are looking forward to the contest next year with anticipation.

From the elections Tuesday it is apparent that the Republicans cannot expect to make any substantial gains in the West, or South as long as those sections are devoted to the free-silver issue. On the other hand the Democrats expect to make great gains in Ohio, and this they will doubtless do, provided the State Legislature in that State proves to be Democratic, as the entire State will be re-districted Congressionally. The Democrats also expect gains in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, and other far Western States. In the South they look to Kentucky and Maryland to furnish substantial Democratic gains, and they hope to divide the New York and New Jersey delegations in the next Congress. They also look for gains in the Congressional elections next year from New England, and point to the results in Massachusetts and Rhode Island as basis for their hopes.

Republicans declare to-day that the Democratic hopes of gains next year will prove elusive. The issues this year, they say, were mostly local, while next year the campaign will be fought upon the platforms of 1896.

The immediate results of Tuesday's elections will be the election of United States Senators to succeed Senators Daniel, in Virginia; Mark Hanna, in Ohio, and Gorman, in Maryland. The former gentleman will doubtless succeed himself, as the Virginia Legislature, according to indications, will be almost unanimously Democratic. The fate of both Hanna and Gorman was still in the balance up to a late hour yesterday afternoon, and the indications were that the Legislatures in both States would be very close.

The complexion of the United States Senate after March 4, 1899, may hinge on these two States.

In 1889 the terms of the following Senators expire:

Republicans—Aldrich, Rhode Island; Burrows, Michigan; Davis, Minnesota; Hale, Maine; Hanna, Ohio; Hawley, Connecticut; Lodge, Massachusetts; Proctor, Vermont; Quay, Pennsylvania, and Wilson, Washington. Total, 10.

Democrats—Bate, Tennessee; Cockrell, Missouri; Daniel, Virginia; Faulkner, West Virginia; George, Mississippi; Gorman, Maryland; Gray, Delaware; Mills, Texas; Mitchell, Wisconsin; Murphy, New York; Pasco, Florida; Roach, North Dakota; Smith, New Jersey; Turpie, Indiana, and White, California. Total, 15.

Silverites—Allen, Nebraska; Cannon, Utah; Clark, Wyoming; Mantle, Montana, and Stewart, Nevada. Total, 5.

Silver Senators will doubtless be chosen to all the seats now held by members of that party, with the possible exception of Nebraska, and in that State, from the returns yesterday, it is apparent the Republicans have but little hope of success.

Republican Senators will be chosen from Rhode Island, Michigan, Minnesota, Maine, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont and Pennsylvania, and they will also probably succeed in electing a Senator to the seat now held by Senator Mitchell, of Wisconsin.

Democratic Senators will be chosen from Tennessee, Virginia, Missouri, Mississippi, Texas and Florida.

This will leave as doubtful the States of West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Ohio, New York, New Jersey, North Dakota, Indiana and California, which States will decide the future political control of the United States Senate.

The seats from all of these States, with the exception of Ohio, are now held by Democrats.

A Tumor Formed

Finally It Broke Inwardly and Discharged

Trouble Began With Dyspepsia and Impure Blood

Thorough Course of Hood's Sarsaparilla Completely Cures.

There is danger in impure blood. Disease and suffering are surely coming to those who neglect this threatening symptom. Read this:

"Gilliam, Missouri.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—My troubles began with nervous headaches, which would last me for two or three days. The doctors pronounced my trouble dyspepsia, but they could not do anything for me, and advised a change of location. At the age of 55 a tumor formed on my spine, which but did not rise or discharge. The doctor thought best to cut it out, but I objected. It finally broke and discharged a great deal. The doctors said they could do nothing for it. Then the tumor began to rise inwardly and discharge. I read much about cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla and thought I would try it. Before I had finished taking one bottle I was much relieved. I continued the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking 12 bottles I was entirely cured. I am now well, have a good appetite and feel that I owe my life to Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. D. FORE.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whoop Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guarranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

—Next Sunday will be communion Sunday at the Congregational church.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Arthur Boone, of Brooklyn, spent Tuesday in Plainfield with relatives

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Dr. T. S. Davis and family, of Park avenue, have returned from a pleasant stay at Atlantic City.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to billious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

Charles Dodd has returned to Kingston, N. Y., after spending the election holidays in this city with his family.

Mr. N. N. Osburn, well-known at Woodstock, Mich., was troubled with a lame back. He was persuaded to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It gave him relief in one night. This remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

74 Years.
That is the time the CHICKERING Piano has been before the public. Every year of this long period has added to the prestige of the makers. Every year has seen some improvement in the instrument, for the key-note of Chickering & Sons is "progress."
The makers of the CHICKERING Piano have always led the way in Piano construction. To-day the CHICKERING is, if anything, a finer instrument than ever, and stands before the world without an equal for quality of tone and excellence of construction.
If you would test this world-famous Piano, you can do so here.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Fair Tonight; Increasing Cloudiness Friday; Warmer.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 60 Degrees.

At the annual meeting of the New Jersey State Library Association, held last week at Rutgers College, there was an attendance of thirty. The next day the Massachusetts Association held its annual meeting, when there was an attendance of 215. This shows that Jersey has much to accomplish in the way of public library agitation.

The total vote cast in Plainfield at Tuesday's election was 2,302, instead of 1,954 as stated in yesterday's Press.

BOYS TRAVELED IN THEIR MINDS.

Ernest R. Ackerman Told of His Trip Around the World.

The members of the Boys Club and their friends were treated to a very interesting lecture on "A Tour Around the World" by Ernest R. Ackerman, last evening. The lecture, which was given in the clubhouse on Sycamore street, was illustrated with some very handsome stereopticon views, showing the principal objects of interest in the countries through which Mr. Ackerman took his listeners. The lecture was an interesting one and Mr. Ackerman proved a very pleasant speaker, while his descriptions were vivid and well given. The boys of the club were much interested and showed their appreciation by their excellent attention and the hearty applause which was given to the lecturer.

John Naegle handled the stereopticon very satisfactorily and added in that manner to the success of the lecture.

A Talented Woman to Talk.

Tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. J. S. Cutter on West Front street, opposite the First Baptist church, the members of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church and their friends, will meet and listen to an address by Mrs. Horton, of Cranford. Mrs. Horton has appeared before the above society and her talks on missions have always been delightful. Those who have heard her will be pleased to have another opportunity, and those who have not had the pleasure will miss a great treat if they do not attend. No admission fee will be charged.

DEMOCRATIC GAIN OF 23

POLITICAL COMPLEXION OF LEGISLATURE CONSIDERABLY CHANGED.

The Republicans Are Still in the Majority, But Not by Such Numbers as a Year Ago—Names of the Members.

New Jersey elected six State Senators and a complete Assembly of 60 members. Of the 15 members of the Senate holding over, 13 are Republicans and 2 Democrats, and the 6 elected Tuesday include 1 Republican and 5 Democrats, making the complexion of the Senate for the next session Republicans 14, Democrats, 7. Last year it stood 18 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

The new Assembly consists of 37 Republicans and 23 Democrats, as against 56 Republicans and 4 Democrats elected last year. On joint ballot the two houses will stand, 51 Republicans and 30 Democrats, a Democratic gain of 23 over last year. Following are the names of the members of both houses elected Tuesday:

VANCLEEF BY 600 MAJORITY.

Middlesex County Turns From a McKinley Majority of 3,000.

The result in Middlesex was a surprise to even the most sanguine Democratic shouter. The 3,000 majority which the county gave to McKinley last fall was transformed into a majority of 600 for the entire Democratic ticket. The highest vote was polled by Leonard Furnan, for Surrogate, who beat his opponent, South Farrington, by 712.

VanCleef, Democrat, for Senator, was elected to succeed Herbert, Republican, by 600 majority. This was in the face of the fact that every effort of the Republican campaign managers in Middlesex was put forth in behalf of Pownall, their candidate for Senator.

The three Democratic Assemblymen from Middlesex are Adam Eckert, Joseph Ridgeway and John J. Quaid.

Factory Workers are Readers.

The board of directors of the Public Library held a meeting on Tuesday evening, and listened to reports from the various committee, showing that considerable success had been encountered in the effort to introduce books into the manufacturing establishments of the city, and that the Johnston collection of coins in the possession of the library was being classified and arranged for exhibition. A resolution was passed thanking the children of the late John Taylor Johnston for their gift of the collection.

—The drivers of the Plainfield Fire Department will hold a dance in Washington Hall, Thursday evening, December 2d, and their many friends will have a chance of showing their appreciation by helping the boys out.

NOTICE!

Is hereby given that the Common Council have fixed the eighteenth day of November, A. D. 1897, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., as the time and place for Aaron D. Thompson, William A. Pinto and Alonzo T. Ayres, the commissioners appointed by the Common Council pursuant to the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to widen Westervelt avenue from the northwesterly side line of East Front street to a point 108.66 feet southeast of Orange place," approved July 12th, 1897, and the resolution of the Common Council in the premises adopted November 1st, A. D. 1897, to meet and enter upon the discharge of their duties and make their estimates and assessments under said ordinance and said resolutions and the statues in such case made and provided. The street to be widened to extend from the northwesterly side line of East Front street to a point 108.66 feet southeast of Orange place, the center line of which street, as well as the width thereof being particularly described in said ordinance and shown on map, referred to and on file in the office of the City Clerk, entitled "Assessment map for the widening of Westervelt avenue, from East Front street to a point 108.66 feet southeast of Orange place, March, 1897."

The lands, real estate and appurtenances intended to be taken for such purpose are all that come between central line and a line twenty-five feet southwesterly and parallel therewith between the northwesterly side line of East Front street as now laid out and opened, and a point 108.66 feet southeast of Orange place, as shown on said map and said ordinance to which reference is hereby made for more detailed description. By order of the Common Council.

consisting of suits, overcoats and trousers, now being sold at 33c on the dollar. A great purchase and a great sale of the entire stock of a very widely known clothing manufacturer. Cash is King, and the money on the table enables us to sell this extraordinary purchase at less than 33c on the dollar. This sale would prove the greatest sensation of the day if maker's name could be published, but owing to the fact that nearly every retailer of prominence has a stock on hand from these manufacturers, the latter to protect the former, stipulated that their name must not appear in advertisements. The name, however, appears on every garment, which is an absolute guarantee of perfect satisfaction.

AN AWAKENING RESULT.

Seems to be No Decrease in Interest at Revival Meetings.

There seems to be no decrease in the attendance and interest in the revival meetings now being held at Grace M. E. church. Last evening the church was filled with members and friends, and the awakening discourse delivered by the pastor, Rev. H. J. Johnston, was a spiritual blessing to all. Mr. Johnston spoke from the text "Prepare Ye the Way of the Lord." It was a sermon full of practical thoughts and help, and the earnest manner in which it was brought home to each one present was a means of still further reviving the interests of this church. There was apparently among those present a deep desire to see souls converted, and the earnest endeavors of the workers were not fruitless, for many signified a willingness to lead better lives. After the discourse a season of prayer and testimony was held and many fervent petitions and words from the heart were offered by those present.

The meetings will be continued the rest of the week, and tomorrow evening the Drew Quartette will be present and remain until next Monday night. A deep spiritual reviving is expected on the part of those who have charge of these meetings and a great ingathering of souls is looked for.

—At the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Church of Christ tomorrow evening some important matters will be considered.

FRANK ROWLEY, DRUGGIST, 45 SOMERSET ST. TEL. 213 A.

THEATRICAL.

William Jerome's Herald Square Comedians will present at Music Hall this evening the funny comedy, "A Jay in New York," and it is without doubt the funniest show on the road this season. It fairly teems with bright dialogue and catchy music, and it is enacted by a company of unusual merit throughout. The play deals with the unfortunate complications of Jay Smith during his first visit to the metropolis. Mr. Blondell, who plays the "Jay," is conceded one of the cleverest Yankee comedians, and the press have gone so far as to compare him to Denham Thompson. Miss Maude Nugent, the author of "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," plays the part of "Daisy," and plays it with all the known chic and vivacity.

An astute dramatic author appreciates the value of bright comedy and no matter how serious his story, or how abstract the problem he has to treat, he interweaves into his play enough of the element that creates laughter, to make his drama entertaining. Frank Harvey has always been noted for his cleverness in intermingling strong melodramatic situations, heart interest, tears and pathos, and bright, bubbling comedy of the most humorous and hilarious kind. In his new play "Brother for Brother," which Martin J. Dixon produces this year, every pathetic situation is shaded by a feature of comedy, which fact has made the piece one most strongly appreciated by all classes of people. The dialogue is bright and crisp and the situations strong and stirring. At Music Hall Saturday matinee and night.

A Very Dramatic Forest Fire in "Cumberland '61."

Particularly adroit stage management is invoked in one episode of "Cumberland '61," at the Fourteenth Street Theatre New York city. The spectators see a conflagration roaring in a rocky gorge, feeding upon the dry pines, and eventually licking up a rude bridge. The gray of moonlight softens all but the bridge and its approaches and makes indistinct for a moment the face of the old mountaineer, who, rifle in hand, awaits his enemy. So close is his watch, and so intense his mood for killing, that his rifle is cocked and levelled at a friend before the latter can declare himself. The vengeful man gives orders that his foe be hunted through the forest like a wolf, and be driven toward the bridge. Then the old man stands, silent and alert, like a hunter at a runway. On the hero's approach the rifle is levelled again, but shooting an unarmed man, is not, after all, to the mountaineer's notion, and he casts aside his weapon. The two men grapple. In their parley the glow of the fire is seen from the chasm beyond, and while they wrestle it increases and approaches until its smoke and glow envelop them. At the moment that the younger man felis his opponent and reaches the other end of the bridge, the heroine—the sweetheart of the one and the daughter of the other—begs that the old man be saved. So, amid an excellent counterfeit of consuming flames, the hero drags his antagonist off the doomed structure. Then the curtain falls, and successive liftings of it disclose the structure in progressive stages of consumption. The whole play abounds in such dramatic episodes.

McKINLEY IN PITTSBURG.

Second Celebration of the Erection of the Carnegie Library.

Pittsburg, Nov. 4.—President McKinley spent a busy day here. From the time he arrived yesterday morning events crowded thick upon him. They were a parade, during which he was cheered by thousands; a luncheon, a meeting at which he listened to speeches and made one himself, a dinner and a concert. All this formed the second celebration of Founder's Day, to commemorate the erection of the Carnegie library, art gallery and museum. A Presidential salute of twenty-one guns announced the arrival at the Union Station of the President's special train from Canton.

Twenty thousand people packed about the station cheered the President as he got into the waiting carriage. Escorted by mounted policemen, the Fourteenth and Eighteenth regiments of the State militia, the Naval Reserve Battalion, and a battery of artillery, the carriage containing the President was driven along Liberty street and up Fifth avenue. Other carriages contained Gov. Hastings, Mayor Ford, Senator Burrows of Michigan, and others. The route of march was decorated with flags and bunting and packed with people, who cheered the President enthusiastically along the five-mile line of parade.

The troops did not go all the way, and the President reviewed them as they countermarched back to town. At this place the President laughed heartily as a hay dealer stepped to the door of his store holding a sheaf of wheat placarded with the words:

"These are McKinley times and here's the dollar wheat."

The President was then driven to the house of the chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Library and luncheon was served. Mrs. McKinley had been driven from the railroad station to the house of Robert Pitcairn, where she was met by 200 ladies. The Carnegie Music Hall was crowded, and the President was enthusiastically received as he stepped on the stage. Congressman John Dalzell made the address of welcome. Col. Samuel Hardon Church, author of the "Life of Oliver Cromwell," read the report of the trustees.

The President made an address, after which the party adjourned to the Art Gallery, where a levee was held. It is estimated that the President shook hands with 6,000 persons. After the invited guests, numbering 2,000, had seen the President, W. N. Frew, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, suggested that the President might be tired and that the doors be closed.

"Is there anybody else who wants to see me?" said Major McKinley.

"About three thousand," was the reply.

"Then don't think of closing the doors. Let everybody come in."

After the public reception Major McKinley took dinner at the house of one of the trustees and then returned to the hall to attend the concert.

The audience at the concert was even larger than that of the afternoon. The President was cheered as he entered the hall, cheered when he went out, and, although it was nearly midnight when his train left Shady Side station, an enormous crowd cheered when he left for Washington.

MYER'S MURDER TRIAL.

Policeman Smith's Slayer Identified by His Daughter.

New York, Nov. 4.—Justice is setting a rapid pace in Fritz Meyer's race to death. Though it has been but seven days since he so inhumanly murdered Fred Smith, a brave policeman, in the discharge of his duty, a doom already stares him in the face which may be chronicled in the records of the New York criminal courts as the quickest case of retribution ever meted out to a murderer in this city.

Only four court days have so far been occupied in bringing Meyer nearer his deserts, and it is promised that when another week has passed he will have been sentenced to expiate his crime in the electric chair.

The work of securing a jury to try the murderer was continued yesterday before Judge Fursman in the Criminal branch of the Supreme Court.

Meyer has grown exceedingly nervous since his arraignment Monday. His lips twitch continually, and whenever the Judge speaks the murderer gazes at him with apparent dread of his certain fate.

Police Capt. Lees, of Brooklyn, appeared in the court-room yesterday with Louisa Steiger, the 20-year-old daughter of the prisoner. She identified her father, and was then taken from the room.

Frederick Ochs, a wealthy Brooklyn brewer, was also in court and identified Meyer as the man who, a few weeks since, attempted to lure him to a house on the outskirts of the city where a daring plan had been made to rob him of his money, and if necessary murder him and hide his body in a cellar in a deserted cottage reached only by a trap door.

FARMER ROBBED OF $500.

Burglars Enter His House and Steal Money He Had Received.

Binghamton, Nov. 4.—Burglars entered the farmhouse of Frank Lanehart, near Maine village, early yesterday morning and stole $500 in cash. Mr. Lanehart sold his farm Monday and received $500 on the purchase price. As the bank here closed he took the money home and secreted it under his pillow. At about 2 o'clock yesterday morning he was awakened and saw two men in the room. He jumped up and grappled with one of them. The other struck him with a club and knocked him down. Then the burglars escaped in the darkness. The bag which contained the money was found in the yard with a five-dollar gold piece in it. Mr. Lanehart thinks that the burglars followed him to his home from this city, knowing that he had money.

She Aided a Murderer.

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—Lizzie Dekalba, who is wanted for complicity in the murder of Mrs. Kaiser, in Norristown, Pa., last Winter, was arrested at Bristol yesterday.

The sensational story of highway robbery that Kaiser gave of the affair was proved false at his trial, and Kaiser is now waiting to be hanged.

Lizzie Dekalba and a man named Clemmer, who is still at large, were Kaiser's accomplices, the crime having been committed for insurance.

The Tables Turned.

We have almost solved the servant girl problem.

Instead of the maid being mistress, we have made it possible for the mistress herself to be mistress.

The tables are turned, and we have turned them.

We have accomplished it to the mutual satisfaction of everybody. The plan is so simple that the wonder is nobody ever thought of it before.

Cheap but good laundering of general house linen enables every housekeeper to have the washing done out of the house. For instance,

Counterpanes 10c each.
Table Cloth 5c "
Towel, Napkins 1c "

What does our proposition mean? It means no more washday odor about the house. It means satisfied servants, because a maid will not be insolent if she can escape washdays and the delay of other work caused by bad drying days. Our booklet "Tables Turned" tells all about our new plan. You can have it for the asking.

evidently, and the business should be done by all means. Buildings require paint. Of course a house may be left unpainted and let to become weatherbeaten and a wreck. That doesn't pay, though; it's much cheaper to paint, and our paints in all colors are the best in the market for durability under the most trying conditions. They are well adapted to our exposure and we sell everything in the line of paints and painters' supplies at short prices.

CORPORATION NOTICE.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS

SECOND NOTICE.

The subscriber, the Collector of Taxes of the City of Plainfield, hereby gives notice, pursuant to Section 25 of the Act of the Legislature entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this state," approved April 7, 1890, and the amendments thereof and supplements thereto, that unless the assessments hereinafter specified, with interest thereon at the rate of one per centum per month, and all costs and fees, shall be paid to the subscriber at his office, No. 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J., within thirty days after the first publication of this (being the second) notice, the subscriber will on Friday, the third day of December, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, at his said office, No. 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J., between the hours of one and five o'clock in the afternoon, that is to say at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, proceed to make sale of and sell at public auction the several parcels of land and real estate upon which the said assessment shall remain due and unpaid, being those hereinafter paticularly described, for the lowest term of years, but in no case exceeding fifty years, for which any person will take the same and pay the amount of such assessment, with the interest thereon as aforesaid, and all costs and fees, including the expense of advertisement and sale.

The assessments above referred to are the assessments made by the Commissioners of Assessments of the City of Plainfield heretofore appointed under the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessments under Chapter CXLI, P. L. 1895," approved April 25th, 1896, containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses, as the case may be, for the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances (including house connections), under and by virtue of the Act of the Legislature entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and ordinances of said city entitled "An ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25th, 1894; and a further ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage, approved June 21st, 1895, and the ordinance hereinabove first mentioned and other proceedings of the Common Council had under said acts of the Legislature, said assessment and the report of said commissioners covering the whole of said system of sewerage already completed, that is to say: the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances (including house connections) in streets and parts of streets mentioned in said report, and the construction of sewerage disposal beds and appurtenances, which said report and assessment were ratified and confirmed by the Common Council of said City on the twenty-eight day of December, A. D. 1896, and a brief abstract of said assessments showing the name of the owner or owners, when known, a brief description of said lands and real estate, and the amount of unpaid assessments due thereon, is as follows, (the maps referred to in said descriptions being that certain set of maps numbered from 1 to 24, both inclusive, and from 101 to 123, both inclusive, each map being marked "Sewer Construction Assessment Map, dated Dec. 7, 1896," and filed in the office of the Collector of Taxes December 7, 1896, and referred to by said Commissioners of Assessments in their said report and assessment.)

good qualities are easily determined from the poor. The solid chunks that are free from slate is the coal that brings the biggest prices. Crumbling coal is the kind that makes the dust and it's the kind you get when you are not careful where you buy. We sell the honest, solid coal for the price you've paid for the other sort,

Noticed This Before.

You Probably Have and May Have Spoken About it Before.

The reader of this newspaper, if he takes the time and trouble to look carefully through its columns, will probably find half a dozen statements attached to the foot of reading notices about medicinal preparations. Note this fact. In each and every case, as far as Plainfield is concerned, as far as the reader's knowledge of the party is concerned, he might just as well live in the moon. Make another note of this. The only remedy on the market which gives testimony at home, local proof in every city and town in the Union to back up its claims, is Doan's Kidney Pills. They all try it but they cannot do it. Why they are unable to do it can safely be left with the reader to draw his own conclusions. Here is Plainfield proof for Plainfield readers:

Mr. Charles Giese, cigar manufacturer, of 25 Elm place, says: "I have been subject to attacks of kidney complaint for the last two or three years. Most of the pain was in my back and hips, and I could not stoop or straighten up without feeling sharp and shooting twitches. When I sat for any length of time I grew stiff and sore, and was compelled to get up and move about. Last spring I grew so bad I had to do something for it. I had read a great deal about Doan's Kindney Pills being such a good medicine for kidney troubles, so I got a box of them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I used them according to directions, and after two or three days I felt better. I continued their use until the pain disappeared and I am only too glad to testify to the fact that Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY

To Charles B. Barber, Mrs. Charles B. Barber Frank W. Tyler and Mrs. Frank W. Tyler.

By virtue of an order of the court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Edward Smith is complainant and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainants, on or before the first day of December next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Frank H. Odiorne and wife to Edward Smith, dated September 20, 1894, and you, the said Charles B. Barber and Frank W. Tyler are made defendants because you hold encumbrances on said lands or some estate therein, and you the said Mrs. Charles B. Barber and Mrs. Frank W. Tyler are made parties because you are the wives of said Charles B. Barber and Frank W. Tyler respectively, and may claim some interest in the premises by virtue thereof.

OFF FOR THE KLONDIKE.

Pilot Boat Negus Leaves New Haven with Eight Gold Seekers.

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 4.—The pilot boat Thomas S. Negus, having on board Capt. Joseph McClure and eight companions bound for the Klondike, sailed out of New Haven harbor yesterday with the encouraging cheers of a crowd of friends. A farewell session was held in the cabin of the vessel just before she sailed away, in which the wives and children of the voyagers took part.

Capt. McClure says he will try and make the trip in 118 days from this port to San Francisco. If he succeeds in accomplishing this he will have broken the record by about fourteen days. The Negus is a very fast boat and is staunchly built. A year ago she beat a large fleet of pilot boats in races sailed off Cape May and won a one-thousand-dollar prize.

The vessel went out to sea by way of Montauk Point, on the eastern end of Long Island. She will not make any stope until Montevideo is reached, and there her supply of provisions will be replenished. The expedition will be landed at Cooper River, and the rest of the journey to the Klondike region will be made overland.

THE THREE FRIENDS.

She Is at Havana, and the Spaniards Are Aching to Destroy Her.

Havana, via Key West, Nov. 4.—There is great excitement among the Spaniards in Havana, who desire to attack and destroy the tug Three Friends, known as a filibustering vessel and which is now in this port. Gen. Blanco is said to have taken strict measures to prevent disorders.

The Three Friends came to Havana towing a schooner loaded with meat. Her business in Cuban waters is perfectly legitimate.

Another important battle has been fought near the Pan of Matanzas, in which the insurgents under Gen. Betancourt scattered a Spanish column under Gen. Molina. The Spanish lost over one hundred men.

La Guasima, a town within sight of Havana, has been attacked and plundered by the insurgents.

CUBAN HORRORS.

Confirmation from Madrid of the Reports of Starvation.

Madrid, Nov. 4.—A dispatch to the Imparcial from Havana says that lack of food and sanitation is causing great mortality in western Cuba. During the month of October there were 850 deaths in Matanzas, and there was an average of thirty deaths daily in the three towns of Santo Domingo, Villas and Banes, the united population of which is only 5,000.

The dispatch adds that the insurgents are also ravaged by malaria and smallpox, but they have an abundance of food. There are a thousand well-equipped insurgents in the province of Pinar del Rio.

Another Expedition.

Key West, Fla., Nov. 4.—The tug Dauntless has just arrived here from Cuba, where she landed a large expedition.

Gen. Castillo, in charge of the expedition which was sent out by the Junta, left it safely near Santa Cruz, Puerto Principe. The expedition was commanded by Arturo Casado, brother of a prominent Spanish resident of Havana. It carried over 2,000 rifles and a large amout of ammunition. Gen. Castillo has returned on the Dauntless.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Sutphen brothers showed themselves a great family at bowling last evening, when they defeated a five-men team from Westfield on the Ulrich bowling alleys. Three games were rolled and the Sutphens were victorious in all of them. The second game was sufficiently close to be exciting, but in the others the five brothers showed they outclassed their opponents. The scores were as follows:

Sutphen Bros.		Westfield.
First Game.
Carmon	170	Foster	84
Bert	129	Bogart	137
Julian	144	DuBois	107
Maurice	125	Embelton	117
Clarence	139	Manning	130
	707		575
Second Game.
Carmon	135	Foster	93
Bert	128	Bogart	92
Julian	150	DuBois	147
Maurice	121	Embelton	118
Clarence	128	Manning	134
	662		585
Third Game.
Carmon	126	Peck	100
Bert	147	Foster	101
Julian	146	DuBois	131
Maurice	144	Embelton	87
Clarence	170	Manning	166
	733		585

The Park Club is preparing for a busy season on its bowling alleys. Monthly trophies have been offered for high scores and a handicap tournament is about to begin. As usual the Park Club will be represented in the Central Bowling League by a strong team.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS IN 1898

Treasury Officials Think They Will Be Sufficient for Expenses.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The receipts of the Treasury from customs for the first three days in November, notwithstanding one of them was a legal holiday in New York, show for the first time since the new tariff law went into effect an increase over the receipts for the corresponding period of last year from the same source. Assistant Secretary Howell, who has charge of customs matters, is particularly well pleased over the outlook, and asserted to-day that by the first of the year the Government would be in receipt of sufficient funds, owing to the increase of customs collections, to meet current indebtedness.

"In other words," he said, "the Dingley bill will prove to be a revenue producer to such an extent that, with its other resources, the Government will no longer be facing a daily addition to the existing deficit. The debt statement for October," he continued, "shows a net deficit in the fiscal operations of the month of $8,441,878. Importations of sugar and wool alone, under normal conditions, will bring into the Treasury a sufficient sum to overbalance that deficit, leaving the collections from all other articles to be applied to the reduction of the deficit accumulated since the first of the year."

Figures furnished by the Bureau of Statistics, to which Mr. Howell referred, show that during the first six months of this calendar year the sugar refiners rushed into the country an enormous amount of sugar, the monthly importation increasing from 308,000,000 pounds in January to 773,000,000 in April, and the importations for May and June fell but little short of the April figures. Since then the importations have averaged less than 140,000,000 pounds a month. The stock on hand, it is calculated, will have to be augmented by the beginning of 1898, as will also that of wool, which was piled up in the same way to take advantage of the Wilson-Gorman law.

FAST HORSES THEY ARE.

GREAT INTEREST IN THE TROTTING MATCHES TOMORROW.

The Principal Event Will Be the Race Between "Margin" and "Leota C."—Experienced Drivers for Each One.

The match race which is to take place tomorrow afternoon at the Driving Park, weather permitting, for $250 a side, between R. A. Fairbairn's fast mare, "Margin," 2:17¼, and the grey mare, "Leota C.," with a mark in the twenties, owned by Mr. Case, of Three Bridges, will probably be a very interesting and hotly-contested one from start to finish. Both horses are known to be very fast and good actors on a half-mile track, and horsemen in general are about evenly divided in their opinions as to the outcome of the event.

"Margin" has recently been purchased by Mr. Fairbairn and has been successfully campaigned the past season in the stable of Mr. Allen, who gave her early work over the Dwyers' track at Elizabeth, and started her in several races, winning the most of them, and giving her a mark of 2:17¼ in the fifth heat of her last race at Fleetwood, in which she won a portion of the money. Horsemen who saw it say that if the association had had competent judges in the stand Mr. Fairbairn should have been allotted a better position in the summary if not the race. She has not only proved that she is fast, but a game and consistent racehorse, and, with Allen, who has driven her in all her races, in the sulkey, she will have every advantage possible to help her win the coming event.

But horsemen of this vicinity are well aware that the grey mare, "Leota C.," from Three Bridges, is also very fast, and that Mr. Case, the owner, is not in the habit of racing horses for his health, and that she has gone quite a number of creditable races in the hands of the well-known trainer, Ellwood Smith, of Wilkesbarre, Pa. Although she is sometimes a little erratic in company, a horseman from up the State says she is especially adapted for match races, and that he has seen her on nearly even terms with a horse at the wire in 2:17 flat on a half-mile track, and that she will have any number of friends and supporters for the coming event. She will probably be driven by her old trainer, Elwood Smith, or Billy Covill, who handled the Belle Mead Farm stable last season, and has recently opened a training stable at Three Bridges.

With two such horses as these and such well-known and experienced drivers in the sulkey, it will be a race for blood and worth going miles to see. There will also be two or three other good races on the programme. The admission will be twenty five cents and the members of the Driving Park Association hope that the horse-loving public of Plainfield and the surrounding towns will turn out in force to help make the afternoon's sport as much of a success as possible.

The Plainfield Cornet Band will be in attendance at the grounds and furnish music before the contests begin, as well as between the various heats.

The grounds will be properly policed and everything run in a most respectable manner. No intoxicants will be sold on the grounds.

It is expected that at least 1,500 people will be present.

To Sue a Constable's Bondsmen.

The failure of Constable George R. Rockafellow to return an execution within the thirty days allowed by law, has involved his bondsmen, Henry Liefke and George Cole, in serious trouble. Comstock & Co., a New York firm obtained judgment, recently, against parties in this city, and the execution was placed in Rockafellow's hands. The thirty days elapsed, and according to the statement of Comstock & Co., the Constable failed to return the execution. Yesterday Comstock & Co., through their attorneys, Pope & Runyon, filed an affadavit with the city clerk to procure a copy of Rockafellow's bond. When this is procured they will at once commence a suit for damages against the bondsmen.

Arranging for an Entertainment.

A meeting of Senate Lodge, Knights of Honor, was held last evening, and W. D. Williams, James Phillips and John VanMiddlesworth were appointed a committee to arrange for an entertainment to be given soon. One application for membership was received.

—Crane & Clark, the hatters, 120 West Front street, have secured a large assortment of $2 and $2.50 sample hats, which they put on sale Saturday, Nov. 6th, at $1 50.

LIVING PLAYING CARDS.

PARTICIPANTS IN THE SPECTACULAR DANCES OF THE SPIELKARTENFEST.

Young People Will Wear Costumes Representing Aces, Kings, Queens and Jacks—Names of Those Who Will Take Part.

On Monday night fifty-two young people of this city will lose their identity for the time being, and will become aces, kings, queens, jacks and all the other cards of the pack. For the evening they will be transformed into living cards, and four of Plainfield's most expert whist players will direct their movements from their respective corners of the stage. It will be the Spielkartenfest, that monster benefit which is being arranged by the board of directors of the Muhlenberg Hospital to aid that worthy charity.

Everybody knows that on Monday night the Spielkartenfest will begin at the Crescent Rink amid the flash of the calcium light, the blare of the trumpet and the intermingling of color of the beautiful gowns on the stage and off, and which will continue during the week. Everybody who has read The Press knows how the wonderful game of "living whist" is to be conducted and the plot of the attractive mirror dance that is to precede it. They know the other dances as well. The entire programme for the opening evening is still a mystery, however, and so are the names of the participants in the dances to all except the dancers themselves.

After several changes, the programme for the opening night has been selected and given to the printer. It will include everything and will be the only night when all the dances will be given. The order is as follows:

Mirror Dance or Dance of the Tooubadors.
- a. The Serenade.
- b. The Rehearsal.
- c. The Surprise.
- d. The Dance of the Peasants.

Grand Tableau and Procession.
Dance of the Court Cards.
Danza Cubana.
Tambourine Dance.
Dance of the Aces.
Dance of the Pages.
Dance of the Red Cards.
Chrysanthemum Dance.
Dance of the Black Cards.
The Hornpipe.
The Game of Living Whist.
- a. Shuffle and Deal.
- b. The Game.
- c. The Triumphal March.

After the first night two different dances will be omitted each evening. The game of whist will go on every night, however.

The plot of the mirror dance, if such it might be called, has already been described. The charming peasant maid, who hears the serenade from her window, is Miss Florence Williams. Her serenaders are Fred. H Freeman and Curtis Beard. Then the village maiden, assisted by a friend, Miss Ella Murray, rehearses a dance before a false mirror in which the two appear exactly the opposite as in a real mirror. Then comes the arrival of the serenaders, and all four join in a dance. Finally the peasants arrive, and all unite in the bright and dashing dance that has already found so much favor with those who have seen it. Besides those already mentioned, the participants in this are Miss Daisy Elsberg, Miss Eleanor T. VanDeventer, Miss Bertha Hall, Miss Mary Hull, Miss Eastman, Miss Elsie Jobs, Miss Ethel Green, Miss Laura Long, Miss Florence Serrell, Miss Ethel Holmes, Allen B. Laing, Aubrey Hull, John Hull, Albert O. Woltmann, William Hobbie, Godwin Beard, Meredith Dryden, Benjamin O. Bowers, Jr., Volney F. Green and Allan Taylor.

There is no doubt but that the mirror dance will find universal favor, but the great interest will be centered in the game of "living whist," about which so much has already been said and heard. The players are the well-known four of the Park Club, Messrs. McCutchen, Townsend, Howell and Rogers. The Joker, who is to shuffle and deal the cards, is Laurens H. VanBuren. Then the cards themselves, the court cards, are as follows:

Aces—Hearts, Miss Katherine Reinhart; diamonds, Miss Caroline Randolph; clubs, Miss Florence Abbott, spades, Miss Annie Murphy. Queens—Hearts, Miss Carrie Vail; diamonds, Mrs. Augustus Kleineke; clubs, Mrs. L. W. Serrell, Jr.; spades, Mrs. Stuart Patterson. Kings—Hearts, Harry Patton; diamonds, Augustus Kleineke; clubs, Edgar I. Serrell; spades, Fred W. Stack. Ten Spots—Hearts, Miss Alice Coard; diamonds, Miss VanZandt; clubs, Miss Lillie Wickersham; spades, Miss Viola Conklin. Jacks—Hearts, Harry Johnson; diamonds, R. J. Richardson; clubs, Robert M. Clark; spades, Harry Williams.

The small black cards are as follows: Clubs—Nine, Irving West; eight, Mrs. E. M. Van Buren; seven, Fred Huntington; six, Miss Isabel Schroder; five, Frank Frost; four, Miss Florence Huntington; three, J. H. A. Day; two,

ANOTHER DISASTROUS WRECK ON THE LEHIGH.

AN ENGINEER KILLED AND SEVERAL TRAINMEN QUITE SERIOUSLY INJURED.

East-Bound Coal Train Crashed Into a Detached Truck That Had Been Left in Front of the Bound Brook Station By a West-Bound Train of Empties—The Details.

In the dense fog of last evening an east-bound coal train on the Lehigh Valley railroad crashed into the broken truck to a coal car that had slipped from a neighboring train close by the Bound Brook station. The locomotive was overturned, while the faithful engineer, who had stuck to his post, was crushed beneath it. Coal cars were heaped in utter confusion about the spot and their contents scattered over the tracks for many rods. The other members of the crew of the unlucky train escaped with injuries more or less severe.

It was foggy last evening even in Plainfield, but down by the Raritan river great banks of clouds made it impossible to see anything more than a few feet ahead. A loaded coal train was speeding along the Lehigh Valley tracks at eighteen miles an hour from Packerton to Perth Amboy. The train consisted of engine No. 588, nine long gondolas and one hundred and twenty-two of the small coal cars. It was just 10:41 o'clock as the engine steamed past the Jersey Central station. Wilson Dankel, of Catasauqua, Pa., the engineer, was at his post on the right side of the cab. Cornelius Beeks, of Perryville, Pa., was the fireman. He was stationed on the tender. In the left compartment of the cab were A. C. Musselman, of Rockdale, Pa., the conductor, and his brakeman, Charles Keever, of Packerton, Pa.

None of the men know how it happened. Conductor Musselman was the least injured of the four and his story as told to a Press reporter this morning was as follows:

"We were setting there in the cab when all of a sudden without any warning the engine sprang right in the air. Then she came down to make another dive into the air and rolled over on her right side. There was a terrific crash and the next thing I remember was that I was crawling out of the wreck and that the cars were piled up on every side."

While nobody saw the accident except the unwilling victims who can tell very little about it, the circumstances that led up to the awful catastrophe are seemingly plain.

A westbound train, composed of a hundred empty coalers, had passed through Bound Brook perhaps ten minutes before the accident. Half a mile east of Bound Brook one of the rear trucks to a large gondola broke loose from its fastenings. It left the rails, but remained under the car, running along on the ties, cutting deep gashes in them by which it may be traced. Just beyond the Lehigh Valley station there is a switch and it is evident that the truck followed the other tracks and was left squarely across the eastbound track. The westbound coal train was drawn by engine No. 90, and was under the charge of Conductor Franklinfield.

The fated engine struck the truck and shot into the air, to turn over on its right side. The axle of the fatal truck was twisted like a ram's horn. Engineer Dankel was beneath the wreck of the cab, crushed beyond recognition. When the crash came the fireman was thrown fifty feet to the tracks of the Jersey Central. He was badly cut and bruised about the head, but not fatally injured. Conductor Musselman had a most miraculous escape. His head was cut and his hip injured, but he remained about the scene of the wreck until the tracks were cleared. Fireman Keever was seriously, perhaps fatally, injured. The boiler gave way at the crash and he was badly scalded about the face, arms and legs, while the shock rendered him unconscious. He was removed from the wreckage in a short time.

When the locomotive fell over on its side, the heavy gondolas crashed into it and then went flying over it, tearing up rails and ties of both tracks for a distance of fifty feet. The engine fell into an empty freight car on the siding and wrecked it. The large gondolas heaped up in front of the engine and on the edge of the embankment. Almost all of the one hundred and thirty cars were derailed and twenty of the small cars piled up one hundred yards from the wrecked engine. They fell against three passenger coaches that were lying on a siding and the sides of the coaches were crushed in. Coal was scattered along the track for two hundred yards. Most of the cars were partially wrecked. Six cars ahead of the caboose, several of the cars were telescoped and made another heap of wreckage. Alexander Brivegle, of Hassettsville, Pa., was the flagman and he was in the caboose at the time. He sustained injuries to his right leg. He was thrown in a heap by the accident.

A crowd quickly gathered at the scene of the wreck and the injured men were cared for. The wreck of the cab was cut away, but it was not until the wrecking train arrived an hour later that the remains of the engineer were removed from beneath the wreck. The track was torn up for fifty feet, while the wreckage was piled up over both tracks for a distance of two hundred yards. Two wrecking trains arrived by midnight, and the work of removal began. It was not until this morning at 8:50 o'clock that one westbound passenger train was allowed to pass. The eastbound track was not opened for traffic until noon. All the trains on the Lehigh Valley were delayed several hours and will not be running on scheduled time until tomorrow. The wrecking trains are still at work removing the wreckage that was temporarily thrown on the side until the tracks could be cleared.

Superintendent Donnelly and Train Master Broadhead were on hand and superintended the clearing up of the wreck and the resumption of traffic.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

Miss Elizabeth Meegan Succumbs From a Tumor in the Stomach.

The death of Miss Elizabeth Meegan, aged nineteen years, occurred suddenly last evening at her home on Watchung avenue. Death was the result of a tumor in the stomach which had been growing for over a year. Miss Meegan had lived in Plainfield about two years. She has two sisters who live in this city. Her parents reside in Ireland. The body has been taken in charge by Undertaker Casey, and arrangements for the funeral will be made this afternoon.

Educators Entertained

The members of the Board of Education of North Plainfield, together with Superintendent Whightman and the teachers of the Public School, were entertained last evening by Henry A. McGee, of 1 Orchard avenue, who is a member of the Board. During the evening James R. Joy gave some of his best readings, and Miss Hines, teacher of the kindergarten, rendered several pleasing piano selections. An exhibition of a phonograph was an enjoyable number on the programme.

To Start Hunting Next Week.

The Fish and Game and Propagating Association held a meeting last Wednesday evening and heard reports from all of the preserves. Thirty-five farmers were elected to membership as associate members. The members decided to commence hunting on the preserves next Wednesday.

EXPECTS TO DEFEND THE INN.

Princeton Says Drinking Shall Be Done in a Respectable Place.

No official statements have been made by any of the Princeton faculty concerning the inn question, nor will any be made until after the meeting of the Presbytery, Nov. 11, in Princeton, to take action upon Dr. Shield's withdrawal from the Presbyterian church; but it was learned yesterday what Princeton's ground of defense would be. Many people, mistaking Princeton's sentiment concerning the inn, think that the line of defense will be to disclaim all corporate connection between the university and the inn. This could easily be done, but Princeton will defend the existence of the inn instead of disclaiming any association with it.

It is not the sentiment of Princeton that drinking is wicked, and the idea is to have the drinking in a respectable place. The inn will be put forward as the best solution of the temperance problem as it exists in Princeton University.

This much must be granted to the owners and signers of the license for the Princeton inn—that the rules forbid the sophomores and freshmen from entering the grill room, also from selling anything stronger than beer to any student, and then not in quantities sufficient to cause drunkenness.

The outcome of the discussion in all probability will be that the Presbytery of New Brunswick will sustain Dr. Shields and the rules of the Princeton inn will be more rigidly enforced.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING.

CEREMONY IN GRACE P. E. CHURCH BEFORE FASHIONABLE AUDIENCE.

Miss Mary Louise Betts the Bride and Francis Betts Smith, of Hartford, the Groom—The Church Prettily Decorated.

A fashionable wedding was celebrated in Grace Episcopal church last evening when Mary Louise Betts, daughter of the late William H. Betts, of this city, was united in marriage to Francis Betts Smith, of Hartford, Conn.

The pretty church was decorated with white chrysanthemums, which were arranged with fine effect about the altar and the organ. All the seats were filled by an expectant gathering of relatives and friends when the bride and groom entered the church at 7:30 o'clock to the music of the wedding march.

The ceremony, which was that of the Episcopal church, was read by Rev. E. M. Rodman, D. D., rector of the church. The bride presented a charming appearance, attired in a gown of white poplin, en train, with a tulle veil.

The ushers were Ira Blossom Smith, of Hartford, a brother of the groom; Henry Sackett Johnson, of Buffalo; Charles W. Gearhart, of Brooklyn, and Frank S. Stratford, of Jersey City.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple were driven to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bushnell, 609 Madison avenue, where an informal reception and a wedding supper were given.

At a late hour Mr. and Mrs. Smith left upon their wedding journey. Upon their return they will make their home in New York city.

After the ceremony at the church an informal reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bushnell, 609 Madison avenue. The parlors and the library were beautifully decorated with clematis, chrysanthemums and palms. The bride and groom were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Colwell, of New York, Mrs. Masters, of Philadelphia, Miss Lelia Betts and Mrs. Frank Bushnell. In the supper room the decorations consisted wholly of white chrysanthemums, arranged in artistic profusion. The table was presided over by Mrs. L. Lukens, of Elizabeth, and Mrs. Wm. H. Murray. The wedding presents were many and of great value.

SAY THEY TRIED TO DO RIGHT.

Rathbone Sisters Air Their Dispute With a Member Over Benefits.

The trouble between Minerva Temple, Rathbone Sisters, and Mrs. Sadie Jones has been settled. It never came to trial. The members of that organization feel that the public has a mistaken idea about the trouble and they have written a communication to The Press stating their side of the matter.

The communication is too lengthy to print, but it is to the effect that two years ago J. S. Jones applied for a sick benefit for his wife, but, on investigation, it was ascertained that she was four months behind with her dues, and therefore not entitled to any benefit according to the by-laws. Just previous to her illness, it is stated, she sent to the treasurer of the Temple asking to know how far she was behind in her dues, and the treasurer made a note on the back of a receipt and sent it. Nothing more was thought of it.

The second illness of Mrs. Jones is referred to, and it is stated that it came at a time when, according to the by-laws, nothing could be paid for benefits until a certain amount of money was in the treasury. It is stated that Mrs. Jones knew of the fact. There were a number of prior claims, but the money in the treasury was finally divided up amongst them all. Eighteen dollars was still owed her, and a committee went to tell her that they were sorry and would pay it as soon as possible, but she was said to be ill and could not see anyone, although the members claim to have seen her walking on the street the same day. Then the matter was taken to court.

The Temple, the communication continued, had requested that the receipt already mentioned be produced, and it was, with the note on the back erased. The $18 was finally paid to Mrs. Jones, for the Temple believed in being faithful to its members, even if they did forget the principles of the order and go outside to settle society matters.

A Family Gathering.

A social family gathering was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Randolph, of Elmwood place, in accordance with an annual custom. Those present were Freeholder L. E. Barkalew and wife, W. H. Shotwell and family, F. W. Dunn and family. The feature of the evening was sociability, and the serving of refreshments was enjoyable.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH MEMBERS MET SOCIALLY.

All United in a Kindly Expression of Good Will for Rev. Mr. Richardson and His Wife—Efforts to Entertain.

The Sunday-school room of the Park Avenue Baptist church was filled to overflowing last evening, when the Ladies' Aid Society gave their annual reception to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Richardson. This event has become very popular and is looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure. It is a time when all departments and societies of the church assemble and unite in a kindly expression of good-will and best wishes. It is also a time when everyone becomes better acquainted with the pastor and his wife.

Through the efforts of the flower committee of the Christian Endeavor Society, under the direction of Miss May Thompson, the room was made home-like and beautiful. The use of palms and choice flowers gave the room a cheerful appearance. As an additional effect banquet lamps were used to give a subdued brilliancy.

Mr. Richardson and his wife took a position near the front of the room and there received their friends. Good words of cheer showered upon the guests of honor and in return the pastor and his wife cordially thanked all for their kind words.

Following this portion of the evening's programme, Thomas Cuming, on behalf of the committee in charge, announced the first musical number which was a violin selection by P. Ludwig Conde, accompanied by Miss Lavinia French on the piano. The selection was a classical one and could not have been rendered more perfectly. At the close Miss French was presented with a bouquet of choice roses, as was also Miss Alice Coard who followed with a classical rendition on the piano. The next number was a selection by Miss Genvieve Waters, of Chicago, on the violin. She was accompanied by Miss Coard, and was also remembered with a bouquet in recognition of her efforts to please.

The next part of the programme consisted of an intermission, when those present had an opportunity of greeting each other and being social. Refreshments were served during the intermission by those in charge.

Later in the evening the audience enjoyed another short programme of music by the artist present. Those who had charge of the reception were Mrs. Theodore Runyon, Mrs. J. W. Johnson, Mrs. A. D. Thompson, Mrs. David Smalley, Miss May Thompson, Miss Essie Thompson and Miss Stella Shotwell.

The Oldest Methodist.

Today Mrs. Ann Dickinson, of West Front street, is celebrating the anniversary of her eighty-first birthday, and her many friends unite in congratulating her. She is the oldest member of the M. E. church in this vicinity, and always attends the services at her church regularly. She looks hale and hearty, and enjoys her ripe age in a wonderful manner, and looks as though she will live to celebrate many more such events.

To Preserve the Game.

The farmers between New Market and Bound Brook have authorized the Middlesex Game Protective Society, of which Frank O. Nelson is president and W. G. Giles, secretary and treasurer, to post muslin notices on their grounds, forbidding trespassing under any pretence, and the law will be rigidly enforced by the above organization.

Birthday Anniversary.

Last Wednesday Mrs. Thomas Doud, of Duer street, celebrated the anniversary of her birthday, and in honor of the event her daughter, Mrs. James Blair, prepared a surprise by inviting her mother to her home in the evening where she met the members of her family. A pleasing supper was served and a good social time enjoyed.

Statue of St. Francis Blessed.

Last evening at St. Joseph's R. C. church occurred a public service at which time the statue of Francis was blessed by Bishop McFaul, of Trenton. The service was a beautiful one and very impressive. There was a congregation of worshippers present.

A Birthday Party.

A large number of the members of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church gathered in the church last evening and enjoyed the pleasures to be extracted from a birthday party. There was vocal and instrumental music.

Mrs. William A. Kline is ill at her home on West Third street.

FAST TRAIN WRECKED

Chesapeake and Ohio Express Goes Through a Bridge.

SEVERAL PERSONS KILLED

And a Large Number Were Injured. The Wreck Occurred Near Charlottesville, and Half of the Train Went into the River.

Richmond, Va., No . 5.—The "F. F. V." through vestibule train from Cincinnati to New York, on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, plunged into the Rivanna River about three miles east of Charlottesville yesterday shortly after noon. Four persons were killed outright and a large number of persons were injured. At the time of the accident the train was an hour late and was running at a high rate of speed. Upon rounding a curve on the banks of the river, which is about one hundred yards wide at that place, the rails spread, and the engine, tender, mail and express car, combination car and day coach were thrown over the bank into the river.

J. H. Alexander, express agent, and R. N. Berkeley escaped from a flooded car by crawling through a window. The momentum of the train was so great that six cars were hurled beyond the engine. A combination car and day coach were thrown across the track against the river bank. Several cars were piled upon each other. Most of the passengers were bound for Washington and New York.

Three relief trains were at once sent to the scene of the wreck and six railroad surgeons and fifty stretchers ordered to be sent by special train. Everything is being done for the injured, who were taken to Charlottesville for treatment.

Among the Richmond passengers on the train were the Rev. Dr. A. E. Dickinson, the veteran editor, and State Treasurer A. W. Harman. They were unhurt.

The names and addresses of dead and injured, so far as known, are:

Killed—Henry Burnett, negro porter; Merara Andore, an Italian woman, and her infant; P. Mareno, Italian, died in Charlottesville.

Injured—Engineer Duke, probably fatally; Baggagemaster Peers, badly hurt internally; A. Merara, Italian, badly injured; two small children were hurt dangerously; W. L. Goehner, Stewarts Draft, Va., right hand hurt; J. M. Miller, sleeping-car conductor, dangerously hurt in back; Richard Berkeley, express messenger, bruised; J. N. Haig, Baltimore, knee sprained; Lee Crandall, Globe, Ariz., hurt on head; Mrs. Bush, 341 West Thirty-first street, Baltimore, hurt about head and arms; J. W. Elder, Washington, head and nose hurt; O. R. O'Brien, Louisville, Ky., cut on head; Jonah H. Hinckel, Trenton, Ohio, left hip injured. One Italian child is missing and is thought to be under the wreck.

The "F. P. V." express is the limited express on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad. It is the fastest train that runs out of Richmond and is usually made up entirely of vestibuled parlor coaches and sleepers.

The train was due in New York over the Pennsylvania at 9.30 o'clock last evening.

SAYS IT IS ILLEGAL INSURANCE.

The Pennsylvania Authorities Declare Against the Underwriters.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 4.—Insurance Commissioner Lamber recently sent the Attorney General's department a letter inclosing a specimen policy of insurance issued by the Philadelphia Underwriters and saying that the Underwriters is an unincorporated association of two companies of Philadelphia. The question raised was whether the issuing of policies by this association under the unincorporated name does not violate section 1 of the act of Feb. 4, 1870. Deputy Attorney-General Reeder yesterday gave the Insurance Commissioner an opinion in which he holds that the Philadelphia Underwriters' company is doing an illegal business, and in clear violation of the law.

The Deputy Attorney-General says that this relation of partner cannot be altered or changed by the clause of the contract in each policy in which each company agrees to be bound by any judicial decision affecting the other on joint contracts. He says that the policy on its face seems to demand of the insured dealing with both companies in all the preliminaries after he has once sustained a loss. He goes on to say that the companies have no power or authority to enter into such a joint partnership and that agreements between companies which create a partnership between the parties thereto are void.

End of the Fever Scare.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 5.—The appearance of frost in the country around New Orleans, and in some cases the appearance of ice, has suddenly dissipated much of the yellow fever scare in the South. Most of the quarantines have been abandoned or modified in the last two days, and those towns that have not done so have given notice that they will do so by Nov. 10. By that time a general resumption of business will be chronicled, even should some sporadic cases of yellow fever be reported.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Mrs. Celia Wallace, of Chicago, has offered to adopt Miss Evangelina Cosio y Cisneros.

Ten new cases and three deaths from yellow fever were reported in New Orleans yesterday.

BETRAYED FOR REWARD

"Woman in Black," Suspected of Murder, Captured.

MURDERED FOR INSURANCE

De Kalb Woman Is Said to Have Conspired with Husband of Emma P. Kaiser to Get $10,000—She Is Sent to Jail.

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 5.—The murder of Emma P. Kaiser on a dark and lonely road in Upper Merion township, near Norristown, on the evening of Oct. 28, 1896, is revived by the arrest of Lizzie De Kalb, alleged to be the woman in black who was on the scene of the murder about the time of the firing of the fatal shot. Charles O. Kaiser, Jr., husband of the woman who was murdered, is under sentence of death.

The arrest was made on Tuesday night by Capt. Rodenbaugh and Detective Crawford, of Philadelphia. Capt. Rodenbaugh says the woman was taken into custody on a Pennsylvania Railroad train as it neared Broad street station.

The woman was brought to Norristown by Capt. Rodenbaugh, and for nearly four hours was at the mercy of the police, the District Attorney and James B. Holland, who subjected her to a most rigid examination, without, however, eliciting any replies that clear up the mystery. She has been committed for further examination on Nov. 12. J. P. Hale Jenkins, her lawyer, has visited her in prison and advised her to make no statement.

Immediately after the murder of Mrs. Kaiser the county offered a reward of $200 for the arrest of Miss De Kalb and a like amount for the apprehension of James A. Clemmer, in whose company she was seen in Norristown on the day of the tragedy. District Attorney Strassburger says she was located through the assistance of one of her acquaintances who was tempted by the $200 reward.

Kaiser and his wife drove out of Norristown on the evening of Oct. 28, 1896, in a falling-top carriage, followed a few minutes later by a man and a woman in a second carriage. Subsequently the two teams were seen in close proximity in Upper Merion. Within fifteen minutes Mrs. Kaiser was a corpse, her dead body lying on the seat of the carriage in which she and her husband were chatting as they drove over the Upper Merion roads.

Kaiser returned to Norristown with his wife's limp body in the bullet cut, blood-stained carriage, with a wound in his arm. He said they had been stopped by highwaymen and shot, after being stripped of their money and jewels.

Fifty yards from where Mrs. Kaiser was shot were found Kaiser's watch and a bloody pistol, both secreted along the fence that skirts the road. Several days later Mrs. Kaiser's watch was picked up in the street in Pottsville, Pa.

Kaiser was tried in March last, and convicted after the jury had been out less than four hours.

Kaiser's father lives in Philadelphia, where the young man was at one time intimate with Lizzie K. De Kalb and James A. Clemmer. The latter aided in procuring insurance on Mrs. Kaiser's life at the time of her death.

It was alleged by the Commonwealth during Kaiser's trial that Miss De Kalb conspired with Kaiser to murder his wife for the sake of about $10,000 insurance money. Her capture is likely to result not only in her own trial as a participant in the crime, but will also be important, lawyers say, if the Supreme Court should grant Kaiser a new trial.

CHARGED WITH OTHER MURDERS.

Fritz Meyer a Most Remarkable and Desperate Criminal.

New York, Nov. 5.—Eight of the seats in the jury box for the trial of "Fritz Meyer," the confessed murderer of Policeman Frederick Smith in the Church of the Holy Redeemer last Wednesday, were filled yesterday after several days' hard work.

Facts have come to light in the last few hours which stamp Meyer as the most remarkable and desperate criminal in the police history of the metropolis.

Two church murders and three aliases are credited to him, but more than that, other startling and mysterious crimes which have baffled the police of New York may yet be fastened at his door. He was ready to kill upon the slightest provocation.

His wife says that his brutality caused the death of six of their children. He made a murderous attack once upon his sister-in-law and nearly succeeded in killing her because she refused to give him money.

Yesterday afternoon the police attributed another murder to Meyer. They think he was responsible for the killing of Widow Carson, keeper of a junk shop in Brooklyn, eight months ago.

They announced that they expected to arrest his accomplice within a few hours.

Meyer, they said, was one of a gang of three men who have committed a number of daring crimes in Brooklyn. The man they expected to arrest at any moment was also a member of the gang. They had reason to believe this second man was stationed outside the church the night Steiger shot and killed Policeman Smith. They also think he was implicated in the attempt to rob Brewer Ochs.

Meyer's real name is Constantine Steiger. He is an ex-convict, who, under the name of John Schmidt was released from Auburn Prison last July.

CORPORATION NOTICE.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS

SECOND NOTICE.

The subscriber, the Collector of Taxes of the City of Plainfield, hereby gives notice, pursuant to Section 25 of the Act of the Legislature entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this state," approved April 7, 1890, and the amendments thereof and supplements thereto, that unless the assessments hereinafter specified, with interest thereon at the rate of one per centum per month, and all costs and fees, shall be paid to the subscriber at his office, No. 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J., within thirty days after the first publication of this (being the second) notice, the subscriber will on Tuesday, the 7th day of December, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, at his said office, No. 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J., between the hours of one and five o'clock in the afternoon, that is to say at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, proceed to make sale of and sell at public auction the several parcels of land and real estate upon which the said assessment shall remain due and unpaid, being those hereinafter paticularly described, for the lowest term of years, but in no case exceeding fifty years, for which any person will take the same and pay the amount of such assessment, with the interest thereon as aforesaid, and all costs and fees, including the expense of advertisement and sale.

The assessments above referred to are the assessments made by the Commissioners of Assessments of the City of Plainfield heretofore appointed under the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessments under Chapter CXLI, P. L. 1895," approved April 25th, 1896, containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses, as the case may be, for the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances (including house connections), under and by virtue of the Act of the Legislature entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and ordinances of said city entitled "An ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25th, 1894; and a further ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage, approved June 21st, 1895, and the ordinance hereinabove first mentioned and other proceedings of the Common Council had under said acts of the Legislature, said assessment and the report of said commissioners covering the whole of said system of sewerage already completed, that is to say: the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances (including house connections) in streets and parts of streets mentioned in said report, and the construction of sewerage disposal beds and appurtenances, which said report and assessment were ratified and confirmed by the Common Council of said City on the twenty-eight day of December, A. D. 1896, and a brief abstract of said assessments showing the name of the owner or owners, when known, a brief description of said lands and real estate, and the amount of unpaid assessments due thereon, is as follows, (the maps referred to in said descriptions being that certain set of maps numbered from 1 to 24, both inclusive, and from 101 to 123, both inclusive, each map being marked "Sewer Construction Assessment Map, dated Dec. 7, 1896," and filed in the office of the Collector of Taxes December 7, 1896, and referred to by said Commissioners of Assessments in their said report and assessment.)

It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by L. W. Randolph.

—Under the direction of the Fire Committee of the Borough Council an effort is being made to learn who sent in the alarm of fire last Tuesday night, which was a false alarm.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

—Borough Street Commissioner Conover is having the gutters in the borough cleaned out.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Tried to Vote His Brother's Name.

Last Tuesday a man in the First district of the Second ward attempted to vote a ticket on his brother's name, and it happened that the election officers knew him and promptly called the man. He became somewhat mixed for a few minutes, but was finally straightened out

"The worst cold I ever had in my life was cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes W. H. Norton, of Sutter Creek, Cal. This cold left me with a cough and I was expectorating all the time. The Remedy cured me, and I want all of my friends when troubled with a cough or cold to use it, for it will do them good. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, cor. of Park and North avenues.

Miss Fenner, of Pluckamin, has taken up her residence at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, corner of West Front street and Elmwood place.

Good Times have come to those whom Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured of scrofula, catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism, weak nerves, or some other form of impure blood,

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Easy and yet efficient.

The Easiest Thing

in the world nowadays is to own a good Piano. The wage-earner with ever so modest an income can readily secure one from us. We know whereof we speak, for we've sold thousands of Pianos to people whose incomes were lower than the average, and we've always got our money, too.

We were the pioneers of the easy payment system in this State, and have been the means of putting Pianos into many homes where, had we required cash payments, they could not have gone.

Why not come and talk with us about this? Why not get a Piano now?

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—A firemen's parade will be held at Trenton next Wednesday and a representation of the Plainfield department will be in attendance.

—The movement looking toward the organization of a lodge of Elks in this city is still going forward and definite measures will be taken shortly.

—Tonight and tomorrow night will be the last two chances given to attend the Sons of Veterans fair, and many attractions will be offered each night.

—The girls of the senior class at the Plainfield High School will meet again for basket ball practice tomorrow morning at the Whittier building.

—Grant avenue has been treated to a coat of crushed stone, and culverts were built yesterday to allow the surface water to run into the new storm sewer recently constructed.

—The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company has decided to discontinue a telegraph office at the Picton station after November 15th. Hereafter it will only be a ticket station.

—Justice Mattison has rendered a verdict in the case of Griffin against Waters, on contract, for judgment in full and costs. The plaintiff was represented by Murphy & Blatz.

—The Central Railroad now require all cyclers to place a tag on their wheels when placed on their trains, and the name and destination of the owner must be written on the tag.

—A horse owned by Lewis Randolph, of Liberty street, fell into a ditch on West Front street, near DeKalb avenue, yesterday afternoon, and it was with the greatest diffi ulty that he was extricated without serious injury.

—On the evening of December 2d the drivers of the Plainfield fire department will give a dance in Washington Hall. The boys are anxious to raise some money for a good object and they feel confident that their friends will assist them in their undertaking.

—Yesterday afternoon on the West Front street trolley line a car assisted a small dog in making a quick move. The canine did not hear the hum of the trolley, and was not apprehending any danger until struck. The dog was not injured although his escape was close.

—In copying the list of the drug stores where the season tickets for the Spielgartenfest are on sale, the name of a prominent pharmacist was inadvertently omitted. The sub-committeeman hereby apologizes to J. H. Leggett, East Front street and Watchung avenue, with a plea of too many cares.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of Constipation and Sick Headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guarranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c. per box. Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

—The second of the University Extension lectures will be held Tuesday evening in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by billousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to billious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

—The sewer and water connections for the new Stillman building on West Front street were made yesterday.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

The New Jersey Chancery Court, with its large and summary powers, has more than once used its authority to check corporation aggression. It sat down heavily on the Coal Combine, and it has vindicated public rights in other important ways. The people of New Jersey look to this tribunal to give such a rebuke to the highwaymen of the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company as will deter men from making any similar attempt again to appropriate a public road by physical force or any other illegal means.—Newark Advertiser.

The New York Tribune this morning says that all signs now point to the election of Foster M. Voorhees as President of the Senate, and David O. Watkins as Speaker of the House.

THEIR FIRST SOCIAL.

Warren Chapel Women Arranged a Programme of Entertaining Kind.

The first social of the season under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Warren chapel was held last evening in the chapel, and the chief feature of the programme was the exhibition of splendid views of Norway and Sweden by A. V. D. Honeyman, and interspersing these pictures, Charles S. Lewis sang a number of pleasing selections. One view, not looked for, was that of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, the popular pastor of the chapel. It showed Mr. McKelvey in a cycle costume and was taken shortly after he was married and while he was enjoying his honeymoon. Mr. McKelvey was completely taken by surprise when the picture was shown, and enjoyed the laugh evidenced by those present. There was a very large attendance and all had a good time. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gavett, Mrs. McKelvey, Mrs. Wm. Wilson, Mrs. Finck, Mrs. Staats and Mrs. Randolph composed the committee in charge and they served the refreshments after the entertainment.

Owing to the fact that Mrs. Honeyman, president of the society, was ill, she was unable to be present.

A Swedish Singing Section.

At the meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein held last evening the Swedish Singing Society joined the above association and formed a special singing section. They will have one night each week to rehearse. Three new members were elected, and it was decided to hold an entertainment in the hall one week from next Sunday night.

A "Festival of Holidays" will be held in the Presbyterian church on the afternoon and evening of November 11th, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

The Klondyke Gospel Band, with Captain Alex. DeSoto, of New York, will appear at the M. E. church next Thursday evening. The band is composed of Christian workers who are on their way to the Klondyke region, and they will hold meetings on the way. No admission fee will be charged.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the borough council Tuesday evening, November 16th, at which time it is expected that the Brunswick Traction Company will present a petition asking for a franchise to operate a trolley road through the borough. From present indications it looks as though the company will be successful, provided they are willing to do what is reasonable.

A house-warming was held at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. John Emmons, of New Market, last Wednesday evening. The affair was a surprise and was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dunham, of Plainfield. There was about eighty guests present and the programme consisted of everything that tends to make an affair of that kind enjoyable. Many Plainfielders were present, and there were guests from Bound Brook, Dunellen and New Market.

REV. MR. GIBSON'S PLANS.

Says He May Accept Another Pastorate or Engage in Evangelistic Work.

There was a report current in this city yesterday to the effect that Rev. Philip S. Gibson was about to take steps looking toward the organization of a new colored Baptist church in this city. To a Daily Press reporter Mr. Gibson denied the report, saying he would either accept a pastorate in some other place or engage in evangelistic work in the west. His resignation from the pastorate of Mt. Olive Baptist church will be read to the congregation Sunday evening, and will be acted upon Monday at a meeting called for that purpose.

Division Commander Jesse R. Dungan and Walter Vanderhoof, of the Sons of Veterans, was in Plainfield last evening and attended the Sons of Veterans fair.

THE CHAINLESS BICYCLE.

THE COLUMBIA MODEL EXHIBITED.

Interest in Level Gears Instead of the Old Chain Attracted the Attention of Many Riders.

The latest development in the bicycle, the chainless wheel, was first presented to the Plainfield public last Saturday. There will be numerous makes of this new wheel on the market next year but the Pope Manufacturing Company has been the first to exhibit the chainless Columbia wheel. The interests in the new idea of level gears instead of the old chain attracted so much attention that the wheel has been exhibited this fall instead of waiting for the beginning of the new year. Saturday, a model of the new wheel was shown at George W. Rockfellow's grocery store under the charge of F. C. Gilbert, of Elizabeth, an expert in the employ of the Pope company and formerly of the Gilbert & Chester Cycle Company, of Elizabeth. From noon until 9 o'clock in the evening the store was crowded with those who wanted to see the new wheel and Mr. Gilbert was kept busy explaining its different features.

The great novelty of the wheel lies in the fact that there are no sprocket wheels or chain, and that instead the power is transmitted to the rear wheel from the cranks by two sets of level gears with a hollow steel connecting rod passing through the tubing. The gears are all inclosed and are free from dust and dirt. They are allowed to turn in oil which keeps them thoroughly lubricated. There is consequently no lost motion, and it is claimed that it is far easier to start and stop than the old chain wheel. It certainly runs very easily to look at, for no one was allowed to mount the sample last Saturday. If the claims of the makers regarding the excellence of construction and the difficulty in getting it out of adjustment are proved true, the chainless wheel promises to be a great innovation in the wheeling trade.

NOTICES SERVED A SECOND TIME.

It is the Intention of the Council to Enforce Sidewalk Flagging.

The street commissioner wishes to explain that George White was not considered by the Common Council to be a sinner above all the other delinquents in the matter of laying flag sidewalks, but it was considered advisable by the corporation counsel to serve a number of notices again, in order to fully comply with all requirements of the law, and the thirty day limit on these had not expired Monday evening.

Some of them will be ready at the special meeting on the 22d, and the rest are booked for the regular meeting December 6th.

The Council seems to have decided that Watchung avenue shall be flagged this season.

THEATRICAL.

In the new English melodrama, "Brother for Brother," which Martin J. Dixon will present tomorrow, Frank Harvey, the author, has made an entirely new departure from all his previous dramatic works, which have been noted for their originality and strength of dramatic situations. He has most adroitly mingled heart interest and tears with numerous comedy and thrilling situations. "Brother for Brother" bids fair to become one of the most lasting of the recent productions seen in this country. The dramatic strength of the great fire episode is a most marvelous conception, and this alone would make a success of the play had it no other great merit to commend it. THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text: We know that all things work together for good to them that love God.—Romans viii 28. Nov. 7, 1897.

1, 2. Having all got safely to land, some by swimming and some by the help of boards and broken pieces of the ship, they found themselves on the island of Melita, or Malta, and received much kindness from the people, who kindled a fire and welcomed them and did what they could to deliver them from the rain and the cold which prevailed. It must have been such a cause for gratitude to find themselves safe on land that they would not think so much of the rain and cold, and yet the kindness of the natives was very refreshing. How much joy might be brought to many a life it we all lived to show kindness to those in need! As we experience in our own hearts the loving kindness of God, which is better than life (Ps. lxiii, 3), we should surely show the kindness of God to others (II Sam. x, 3), but these people probably knew nothing of the love of God. How often the conduct of one who knows not God puts to shame those who are His!

3, 6. Paul was not above gathering sticks with the rest to help make the fire burn. It is Christlike to be ready to every good work, however humble. The meek and lowly scorn not any service they can render to another. Paul was an earthen vessel for God's glory (Gal. i, 24), and God was glorified in him in the storm before all the people on the ship. He now allows a viper to fasten on Paul's hand that before these natives the power of God may be seen in his shaking off the viper and experiencing no harm. This was according to our Lord's words in Luke x, 19, 'Behold, I give you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing shall by any means hurt you."

7, 8. "Paul entered in and prayed and laid his hands on him and healed him." This was the father of Publius, the chief man of the island, who was sick of a fever, but the Lord, through Paul, instantly healed him. At one time God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul, so that by handkerchiefs or aprons which had touched his body the sick were healed (Acts xix, 11, 12). At another time Paul had to leave Trophimus at Miletum sick. We cannot always tell whether health or sickness or life or death shall glorify God the most, so we should say as Paul said, "Christ shall be magnified in my body whether it be by life or by death" (Phil, i, 20).

9. "So when this was done others also which had diseases in the island came and were healed." Thus the power of Christ was made widely known, and we cannot think of Paul obeying part of our Lord's command without obeying the other. If he healed the sick in the name of Christ, he would certainly preach the gospel of God concerning His Son Jesus Christ, our Lord, of which he had been especially called and separated (Rom. i, 1, 3). Thus not only were bodies healed, but many souls must have been saved also.

10. "Who also honored us with many honors, and when we departed they laded us with such things as were necessary." When people are really blessed, it is not necessary to ask them to give. Gratitude will show itself in some at least. The missionary money which comes to me from year to year in gratitude for the blessing received at the Bible classes convinces me of this more and more, and the abundance of current expenses in my own congregation from the grateful hearts who enjoy the ministry of the word, so that I never need to ask any one for a cent, but merely state the need when there is one and look to the Lord alone to supply it through His willing people, makes me wish that all preachers and teachers would so feed their people that the gratitude would be more manifest to the glory of God.

11. "And after three months we departed in a ship of Alexandria." Paul had learned to wait, and whether it was two or three weeks in a storm at sea, or three months on shore at Malta, or two years a prisoner at Caesarea, he knew what it was to "rest in the Lord and wait patiently for Him" (Ps. xxxvii, 7). Our Lord waited 30 years at Nazareth and has waited over 1,800 at God's right hand to have His body gathered out of the nations of the earth. We have great need to consider Him, lest we be wearied and faint in our minds (Heb. xii, 3).

12-14. Three days at Syracuse, a call at Rhegium, seven days at Puteoli, then on toward Rome. And every day, whether on land or sea, journeying or waiting, just living to glorify God. Conscious of His loving kindness in storm and sunshine, not because we feel it, but because we know it in Christ; conscious of His constant care of and interest in us; rejoicing that God is for us, Christ is for us, the Spirit is for us, and the angels minister to us (Rom. viii, 31, 34, 26; Heb. i, 14). Sure that all our works are prepared for us beforehand, and we have only to walk in them, doing as occasion serve us, for God is with us (Eph ii, 10; I sam. x, 7). Done with all fretting and murmuring and complaining, all of which is sinful; careful for nothing, prayerful for everything, thankful for anything, and rejoicing in the Lord always.

15. Brethren from Rome came to meet Paul and his companions as far as Appii forum and the three taverns, causing gratitude and inspiring courage. It is heavenly to meet on earth those who are our true blood relations. I do not mean so much our kindred as those who are one with us by the blood of Christ. These are often nearer to us than brother or sister. The bond is wonderful. Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love! Paul may have met some of these brethren in other parts of the world or not. We are not told. But they were one in Christ and living for His glory and ready to die for Him.

16. They came to Rome, and Paul was suffered to dwell by himself with a soldier who kept him. He was now where God said he would be, and as to bearing witness he had only to watch his opportunity and be ready to use it, or rather let God use him in it. He was in a measure free, even as he was in Caesarea, and he was in the Lord's hand, who could easily make him more free if it was best consisting of suits, overcoats and trousers, now being sold at 33c on the dollar. A great purchase and a great sale of the entire stock of a very widely known clothing manufacturer. Cash is King, and the money on the table enables us to sell this extraordinary purchase at less than 33c on the dollar. This sale would prove the greatest sensation of the day if maker's name could be published, but owing to the fact that nearly every retailer of prominence has a stock on hand from these manufacturers, the latter to protect the former, stipulated that their name must not appear in advertisements. The name, however, appears on every garment, which is an absolute guarantee of perfect satisfaction.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.
J. T. MACMURRAY. City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., Nov. 1, 1897.

AN ORDINANCE

to license, regulate and prohibit shows and exhibitions.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That no person shall exhibit in the City of Plainfield any traveling or other show, circus, menagerie or athletic or scientific exhibition, or theatrical or variety performace or play, without first obtaining a license therefor, as herein described.

Section 2. That the license fees to be charged for such licenses respectively, shall be as follows; to wit: for a license for a circus, with or without a menagerie, charging twenty-five cents or more for one admission, the sum of not exceeding One Hundred Dollars for each day; for a license for a circus, with or without a menagerie, charging from ten to twenty-five cents for a single admission, the sum of not exceeding One Hundred Dollars for the first week, and the sum of not exceeding Fifty Dollars for each week thereafter the same shall continue; for a license for a concert or entertainment charging fifty cents or more for a single admission, the sum of not exceeding Twenty-Five Dollars for each concert or entertainment; but this provision shall not apply to a concert or entertainment given for charitable or benevolent purposes; for a license for an an athletic or scientific exhibition the sum of not exceeding One Hundred Dollars for each exhibition; for a license for a theatre, opera house or music hall, the sum of Fifty Dollars a year.

Section 3. The Mayor shall have authority to determine the amount of any license fee within the limits aforesaid and to decide whether a license is required under the terms of the preceding Section, when there is a doubt upon an application, and also authority to grant or withhold a license. Upon the payment of the license fee to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield or Chief of Police and the production of his receipt therefor to the Mayor, there shall be given to the applicant a license which shall state the name of the person licensed and the purpose for which it was granted.

Section 4. That any person or persons who shall make or have any exhibition or show of any kind hereinabove described, without first obtaining a license therefor, as hereinabove provided, shall, on conviction, be subject to a fine not exceeding One Hundred Dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding sixty days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 5. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances which conflict with any of the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Ready for Business

evidently, and the business shou d be done by all means. Buildings require paint. Of course a house may be left unpainted and left to become weatherbeaten and a wreck. That doesn't pay, though; it's much cheaper to paint, and our paints in all colors are the test in the market for durability under the most trying conditions. They are well adapted to our exposure and we sell everything in the line of paints and painters' supplies at short prices.

The Tables Turned.

We have almost solved the servant girl problem.

Instead of the maid being mistress, we have made it possible for the mistress herself to be mistress.

The tables are turned, and we have turned them.

We have accomplished it to the mutual satisfaction of everybody. The plan is so simple that the wonder is nobody ever thought of it before.

Cheap but good laundering of general house linen enables every housekeeper to have the washing done out of the house. For instance,

Counterpanes 10c each.
Table Cloth 5c "
Sheets - 3c "
Towel, Napkins 1c "

What does our proposition mean? It means no more washday odor about the house. It means satisfied servants, because a maid will not be insolent if she can escape washdays and the delay of other work caused by bad drying days. Our booklet "Tables Turned" tells all about our new plan. You can have it for the asking.

House Rustically Decorated.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church held a sociable at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Batchelor, 826 West Seventh street, last evening. The guests, to the number of about sixty, were entertained in the attic of the house, which was decorated in novel manner with evergreens and weeping willow boughs, in imitation of a forest scene. At one end of the attic was a barn constructed of cornstalks, completing the rustic effect. Songs were sung and refreshments served under the direction of the social committee of the society.

ALLEGED BURGLAR IDEDENTIFIED

Henry West, of Cranford, Recognized the Man Who Shot His Wife.

The police of Cranford yesterday arrested a man who gave his name as Thomas Henley. He was suspected of being the man who entered the home of Henry West, in Cranford, on the night of March 3d, and who, on being discovered there, shot Mrs. West through the cheek. West this afternoon fully identified the prisoner as the man who did the shooting.

Pleasant Informal Reception.

A pleasant informal reception was given last night to Mr. and Mrs. William G. Gaston, of Somerville, by Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Dunham, at their home, 325 East Fifth street. Mr. Gaston is a brother of Mrs. Dunham, and he and Mrs. Gaston returned only recently from their wedding trip. About sixty guests from Trenton, Somerville and Newark were present to offer their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Gaston. Late in the evening refreshments of cake, ice cream, coffee and fruit were served. Mr. and Mrs. Dunham assisted in receiving and introduced the guests of honor to the visitors. A pleasant evening was spent by all.

Appointed Visiting Committees.

The board of lady managers of the Plainfield Children's Home held its regular meeting in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon and appointed its visiting committees for the coming month. The reports showed that there are now twenty-two children in the home, and more applications for admittance than can be received. The treasurer's report showed a balance in the treasury amounting to about $225, which is sufficient to defray the running expenses of the home for about one month.

Died After a Long Illness.

The death of Mrs. Susan H. Thiers, mother of Dr. Charles R. Thiers, of Grove street, occurred this morning after a long illness. She died at the home of her son, and was in her seventy-fifth year. One son, Dr. Thiers, survives her. The funeral will be held Monday morning next from the house on Grove street at 11:15. Interment will be at New Brunswick.

THIEF CAUGHT AT LAST.

HE HAD LONG SUCCEEDED IN ELUDING THE POLICE.

Operated in Boyce's Hotel Last August—Afterwards Hurt on the Railroad and Taken to Hospital, Then Was Discovered

The police authorities of this city and North Plainfield are felicitating themselves over the capture of a clever thief who has long succeeded in eluding all efforts made to land him in prison.

The police of Bayonne City notified Chief of Police Grant Wednesday night that they had in custody a man in whose possession were goods answering to the description of those stolen from Boyce's Hotel, in North Plainfield, on the 27th of last August. The prisoner was brought to this city by the police, and an investigation showed that the goods in his possession were a part of those stolen from Boyce's Hotel.

On the night of August 29th last, two men came to the hotel and engaged lodgings for the night. Early in the morning they arose and ransacked a number of rooms in the hotel, carrying away a quantity of valuable goods, including two gold and silver medals. The men made their way to Bayonne, where one was injured by jumping from a coal train and was taken to a hospital. It was there that the stolen goods were found in his possession and he fell into the hands of the police.

At his examinatation yesterday the prisoner gave his name as John Duffy, and his home as South Brooklyn. The goods found in his possession included nearly all the stolen articles except a razor and the two medals, which are still missing. The prisoner refused to tell who his accomplice in the robbery was, but the police have hopes of effecting his capture, also.

Today after completing his examination of the suspect, Chief Grant swore out a warrant and turned him over into the custody of the North Plainfield authorities.

Eva Talked Too Much.

Eva Harrison, of Bound Brook, who applied at the station house Wednesday night for a night's lodging, and was sentenced by the City Judge yesterday to spend thirty days in the county jail for using profane and indecent language, repeated the offense yesterday before the time for her departure for Elizabeth, and she was held upon a new charge preferred by Chief Grant. This morning His Honor added thirty days more and a fine of $25 to her sentence. She was taken to Elizabeth, protesting loudly.

—Justice Mosher today issued a summons in the contract case of Train against Adams, returnable next Thurs day.

—Fred Coddington has resigned as private watchman in Washington Park and Peter Hansen will take his place.

AN EXPERT ACCOUNTANT

ONE TO BE ENGAGED TO GO OVER BOROUGH BOOKS.

Most Important Business of the Borough Council Last Night—New System of Keeping Books to Be Devised.

All of the members except Mr. Schutt were present at the regular November meeting of the Borough Council held last evening, and the business to be considered was transacted with quickness, which is characteristic of the present Council. The clerk's financial report was read as follows:

	Balance.	Deficit.
Borough	$4,018.16
Lights	266.20
Roads		$273.68
Fire Department	127.96
Poor		489.74
	$4,412.32	$763.42
Paid county and State	$2,689.47
	$954.43 cash bal.

The clerk also reported that $360.50 had been collected since last report from the residents of Sycamore avenue as their share toward opening the avenue, and $125 from the residents of Harmony street for macadamizing that street. Collector Spencer reported that $338.82 had been collected as taxes since the last report.

A communication was received from the West End Hose Company, stating that Frank Keller had been elected to membership and Wm. Barry had been dropped from the roll.

N. B. Smalley and others asked for electric lights in the neighborhood of Whitewood avenue. A communication from P. A. Emmons and others asked that the Council exempt persons from fast driving on Mountain avenue, as that avenue had been designated as a speedway by the Board of Freeholders. The request was granted.

Mr. Woolston, for the committee on streets and public health, stated that $147.61 had been expended during the past month on the streets of the borough, and that the cost of macadamizing Brook avenue was $490.48. Mr. Woolston stated that he had received from James Carson, of Belmont avenue, a communication, in which the latter asked the Council to have the latter avenue straightened out according to grade. It was decided that the Council has no right to grant the petition, as the avenue has never been accepted by the borough.

In reply to a question as to who are expected to lay sidewalks along Watchung avenue, Borough Counsel Reed stated that people occupying property on the avenue are supposed to lay their own walks.

Mr. Rogers read a letter from Superintendent Coriell, of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Company, in which the latter stated that he had thoroughly examined the system in the borough and found it to be in perfect working order. Chief Wilson, through Mr. Rogers, reported that the street lighting of the borough is also in first-class condition. Mr. Rogers stated that several new electric lights had been located in the borough where needed.

The Mayor stated that in view of the fact that a new borough collector would be elected at an early date he thought it advisable to have the accounts of the collector and all borough accounts examined by an expert accountant and institute a proper system of municipal bookkeeping and place the financial accounts of the borough upon a business basis. In connection with the Mayor's suggestion the following resolution was offered by Mr. Burtis and adopted by the Council:

Resolved, That the Mayor be and is hereby authorized and directed to employ an expert accountant, at an expense not to exceed $750, to examine the financial accounts of the borough, and institute a proper system of municipal bookkeeping, and place the financial accounts of the borough upon a business basis; and be it further

Resolved, That the collector and other borough officers be and are hereby directed to place at the use of such accountant all information, books and documents in their possession, custody or control relative to the subject.

In accordance with a petition the Mayor appointed Peter Hansen as a special marshal to serve in Washington Park, and the appointment was confirmed. A resolution offered by Mr. Rogers provided for the borrowing of $1,500, the same to be charged to the light account. The Council then went into executive session.

Prominent Rahway Man Dead.

A telegraphic dispatch from Rahway to The Press announces the death of Former Mayor and Former Assemblyman William Chamberlain, of that city, this morning at 6 o'clock. Mr. Chamberlain had a host of friends in this city who will regret to learn of his demise.

Water for Lincoln.

The Watchung Water Company was this morning awarded the contract for laying the pipes and furnishing water for Lincoln. It is expected that the system will be complete within fifteen days. The water will be supplied from the wells driven near Greenbrook.

THE EXACT COUNTY VOTE.

SURROGATE PARROT'S PLURALITY IS FIXED AT 2,433.

John L. Crowell, the Defeated Candidate, Excused From Canvassing—Assemblyman Houston Received the Most Votes.

The vote of Union county was canvassed at noon yesterday by the County Board of Election, who convened in the court room. E. C. Woodruff, of Elizabeth, was elected chairman, and County Clerk Howard and Zerman Norman assisted in the canvass.

John L. Crowell, a member of the Board, was excused from the canvass of the returns for the office of Surrogate.

The official count showed that for Surrogate, George T. Parrot received 8,106, and John L. Crowell 5,673. This made Mr. Parrot's plurality 2,433. The gain was in the scattering vote.

Osborn, the Prohibitionist candidate for Surrogate, received 309 votes, and Coughlin, the Socialistic-Labor candidate, a total of 639.

The official vote gives Robert G. Houston a gain of ten votes over Wednesday's figures, and a total of 8,119. Mr. Houston had the greatest number of votes of any man on the ticket, and 13 above the vote for Mr. Parrot.

The board adjourned at 1 o'clock to await a clerical error correction on one of the returns from a district in the Fourth ward in Elizabeth. The canvass so far as completed gave totals as follows:

For Assembly—George A. Squire, R., 7,958; Roger F. Murray, R., 7,849; Robert G. Houston, R., 8,119; Benjamin A. Lawrence, D., 5,675; Thomas J. Jackson, D., 5,762; William D. Wolfskeil, D., 5,772; VanCise, P., 350; Phelps, P., 337; McLeod, P., 342; Gould, S. L., 645; Campbell, S. L., 655; Eidenmiller, S. L., 641.

Dr. MacConnell, the Republican candidate for coroner, received 7,931, and Dr. Dolan, the Democrat, 5,746. The Republicans plurality was 2,185.

GIRLS LIKE BASKET BALL.

The Exercise Forms a Fine Adjunct to Their School Duties.

The girls of the Plainfield High School have found basket ball a delightful exercise. The interest in the game is very great despite the fact that they have not had a change to test its applicability to the circumstances. The girls of the Senior class have now met twice for pratice, the last meeting being held this morning in the Whittier building, the second floor of which has been converted into a gymnasium. There are ten in that class who are candidates for the class team and so it has been decided to organize two teams which will practice against each other and the best players selected to represent the class in the class contests that are being planned.

The Senior girls who have been out to practice so far this season are the Misses Adele Kirby, Ledie Loizeaux, Bessie Hunt, Ella Osgood, Helen Brainard, Karolyn Kampman, Florence Beale, Clara Long, Edith Clark and Constance Patton.

The practice held this morning, under the direction of Walter L. Long, captain of the Y. M. C. A. basket ball team, was to demonstrate the qualifications of the different candidates for the different positions. The practice was very satisfactory to all and it is predicted that the other classes will have to get to work at once to be able to hold their own in the class contests.

The other coaches have been decided upon. George Proctor Smith, of the Y. M. C. A. team, will coach the girls of the Junior class, while Fred Bonny, of the same team, will act as coach for the candidates for the third class team.

UP-TO-DATE RELIGIOUS WORK.

Some Novel Subjects That Congregationalists Will Indulge In.

The following mid-week services have been arranged for the Congregational church: November 10th—Newspaper Gospel. Bring a helpful selection cut from the daily paper, and read or comment. November 17th—Questions on religion asked by prominent business men of Plainfield, and answered by the pastor. November 24th—Thrilling tales of the north. December 1st—The saloon; from the standpoint of the manufacturer, the merchant, the machinist, et. al.

The committee for November is: John Allen, J. M. Burnett, A. G. Barber, Charles Belknap, Frank Bailey, A. J. Clarkson, George Clark, P. Ludwig Conde.

—As yet, the person who sent in a false alarm of fire last Tuesday evening in the borough, has not been discovered. Mr. Eagney, from whom the key was obtained, says that he does not know who the party is.

FIGHT FOR PLUMS NOW

LIVELY TUSSLE WILL ENSUE FOR THE LEGISLATIVE OFFICES.

There is Much Untried Material in the Lower House and at Present the Field Seems Free and Open to All.

The liveliest kind of a tussle is going to take place during the next two months for the leading offices in the New Jersey Assembly and Senate. There is so much new and untried material in the Legislature, especially in the lower branch, that the field is open and free and it will be some weeks before the lines begin to be drawn.

It is probable that the leading candidate for Speaker of the House will be Henry W. Gledhill, the popular young Passaic county lawyer, who was re-elected Tuesday, and who was a formidable candidate for leader of the Republican majority on the floor last year. This will be Gledhill's third term, and he will be able to present strong claims for the Speakership.

His principal rival is sure to be Geo. W. Porter, of Newark, a young lawyer, who was elected for the second time last Tuesday, and was very popular in last year's House, being regarded as one of the brightest men on the floor.

With twenty-three members on the floor of the House, the position of Democratic leader will amount to something in the next session, and there is plenty of good timber available among the men elected. Three men may be considered as probable candidates for the position—T. J. Carroll, of Hudson county, an energetic, resourceful Democrat, who was in the Assembly in 1892 and 1893, and is familiar with all the preliminary tactics worth knowing; Alexander Simpson, who is a prominent Jersey City lawyer, but untried in legislation, and Charles T. Bauer, of Hoboken, who made a brilliant record in the House in 1895 by his unswerving and courageous fight against the trolley syndicate and corporation lobby.

The retirement of Senator Williams in Passaic county will make in necessary for the Republicans in the Senate to elect a new president of that body. It is likely that Senator Voorhees, of Union county, who was the Senatorial leader last year, will be a candidate for the position. Senators Johnson, of Bergen county; Skirm, of Mercer; and Ketcham, of Essex, will will also probably be named. Voorhees will be antagonized by Sewall, and it is probable that Senator Johnson will be the caucus nominee, because of his record in favor of the corporations.

Senator Daly will continue as Democratic leader on the floor of the Senate.

TICKETS FOR THE 'FEST

Information for Prospective Patrons of the Hospital Benefit.

The following statement is issued by the management of the Spielkartenfest for the guidance of those who wish to procure tickets for the benefit. Tickets will be on sale at the rink during the afternoon from 2 o'clock until 4 o'clock, when the programme begins. For these no seats are reserved. Admission tickets are sold only at the door, price 25 cents for all alike.

Second: The evening entertainment—doors open at 7:30 o'clock. Performance begin at 8 o'clock. General admission to any part of the hall, not including reserved seats, 50 cents. The sale of tickets is now going on at the drug stores of T. S. Armstrong, corner Park and North avenues, and Charles Halls, corner Watchung avenue and Fifth street, the former having the diagram of the northerly half of the hall (next to C. R. R.), and the latter the southerly half of the hall (the Fourth street side of the hall). On and after Monday, November 8th, these diagrams will be taken to the hall at 7 o'clock each evening where the sale of tickets will continue on the left hand side of thelobby.

Fourth: Season tickets—good for six general admissions on any evening of the series or good for six consecutive evenings or six admissions one evening. Sold at the prominent drug stores, price $2.50, a saving of fifty cents. Season tickets do not cover reserved seats, but they will be exchanged for reserved seats to be selected from the diagram as above mentioned by paying the difference between the price of reserved seats seventy-five cents or one dollar, and the price of general admission.

When the holder of a season ticket wants reserved seats, not for six evenings but only for one or more, he can obtain such number as he wants on the same terms, receiving one or more coupons for the sittings selected.

Death of Mrs. Keiderling.

The death of Mrs. Charles Keiderling, aged thirty-two years, occurred this morning. The funeral will be held Monday and will be private.

NO ACCIDENTS FEARED

PERFECT ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR SAFETY AT SPIELKARTENFEST.

The Crescent Rink Will be Crowded During Next Week, But Every Precaution Has Been Taken to Prevent Accidents.

It isn't a dream, there is no doubt about that. The long-expected Spielkartenfest is to begin Monday night and every Plainfielder will have a chance to lend a hand for a worthy charity, for who says that the Muhlenberg Hospital is not deserving of aid, besides seeing something altogether wonderful and beautiful. Did you see the Kirmess two years ago? That was something magnificent, everybody agreed, but the Spielkartenfest promises to excel even that for the first attempt taught those in charge many useful lessons that will be well remembered on this occasion.

The Spielkartenfest is not intended for any one class. It is for the people and is being conducted by them. There are scores, yes, hundreds who are taking an active part in the preparation of this grand benefit and there is plenty for all to do. Those who have done nothing so far are counted on to at least attend the entertainment. It is not like asking the people to give their money when they come to the Spielkartenfest. They get fully their money's worth of pleasure and enjoyment at the affair in return for their money. The dances will be worth going many miles to see. Look how popular the Kirmess was and how even the vast auditorium of the Crescent Rink was not large enough to contain the multitude that crowded in front of its doors. Miss Lila Agnew Stewart, who so successfully conducted the Kirmess, is in command this year and says that the Spielkartenfest will far outshine her former efforts.

There will be no danger of fire or crowds at the rink, for special precautions have been taken in that direction. Fire extinguishers will be distributed all over the building and at every booth, while specially detailed firemen will be on duty at the rink every night during the progress of the Spielkartenfest. Every precaution has been taken in the arranging of the illuminating effects with gas and electric light so that all chance of danger from that direction will be eliminated. Although you may not have noticed it, the great glass doors and the partitions that apparently occupy the entrance all swing back allowing the use of the entire width of the big hall. There are no steps to descend in leaving the hall but a gentle inclined way that will far easier accommodate the crowd.

All was activity at the Rink last evening. The work on the booths was going on and the sound of saw and hammer could be heard on every side. Then it was the last of the rehearsals before the final dress rehearsal which is to be held this evening. There was a little exciting happening that was not on the programme. As the grand march was being rehearsed and several hundred young people were marching about the stage, the electric lights suddenly went out and the great hall was plunged into complete darkness. There were a few screams from some of the participants and then everybody waited. The musicians were sufficiently acquainted with their instruments to play in the dark and kept on while the waiting dancers chatted busily until several gas lights in the balcony were lighted. Meanwhile men could be seen wandering about the hall, lighting matches to see their way.

The grand march was continued in the faint twilight and the effect was novel and altogether charming. The cause of the trouble was the burning out of a fuse which was replaced in ten minutes, and then the rehearsals continued.

ABOUT WESTERN MISSIONS.

Mrs. Horton Talked Interestingly to Trinity Reformed Young Women.

The members of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church and their friends met at the home of Mrs. J. S. Cutter, West Front street, last evening and listened to an interesting address by Mrs. Horton, of Cranford, on missions. Mrs. Horton exhibited several views of western churches and parsonages and a picture of a miniature tepee. She explained how the Indian women erect the tepee. The address was very instructive and entertaining, and enjoyed by all. Features of the evening were the vocal solos by Miss Bessie Blair and F. S. Cutter. There was a large attendance, and the latter part of the evening was devoted to sociability during which refreshments, consisting of chocolate and wafers, were served by those in charge.

—The official board of Grace M. E. church will hold a special meeting after the morning service tomorrow.

AN INSURANCE COLLECTOR, WHO IS MISSING, SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS.

Thomas Heywood, an Employe of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, Has Left With $35 of the Company's Money.

The old, old story of an employe who is entrusted with the handling of money and who proves dishonest, has been enacted over again in this city this week by Thomas Heywood, an agent and collector for the Plainfield branch of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, of New York.

Heywood has been in the employ of the company ever since it opened its branch here in August of this year. He performed the work assigned to him in a satisfactory manner, and always handed in promptly all money collected by him, which often amounted to hundreds of dollars. It was known that Heywood and his wife were not living together, and that she had commenced divorce proceedings against him, but otherwise there was no reflection against his character.

Last Tuesday he entered the office of the Company and presented his balance sheet showing collections amounting to about $35, which amount he paid to the cashier. Shortly after he left the office saying that he would call in again Thursday morning. He has not been seen or heard from in this city since, and no one is able to give any clue to his whereabouts.

When Heywood did not put in an appearance at the office Thursday, the manager, John French, suspected some irregularity and made a partial investigation of Heywood's accounts The search showed that there was a shortage of something over $35 in Heywood's return sheet. Notice was sent to The American Surety Company, who are Heywood's bondsmen, and they took the matter in hand. It is probable that they will succeed in locating the missing man.

Heywood boarded with Mrs. Henry F. Bower, at 169 East Front street, and here he left an unpaid bill for several weeks' board.

SCHOOL BOARD ESTABLISH AN OFFICE.

A Place Where Business Can be Regularly and Speedily Transacted.

The members of the Board of Education have adopted a new plan which is sure to be very popular with all who have any business with school matters in this city. For sometime past certain members have taken it upon themselves to look after the detail work connected with the management of the schools and as a result it has consumed a great deal of valuable time which they could not well afford to loose. A consideration of the matter resulted in the establishment of an office at the High School building where anyone can call between the hours of 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. and secure any information desired.

Persons having general business to transact will appreciate this new plan. Frank Clark, of Central avenue, who is clerk of the board, has been retained, at an increase in salary, for the purpose of being at the office during the prescribed hours and giving attention to all matters that naturally will come under the observation of the Board of Education. Of course, Mr. Clark will see that all matters are reported to the board.

TRAIN STRUCK HIM ON THE BRIDGE.

S. J. Bowden Found Walking on Railroad Tracks to be Dangerous.

S. J. Bowden, of West Second street, a brother of David Bowden, the contractor, and a foreman in the machine shops of Henner & Long, No. 30 Desbrosses street, New York, was struck by an engine on the Central Railroad at the Madison avenue bridge just before 6 o'clock this morning. It has been Mr. Bowden's custom to walk from his house down the railroad tracks to the North Avenue station where he takes the 6 o'clock train to New York. Only a few days ago he was warned by his brother against the dangerous practice.

This morning hs was caught by the engine drawing a coal train and hurled from the bridge. The first intimation the engineer had that he had struck a man was when he saw Bowden's pipe fly up in the air. Bowden was taken to the hospital.

At the latter place it was discovered that the only apparent injury was a scalp wound, but just how seriously the man is injured it is difficult at present to determine. He is partially conscious and seems to be doing well. From all that can be learned Bowden was half-way across the bridge, but owing to the fog he was unable to see the approaching train, which was so close to him, in time to get out of the way.

Frederick K. Fish, Jr., of Martine avenue, left this morning for Wilmington, Del., where he will visit friends.

NO ARC LIGHTS JUST NOW

COUNCILMEN ARE WILLING BUT THERE IS NOT ENOUGH MONEY.

A Conference of Business Men and a Councilmanic Committee Held Last Night—Mayor Fisk Favors Improvement.

There is little probability that the business streets of Plainfield will be completely lighted by arc lights until a new Common Council takes the affairs of the city in hand. The present Council is willing, but the treasury is weak. Such, at least, was the sentiment expressed by the committee on lights and trees of the Council, last evening.

The reason for such an expression on the part of the Councilmen was brought about by a conference between a committee of the leading business men of the city and the committee.

The conference was held in the Mayor's office, and was attended by the Mayor himself who spoke in favor of the petition of the business men and gave them all the aid he could. The meeting was the result of a request that the matter might be informally talked over, but its result was not particularly encouraging to the merchants who want to have the business section of the city lighted by arc lights at once.

The city was represented by the lights and trees committee, composed of Ralph I. Tolles, chairman; William A. Wesptphal and John T. Baker, and Mayor Charles J. Fisk. The merchants' committee consisted of George L. VanEmburgh, Edward White, Dr. R. J. Shaw, Eugene A. Laing, John J. Kenney and J. P. Laire.

The merchants each made a short address on the advisability of the plan of arc lighting and its advantages. They explained that in that particular, Plainfield was far behind other cities of equal size. The arc lights were far more effective in lighting the streets than the incandescent lamps and that now a stranger coming into the city found the very heart of the city comparatively dark. Each speaker made his argument in brief and told the demand that there was for the new lights among the merchants.

It was understood before that Councilman Westphal was a stout supporter of the proposed scheme for lightning He advocated it and the other two members of the committe gave their opinion that it would be a good thing. Mayor Fisk spoke very favorably of the merchant's petition.

It was altogether a very happy family until the question of where the funds were to come from was discussed. The Councilmen were then of the opinion that no matter how much they wanted to grant the petition, it was beyond their power as there was not money enough from the old appropriation to make the change and there was not enough in the city treasury to stand the drain of a new appropriation.

The merchant's petition asks for eleven new arc lights, but it was decided that it would take twenty, placed two hundred feet apart, to light the business section. Then the Mayor said that it was his wish that Front street should be the equal of any business street in the country, and he hoped to see the day when the wish of some of the merchants should be realized and Front street, from Watchung avenue to Central avenue, should be asphalted from curb to curb and all the wires for telephone, telegraph and electric lights placed under ground.

It was the opinion of the city officials that it would simply be impossible to make the change this year for lack of funds. Several of the merchants explained that the change would be of more value during the coming holiday season than all the rest of the year put together, and they expressed a hope that some way might be found by which the change might be made before the full rush of the holiday season arrives.

RECORDER THOMAS CENSURED.

Borough Councilmen Wanted to Know Why He Didn't Issue a Warrant.

In the executive session of the Borough Council last evening the members called Recorder Thomas before them and asked him why he did not issue a warrant for the arrest of a Mr Allen who lives near the mountains, and who sent in a false alarm of fire from the corner of Mountain and Westervelt avenues last Tuesday night. The Recorder claimed that he did not have sufficient evidence to issue the warrant. The Council was of the opinion that the warrant should have been issued and the man dealt with as the law provides. The Recorder was corrected concerning several matters and received some instructions as to what he should do in the future.

SAVED PRES'T MORAES

Brazil's Ruler Narrowly Escapes Assassination.

MINISTER OF WAR KILLED

Colonel Moraes, the President's Nephew, Wounded in Disarming the Assailant—Rio Janerio Greatly Excited—Assassin was a Soldier on Duty.

(Cable Dispatch to the New York Sun.)

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 6.—At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon a soldier belonging to the Tenth Battalion attempted to shoot President Moraes with a pistol just as the latter landed at the Marine Arsenal after visiting the steamer on which Gen. Barbosa had returned from Bahai. The attempt was frustrated by bystanders.

The President's nephew, Col. Moraes, was slightly wounded while disarming the soldier, Gen. Bittencourt, Minister of War, then interfered, and was stabbed, dying shortly afterward. The city is greatly agitated.

The attack has caused the greatest agitation throughout the city.

Dr. Moraes was elected President of Brazil three years ago to succeed Marshal Peixoto, after the rebellion of Admirals Mello and Saldana da Gama had been suppressed.

MURDERER'S AWFUL WORK.

Four Children Attacked in Their Home and Killed After a Fight.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 6.—Particulars have been received here of a terrible quadruple murder near Rawdon, a small village about forty miles north of Montreal. The victims were Elizabeth Nulty, aged 18; Annie Nulty, 16, Ellen Nulty, 14, and Patrick Nulty, 9. They were the children of Michael Nulty, a farmer, who lives in a secluded spot about four miles from Rawdon.

The murder, which was committed while the parents were away from home, was discovered by August Morin, a neighbor. Morin had occasion to call at the house on Thursday afternoon. He was not aware of the absence of the parents, and was surprised as he approached to find that the door of the Nulty house was broken in. He entered, and a horrible sight met him.

Lying on the floor were the headless bodies of the youngest girl and the boy. Their clothing was saturated with blood, and all about were traces of a desperate struggle. The bodies of the children lay on the floor near the bodies. Morin ran out of the house and almost stumbled over the body of Annie Nulty, midway between the house and the barn. She also had been stricken down and the life pounded out of her.

Morin saw a dark object nearer to the barn, and supposed that it was the body of the third girl, but it proved to be only part of a dress, which had evidently been torn off the body of one of the victims. In the barn to which the path led Morin found the body of the eldest girl, with evidence that she had been assaulted before death had taken place.

The Attorney-General was notified and detectives have been sent to the scene. The murders are supposed to have been the work of a tramp.

ACCUSED OF WIFE MURDER.

A Man of 90, Prominent in Atlanta Politics Before the War, in Jail.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 6.—Albion Bidwell, 90 years of age, prominent in Atlanta politics before the war, and who was voted for for Mayor, is in jail, charged with the murder of his wife, aged 70.

At 8 o'clock last evening the old man gave the alarm that his wife had committed suicide, and before he admitted anybody to the house he gave a detailed statement of where he had been the entire day. Entering, those whom he had summoned found Mrs. Bidwell dead, suspended from a rope, which was tied to the bedstead and then run over a rafter above. She was crouched as though in the effort to choke herself to death. The strange conduct of the husband led to his arrest pending further inquiry. This was his sixth wife.

Secretary Bliss on the Result.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Secretary Bliss has returned from New York. The Secretary takes a different view of the elections than do his Democratic friends. He says the result is what might be expected when a party is split into factional differences, as they were in New York City. He is quoted as saying that had the Republican vote for Tracy and Low been united against the Van Wyck and George vote, the latter combination would have been defeated. The Republicans, he says, will become united before the Congressional elections and will carry the State. He thinks also a Republican Legislature will be elected next year and a Republican successor to Senator Murphy be assured.

Big Day for New York Postoffice.

New York, Nov. 6.—The receipts at the Postoffice on Thursday were, according to Auditor Jardine's report, the largest in the postal history of the city.

There were 1,250,000 two-cent stamps sold, for which the stamp clerks received $25,000, and the sales of other stamps, stamped envelopes and postal cards amounted to about $15,000 more making the total receipts something over $40,000 for the day.

Circus Going to Sea.

New York, Nov. 6.—Barnum & Bailey's advance of "The Greatest Show on Earth" sailed for England at 8 p. m. to-day on the Atlantic Transport steamship Mobile. The group includes some of the performers and the members of the band, numbering sixty-five. The circus will open at Olympia in London, on Dec. 11, and will remain in Great Britain for at least one, and possibly two years.

SENATOR WOLCOTT BACK.

He and Gen. Paine, Commissioners on Bimetallism, Return.

New York, Nov. 6.—United States Senator Edward O. Walcot tand Gen. Paine, two of President McKinley's Commissioners on Bimetallism, who have been abroad trying to induce European countries to join with the United States for the free coinage of silver, got here last night on the Campania. Former Vice-President Stevenson, the third Commissioner, was expected on the same steamer, but at the last minute he decided to wait.

Senator Wolcott and Gen. Paine decline to say anything about their mission abroad, which was successful in France, but unsuccessful in England. Senator Wolcott said that as his mission had been an official one he did not feel that he had a right to speak until he had made a report of his work to the President. He said he would stay in New York a day or so, and would then go to Washington. It was possible, he said, that he might have something to say before he left for Washington.

Frank Lane, the Californian, who is boss of the National Silver party, also arrived on the Campania. He said that the failure of President McKinley's commission was not a matter for disappointment, for failure was to be expected. The free coinage question, he said, is now exactly where it was before Senator Wolcott and Gen. Paine went abroad, except that it is now known that France stands ready to aid in bringing about the bimetallic standard as soon as it can be done.

"There never was any hope of accomplishing anything in England," said Mr. Lane. "The commission received courteous treatment there, but that was all. I'll tell you what it is, though, there are plenty of bimetallists in England, and the number is constantly increasing. There is nothing to do here in this country now but wait and let the people learn. The question of free coinage is a question on which the people of this country must have another chance to vote, and the next time they will vote right, if they know what their interests are."

CONDITION OF NATIONAL BANKS.

Figures Showing a Constant Increase of Resources and Deposits.

Washington, Nov. 6.—The figures reported by the 3,610 national banks of the country, under the call of the Comptroller of the Treasury, showing their condition on Oct. 5, have been compiled in the bureau, and the totals make an interesting commentary on the improved condition of things. As compared with the statement of July 23, the date of the last call (the number of banks reporting being the same), the principal items are:

	July 23.	Oct. 5.
Loans and discounts	$1,966,891,500	$2,048,589,976
Specie	240,922,601	239,243,827
Legal tender notes	126,511,020	107,136,624
U. S. Certificates of deposit	46,085,000	42,275,000
Individual deposits	1,770,480,563	1,851,192,930
Total resources	$3,563,408,053	$3,701,247,664

The records show a constant increase of resources of the banks and of individual deposits during the year, although the number of banks decreased from 3,676 on Oct. 6, 1896, to 3,610 on Oct. 5, 1897.

INCREASE OF THE ARTILLERY.

Secretary Alger Pleased at the Action of the Chamber of Commerce.

Washington, Nov. 6.—The action of the New York Chamber of Commerce in calling for an increase of the artillery arm of the army to man the new sea coast batteries of New York harbor gives great satisfaction to Secretary Alger, for in his annual report he will ask for an increase of two regiments of artillery for the very purpose set forth by the Chamber.

For several months a board of army officers has been collecting information concerning the number of additional men necessary to garrison the new fortifications. They have been to all the newly fortified ports on the Atlantic, the Pacific and the great lakes, and as a result of their observations are strongly of the opinion that at least two more artillery regiments are required.

The work of providing batteries for the new fortifications has not progressed as satisfactorily as the War Department expected, but additional efforts are being made at this time to hurry the completion of the big guns and get them in position.

The People Believe

What They Read About Hood's Sarsaparilla

Their Faith in This Medicine is Grounded on Merit

They Know It Absolutely Cures When Other Medicines Fail

Hood's Sarsaparilla is not merely a simple preparation of Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and a little Iodide of Potassium.

Besides these excellent alteratives, it also contains those great anti-bilious and liver remedies, Mandrake and Dandelion. It also contains those great kidney remedies, Uva Ursi, Juniper Berries, and Pipsissewa.

Nor are these all. Other very valuable curative agents are harmoniously combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is carefully prepared under the personal supervision of a regularly educated pharmacist.

Knowing these facts, is the abiding faith the people have in Hood's Sarsaparilla a matter of surprise? You can see why Hood's Sarsaparilla cures, when other medicines totally, absolutely fail.

"My little girl was afflicted with eczema and suffered for seven years. She was attended by physicians and tried many different kinds of medicine without relief. After taking a few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla she was cured." MRS. EMMA FRANKLIN, Honeoye, New York.

Nansen Laughed at Cold.

His Wonderful Vitality—Replenished His Blood with Natural Iron—The Latest Theory of Science Confirmed.

Nansen's experience in the frozen north furnishes many object lessons of the highest value. The strongest of these perhaps is the fact that he and Johansen seemed almost impervious to cold.

The secret of Nansen's fortitude was his great vitality. The fire of health was burning in his veins; in other words iron or Hæmoglobin in his blood was attracting the oxygen he breathed which united with the food he ate and kept the fire of life burning.

If the supply of iron in Nansen's blood had gone below the danger point his story would never have been told. He constantly replenished it by eating meat filled with blood or even blood itself, thus confirming the theory of Dr. Campbell, the English physician, that bullock's blood contained sufficient Hæmoglobin or natural iron to cure disease and renew the waning life of man. After much experimenting Dr Campbell has succeeded in extracting this iron, re-dissolving it and inclosing it in little gelatine globes called Capsuloids. These have been tested in the hospitals of London and by eminent physicians with marvelous results. They are easily swallowed and cause no injury to the teeth, stomach or bowels. The iron passes directly from the stomach to the blood enabling it to carry oxygen and thus kill the germs of disease. Color is quickly restored, chronic diseases are cured, all irregularities are corrected, the action of the heart is strengthened and the nervous system reorganized.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 148 Fulton Street, New York City.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Mrs. Frank C. Vanderbilt, of Atlantic Highlands, has returned to her home after visiting her sister, Mrs. John H. Van Winkle.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Lizzie Huff, of Centreville, Hunterdon county, who has been the guest for several days of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Huff, of Coddington avenue, has returned to her home.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to bilious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hall, of Perth Amboy, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hall, of Duer street.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whoop Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Mrs. Henry Zualan, of Cambridge, Mass., is visiting Justice and Mrs. Joseph E. Mosher, of East Fourth street.

"The worst cold I ever had in my life was cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes W. H. Norton, of Sutter Creek, Cal. This cold left me with a cough and I was expectorating all the time. The Remedy cured me, and I want all of my friends when troubled with a cough or cold to use it, for it will do them good. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, cor. of Park and North avenues.

THE TREASURE IS THERE.

So the Officers of the Imperieuse Say on Their Return from Cocos.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 6.—The British warship Imperieuse, the flagship of the North Pacific expedition in search of buried treasure on Cocos Island, started on the expedition on Sept. 22 without making her destination known. It was announced that the primary object of the trip was to guard British interests in Guatemala while the outbreak under Morales was in progress there. It was generally known on board, however, that that was not the real purpose of the voyage, and officers and crew finally concluded that England had bought the Panama Canal, and that it was their mission to take possession.

When Cocos Island was reached on Oct. 14 the secret of the trip became known. Two civilians who had been on the vessel were found to be Charles Hartford, the reputed discoverer of the Cocos Island treasure, and E. A. Harris, whom he had interested in his tale of buried millions.

When the party on the Imperieuse landed there were found on the island a woman of the name of Gersler and a new arrival from Nova Scotia, a German, who was accompanied by his wife.

The work of digging for the treasure was begun at once under Hartford's directions, and at a spot indicated on a chart which he had. At a depth of five or six feet, Hartford said, would be found a large flat stone or slab. The slab was found as he had said, and the work was continued with renewed energy.

The digging was made difficult by continued rain, but was kept up till a depth of ten feet had been reached. The water had by this time welled into the pit, and a large overhanging rock was on the point of falling upon the men. It was seen to sway, and the searchers withdrew just as the rock fell down, completely filling the hole already made. Instead of blasting out the obstruction, Admiral Palliser, the commander of the Imperieuse, ordered a blast in the hillside itself.

This was barren of results, and then, despite the pleadings of Hartford, the Admiral gave the order to return homeward.

There is no doubt that the search will be completed. The officers and crew of the Imperieuse are firmly of Hartford's belief that the treasure is there. Hartford was landed at San Jose de Guatemala on the homeward voyage, and he there prevailed upon the commander of the United States ship Alert to return with him and take up the search.

THE PROTECTION OF CATTLE.

The Pennsylvania Live Stock Sanitary Board Begins Its Work.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 6.—The Live Stock Sanitary Board held a meeting in the Department of Agriculture yesterday afternoon, and steps were taken toward the enforcement of two acts passed at the recent session of the Legislature. One enables the board to prevent the bringing of contagious diseases of live stock into the State, and the other gives it authority to make certain tests whereby they shall determine the different conditions under which certain diseases of cattle thrive best. In connection with the enforcement of the first act the board will station at various places in the State inspectors whose duty it shall be to see that no infected cattle are admitted into the State. Arrangements will be made by the board with United States inspectors at different places without the State whereby they will inspect cattle about to be shipped into Pennsylvania, and in case they are healthy will give certificates to that effect which will carry the cattle past the State inspectors.

In relation to the other act, by which the Legislature appropriates $15,000 for experiments in diseases of cattle, the board has decided to erect in the Veterinary Department of the University of Pennsylvania a building for these tests. In this building infected animals will be placed under varying conditions in order to determine which develops the diseases. Gov. Hastings, as president of the board, was in the chair.

PURCHASE OF ADIRONDACK LANDS.

1,000 Acres of Virgin Forest Added to the State Preserve.

Albany, Nov. 6.—The State Forest Preserve Board yesterday decided to purchase a tract of 7,000 acres of Adirondack, virgin forest land in the Moose River tract, on West Canada Creek. This territory, which is now owned by the Adirondack Timber and Mineral Lands Company, lies partly in Township 9 and covers all of Township 10, in Hamilton County. Chauncey Truax and Frank H. Platt, of Tracy, Boardman & Platt, of New York City, have represented the present owners in the negotiations with the commission. The purchase price agreed upon was practically $7 an acre, the total for the tract, a small part of which was not so valuable on account of having been lumbered, being $127,000.

The board also purchased 9,000 acres of virgin forest land in Township 41, Hamilton County, of Dr. Seward Webb at $7 an acre. The board's inspectors estimate the value of most of the spruce timber on this land at $7.50 per acre.

LINER ON FIRE AT SEA

The Southwark, for Antwerp, Returns to New York.

PASSENGERS FRIGHTENED

Cotton in the Lower Fore-Hold Was Smoking—Big Ship Puts About and Steams Back to Her Pier—201 Passengers.

New York, Nov. 6.—The steamship Southwark, of the Red Star line, which sailed from this port on Wednesday for Antwerp, with 200 passengers and a large crew, returned yesterday and docked at her pier at Fulton street, at 4 p. m., with her cargo of cotton ablaze.

The fire was confined to twenty-six bales of cotton in the forward hold. This cotton was piled upon several hundred bushels of grain.

The fire was discovered late Wednesday afternoon, shortly after the Southwark was out of sight of land. There was great excitement among the passengers. Smoke poured out of the hold and through the port holes in great clouds.

Capt. Benche called the passengers together in the main salon and assured them there was no danger. He said the fire was confined to a steel hold and that it was impossible for the flames to break through.

As soon as the fire was discovered steam from the injectors was rapidly pumped into the hold. This subdued the flames and left the fire smoldering.

The luggage of the passengers and the most valuable part of the freight was rapidly dragged on deck. The vessel was then headed back to this port, much to the relief of the more hysterical of the passengers. She steamed slowly up the river, and by the time the pier was reached the fire was so far out she could be docked.

Those who watched the steamer approach her pier under her own steam could discover no evidences of anything wrong aboard her, but as she was warped into the dock a faint odor of mingled smoke and steam was wafted ashore.

The passengers were gathered along the rails watching for familiar faces on the wharf, and waving hands and fluttering handkerchiefs to those whom they recognized.

Without delay a large gang of 'longshoremen were set to work opening up the forward hatch and getting out the cargo from the upper hold. Great clouds of steam came up when the hatch of the spar deck was raised.

In half an hour or so the hatch of the main deck was reached and opened and the 'longshoremen got at the cargo below. Truck 10 came to the street end of the pier with its long ladders, and some of these the firemen brought to the ship in readiness for their final battle below the water level, and they brought axes and other implements for their work. The fireboat was in the slip alongside ready to turn on Niagara.

At 5 o'clock the hatchway of the lower deck was raised. Then instead of steam there arose a cloud of blue-gray smoke. The firemen went down with their ladders, and the New Yorker turned her floods of water upon the burning cotton and kept that up until the last spark of fire was out.

It was not possible last night to get any estimate as to the damage done, but it was asserted that this was practically confined to the cargo in the forward hold. The Southwark is a twin-screw boat of 5,700 tons register and 8,700 tons gross, and is 477 feet long. Her hold is divided into watertight compartments by nine steel bulkheads. Among the saloon passengers are the Rev. F. X. Lachance, of Newport, who was on his way to Brussels, where he is to be the guest of Bellamy Storer, United States Minister to Belgium.

FOSTER'S DOG BETRAYED HIM.

Unwittingly Discovered His Master to His Pursuers.

Paris, Nov. 6.—At the examination of William R. Foster, the absconding attorney of the Gratuity Fund of the New York Produce Exchange, who was arrested at Neuilly on Oct. 23 upon a charge of stealing $13,000 belonging to the fund, it was shown that he was elaborately disguised before his capture. He had shaved the hair from his head and substituted a wig, and in other ways endeavored to conceal his identity, but, curiously enough, he was always accompanied by a splendid dog, which the American detective in search of Foster recognized. When the detective saw the animal at Neuilly he called to him. The dog at once answered to his name, and leaped upon the detective in a friendly way. Foster, betrayed by his canine friend, was soon afterward taken into custody.

It is likely that the London and Paris police will become involved in a dispute over the reward of $5,000 which the New York Produce Exchange offered for Foster's arrest.

His Kiss Cost Him $25.

New York, Nov. 6.—"Twenty-five dollars is rather steep for a kiss," said Peter O'Neill, when fined that amount in the Butler Street Court, Brooklyn, yesterday.

O'Neill kissed his housekeeper without her permission, and she had him arrested for assault.

After paying his fine, O'Neill and his housekeeper left the court-room together, apparently on better terms with each other.

The Contest in Ohio.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 6.—The contest for control of the Legislature will probably be taken to the courts. Official returns from about one-fourth of the eighty-eight counties have been received by the Secretary of State. The returns of close counties have been protested, and it is proposed to prevent the issue of certificates of election to certain legislative candidates, if the courts will so order.

Theatre Crash in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Nov. 6.—Following the Hammerstein failure in New York comes the announcement that Harry Davis' liabilities amount to $130,000.

A receiver will probably be appointed for the three-theatre combination which Davis attempted to maintain in this city.

HATS OFF, PLEASE.

On Monday evening the Spielkartenfest is to open. Ladies, in the name of the public of Plainfield who will attend that monster benefit, we ask one favor. Please take off your hats. The seats are all on the same level and a row of tall hats will make it impoesible for those in the rear to see the stage, so for the sake of that worthy charity, remove your bonnets. It is fast becoming the usual thing for the majority of the ladies who attend entertainments in this city to remove their hats and the movement thus started is a worthy one. A continuation of it at the Spielkartenfest will be greatly appreciated by management and public.

Union county can have North Plainfield just as soon as she wishes it, and the sooner that she annexes it the better.—Somerset Democrat.

It is evident that the animus of that sentiment is partisan. Had North Plainfield been out of Somerset county election day George Vosseller, the Democratic candidate for Surrogate, would have been elected. Thus the borough was the Somerset Democrats Waterloo. There is no question but what Union county will welcome North Plainfield into its bailiwick, but leaving politics out of the question we think that when the time comes for such a move—as it inevitably will—there will not be that spirit prevalent as is manifested in The Democrat's editorial. The borough, to use a trite expression, is "a good thing" for Somerset county.

LITERARY STUDENTS.

High School Pupils Renew Their Interest in The Kappa Delta Phi.

Now that winter is at hand, the students of the High School of this city have turned their attention to things of a literary character, and yesterday afternoon the Kappa Delta Phi, the literary fraternity of that institution, resumed its meetings for the winter. The prospects of the organization for the approaching season are very bright.

The meeting of the Kappa Delta Phi was held in the High School building and all the regular members were present. There was an informal discussion of plans for the winter and then the new officers were elected. The election resulted as follows: President, William A. Fisher; vice-president, William A. DeLong, Jr.; secretary and treasurer, Arthur W. Lederer; critic, Henry W. Brower; sergeant-at-arms, E. Stanley Peck.

The programme for the meeting consisted of a talk by William A. Fisher on the methods employed at railroad accidents to relieve the suffering of the injured.

Three applications were received and will be acted upon next week.

Programmes were arranged for the next two meetings. For the next meeting, William A. DeLong, Jr., was appointed to give a short talk on any subject he wished. For the next meeting a debate was decided upon on the following subject: "Resolved, That Football Has a Derogatory Influence on the Modern College Student." William A. Fisher volunteered for the affirmative and Arthur W. Lederer for the negative. They will act as principals, and their seconds will be chosen at the next meeting.

PROGRESSIVE PEOPLE.

To Have Sides of Eighth Street Macadamized by Residents.

The residents of West Eighth street, from Spooner avenue to Grant avenue, have ordered seventy-five tons of crushed stone for the space between the present macadam and the curb space.

They will use the city sprinkling cart and roller, but will pay the entire cost of the macadamizing themselves.

This is in line with what has been done on Central avenue and other streets, where the owners paid for the stone to macadamize the gutters while the middle of the street was being done by the city.

—An entertainment will be given in Monroe Avenue church at an early date.

—Rev. H. J. Johnson will speak and the Drew Seminary Quartette and Miss Blair will sing at the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow at 4:15 p. m.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Postmaster Coriell was in New York yesterday on business.

Mrs. Louis Snyder has been the guest of Plainfield friends.

Mrs. W. H. Terry is visiting friends in Brooklyn for a few days.

Mr. Lance, of Plainfield, was in town yesterday on business.

The borough football team met yesterday afternoon for practice.

John VanMiddlesworth is suffering with a severe attack of asthma.

The work of painting the Presbyterian church will be completed next week.

A very interesting meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held last Thursday afternoon.

Miss Marston, of Plainfield, is a guest at the home of Captain Thompson and wife.

Mr. Henry is much improved from his illness and was able to walk outdoors yesterday.

The tracks of the Central Railroad are being re-set over the Washington avenue crossing.

Miss Lizzie Hunt and Miss Frances Hunt are visiting Mrs. W. Wilhelm at South Easton, Pa.

P. C. Staats was in Newark yesterday on business. He drove there with his stylish young team.

Business has been suspended at the stand at the end of the trolley, and will probably remain so for a time.

Lewis Randolph, of West Front street, is filling in the long ditch in front of his property on the above street.

There will be no more bowling on the green at Mr. Schepflin's residence this season. The last game was played about a week ago.

Benjamin Carpenter and George Crandall, of New Market, have secured the contract to erect street signs in Plainfield.

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church held a meeting yesterday afternoon and transacted routine business.

The people about the borough are beginning to think very seriously about a trolley road through the town, and almost everyone seems to feel that it will be a good thing. Most of the members of the Council are employes of the Central Railroad, however, and just what they think about making competition for their bosses has not yet been learned.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Fanwood Board of Health meets tonight.

Frank Wilcox spent Thursday in Perth Amboy.

Mrs. Myra Heath spent yesterday with friends in Plainfield.

The Fanwood Township Committee and Board of Health met last evening.

A party of Scotch Plains young people took a bicycle ride to Summit Thursday.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a meeting last night and transacted routine business.

Judge Clark is painting the old Fanwood Road House, which has been leased by George Thatcher.

Counsellor E. L. McGirgan and his father, John McGirgan, both of Summit, were the guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Wilcox.

Norman Dunn has received the appointment of postmaster of Scotch Plains and will take possession of the office as soon as his commission is received from Washington. The present postmaster, Fred Clark, completed his term on July 1st, and has been holding over since that time. The business of the office has been managed in a very satisfactory manner by Miss Emma Clark and Miss Sadie Walpole.

Mr. N. N. Osburn, well-known at Woodstock, Mich., was troubled with a lame back. He was persuaded to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It gave him relief in one night. This remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

WESTFIELD

SIGNATURES NOT LEGAL

SO L. G. COHEN CLAIMS OF NAMES GIVING TROLLEY RIGHT OF WAY.

Township Business Considered by Board of Health and Township Committee—Claims He Struck Her—Other Items.

At the meeting of the Westfield Township Committee, held last evenidg, L. G. Cohen entered a protest against the validity of the signatures obtained by the trolley company for its right of way, claiming that a number of the signatures are those of trustees and holders of title under tax sales, and as such are worthless for the purpose of gaining right of way. The protest was entered upon the minutes for future consideration by the Committee. A protest was also made by a number of south side property owners against the practice of the Committee in allowing garbage to be dumped upon a certain piece of land known as the dumping ground. The property owners in question claim that the accumulation of garbage at that place has grown to be a nuisance, and has lowered the value of adjacent property. A request was sent to the Central Railroad Company that it furnish night flagmen to guard the railroad crossings at Central avenue and Broad street. Heretofore these crossings have been left unguarded at night, and a number of serious accidents have nearly resulted. C. A. Smith was appointed a commissioner of appeal to fill a vacancy existing upon the board. The township treasurer was authorized to renew notes for two months for $3,100 on township account, and bills amounting to $763.02 were ordered paid.

The Westfield Board of Health met in the town rooms last evening and received reports from the inspectors to the effect that a number of nuisances reported at the last meeting of the Board had been abated by the property owners. Dr. J. B. Harrison reported that the public schools were in good sanitary condition. Two cases of chicken pox were reported under the contagious disease law during the past month. Inspector Marsh was ordered to locate the drain running from Clark street to Elm street, and to cut it off on the west side of Prospect street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Peckham and Miss Ruth Peckham were driving along Broad street in their carriage this morning when the horse stumbled and fell at the corner of Elm street throwing the occupants from the carriage. Fortunately the animal did not attempt to run away, and Mr. Peckham and his family escaped with no injuries other than with a few slight scratches.

Volney Cushing, the noted temperance lecturer will speak in the Presbyterian church tomorrow morning, and in the evening he will address a union meeting in the Methodist church. On Monday evening his noted lecture "The Lost Atlantis" will be heard in W. C. T. U. Hall.

Minnie Hamilton, of Mountainside, made a complaint before Justice Collins yesterday, charging Lorrin Mack, of Mountainside, with committing an assault and battery upon her yesterday morning. The Justice will give Lorrin a hearing at the Mountainside postoffice tonight.

The sale of Westfield property to satisfy unpaid taxes was continued in the town rooms yesterday afternoon, and the property of Mrs. Fannie Harbison, on North Broad street, was sold for a term of 30 years to the highest bidder.

The members of the Westfield Township Committee and a few other guests were given a ride over the Newark and Bloomfield trolley system today as the guests of the Westfield and Elizebeth Street Railway Company.

The Westfield High School football team plays a team from St. Francis Xavier's College, New York, on the North Broad street grounds this afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. William A. Rice, of Newark, were in Westfield yesterday.

The A. O. V. bicycle division takes a run to Plainfield this afternoon.

R. F. Hohenstein is confined to his home by illness.

THEATRICAL.

Frank Harvey has always been noted for his cleverness in intermingling strong, melodramatic situations, heart interest, tears and pathos and bright bubbling comedy of the most humorous and hilarious kind. In his new play "Brother for Brother," every pathetic situation is shaded by a feature of comedy, which fact has made the piece one most strongly appreciated by all classes of people. The dialogue is bright and crisp and the situations strong and stirring. At Music Hall tonight.

—Next Monday evening there will be a rally of State Christian Endeavor officers at the First Baptist church, at which time plans for the winter work will be considered.

THE NATURALIST.

CHAPTER I.

"Now, Mary, I have spoken!" Mr Peel threw himself back in his chair as if that settled the matter once for all.

"I heard you, dear," sweetly responded Mrs. Peel; "and now listen to me. I have accepted Herr Schmidt's offer, and he will enter the adjoining house as tenant to-morrow."

"Not if I know it, madam!" shouted Phineas, jumping from his chair and bringing his fist down on the table. "Do you think I am to have Rhyd cottage turned into a menagerie, and my garden into a howling wilderness. The house may remain tenantless forever, but Herr Schmidt and his monstrosities shall not enter there."

"Herr Schmidt, my dear, is merely a naturalist."

"I know it!" stormed Phineas. "I've heard of these plaguey naturalists before. I've no desire to come down stairs some fine morning to find a ring-tailed monkey sitting on the window-sill, acting as referee while the kangaroos and crocodiles play leapfrog over the flower beds. No madam! No naturalists for Phineas Peel."

Pretty Mrs. Peel never allowed her temper to get the better of her. She laughed softly at her husband's fears, and did not alter her determination in the least.

"Has it slipped your memory, Phineas," she asked, "that Rhyd cottage is a portion of my property? If I choose to let it to a naturalist—even though he be a foreigner—I am perfectly justified in doing so."

This was true enough, and Phineas calmed down.

"Herr Schmidt's collection of monstrosities, as you call it," went on Mrs. Peel, "probably contains nothing more dangerous than a death's head moth in a bottle. Anyhow, I have no intention to disappoint him."

"But I—"

"You will treat him with the respect due from one gentleman to another, Phineas," broke in Mrs. Peel. "And now, dear, we'll dismiss the subject."

Phineas was—though at times he doubted it—a lucky fellow. He carried off a young and handsome woman from a host of suitors.

Why Marq Morsden had chosen to bestow her hand and fortune on such a plain, every-day sort of a fellow as the diminutive Phineas Peel was always a mystery to her acquaintances. The wedding was an accomplished fact before her relatives had recovered from the shock caused by the announcement of her engagement.

Mary appeared to be happy enough, too. Phineas, taken as a whole, was not a bad sort of a fellow. He was jealous, that was true, but his wife came to regard that as an extra proof of his devotion.

Had the proposed tenant of Rhyd cottage been an aged, decrepit, broken-down old man, Phineas would have stretched out the right hand of fellowship. But alas! Herr Schmidt was young and handsome—far too handsome, Phineas thought.

"Very well, Mary," said Phineas, taking his hat from the peg and making for the door; "you have overruled me as usual, and must be prepared for the consequences. In less than a week we shall have the house and garden overrun with every conceivable variety of reptile—from the beastly lizard to the boa constructor."

And Phineas stalked indignantly forth with the merry laughter of his wife ringing in his ears.

CHAPTER II.

A month or more had passed, and so far, the fears of Phineas had proved to be groundless. Herr Schmidt's "monstrosities" had been kept well within bounds, and as yet Mr. Peel had not seen so much as a strange caterpillar in his garden, which never looked better.

However, he was not happy. He had taken an aversion to the new tenant from the first, and would never be satisfied until he had got rid of him.

"Confound the fellow," muttered Phineas, one evening as he sat on an upturned bucket behind the peasticks, "he's prowling about on the other side of the hedge again. Hope he won't catch sight of me, for I'm about tired of his oily tongue, and eternal smile. Hullo! what the deuce is the meaning of this?"

Down the garden path tripped Mrs. Peel. The naturalist was evidently expecting her, and greeted her with a smile that almost brought tears into the eyes of the furious Phineas.

"Good-evening," he said. "You vos joost a leetle late!"

It was soon evident that this was not the first chat indulged in over the boundary hedge. Though Phineas strained his ears, he could not catch the drift of the conversation. Like a flash, he remembered that Mary had often of late taken a stroll in the garden at dusk. Was this the explanation?

Phineas had been glaring at the couple from behind the peasticks for ten minutes or so, when he saw his wife take a rosebud from his favorite tree and hand it over the hedge with a charming smile to the delighted Herr Schmidt. Then, with a pleasant "good-night," Mrs. Peel tripped lightly into the house.

"You villain!" hissed Phineas, savagely, jumping from his seat and shaking his fist after the retreating figure in the next garden. "I'll pay you out for this."

The rage of Mr. Peel was something to be remembered. Nothing but blood, he vowed, would obliterate his wrongs. But he would be cautious. He would smile and smile, and murder while he smiled. Seizing a peastick he tragically buried it in the heart of an unoffending cabbage, and played havoc with a stately row of sunflowers.

Half an hour later Mary saw him take down a huge old-fashioned duck gun from the hook in the hall.

"There's a German vulture in the neighborhood," he volunteered, impressively, "and I'm going to bag him at the first opportunity."

However, as nothing short of an earthquake would have induced the old gun to go off in any circumstances—and Phineas had made assurance doubly sure by dropping in the shot first and the powder afterward—the "vulture" in question was not likely to be seriously damaged, and Mary contented herself with expressing a hope that her husband would not hurt himself.

On the following evening Phineas took up his old position in the garden, with murder in his heart. Herr Schmidt, however, did not put in an appearance. After waiting some time Phineas re-entered the house and reared his duck gun up in the hall in a conspicuous position.

He had almost decided to run up to town and consult his brother John, the detective, with a view to having the movements of Herr Schmidt watched, when he was startled by the click of the letter box.

A scrap of paper lay on the mat. Picking it up, Phineas glanced at it, turned deadly pale, then hurried into the garden. Scribbled in lead pencil on dirty paper was the following:—

"Peel has discovered everything. We have not a moment to lose, and must clear out to-night. The front door is unsafe. Will met you at the back—10·30 sharp."

CHAPTER III.

There was no signature.

"Good gracious!" exclaimed Phineas, after reading the note for the third time. "I'd no idea matters had gone so far. Oh, yes, Mr. Schmidt," he added, grimly, "I'll meet you at 10:30 sharp."

It was about 10:45, and raining heavily. Phineas Peel, seated on a wall overlooking the back of Rhyd cottage, with his duck gun laid across his knees, was beginning to feel uncomfortable.

"The note said 10:30," he muttered. "It must be after that time now. What's that?"

Phineas had caught the sound of heavy feet moving cautiously over the gravel. He grasped his gun and peered into the gloom, but could distinguish nothing.

Suddenly he heard voices, evidently at the front of the house. He was about to quit his position under the impression that Herr Schmidt was leaving by the front door, after all, when one of the back windows was cautiously raised, and the lithe form of the naturalist dropped lightly to the ground.

Creeping along the side of the wall on which Phineas lay, he presented an excellent mark. Mr. Peel, however, could not bring himself to shoot a man down in cold blood. He would give him a chance.

"Stop, you scoundrel!" he shouted.

The effect of the challenge was scarcely what Phineas had anticipated. Herr Schmidt darted forward and seized the barrel of the gun. He was much the stronger of the two, and Phineas was pulled down from the wall in a twinkling.

"Keep your tongue still, you fool," he hissed, "or I'll brain you. Now, quick, help me over the wall."

Phineas hesitated, but the threatening attitude of the other induced him to rise. However, he had no intention of giving in.

Bracing himself for the effort, he exerted all his strength, and pulled Schmidt bodily from the wall. He fell flat on his face, and before he could recover himself, Phineas jumped on his back and seized him round the throat, emitting a yell that would have done infinite credit to a Sioux Indian.

The next moment Phineas was dragged off from behind, and found himself in the clutches of a burly member of the local police force.

Four or five others seized Schmidt, who struggled in vain to free himself.

"What am I arrested for?" gasped Phineas. "There's your man!"

Phineas would no doubt have been led off with the other prisoner but for the timely arrival on the scene of the last person in the world he had expected to see—his brother John!

"Here, what on earth is the meaning of all this?" he demanded, when, as the result of John Peel's interference, he found himself free.

John stayed behind a minute or two to explain that Herr Schmidt, the "naturalist," and Edward Harper—the notorious forger who had defied New Scotland yard for the past six weeks—were one and the same.

"It was a smart dodge of Harper's," said John Peel, "and he might have got clear away but for that clever wife of yours, Phineas. Mary suspected the man from the first, and supplied me from time to time with valuable information. It is to her entirely that the credit of the capture is due. Tell her I'll call round and thank her myself to-morrow. By the by, the gang of which he was the head got wind of our intentions, and a man was despatched with a warning. Harper doesn't appear to have received it."

Then Phineas began to understand things a little more clearly.

"I suppose this will be it," he remarked, producing the note and handing it to his brother. "You see, the messenger left it at the wrong door, and I—er—I thought I might as well see the fun.

For some time after Phineas was of the opinion that he had made a fool of himself. Lately, however, he has taken a different view of the matter, and is never tired of relating how he literally "dropped on" Harper, the forger, alias Schmidt, the naturalist, next door.

The Tables Turned.

We have almost solved the servant girl problem.

Instead of the maid being mistress, we have made it possible for the mistress herself to be mistress.

The tables are turned, and we have turned them.

We have accomplished it to the mutual satisfaction of everybody. The plan is so simple that the wonder is nobody ever thought of it before.

Cheap but good laundering of general house linen enables every housekeeper to have the washing done out of the house. For instance.

Counterpanes 10c each.
Table Cloth 5c "
Sheets - 3c "
Towel, Napkins 1c "

What does our proposition mean? It means no more washday odor about the house. It means satisfied servants, because a maid will not be insolent if she can escape washdays and the delay of other work caused by bad drying days. Our booklet "Tables Turned" tells all about our new plan. You can have it for the asking.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

The Healthy Condition of Business as Indicated by Less Failures.

New York, Nov. 6.—Stronger proof of the great change in the condition of business could not be given than is found in the detailed report of failures by branches of business, never shown except by Dun & Co., for the month of October. Though swelled by a few large speculative or brokerage failures, the aggregate was smaller than in any other month for more than four years, except in July and August and one month in 1894. The manufacturing and trading failures, $7,824,199, against $7,830,811 in September and $7,760,835 in August, include one for $1,000,000 having no relation to the present state of business. During the four years iron manufacturing failures have not been smaller except in one month, wool manufacturing except in two months, leather and shoes and unclassified manufacturing except in four months, and cotton manufacturing except in six months. Of trading classes, failures have never been smaller in groceries, jewelry and books except in one month, in clothing, furniture and unclassified trading except in two months, and ten manufacturing and eleven trading classes out of fourteen have never reported smaller failures in a third of the past forty-eight months. Improvement so general, with a remarkably low average of liabilities in most classes, has a meaning which cannot be mistaken.

The quiet following the great rush of orders and purchases for over two months is still increased in many branches by unseasonably mild weather, and yet the mills are obliged to refuse many orders because unable to finish previous engagements soon enough. It is in every way fortunate for the industries and the would-be buyers, since speculative purchases would otherwise advance prices so fast as to make reaction probable. More works have joined the active list, including some long idle, and the production in iron manufacture is the greatest ever known.

Another rise in wheat lifted the price above $1, but profit-taking speedily caused reaction, and the price closed 2½ cents lower for the week. Receipts were about a million bushels larger than last year, and Atlantic exports, flour included, were 3,287,536 bushels, against 1,862,533 last year. Exports in October, as in September, were heavier than in any preceding month, and after gloomy reports of the condition of Winter wheat extensive rains have caused material improvement. Corn has grown stronger in spite of the course of wheat, and authorities much credited estimate the yield at 1,823,000,000 bushels, which would hardly permit continuance of heavy exports in place of wheat through the year. Cotton has not lifted above 6 cents, and the accumulation and declining prices of goods, with the somewhat increased prospect of extensive stoppage of English mills, causes less speculation than usual.

Exports and imports at New York since Oct. 1 indicate a larger excess of exports than has ever been known, which must provide against needs of gold for some time to come. Failures for the week have been 276 in the United States, against 230 last year, and thirty in Canada, against fifty-two last year.

SITUATION IN MARYLAND.

Senator Gorman's Successor Attracting the Attention of Republicans.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Senator Gorman's defeat for the Senate being practically conceded by the Democrats, the Republicans are giving their attention to the question of the probabilities of the Republicans obtaining control of the United States Senate after 1899. At present the Republicans have a plurality in the Senate over the Democrats, but fall short of a majority over the Democrats and Senators of the silver party. The Republicans expect to retain the seat now held by Senator Hanna, and in addition to gain the seat held by Senator Mitchell (Dem.), of Wisconsin. Other seats which they hope to gain in 1899 to give them control absolutely of the Senate are those held by Senators Faulkner, West Virginia; Gray, Delaware; Murphy, New York; Smith, New Jersey; Turpie, Indiana, and White, California. According to the present outlook the only seat now held by the Republicans which they are in danger of losing is that held by Senator John L. Wilson, of Washington.

The question of Senator Gorman's successor is attracting the attention of Republicans, and the contest bids fair to become one of national interest. Among the most prominent candidates mentioned are Postmaster-General Gary, Representative Mudd, Judge McComas and Gov. Lowndes. In addition to these gentlemen there are a score of other names mentioned. The talk regarding Postmaster-General Gary, it is believed, will come to naught, as the Postmaster-General is from Howard County, the home of Senator Gorman, and his own county sends a solid Democratic delegation to the Legislature. If Howard should be urged as a candidate he would have to rely on support outside his own county.

There is some talk of Senator Wellington taking a hand in the contest, but as he was overwhelmingly defeated in his party primaries and took no part in the Maryland campaign, and besides predicted the success of Gorman, the junior Senator is generally discredited in Republican ranks.

New for the South Pole.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Fritjof Nansen is perfecting plans for a trip to the South Pole, and has consulted with several prominent explorers in this city on the proposed scheme. Although no definite plans have yet been made, it is probable that the Antartic expedition will be undertaken in the Spring of 1899.

The professor's stout little steamer Fram, which is moored in Southern Norway, is in excellent condition, and able to stand the Southern trip with comparatively little repairs.

Mgr. Schroeder Has Neuralgia.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Mgr. Schroeder, whose case at the Catholic University attracted so much attention recently, is at the residence of his friend, the Rev. George Glaab, of St. Mary's Church, in this city. He is suffering from neuralgia, and as soon as he is physically able to be out will leave Washington for an indefinite period.

CUBA AND THE CABINET

Spain's Second Note Not Yet Received at Washington.

GEN. LEE SEES McKINLEY

Members of the Cabinet Reticent Regarding Yesterday's Meeting. Nothing Has Been Heard from Minister Woodford.

Washington, Nov. 6.—The officers at the State Department, with an air of sincerity, asserted yesterday that they knew positively nothing of the intention of Spain to inform the United States that she would do as she pleased about granting autonomy to Cuba. Absolutely nothing, they said, had been received at the department from Gen. Woodford at Madrid since the dispatch containing the synopsis of Spain's reply to the first representations of this Government respecting its desire to see peace restored to the Island.

"Throughout the course of the Spanish-Cuban negotiations it has been the case that the aim of the Spanish authorities has first come to our knowledge through the columns of the press," said one of the officers. "We know nothing of the answer made to Gen. Woodford's presentation of the views of President McKinley's administration until we saw it in the papers."

It was evident from the size of the bundle of papers carried to the Cabinet meeting by Secretary Sherman from the State Department that the Cuban matter would be presented for consideration.

After the adjournment of the meeting the members of the Cabinet were reticent about the character of the business transacted. As far as can be learned no definite policy was arranged for future negotiations with the Spanish Government. Several telegrams telling of the apprehension in Wall street were read at the meeting. Secretary Sherman went away early, and after his departure the various Cabinet officers discussed with the President matters relating exclusively to their departments. Attorney-General McKenna talked privately with the President about the selection of a Police Judge for the District of Columbia, and Postmaster-General Gary went over with Mr. McKinley the applications of a number of candidates for Postmasterships.

To Court-Martial Weyler.

Madrid, Spain, Nov. 6.—The Spanish Government has decided to court-martial Gen. Weyler, no matter where he lands, if he confirms the truth of the remarks attributed to him at Havana. The commanding officers at all Spanish ports have been instructed to demand of Gen. Weyler the moment he can be communicated with the exact terms of his speech.

Not to Molest the Three Friends.

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 6.—It is semi-officially announced that there will be no trouble here upon the arrival of the Three Friends, alleged to have been a filibuster, and which is now bound to Havana on a legitimate commercial errand.

Opposition to Honoring Weyler.

Santander, Spain, Nov. 6.—A public meeting, to arrange a reception for Gen. Weyler, was attended by such riotous opposition that the Mayor was obliged to dissolve it.

RELIEF FOR STARVING MINERS.

Portland Chamber of Commerce Ask War Department to Help.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 6.—President Mason, of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, has sent the following telegram to Secretary of War Alger, at Washington:

"Starvation and death confront the unfortunate miners on the Yukon through failure of the trading companies to get supplies into the interior before the close of navigation. The Chamber of Commerce of Portland has undertaken to relieve the distress which must appear before the ice releases the supply steamers, and for this purpose it will donate provisions and supplies. The Chamber asks the co-operation of the War Department in transporting this relief from Portland to the most accessible point on the Alaskan coast, whence the relief expedition may carry it to the imprisoned gold miners. Will you co-operate with us in this undertaking?"

Witnesses Did Not Arrive.

New York, Nov. 6.—Carl Peterson and another witness for the defense of Martin Thorn, indicted jointly with Augusta Nack for the murder of William Guldensuppe, were expected, according to Lawyer Howe, to arrive yesterday on the Fuerst Bismarck, but did not come. Peterson, it is said, will swear that Guldensuppe had no tattoo marks on his body such as the witnesses here described, and the other witness, whose name is withheld, will swear, it is said, that he has seen Guldensuppe alive since the time the murder is supposed to have been committed.

The World Sued for $250,000.

New York, Nov. 6.—Gen. Charles H. T. Collis, Commissioner of Public Works, has begun an action for $250,000 damages against the World. The papers in the case were served on Wednesday, and as yet no answer has been filed. The action is based on an article in the World of Wednesday, Oct. 6, in which Gen. Collis is flatly accused of forcing contractors who have been successful in their bids for city work to accept as one of their sureties the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland.

A House Clerk Killed by a Train.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Herman L. Lewis, a clerk in the House of Representatives, was struck by an incoming train on the Pennsylvania Railroad, in this city, at an early hour yesterday morning and instantly killed. His body was discovered about half an hour after he was killed by the conductor of a yard engine. The acident occurred at a point just half a mile from the Pennsylvania station, and in an entirely different part of the city from that in which Lewis lived.

NOTABLE NEW YORK WEDDING.

A Nuptial Union in Which Several Plainfield Families Were Interested.

A beautiful wedding, in which several Plainfield families were interested, took place Thursday at high noon in the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Fifth avenue, when Miss Lillian Sprague Darrow, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Darrow, of Yorktown, N. Y., was married to William Fields Beal, of Boston. The officiating clergymen were Right Rev. Henry C. Potter, Rev Dr. Morgan and Rev John Williams. Mrs. Walter N. P. Darrow, of Columbus, O., the groom's sister, took the place of Miss Ginna, who, on account of illness, was unable to be present, as maid of honor. The bridemaids were Miss Julia Little, of Boston; Miss Wood, of Plainfield; Miss Rankin, of Brooklyn, and Miss Frances Brown, of Fall River, Mass. The best man, Frederick Tudor, and the ten ushers, were all from Boston. They were George Cabot Lodge, Bowdoin H. Crowninshield, Francis R. Bangs, Alfred Curtis, George Tyson Charles Merriott, 2d., Charles W. Dabney, Edward M. Horton, Henry S. Blake and Francis B. Crowninshield.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Y. M. C. A. evening class basket ball team will play a game with the Summit Y. M. C. A. team in this city next Friday evening. The Summit team is remembered here for the good record which it made last year against the Plainfield team, each one having scored three games and closed the season with even records.

The Y. M. C. A. students' basket ball team, composed of players from fifteen to seventeen years of age, will play the Summit junior team at that place next Saturday.

The officers of the State Christian Endeavor Society will hold a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. building Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. held a meeting in the association building Thursday night, and listened to reports from the various committees and from the secretaries and the physical director. The enrollment in the educational classes was reported to be much larger this year than ever before, and the attendance at the young men's Sunday afternoon meetings was larger by eleven than the average attendance of last year. In the physical department, thirty-three examinations of students have been made during the past month. Thirty-four new members were elected.

A Wonderful Instrument.

Vanderbeek & Sattels take great pleasure in announcing that at a very early date they will have on exhibition one of the new "Orpheus" organs, made by Story & Clark Co. As soon as it arrives it will be set up, and programmes will be rendered The "Orpheus" is the latest and most wonderful development of the application of pneumatics to the organ, and enables the rendering of a programme from a two-step to a Liszt Rhapsodie. The great merit of the instrument is its motor, which enables one to faithfully follow the proper tempo of any composition according to the metronome. Then, too, the price is so placed that it is within the reach of all lovers of music.

"PROFESSOR" JONES DIDN'T PAY CITY

He Says He Thought His Political Friends Had Settled for Him.

"Professor" Walter Jones paid another visit to the city jail this morning. He did not want to go, but that didn't make any difference. The trouble was that Jones had not paid his fine that he owed the city and the City Judge had ordered him to be apprehended. Jones had an excuse ready, however. He explained that he had applied to some of his political friends for help and that he had understood that one of them had succeeded in having the fine remitted. It was explained to Jones that he was on the wrong track but as there was some foundation for his belief he was given another day to scrape the money together.

MARY ELLEN LEASE IN JERSEY.

She Will be a Spectator at the Lincoln Council Meeting Next Week.

The Lincoln Council, which is partly composed of women, comes to the fore again. Mrs. Mary Ellen Lease, the famous woman politician of Kansas and other sections of the country, has accepted an invitation extended by Mayor Drake, and will be present at the meeting of the Lincoln Council next Wednesday afternoon. She will watch the women of Lincoln legislate, and at the end of the session deliver a few remarks over what she has observed.

Held for the Grand Jury.

John Duffy, who was arrested yesterday at Bayonne for being implicated in several thefts in this vicinity, especially at Boyce's Hotel in the borough, was arraigned before Recorder Thomas this morning. After an examination the Recorder thought the evidence sufficient to hold the man for the Grand Jury, and in consequence he was sent to Somerville. An account of the man's doings was published in The Daily Press of yesterday.

Funeral of Mrs. Raybert.

The funeral of Mrs. C. M. Raybert was held this afternoon from the house at 2:30, and there was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The officiating clergyman was Rev. W. C Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church. The pall bearers were Elias Bird, A. G. Carpenter, M. L. Bullock, D. W. Littell, E. M. Laing and W. A Woodruff. Interment was in the Plainfield Avenue Cemetery.

Lawrence McCann's Funeral.

The funeral of Lawrence McCann the young man who was killed while at work in the C. & C. Electric Company's factory at Garwood, Thursday morning, was held from St. Mary's R. C. church at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The attendance was very large. Rev. Father Murphy officiated, and interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Their First Appearance.

The Park Male Quartette made its first public appearance last evening at the consecration meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church. The quartette is composed of W. S. Lowry, W. R. Brokaw, George Watts and Thomas A. Cuming. They have decided to become a permanent organization.

A Sudden Gale.

A severe gale of a few minutes duration was felt in this city this afternoon. Hats and awnings fled before the blast while the big show case in front of Schloss's shoe store on West Front street was wrenched from its anchorage and blown over. The four glass sides were wrecked.

ROUGH ON THE HIGH PRIEST.

On Account of a Superstitious Belief He is not Allowed a Natural Death.

It is told by persons supposed to be well informed that the people inhabiting the district around the Congo River share with the Ashantees, the belief that if their high priest, the Chitome, were to die a natural death the whole world would follow suit at once, and dissolve into air, for it is, according to them, only held together by his personal will.

Accordingly, when the pontiff falls ill, and the illness is serious enough to make a fatal termination probable, a successor is nominated, and he, as soon as he is consecrated, enters the high priest's hut and clubs him or strangles him to death.

A somewhat similar custom obtains in Unyoro, when the king falls seriously ill, and seems likely to die, for his wives kill him. The same rule is followed if he gets beyond a certain age, for an old Unyoro prophesy states that the throne will pass away from the family in the event of the king dying a natural death.—Golden Days.

Queenly Indignation.

Willieboy: "That doosid Jones girl tried to be sawcastic at my expense, but I think I made her feel that I was wespected, don't you know."

Hargraves: "Yes. She told me about it. She said you were positively queenly in your indignation."

Ex-Gov. Pender Dead.

Milton, Del., Nov. 6.—Ex-Gov. James Pender died at his country seat at this place yesterday.

He had been ill for some weeks, and his death was not unexpected. He was nearly 70 years of age.

Gov. Pender was one of the foremost, as well as one of the richest men in the State. He practiced law in his early life, but eventually identified himself with large insurance companies.

He was a man of great popularity, and was noted for his charity and kindliness.

Criticised Mayor Weidel.

Reading, Pa., Nov. 6.—Thirty-two Protestant clergymen of Reading yesterday afternoon published a series of resolutions, signed by each clergyman and the church he represents, vigorously attacking Mayor Weidel for the speech of welcome he delivered to the State Liquor League in convention here a short time ago. Mayor Weidel is a Democrat. In a speech of welcome he said that in days gone by there was agitation of sumptuary laws.

Guatemala Bars Chinese.

New York, Nov. 6.—Joaquin Yela, Consul-General of Guatemala here, asks the newspapers to publish this notice:

"The laws of the Republic of Guatemala forbid in explicit terms the immigration of Chinese into its territory. In consequence no steamer should receive on board any passenger born in China or son of a person born in China and bound for any port of that republic."

Synagogue Burned in Denver.

Denver, Col., Nov. 6.—Fire gutted the Jewish synagogue at Twenty-fourth and Curtis streets, yesterday afternoon, leaving the walls roofless and the handsome structure well-nigh a total loss. It is estimated that the damage done will not fall far short of $20,000. A defective flue is supposed to have caused the fire.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

WOMAN.

O woman, in your hour of ease,
Uncertain, coy and hard to please,
We've all been held across your knees,
When your hand felt like a swarm of bees,
But what of that? We love you still,
And, what is more, we always will!
Wear what you may, do as you like,
Hold offices and ride the bike,
Be married if it please you to,
Yet nothing that you e'er can do
Will make you proof against the charms,
That comes when yielding to man's arms.
Love steals into your heart! Ah, then
You're just sweet woman once again!

"MARGIN" WON EASILY

SPEEDY EXHIBITION OF R. A. FAIRBAIRN'S TROTTER.

Defeated "Lady C" in the Much-talked-of Race Last Saturday—A Large Crowd Present—Track Was in Fine Shape.

Lovers of horseflesh were gathered in large numbers at the Plainfield Driving Park, on Saturday afternoon, to witness a series of the most interesting racing events which have taken place this season. The managers counted upon a large attendance, and their hopes were realized notwithstanding the fact that the wind blew a gale, whirling clouds of dust around the track, and rattling the grandstand and other buildings until every rafter shook. The crowd of spectators numbered fully 1,000 persons.

The attention of the crowd was first directed to the condition of the track, and this they found to be very fast.

The first race was for first and second gate money, and the entries were Judge W. A. Coddington's "Belle," N. B Smalley's "Bolette," S. Hall's "Aldah H" and A. C. Campbell's "Lady C." Notwithstanding the fact that in the allotment of positions for the start "Belle" received the outside position, furthest from the pole, she performed excellently, winning the heats in one, two, three order, and capturing the first purse. N. B. Smalley's "Bolette" finished second in the first two heats, and third in the third heat, winning second money.

In the third heat A. C. Campbell's "Lady C." did considerable running, and for this was given last place in the heat, although she finished second. Had it not been for this break "Lady C" would have tied "Bolette" for second place, and another heat would have been necessary between the two.

The event upon which the most interest centered was the match race between the fast mare, "Margin," 2.17¼, owned by Robert A. Fairbairn, of Westfield, and the grey mare "Leota C.," with a mark in the twenties, owned by A. S. Case, of "Three Bridges." The race was for a purse of $500. Both horses were known to be very fast and good actors on a half mile track, and the horsemen were about evenly divided as to the result. "Margin" was driven by James P. Allen, who has managed her in all her races in the sulky, and who drove her for a mark of 2.17¼ in the fifth heat of her last race at Fleetwood. "Leota C." was driven by W. H. Coville, who managed the Belle Mead Farm stables last season, and is known as a horseman of excellent judgment.

The judges were careful to give neither horse any advantage in the start, and recalled them a number of times in each heat. The first heat was won by "Leota C." by half a length in 2:24¼. The knowing ones ventured the opinion that "Margin" had not been urged to her best speed, and the outcome of the race proved that their judgment was correct.

The second heat was won by "Margin" by a nose. "Leota C.'s" driver claimed the heat, saying that he had been cut off at the pole and to slow up and take the outside. The claim was not allowed, however. The next two heats also went to "Margin" who, at this time, was easily outclassing her opponent.

The late John A. Goldsmith's old pupil, "Muta Wilkes," owned by Robert A. Fairbairn, next trotted an exhibition mile, attempting to beat the track trotting record of 2:22. The little bare mare was in excellent form, although she has not been upon the track this year until Thursday. The wind also was against her, but she did the mile in fine form in 2:19, with "Jimmy" Allen in the sulky. The time at the quarters was 34 seconds, 1:09½, 1:43½ and 2:19.

"Muta Wilkes" will probably not be seen upon an American track again, as she has been sold by Mr. Fairbairn to a party in Russia, and will be sent across the water shortly.

The judges were J. V. N. Willis, of Belle Meade, E. B. Allen, of Flemington, and W. C. Hendrickson, of Belle Meade. W. F. Quimby, of New York, acted as starter. The decisions of the judges were satisfactory in every particular, and were rendered with excellent judgment. Thomas Brantingham, of South Plainfield, acted as clerk.

The following is a summary of the events:

FIRST RACE.

"Belle," Judge W. A. Coddington	1	1	1
"Bolette," N. B. Smalley	2	2	3
"Aldah H," S. Hall	4	4	2
"Lady C," A. C. Campbell	3	3	4

Time, 2:29½, 2:29½, 2:32.

SECOND RACE.

"Margin," R. A. Fairbairn, Westfield	2	1	1	1
"Leota C," A. S. Case, Three Bridges	1	2	2	2

Time, 2:24¼, 2:24, 2:23¼, 2:24.

Judge Coddington Gave a Dinner.

Former City Judge Coddington gave a dinner to a number of his friends at the City Hotel Saturday evening, in honor of the victory of his horse at the Gentlemen's Driving Park in the afternoon.

SONS OF VETERANS $250 RICHER.

Their Fair Last Week Proved to be a Profitable Event.

The Sons of Veterans' fair closed Saturday night under the most favorable circumstances. The largest crowd of the week was present, being attracted to learn the result of the contests. The contest for the diamond ring was won by Jennie Smith, of Grandview avenue. In the contest for the feather boa Mrs. Summers was victorious. She turned in $15.65, while her opponent, Mrs. Cox, turned in $10.50. The greatest interest centered in the contest for the watch. Miss Mamie DeNise finally won by handing over $30.21, and her opponent, Mrs. Sutton $28.40. The successful contestants were heartily applauded by the crowd.

In the drawing for the handsome oil painting presented by Mrs. Stephens, Mrs. N. B. Smalley was the lucky one to secure the picture. The number was 196. Mrs. Thomas Dond was awarded the picture of a war scene for being the most popular member of the Woman's Relief Corps.

Toward the close of the evening the audience was favored with a vocal duet by Messrs. Vail, and a vocal solo by John Moran. Each was heartily applauded and responded to an encore.

The committee desires to thank all who in any way assisted in making the fair the great success that it was. All of the goods on the fancy and candy tables were disposed of at auction, and Edward Smith, chairman of the committee, proved to be a most excellent auctioneer.

URGED FIGHT AGAINST ALL EVILS.

Rev. J. S. Braker's Inspiring Words to Old Christian Soldiers.

A soldiers' meeting of unusual interest was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Watchung avenue yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the committee on soldier and sailor work. The president, Mrs. Elizabeth Parse was in charge of the service and welcomed the members of the G. A. R who were present in goodly numbers. A prayer was offered by Rev. J. S. Braker, of Scotch Plains. The next number was an appropriate vocal solo by Miss Minnie G. Morse, accompanying herself on the autoharp.

The address of the afternoon was made by Rev. Mr. Braker, who had been invited to speak to the veterans. His subject was taken from an Old Testament story of warfare. Mr. Braker spoke forcible to the veterans and urged them to put on the whole armor of God and not only fight against all the evils of the world, but especially against the saloon and intemperance. Mr. Braker's words were listened to attentively and at the close he was thanked many times for his earnest address.

After the address several vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Honeyman and Horace Martin, Jr., accompanied by Miss C. R. Yates on the piano.

STATE ENDEAVOR OFFICERS HERE.

A Conference Being Held This Afternoon—Public Rally Tonight.

The State officers and the heads of departments of the Christian Endeavorers of New Jersey will visit in Plainfield this afternoon and evening. In the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the State executive committee and the State officers met at the First Baptist church. At 6:30 o'clock, a supper will be given to the members of this committee and the members of the executive committee of the Plainfield Local Union in the Seventh-Day Baptist church. A public rally will be held in the First Baptist church this evening, the song service beginning at 7:45 o'clock. There will be short addresses by the different State officers.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

Justice Newcorn's court was a busy place last week. The case of Linke against Muldowney was adjourned for thirty days. Judgement in full and costs rendered for the plaintiff in the cases of Werner against Seader, on contract, and Hand against Meier, on contract. The case of Newman against Peck was adjourned for a week. Summons were issued in the contract cases of Menzel against Rogers, returnable on the 8th, Kriney against Stryker, returnable on the 10th, Kriney against Stewart, returnable on the 10th, Kriney against Chase, Jr., returnable on the 10th, Kriney against Chase, Sr., returnable on the 10th, and Clark against Williams, returnable on the 12th.

New York Philharmonic Club.

H. O. Newman has arranged for a series of three subscription concerts by the popular Philharmonic Club, of New York, assisted by eminent artists, to be given in the Casino this winter. The public will remember the delightful entertainments given by this club three years ago, and will no doubt hail their reappearance with great pleasure. The prospectus will soon be issued.

THE 'FEST WILL BE A REAL BRILLIANT FAIRYLAND

THE BIG HOSPITAL BENEFIT TO OPEN IN ALL ITS GLORY THIS EVENING.

A Dress Rehearsal Held Saturday Evening and the Participants Showed a Thorough Understanding of the Beautiful Dances—Just a Brief Forecast of What the Affair is to be.

Patrolman Mattox opened his eyes in silent wonder, Saturday evening, as he saw all sorts of strange characters gathering at the Crescent Rink. There were knights and ladies, charming little pages, sailor lassies, German peasants, Venetian gondoliers, bright and dashing hussars, besides gypsies and beautiful little Spanish maidens, who hurried in that direction. It was altogether a brilliant procession that entered the rink all prepared for the grand dress rehearsal for the Spielkartenfest. Yes, the Spielkartenfest is at hand and tonight the people of Plainfield will be introduced to its beauties and its wonders. The long weeks of difficulty and preparation are over and tonight the monster benefit for the Muhlenberg Hospital will open in a blaze of glory at the Crescent Rink, corner of Watchung avenue and East Fourth street.

Those who were privileged to witness the final rehearsal for the Spielkartenfest Saturday evening had a fore taste of the pleasures to come this week. All except the men in the Hornpipe had their costumes ready and wore them to this rehearsal. There was a small army of them and with their escorts and members of committees, they occupied the first division of the seats.

It was wonderful what a difference the costumes made in the dances. There is not one of them but that is remarkably pretty and sure to please an audience, no matter how critical. There was general comment on the new costumes. Everybody thought that those of the Kirmess of two years ago were beautiful, indeed, and so they were, but the Spielkartenfest costumes are even better. As a result, Miss Stewart was receiving lots of praise for the fine appearance that each group of dancers made.

Each of the dances was rehearsed until it went off without a hitch, but in most cases only one trial was necessary. It would not be fair to either management or participants to tell all of the secrets of that rehearsal but let it suffice to say that he or she who stays at home during the time of the Spielkartenfest is making a sad mistake that they will be sorry for in the future.

The novel feature of the Mirror dance showed at once how it is bound to rise in popular favor. Those who witnessed it Saturday night were unanimous in their praise of it. All the dancers enter into the full enjoyment of it and the bright costumes and the enlivening music add to the effect. It is the largest dance of the programme and it's "all right."

The Dance of the Aces is really a serpentine dance given by four of Plainfield's charming young women. They are well drilled and with the effect produced by the different colored lights, there is no doubt as to its success.

Now if there is one dance in the entire entertainment that will completely captivate the audience, it will be the Dance of the Pages. Those who saw it Saturday night were so pleased that they could not restrain their applause until it was over but continued it at intervals throughout the dance. There is something so inspiring about it that the feet instinctively keep time and the spectator catches himself humming the same tune that the orchestra plays so enthusiastically. The costumes are bright and pretty and the young people who take part in it have entered in the dance with heart and soul. Just watch the reception which that dance receives tonight.

The Dance of the Red Cards is a dance of startling military effect. The young men are attired like hussars in uniforms radiant with gold braid and colored broadcloth, while military capes hang in graceful folds over their shoulders. Their fair partners are clad in appropriate gowns of red, gold and white which correspond in general effect with the uniforms of the men. The duet in this dance is a charming one and is bound to win a hearty reception.

The Black Cards are the Venetian gondoliers whose dance is strikingly adapted to that land of song, of romance and of poetry, Venice. In connection with this dance there is a surprise in store for tonight's audience which must not been revealed by those who saw it Saturday night.

The charming little Spanish girls who take part in the Danza Cubana are well trained and their dance, which is a pleasing combination of graceful movements, was very pleasing.

The Court Cards cannot help being favorites. The success of the Court Minuet of the Kirmess has assured that. The costumes are even richer than before.

The Hornpipe is a difficult dance, but by plenty of practice the young people in that dance are prepared to make a fine appearance and hold their own with any of the dances. The costumes for that dance are very appropriate.

The Gypsies make their appearance in the Tambourine Dance which is wierd and suggestive of the wild life of these Bohemians. The Chrysanthemum dance is altogether different, but equally attractive. It is given by the maidens only. Very charming, indeed, do the fair dancers, with their long hair curling about their faces, look as they pass through a series of light and graceful movements that make one think for the time being that there is no such thing as care and worry.

Even if the crack Boston players did defeat the Park Club four at whist, they can still put up a good game and the game of "Living Whist" in which they are to participate will be scientific enough to suit all. You ought to see the Joker in his rich costume as he gracefully heads the grand march. The compliments he received afterwards would have turned the head of an ordinary being. In this case it is the right man for the right place. There is no use telling anything about the grand march, you can see for yourself tonight.

What a transformation has been made in the Rink itself. The walls and rafters are hidden by the decorations and booths. Artistic minds have been at work and what a wonderful place has resulted. The booths are all completed and the finishing touches were added. They have been stocked with all variety of articles, useful and ornamental. There are the soda water and ice cream departments and the restaurant. The soda water fountain was opened Saturday night, and the dancers, warm with their exertions, found the cooling beverages much to their taste. There is no need of trying to attempt to describe the interior of the place; a visit there will be far better and more satisfactory.

Remember, the doors open tonight at 7:30 o'clock, and the old saying, 'Come early and avoid the rush," is very applicable on this occasion. If you can't come tonight, the Spielkartenfest lasts all this week, and you will be as welcome one night as any other. Don't think, however, that you can see everything in one night. When you have gone once, you will want to go again, and the Spielkartenfest will furnish you an unending means of enjoyment.

A Klondike Supper.

Class No. 1, of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, will hold a Klondike supper in the rooms over the Misses Gorsline's store, on West Front street, Friday evening, November 19th. Twenty-five cents will be charged for the supper, and the proceeds will be given towards completing the new Sunday-school room.

A Simple, But Important Act.

Roundsman Frederickson should be commended by every owner of a bicycle for a simple act he did yesterday on North avenue in front of Hotel Grenada. He dismounted from his wheel and picked up the broken pieces of a bottle that had been thrown in the street by some careless person, thus saving many a punctured tire.

A 'Fest Button.

W. R. Cock, the secretary of the board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, has devised a very neat souvenir for the Spielkartenfest. It is a button after the style of those which were so generally used by the bicycle dealers last year and has on it a hand holding five cards, a "straight flush," by the way, and the words, "Spielkartenfest, Plainfield, 1897," on it.

Installation of Elders and Deacons.

Yesterday morning before delivering his discourse, the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., publicly installed, F. E. Smith, H. J. Martin and A. L. Force as elders, and E. E. Anthony and C. M. Thorpe as deacons, of Trinity Reformed church.

RELIGIOUS INTEREST STIRRED.

Revival Meetings are Marked With a Fervent Spirit of Devotion.

Grace M. E. church was not large enough to hold the number of people who were desirous of attending the revival service last evening. The audience was made up of many who were not professing Christians, and this cheered the hearts of the workers.

The Drew Quartette was present and sang several effective selections. The discourse of the evening was delivered by Rev. Sherman Powell, who took for his text the words: "Examine yourselves, and see if ye be of the Faith." From those words he spoke earnestly and impressively, drawing many practical lessons which were helpful to those present. He spoke of the many ways in which one must examine themselves and gave a number of Scripture selections by which a person could determine whether they were in the faith. The sermon was an awakening one and stirred the hearts of all, as could be plainly seen.

After the first service many remained and went up to the altar. Many who were professing Christians renewed their allegiance to God, and many unconverted gave themselves up to His service.

Tonight the service will be in charge of the Drew Quartette and it is to be hoped that the attendance will be fully as large as it was last evening.

A CHANCE TO HEAR MRS. LEASE.

The Distinguished Kansas Woman to Visit Lincoln Next Wednesday.

As announced exclusively in The Press last Saturday, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lease will visit the Lincoln Common Council next Wednesday afternoon. This morning Mayor Silas D. Drake received a letter from Mrs. Lease saying that she would arrive in Lincoln on the train reaching there at 2:42 p. m.

Since Plainfield is the home of so many New Jersey women who are ardent advocates of woman's suffrage, and as Mrs. Lease is one of the most distinguished public women in the country, it has been suggested that it would be a very nice idea if some of the Plainfield women would go to Lincoln Wednesday afternoon, where they could have the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Lease.

As a matter of fact, Mayor Drake tells The Press that all Plainfield women will be warmly welcomed at the Council meeting. Those who care to go to Lincoln can do so by taking the train that will convey Mrs. Lease there, which passes through Plainfield at 2:32 o'clock.

FUNERAL OF MRS. RAYBERT.

Largely Attended by Friends—Kind Words Spoken by the Minister.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Charles M. Raybert was held from the house on North avenue last Saturday afternoon at 2:30, and there was a very large attendance of friends and relatives. The service was in charge of Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the departed, and, owing to a request, there was no discourse. Mr. Snodgrass offered a fevent prayer, full of comfort and help to the bereaved ones. The floral tributes beautifully expressed the sympathy of those who presented them. There were tributes from Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, the Exempt Firemen's Association, and also from a large number of personal friends of the departed. Interment was in the Plainfield Avenue cemetery. The bearers were Elias Bird, A. G. Carpenter, M. L. Bulloek, D. W. Littell, E. M. Laing and W. A Woodruff.

Looking for a Factory Site.

The New York Compound Engine Company, of which City Judge DeMeza, of this city, is president, is now considering a location for its factory and machine shop. The site that is favored at present is at Snooter's Island, near the point where the Kill von Kull connects with Newark Bay. The island is completely equipped with buildings and is owned at present by the Tide Water Oil Company. A meeting of the board of directors of the company will be held next week to consider the matter.

Studying Bible Readings.

It has been the custom for Rev. A. E. Main, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, to conduct a teachers' class once a week for the study of the Sabbath-school lesson. The meetings of this class are now held Sunday evening and they have taken up the study of a series of Dr. Lewis' Bible readings.

Justice Nash's Court.

Justice Nash has issued summons in the contract cases of Boice against Johnson, returnable on the 16th, Randolph against Blair, returnable on the 11th, Wolf against Ryno, returnable on the 10th, and Coddington against Clark, returnable on the 10th.

NURSES WERE DRUNK.

MEN STUPIDLY INTOXICATED DIDN'T KNOW DEATH HAD COME.

Abraham Synder's Life Light Was Snuffed Out While His Bed Was Surrounded by Those Who Thought He Was Sleeping.

While four men loitered around his bed in a stupidly intoxicated condition, ostensibly administering to his dying wants, Abraham Synder passed out of this world yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in his home at Chimney Rock.

Synder was the proprietor of the big cider mill at the Rock, whose distillings are known all over Somerset county, having inherited the property from his father who had run it years before him. Four days ago he was stricken to the bed suffering from the ravages of dissapation, so it is said. In his family were five children—the oldest not yet in her teens—a housekeeper, his wife having died a year ago, and four men who were employed about the cider mill.

Snyder's system was not in a condition to withstand the attack that it had been subjected to, and he failed rapidly. Though the man should have had constant attention, his wants were only looked after by the housekeeper as she could snatch a few moments now and then from the duties of caring for the children and looking after the meals of the men employed in the cider mill. The men employed by Snyder were an unpolished set, rough and ready for most any sort of work. But withal there was spirit of sympathy in their hearts for the man who lay on what was likely and did prove to be his death bed.

Yesterday was their day of rest, and with their ilk Sunday is usually a day of drink and sport. The better side of their nature shone yesterday when they decided to remain by the side of Snyder and endeavor to ease the last moments of his existence. As the morning wore away they found the mission of caring for a sick man to be a sombre one.

They finally sought solace in copious doses of intoxicants, which were continued until the condition of embryo nurses is alleged to have bordered on to the maudlin state. During the morning Synder suffered several convulsions, during which they were compelled to hold the writhing man by physical force to keep him in bed.

Shortly after 1 o'clock Synder had a convulsion, after which he quieted down and apparently dropped off inio a deep slumber. By this time the liquor they had imbibed had made them stupid,

About 2 o'clock William Perrine, of this city, who had journeyed to Snyder's home to see him, went into the room to discover a pallor on his face and a set way in his body that betokened death. The men seemed to have had all their acuteness blunted by the effect of the liquor and they sat there, one of them holding his hands, serene and composed in the belief that he had fallen into a peaceful sleep.

Perrine lost no time confirming his his suspicion that life had left the body. The pulse and heart had stopped beating and the hands had that clammy feeling so indicative of the presence of death.

He did his best to arouse the intoxicated men to a realization that Synder's life had passed over the great divide while they had been unconscious witnesses of the flight. After a few minutes he succeeded in making them understand the situation and then under his direction the dead body was laid out flat on the bed and the corpse was left alone in the room.

Ten minutes later Dr. Murray, of Bound Brook, drove up to the house to attend Synder, but when he found that he was dead he drove away.

The sad news of the death of their father and protector was carried to the children, but they were too young to realize its import and they continued their prattle and playing as though nothing unusual had happened.

In conversation with a Press reporter this morning Mr. Perrine said that the case was certainly a very pitiable one and deserving of the attention of kind-hearted people—more for the sake of the little orphans than anything else.

During the past year death has dealt severely with the Synder family, both father, mother and wife of the dead man having been carried off in a sudden way.

Church Membership Increased.

Communion services were observed at the Crescent Avenue, the First Presbyterian and Congregational churches yesterday morning. At the Crescent Avenue church, two members were received into the church, one on confession of faith and one by letter. At the First Presbyterian church, two members were received into the church by letter. Three members were received by letter at the Congregational church.

NINETEEN SAILORS LOST

Wreck of the Steamer Idaho on Lake Erie.

ONLY TWO MEN SAVED

Engine Fires Put Out and Boat Helpless in Gale—Mate and Deckhand Clung to a Spar for Eight Hours—Rescued Just in Time by a Passing Steamer.

Buffalo, Nov. 8.—The steamer Idaho, caught in the fierce southwester which swept over Lake Erie on Friday night, foundered in eight fathoms of water at 4.30 o'clock Saturday morning, twelve miles above Long Point, which juts into Lake Erie from the Canadian shore, sixty-five miles west of Buffalo. Of her crew of twenty-one men two were saved.

Eight hours after the disaster the steamer Mariposa sighted the single spar which marked the grave of the Idaho. Clinging to that spar, hardly out of the reach of the fierce sea, were the two survivors of the wreck, almost frozen from the long exposure in their wet garments. One of them had been made insane temporarily by his sufferings.

It was no light task to rescue them from the spar. The captain of the Mariposa ordered his small boats down, but they could not live in the sea. Then he tried throwing lines to the men, but the men were too stiff and cold to hold onto them. After two hours' manoeuvring he worked the Mariposa around to the spar and dragged the sailors aboard.

The rescued men were William Gill, a deck hand, whose home is in Rochester, and Louis La Force, Jr., the second mate.

The list of the drowned is as follows: Capt. Alex Gillies, Mate George Gibson, Engineer William Clancy, Assistant Engineer Nelson Skinner, Watchman Louis Gilmore, Wheelmen Richard McLean and Robert Williams, Lookouts A. J. Richard and Henry Thomson, Firemen Conrad Blanker and William Gregory, deck hands Edward Smith, a man named Bell and Fred Mumford; Steward John D. Taylor, Assistant Steward John Leahy, and one fireman, one deck hand and one porter, names unknown.

The Idaho is owned by the Western Transit Company. She was built more than thirty years ago, and had been out of commission for four years, but was rigged up for business late this season. This was her second trip, and excepting the captain and firemen the crew was practically new. Sailors did not fancy her for traffic so late in the year. She left Buffalo on Friday afternoon, laden with package freight for Milwaukee. She was 220 feet long, with a net tonnage of 908 and a gross tonnage of 1,110. During the G. A. R. Encampment the Idaho was used as headquarters for the naval veterans.

TRAIN HELD UP AND BURNED.

Desperate Work of Four Robbers on the Atlantic and Pacific Road.

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 8.—The Atlantic & Pacific passenger train No. 2 from the West was held up by four men near Grant's Station, ninety-five miles west of this city, at 7.30 Saturday night. After blowing open the express company's safe the robbers wrecked the train, which caught fire, the express, baggage and smoking cars being totally destroyed.

It is not yet known whether they were successful in obtaining booty, but it is thought a large amount of money was carried by the train.

The robbers had boarded the train at some point further west, and when near Grant's one of them climbed onto the engine, and, covering the engineer with a gun, ordered him to stop the train.

The coaches were cut off and left at the stock yards. The rest of the train was then taken out a mile and a half from the station, where the express safe was dismantled.

After robbing the safe the robbers reversed the engine and made their escape.

The engine and baggage car ran at a terrific rate until they struck the coaches, which were standing near the stock yards, and set them on fire.

Fortunately the passengers had all left the coaches before the collision, and none were injured.

A late rumor is to the effect that the fireman, Henry Ablo, who was compelled by the robbers to run the engine when the coaches were cut off, was killed by the explosion when the safe was blown open.

GEN. REEDER WON'T COMPROMISE.

His Trial for Alleged Defamation to Begin This Week.

Easton, Pa., Nov. 8.—The trial of Gen. Frank Reeder, Assemblyman Weiss and M. C. Luckenbach for conspiracy to defame John Wanamaker is set down for the term of court beginning to-day. Subpoenas have been served on witnesses to appear on Wednesday. The case will go to the Grand Jury unless the prosecution admits that it has no case against the accused. The defendants will press for immediate trial, and it is expected it will be begun Wednesday afternoon or Thursday.

It was said in a dispatch from Pottsville that there was a conference there last Thursday between lawyers representing E. A. Van Valkenburg, the defendant in the bribery case in that county, and attorneys representing Senator Quay, Congressman Connell, of Scranton, and Gen. Reeder, looking to a settlement of the Van Valkenberg and the Reeder cases. So far as this relates to Gen. Reeder it is an error. He has declared that he would never settle nor compromise his case.

The Van Valkenberg case is another matter, with which Gen. Reeder is in no way associated, except that he has been summoned as a witness. He is indignant over persistent publications that he desires to or is willing to settle his case.

Vermont's Smallest Baby.

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gingras, of Burlington, Vt., are the parents of the smallest baby in that State. The infant weighs a pound and a quarter, is ten inches long and perfectly formed. It has every indication of being healthy, and the doctor thinks it will live.

AS CHAIRMAN JONES SEES IT.

He Thinks the Elections Show a Growth of the Silver Sentiment.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Senator James K. Jones, of Arkansas, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, has returned to Washington and will remain until the opening of Congress. Of the result of the elections last week he said:

"It is an omen of coming and greater good. This result convinces me that the silver sentiment grows and grows, and that by the next Presidential election it will have grown to an irresistible growth. Error dies from a pin scratch, but truth survives a cyclone. When it comes to a long race and hard race the Democratic party gets.

"Of course it would have been more desirable had Mark Hanna been buried under an avalanche of Democratic votes, but when a great man saves his scalp only by the skin of his teeth it is virtually a defeat. Ohio Democrats are very good fighters when they get roused, and I am sure that in the Presidential election they will be fully aroused. Between now and then we will do a great deal of missionary work, and I am convinced that the Republican party will do a great deal for us also. Democratic revival meetings will be held all over the country, and many hitherto good Republicans will see the error of their ways and straightway reform.

QUICK JUSTICE.

Murderer Sentenced to Death by Hanging at Express Rate.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 8.—The legal trial and sentencing of John Morgan, of Jackson County, will go down in the records of West Virginia as a sample of justice as swift almost as lynching. Morgan brutally murdered three members of the Green family early on Wednesday morning, and was sentenced on Saturday to be hanged, having been duly indicted on Thursday and tried with all formality on Friday.

Five hours from the time the first evidence was taken in the case before Judge Reese Blizzard the jury had returned a verdict of guilty, and it was only sixty hours after the commission of the crime until the death watch was placed over the condemned man.

A mob was formed Wednesday night to lynch Morgan. Judge Blizzard stayed at the jail with the Sheriff all night, three times addressing the mob and promising a speedy trial, no favors and full penalty for the accused if he were found guilty. His promises satisfied the mob. Morgan made a confession, but said that he had committed the murders in self-defence.

Morgan weighs 125 pounds, is 27 years old, has large blue eyes, a hooked nose and a low forehead. He comes of a bad family, his father having been murdered by his mother, who was in turn murdered by a brother of her victim.

HANNA WILL BE RETURNED.

There Will Be No Contests in Ohio or Maryland.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Democrats coming to Washington from Ohio and Maryland almost without exception admit that Senator Hanna will be returned and that Gorman is defeated. The talk of contests in either State is deprecated by the most conservative, and they seem inclined to acept the results of last Tuesday's verdict without question.

Democrats from the East are much encouraged by the results in New York and New Jersey, and say that the indications are that Democratic Senators will be returned in place of Murphy and Smith. Democrats hope for Congressional gains in Pennsylvania next year. They say that it is notable that for the first time in many years the Republican vote in the State is less than that of the combined opposition vote.

CONFESSES MURDER.

Thomas Nulty Admits Killing His Three Sisters and Little Brother.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Thomas Nulty, the eldest brother of the victims of the Rawdon murder, has been arrested on suspicion of having killed his three sisters and one brother. The arrest was made Saturday at the instance of Detective McCaskill, of Montreal, who has been working on the case.

The prisoner is about 20 years of age and has been of a roving disposition. He said that he was away from home on the day of the murder and returned to the scene at midnight after it had been committed. He first denied all knowledge of the crime, but his actions aroused suspicion, and he was accordingly arrested.

Later in the afternoon Nulty confessed to murdering his three sisters and brother at Rawdon.

Miner's Wife Dies of Starvation.

Shamokin, Pa., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Joseph Coshak was found dead in bed at Mount Carmel on Saturday, and the authorities have since learned that she starved to death. Her husband went to his work in the mines Saturday morning without a morsel of food, and the children found weeping over their dead mother were almost famished. Both of the parents have been sick for several months. The poor authorities will provide for the family.

Important Iron Ore Find.

Crystal Falls, Mich., Nov. 8.—The most important iron ore discovery on the Menomee range in several years has been on the bank of the Michigaume River, one mile south of the Mansfield mine. The vein is 77 feet deep and 40 feet wide. The ore assays 62 per cent. in iron and .051 per cent. in phosphate, thus putting it safely with the Bessemer limit.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Albert Sampson, of Jersey City, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents on East Fifth street.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The Women's Association of the Congregational church will give a sociable Friday evening.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.
I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to bilious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

PLAN OF CURRENCY COMMISSION.

Rate of 2 Per Cent. on the Proposed Refunded Debt.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The Currency Commission, which has been in session here for several weeks, is ready to formulate a report. It is expected that this will be forwarded to Congress as a petition from citizens and referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

The recommendations of the commission will differ in some particulars from the plan submitted by Secretary Gage at a recent Cabinet meeting. The impression is that the commission will endeavor to popularize its plan by including concessions by the national banks as a compensation to the public for the advantages which the banks would be expected to reap from the system of currency proposed.

The plan will contemplate the withdrawal from circulation of demand obligations upon the Government and the funding of obligations in gold bonds. But it will probably propose a 2-percent. rate on the refunded debt instead of 2½, as favored by Mr. Gage, thus saving a big interest charge to the Government. It will also propose to put upon the banks the obligation to maintain gold payments.

It is estimated that it costs the Government $21,000,000 a year to maintain the parity of the currency, and it is claimed that by putting this obligation upon the banks there will be a saving of that sum to the Government.

Another proposal which is being discussed, but may not be approved, is to levy a tax of a fraction of 1 per cent. upon the banks as an insurance fund to guarantee deposits.

TO OPPOSE ANNEXATION.

Delegation of Native Hawaiians to Visit Washington.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Word has been received here that the delegation of native Hawaiians who will come here to oppose annexation is made up of Prince David Kawanankoa, James K. Kaulia, David Kalauokalini and J. M. Kaneakua. The Prince will pay his own expenses, but those of the remaining delegates will be met by a subscription among the natives, the amount to be raised being $4,500.

The delegation is to arrive at Washington about Dec. 1. Mr. Kaulia will act as official chairman. He will bring with him the resolutions adopted at a mass meeting of natives, the essential feature being opposition to annexation. The delegation will not urge the resolution of the former Queen or of any other representative of royalty, but will confine their efforts to having the present status of Hawaii as a republic maintained. The committee will communicate with Queen Liliuokalani and endeavor to secure her indorsement of this plan, but failing in this they are authorized to proceed without her cooperation for the maintenance of the present status. The delegation expects to have an early interview with President McKinley.

It is said, however, that this movement by the natives may be offset by a counter movement of native Hawaiians favorable to annexation.

CONSPIRED TO KILL MORAES

Attack on Brazil's President the Result of Monarchical Plotting.

Buenos Ayres, Argentina, via Galveston, Tex., Nov. 8.—In Rio Janeiro, Brazil, there is a general belief there that the attempt to kill President Moraes Friday was the result of a conspiracy headed by monarchical plotters.

Whether the conspirators planned the death of Gen. Bethencourt, the Minister of War, who was shot and killed as he stood beside the President, remains to be seen, but there are reasons to believe that they did. The monarchical sympathizers, particularly that portion which was inclined to sympathize with Antonio Conselheiro, the leader of the fanatics, who was recently killed, were very bitter against the Minister of War because of his aggressiveness toward the fanatics, hence a plan to kill Gen. Bethencourt and the President together was not impossible.

Rio Janeiro, in view of the remarkable excitement which followed the deed, is unusually quiet. In the meantime, however, every precaution is being taken to protect the President, as it is feared another attempt on his life may be made. A strong guard has been placed arond his residence.

Several persons have been arrested in connection with the crime. The soldier who tried to kill the President, however, still declines to give any reason for his crime. All efforts to make him talk have proven fruitless.

Masons to Meet in a Cave.

Denver, Col., Nov. 8.—The Grand Lodge of Arizona Masons next Wednesday will hold its annual session in a natural cave 300 feet under ground. Recently workmen in the Copper Queen mine broke into the cavern. Williams Brothers, who own the mine, are Masons, and at once offered it for the Grand Lodge session. There will probably be the fullest attendance ever known by a Masonic governing body in the Southwest.

SPANISH WAR SCARE

Absolutely no Foundation for the Fright Over Cuban Affairs.

SITUATION ONE OF PEACE

President McKinley Expects No Trouble with Spain, and Proposes to Give It Ample Time to Test the New Policy.

Washington, Nov. 8.—"There is absolutely no foundation for this Cuban war scare. There has not been a meeting of the Cabinet for two months when the forecast, so far as foreign affairs are concerned, was so pacificatory.

"The prospect for the navy is so quiescent that the captain of our biggest ship has been ordered to Washington and is sitting upon a Board to prepare a bill for the reorganization of the personnel of the navy service. The rest of the big ships are now undergoing their Winter repairs."

Secretary Long made this statement on Saturday because of the sensational reports which have been published during the last few days that the relations between the United States and Spain were in such condition that war was impending.

Positive information shows conclusively that President McKinley regards the Cuban situation as most pacific, nor does he expect any developments at the present time which will be a just reason for alarm. Your correspondent is able to state authoritatively that it is the firm determination of the President to give Spain a reasonable time in which to test the new policy which Gen. Blanco has been authorized to put into effect in Cuba. He has been officially informed of the intention of Spain to abandon the reconcentration policy, and he is daily expecting the announcement that Gen. Blanco has issued an order extending the zones of cultivation in Cuba.

The prospect of a more humane conduct of the war is a reason, in the opinion of the President, why this Government should go slowly in further interfering in the Cuban matter. Therefore, officials say, the reports of impending trouble are false on their face. Washington and Madrid are acting in full accord, they declare, and, so far as the President is concerned, he proposes to deal with the Cuban question in a sober, calm and dignified manner.

There is absolutely no truth in the report that this Government has replied to the charge of failure to compel compliance with the neutrality laws made by Spain in her answer to Minister Woodford's representations. The reply will be made only after the matter has received the most careful consideration of the President and his advisers.

What Minister Woodford has done has been to lay before the Madrid Government a statement in controversion of the allegations recently made by the Spanish Government, through Minister Dupuy de Lome, that the United States has been derelict in the matter of preventing the departure of filibustering expeditions.

The communication recites that the United States has done even more than is required by the rules of international law to prevent its territory being made the base for hostile operations against a country with which it is at peace. Not only has "due diligence" been observed, but it is pointed out that a fleet of naval vessels and revenue cutters, at considerable cost to the United States, has been stationed in Southern waters especially to prevent the departure of filibustering expeditions, and that employes of the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice have been active in maintaining a careful watch for any violations of the neutrality laws.

CIVIL CRISIS IN SPAIN.

Internal Dissension and Distress All Over the Land—Revolution May Break Out.

London, Nov. 8.—A great civil crisis in Spain seems now inevitable, and the day apparently is not far off. Internal dissension and distress are already revolutionary in spirit, and they are likely soon to become revolutionary in action. Information to this effect comes not only from Madrid, but from a variety of public and private sources in Spain which leave no room to doubt the grave nature of the crisis.

The Government is fully aware of the danger, but does not know the actual extent of the sedition in the army. The Carlist propaganda has been widespread for months, but it is impossible to ascertain what proportion of the officers are affected. It is feared that the arrival of Gen. Weyler will precipitate a crisis. He is not accused of Carlism, but is known to be disaffected to the point of insubordination against the present Government.

The Cabinet is prepared to adopt the sternest measures in dealing with Gen. Weyler, in the hope that the example may crush the spirit of revolt. The fact that the Cabinet is already talking of shooting traitors, if necessary, is some indication of the serious nature of the situation.

THE CURFEW BELL.

In view of the talk of establishing the curfew bell in this city, it will be interesting to know that Jacksonville, Ill., has added itself to the list of cities in favor of the curfew. The City Council of that place has just acceded to the earnest request of the local women's clubs, and passed a curfew ordinance for the municipality. While this may not exactly have been a result of last week's convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs in Jacksonville, the city fathers at any rate deemed it an auspicous moment to announce their decision, and the club women of Jacksonville triumphantly carried the news of their success into the federating body. Hereafter no children under sixteen years of age will be permitted in the streets later than 9 o'clock in summer and 8 o'clock in winter.

PULLED THE BOX FOR FUN.

Youngsters Who Sent in False Fire Alarm Are Found Out.

Mayor Wilson ordered Edward Allen, the young man who sent in a false alarm of fire Tuesday, to appear before him last Saturday. Allen said that he had been led into it by the other boys, who told him they could have some fun and no harm would result. He went to the home of Patrick Eagney and secured the key for box 134. It was arranged that Fred Conroy was to pull the box, but as he was not tall enough the act fell to the lot of himself. As soon as they heard the alarm sound and the apparatus coming all of the boys made their escape. He went to the home of Andred Wilson, not far away, where he sat on the back stoop until the affair was over.

Young Allen then gave the names of the other boys as follows: Mark Duffy, Albert DeCamp, Fred Conroy, Rachel LeMaire, Charles Sprague and W. Doud. The Mayor gave Allen a sharp talking to and impressed on his mind the seriousness of his offence. His Honor found the Allen boy to be very civil and he told a straightforward story.

Chief Wilson will have the other boys appear before him tomorrow morning, when they will be tried for the offence with which they are charged. The Mayor is determined that such mischief shall be stopped and will take every means to see that it is. The fine in such cases is $20 or 90 days, and it has not yet been decided what will be done.

California Personally Conducted Tourist Excursions.

Commencing Wednesday, November 17th, the Lehigh Valley Railroad will inaugurate a through tourist car service to California and Colorado points, leaving Philadelphia and points in Pennsylvania and New York State every Wednesday. The route of this tourist car has been selected through the most picturesque regions of America, including such beauty spots as Niagara Falls, the St. Clair Tunnel, over the Great Rock Island Route, through the Royal Gorge, the Grand Canon, over the Rocky Mountains to Salt Lake City, along the shore of the Great Lake to Ogden and over the Sierra Nevadas to the principal cities of sunny California, Sacremento, San Francisco, Los Angoles and San Diego. For particulars as to time of trains, rates, etc., inquire of ticket agents or address Charles S. Lee, general passenger agent, Lehigh Valley R. R., Philadelphia, Pa.

—The Ministers' Association will meet this evening at the home of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards.

—Full particulars with reference to the sale and use of tickets for the Spielkartenfest will be found in the advertising columns today.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a business meeting at the home of Miss Florence G. Hawkins, of La-Grande avenue, Thursday evening.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the Christian church will have a heart sociable at the house of the chairman of the social committee, Mrs. H. VanMiddlesworth, 515 West Front street, Thursday evening.

TROPHY GOES TO BOSTON

BEANEATERS DEFEATED THE PARK CLUB TEAM AT WHIST.

The Game Played at the Revere House Saturday Night—Large Score of the Victors Came as Quite a Surprise.

The American Whist League challenge trophy has departed from Plainfield and gone to Boston. Saturday evening the team from the American Whist Club of the city of the Beaneaters met the four of the Park Club, of this city, in the parlors of the Revere House and defeated them by a margin of twenty-three tricks. The large score of the victors was unexpected by all, as the American Club players only defeated the Parks by the small margin of one trick last winter. The Plainfielders were fairly defeated, but the large score may be accounted for by the poor form of the home team, who did not play their regular championship game, which made them such formidable rivals for the highest honors in the whistic arena of the country.

A week ago the Parks won the trophy from the New Jersey Whist Club, of Newark, by eight tricks and brought it to this city, where it has been on exhibition. The next team on the list of challengers was that from the American Whist Club. They came to this city Saturday. The visiting team was composed of Messrs. Bouve, Ward, Fennelossa and Becker. The regular team from the Park Club, Messrs. McCutchen, Townsend, Howell and Rogers, was on hand to defend the trophy.

It was evident from the start that the Parks were not playing up to their usual form, for the American Club four managed to roll up a lead of eighteen tricks in the first half of the match. The local players braced up a trifle for the second half and the visitors were only able to increase their lead by five tricks. Kendall Smith, of the North End Club, was present and acted as referee.

An expert, who was present at the game, expressed an opinion that in the first half the American Club team played up to their best form, while the Parks were evidently in poor condition. This accounted for seven or eight of the tricks, he said, while the rest was the result of the luck in the game. In the second half the visitors outplayed the Parks.

As an evidence of the interest that was taken in the game among the whistic circles of the country, numerous telegrams were received and sent during the evening from Toledo to Boston.

While the Parks played to win, as they always do, they do not seem greatly worried because the cup is gone. Before they knew that they were to have a chance for the cup at this time, they promised their services to the managers of the Spielkartenfest to assist in the game of "living whist." Had they held the trophy it would have been necessary for them to defend the trophy next Saturday.

—The death of Mary E. McCoy, of 232 Muhlenberg place, occurred yesterday after a long illness. The departed was 19 years old. The funeral will be held from her late residence tomorrow morning at 8:30 and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Corporation Notice.

Proposals for Sewers.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a regular meeting, held Monday, November 1st, 1897, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, November, 22d, 1897, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials in the construction of such portion of the sewers contemplated in the ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25th, 1894, and "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved Nov. 6th, 1897, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted by the Common Council, Nov. 1st, 1897, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $300 payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required and the work to be done is as follows:

3,310 Lineal Feet of 8-inch sewer, 475 Lineal Feet of 4-inch house connections to curb, 85 Y Branches, 2 Manholes, 7 Lampholes, 4 Flush Tanks complete, 1 Flush Tank with old siphon, 1 1-inch flushing connection.

Duplicate plans, forms of proposal, specifications, contract, bond, etc., may be examined at the office of the Engineer, No. 153 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The right to reject any or all bills is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

All proposals must be endorsed, "Proposals for Sewers," James T. MacMurray, City Clerk.

RECORDS OF THE WAR

COMPLETION OF THE LAST VOLUME OF THE FIRST SERIES.

A Work That Has Been in Progress for Twenty-three Years—One Hundred and Eleven Volumes Now Finished, Covering All the Operations of the Two Armies.

The most voluminous military publication yet undertaken by any Government has just been completed by our own. The body of the last volume of war records relating to operations in the field has been printed, and only awaits the index and binding to make it ready for distribution. The work has been in progress for twenty-three years.

This first series of 111 volumes embraces the formal reports, both Union and Confederate, of the first movements for the seizure of United States property in the Southern States and of all military operations in the field, including those of the staff corps, with the orders and returns relating specially thereto. These volumes are accompanied by an atlas of 178 plates. There are besides two volumes of a general index to the indexes of each volume. The 111 books of the series contain 118,232 pages. The atlas consists of a colection of several hundred maps of the battlefields of the war, being a reproduction of the originals submitted with the official reports, routes of march of armies, plans of forts, uniforms, Union and Confederate; appliances for the care of sick and wounded, Union and Confederate flags, and Union corps flags and badges. No paper of any kind has been withheld from these volumes because at the time it was of a strictly confidential nature.

Congress was led to undertake the publication of the records of the war by the discovery that all the papers of the Buell Court of Inquiry had disappeared from the War Department. An investigation of the matter was attempted by the Military Committee of the House. It was developed that the record in this case filled an ordinary-sized trunk, and that they were delivered by the Judge Advocate of the court at the War Department. The most careful search under the call of Congress failed to develop a trace of the papers. In the course of the inquiry the Adjutant-General testified that Gen. Badeau, then Consul-General at London, had been allowed to take several boxes of records to assist him in the preparation of his "Life of Gen. Grant."

One witness testified that he had seen official letterbooks of Gen. Halleck's in Gen. Badeau's possession at the White House, from which leaves had been cut previous to the books coming into Gen. Bedeau's possession.

The results of the investigation were such as to excite wide attention and create general apprehension as to the safety of the war records. This was increased by the knowledge that few of these papers were in fireproof buildings, while some of the most valuable portions of them, including all of the Confederate records, were in buildings which, both from their own character and their surroundings, were in great danger from fire.

Fried Locust Blossoms.

A delicate dish offered at French tables, presided over by the gracious chatelaines of the old aristocracy, is fried locust blossoms. A whole bunch, heavy with its weight of fragrant bloom, is dipped in the yellows of eggs, as they say over there, then in granulated sugar, and fried quickly in hot, clarified lard. They are served as a course at the second breakfast, instead of the sweet omelet. They have a crisp, delicately aromatic taste that is delicious.

Not from the Same Vine.

"Rather curious that both the melon and this beefsteak should be the product of a vine," casually observed Lake Front at breakfast. "Beefsteak from a vine?" growled the dyspeptic. "Yes," was the cheerful reply. "I am a bo-vine."—Chautauqua Assembly Herald.

AN ORDINANCE

to Provide for the Construction of an Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield.

WHEREAS, At an adjourned regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, held on the 21st day of May, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, a petition signed by the owners of at least three fifths in value of the real estate in said City as shown by the Assessor's books, was presented to the said Common Council, praying them to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage in the said City in the manner provided in and by a certain act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in Cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890:

AND WHEREAS, On said 21st day of May, A. D. eighteen hundred and ninety-four, the said petition was by a unanimous vote of the said Common Council referred to the Committee on Finance for verification:

AND WHEREAS, On the fourth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, said committee reported that they had duly investigated and ascertained that said petition contained the requisite number of signatures as aforesaid, which report was then and there duly accepted by the Common Council and ordered together with the said petition spread upon the minutes of the said Common Council:

AND WHEREAS, It has appeared and does appear to the said Common Council and the said Common Council has found and determined and doth hereby find, ascertain and determine that the owners of at least three-fifths in value of the real estate in the said City as shown by the Assessor's books have petitioned said Common Council to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage for said City in the manner provided by said act:

AND WHEREAS, In the opinion of the said Common Council the public good required that a system of sewerage should be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of said act, and the said Common Council so determined and adopted "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25, 1894, and an ordinance entitled "A further ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved June 21, 1895:

AND WHEREAS, In the opinion of the Common Council the public good requires that an addition, as hereinafter described, to the system of sewerage already constructed under said ordinances should be constructed in and for said City under the provisions of said act and the Common Council has so determined and does hereby so determine; therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed under said act be constructed in and for said City under the provisions of the act of the Legislature aforesaid with all the appurtenances necessary to complete the same, and of such dimensions and meterial and according to such plan as the said Common Council may hereafter direct in and through the following described streets, avenues, property, land, and rights of way, described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance, to wit:

The Tables Turned.

We have almost solved the servant girl problem.

Instead of the maid being mistress, we have made it possible for the mistress herself to be mistress.

The tables are turned, and we have turned them.

We have accomplished it to the mutual satisfaction of everybody. The plan is so simple that the wonder is nobody ever thought of it before.

Cheap but good laundering of general house linen enables every housekeeper to have the washing done out of the house. For instance,

Counterpanes 10c each.
Table Cloth 5c "
Sheets - 3c "
Towel, Napkins 1c "

What does our proposition mean? It means no more washday odor about the house. It means satisfied servants, because a maid will not be insolent if she can escape washdays and the delay of other work caused by bad drying days. Our booklet "Tables Turned" tells all about our new plan. You can have it for the asking.

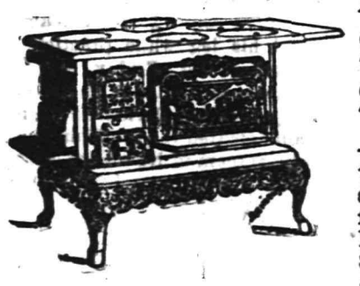
No carpet stock in all New Jersey compares with ours in low prices or big displays—but step in and see!

100 of these Oak and Cherry Tables bought for this sale 49c — usual 75c sort. Out of 100 Bedroom Suit styles we're sure you'll find your notions met. Be sure our line's seen before any buying's done. Price $11.75 and as high as $200.

Our Finest Parlor Suits are having some deep price-drops—one to a pattern—

A $125 suit, $75
A $75 suit, $50
A $45 suit, $30

Rockers, Fancy Chairs and Settees of every sort—all woods, rich or delicate coverings—just the thing for wedding gifts, because of their beauty and utility. $2.50 up.



$7.85 for this range—others cheaper, others higher—none better worth for the money.

A Big Stove Stock

—one larger than you'll see in most furniture houses! Stoves are a specialty here—not a side issue—all are warranted, too.

This Solid Oak cane seat "Diner," 75c—find its double elsewhere at a better price if you can!

Ask how many "Portland Ranges" we sell a day! You'll open eyes!

Scalp Treatment! Ladies, ATTENTION!

E. Joycelyn Geisinger.

SCALP SPECIALIST,

is now in Plainfield, and solicits your patronage. Her method is recommended by the most prominent physicians in New York city, as well as those in your own city. Treatments are thoroughly scientific in every particular, consisting of massage, steaming, singing and shampooing. If you are troubled with thin or falling hair or any scalp affection, give this series of treatment your early attention. Kapa Kota preparations, which are used in treating, are delightfully invigorating and refreshing. For sale at Armstrong's Pharmacy, Park avenue. All appointments must be made a week ahead. evidently, and the business shou d be done by all means. Buildings require paint. Of course, a house may be left unpainted and let to become weatherbeaten and a wreck. That doesn't pay, though; it's much cheaper to paint, and our paints in all colors are the best in the market for durability under the most trying conditions. They are well adapted to our exposure and we sell everything in the line of paints and painters' supplies at short prices.

REFORM THE CURRENCY

John C. Bullitt, of Philadelphia, Outlines a Plan.

ONLY ONE KIND OF NOTES

And These to Be Issued by the National Banks—The $800,000,000 Government Paper to Be Taken Up and Cancelled.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Among the many replies to the series of questions sent out by the Indianapolis Monetary Commission, now sitting in this city, to formulate a plan for the reform of the currency system of the country, was one from Mr. John C. Bullitt, of Philadelphia. Instead of answering the questions seriatim, Mr. Bullitt gives a general statement of the plan which seems to him most desirable. It makes a pamphlet of twenty-three pages. A summary shows that the scheme provides:

1. That all the present outstanding currency obligations of the Government, amounting to $800,000,000, shall be taken up and canceled.

2. That there shall be but one kind of note circulation, this to be issued by the national banks. These notes should be payable in gold when demanded at the counter of the bank of issue, or at such reserve bank as may be selected by the bank of issue, with the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency, for the purpose of such redemption.

3. The issue of the new bank notes to be made from time to time as the currency obligations of the Government now outstanding are retired, so as to avoid producing either contraction, on the one hand, or expansion on the other, of the amount of currency actually in circulation.

4. The normal requirements of business are assumed to be $1,000,000,000. The bank capital is assumed to be $600,000,000 (in point of fact it is about $647,000,000), and each bank should therefore issue one and two-thirds of notes for one of its capital.

5. These notes should be secured by a deposit in the United States Treasury of 15 per cent. of note issue in gold, by 15 per cent. reserve in gold in vaults of banks, by a first lien upon all assets of bank issuing them, by right of United States Government to assess all banks when needed to make good any notes of defaulting banks so much as may be required for that purpose, and the Government should agree to redeem these notes in gold after default by the bank issuing them.

6. A tax should be paid by the banks upon their note issue, to be applied to payment of the expenses of Currency Board, and balance, if any, held to secure redemption of notes in gold. But when this fund shall accumulate to $10,000,000 the accruing surplus may be covered into the United States Treasury for paying interest on its bonds and general purposes.

It may be well to vest in the Currency Board the power from time to time to determine what amount should be thus held as a reserve of the funds accruing from this tax, and to order that the balance as it is paid in from year to year should be covered into the Treasury.

The rate of the above tax should be one-half of 1 per cent. or 1 per cent. per annum upon the note issue, as your Commission may determine to be expedient.

7. The proposed plan would make the notes absolutely equal to gold in value. It would also protect the Government and the associate banks in their guarantee of the redemption of the notes in gold.

8. A currency board should be provided which would have supervision and control of all currency matters, with power to make necessary rules and regulations and such orders as from time to time should be required. This board should consist of the President (or such officer of the Administration as he might select), Secretary of the Treasury and Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, with two experienced men of affairs, to be appointed by the President. Their powers should be ample to enable them to deal with financial emergencies as they arise.

9. Power should be given to banks, under permission from the Currency Board, to increase the note issue when demand caused by unusual financial emergencies, such increase to be subject to a tax to be determined from time to time by the Currency Board upon the notes while in circulation; the tax upon the notes to be at a rate which would put a pressure upon the banks to take up the notes when the emergency has passed.

10. Silver and subsidiary coins should be redeemed in gold by the United States Government when demanded. These amount to about one hundred million dollars.

11. No note should be issued for less than $5.

12. The Government should take up and cancel all its currency obligations, amounting to about eight hundred million dollars. To furnish funds for this purpose power should be conferred upon the Currency Board to direct and order the sale and issue of Government bonds in such amounts, at such times, and at such rates of interest, not exceeding 3 per cent. per annum, as the board might deem expedient, the proceeds of such sales to be applied to the taking up and cancellation of the outstanding currency obligations of the Government, and such bonds should be sold and paid for in such currency obligations or in gold. After three or five years the currency obligations now outstanding should cease to be legal tender and only receivable for bonds or redeemable in gold by the United States.

13. National banks should be constrained to exchange notes now out for new issue by surrendering notes as they receive them.

14. Customs duties and taxes of all kinds due the Government should be payable one-third in gold and two-thirds in bank notes. This is necessary to supply the Government with the gold required by it to pay interest upon its bonds, redeem silver and for other purposes.

15. The legal tender quality of gold and silver should remain as now provided by law, and they should be the only legal tender except to the extent of two-thirds of customs duties and taxes due the Government, which should be payable in bank notes, as above stated.

16. Confer upon Currency Board power to regulate the issue of bank notes from time to time, in lieu of the Government currency retired, and to authorize new banks and branch banks to be established when and where and with such amounts of capital as the board may deem it proper and expedient, with power also to increase the amount of note issue by the banks required for the normal conditions of business as the country shall grow in population and in business expansion.

As banking capital may be increased by creation of new banks, the Currency Board should have the power to adjust the note issue, whether normal or extraordinary, between the new and old banks—no distinction being drawn between them.

17. The 15 per cent. gold upon the note issue deposited in Government Treasury, and the 15 per cent. kept in bank vaults, should be counted as part of 25 per cent. reserve on deposit in national banks.

18. The system of Clearing House certificates adopted by the banks in the large cities in times of panic should be legalized. They have proved to be most salutary, and there can be no better evidence of the need of such a system than the fact that it has been established by voluntary consent in times of panic.

SEAL TREATY SIGNED.

Representatives of Three Nations Affixed Their Signatures.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The convention entered into by the Commissioners of the United States, Russia and Japan, providing for the temporary suspension of pelagic sealing in the North Pacific Ocean and Behring Sea, was signed Saturday at the State Department. For the United States former Secretary of State John W. Foster, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Charles S. Hamlin and Prof. David S. Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, California, the seal expert, signed; for Russia, Gregoire de Wollant, Charge d'Affaires; P. Botkine, Court Councillor, and M. De Routkowsky, Director of Agriculture and Fisheries, and Kakichi Uitsukuri, professor of zoology in the Tokio University.

Later in the day the delegates signed the protocol of the treaty and were photographed in the diplomatic room.

The treaty pledges the United States, Russia and Japan to prohibit pelagic sealing in waters controlled by them. This will not apply to Behring Sea as far as Great Britain is concerned. Behring Sea is an open sea, and British sealers will have the right to indulge in pelagic sealing there, but the United States will prohibit its own sealing vessels from so doing. While the treaty seemingly affords Great Britain the opportunity to kill seals without stint in the migratory season in Behring Sea and ties the hands of the United States, it is hoped that by making it appear that Great Britain is the only freebooter of the sealing waters the British Ministry will be forced into making a similar agreement with the United States and the other two countries.

It is expected that the meeting of British and American experts will take place this week, according to the original programme, unless there should be some intervention from the British Foreign Office, which is not anticipated. Meanwhile the British expert, Prof. Thompson, who is now in Washington, will be acquainted with what has already been accomplished by the Governments of the United States Russia and Japan in the way of a treaty.

HAS SPAIN LOST HOLGUIN?

It Is Said Garcia Has Captured the Spanish Stronghold.

Havana, Nov. 7, via Key West, Nov. 8.—The news is circulating in Havana that Gen. Calixto Garcia has captured the important town of Holguin, in Santiago de Cuba province. Cable or telegraphic communications are impossible at this moment, and no details or confirmation of the report can be obtained, the insurgents having cut all the wires.

Mayari, another important town of the same province, has fallen, without any doubt, into the hands of the insurgents under Vega. The garrison of Holguin is 1,000 Spanish soldiers.

At Peralejos, in the same province, the insurgents under Gen. Jesus Rabi have captured a large Spanish convoy bound for Bayamo. The convoy was escorted by a strong Spanish column under Gen. Aldare. The fight lasted a whole day, but the Spanish had to abandon the convoy with money and provisions. The war is very active all over the island.

Commissioner Butterworth Ill.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Word has reached Washington of the serious illness of Commissioner of Patents Butterworth at Cleveland, Ohio. Mrs. Butterworth left last night for Cleveland for the purpose of being at the bedside of her husband. It is understood that the other members of the family, including the daughter of the Commissioner, have been in the city of New York. The friends of the Major in Washington are much alarmed at the reports received from Cleveland, and are somewhat apprehensive as to the result of his illness. The Major left Washington some time ago to take part in Senator Hanna's campaign, and appeared to be in the best of health.

Relief for Klondike Miners.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Secretary Alger sent the following telegram to W. S. Mason, president of the Portland (Ore.) Chamber of Commerce, in response to the Chamber's appeal for Federal aid in succoring starving miners in Alaska:

"Nothing can be done by the department without Congressional authority, but I suggest that you get all particulars, and the department will also get what facts it can, and you submit plan for relief. You may be sure of active co-operation as soon as Congress makes an appropriation, which, if found necessary, will be urged."

To Take the Circus Abroad.

New York, Nov. 8.—The Atlantic transport steamship Massachusetts, which arrived on Saturday from London after an exceptionally quick passage for her of ten days four hours and fifty-five minutes, had reasons for being in a hurry. She is to be fitted up for sailing this week with the army of employes of the Barnum & Bailey show and some of the animals of the menagerie. The Michigan, of the Atlantic Transport Line, which is expected here to-day, will also be used to help carry the big show across the sea.

HAPPENINGS AMONG THE LOCAL FOOTBALL PLAYERS.

Games That are to be Played and Points About Teams and Individual Players That May Prove Interesting to Cranks.

The Plainfield A. A. football eleven did not play Saturday afternoon, their field at Martine Common having been given to the Crescents for the afternoon and several of their players taking positions on that team. An attempt had been made to have a scheduled with the Dreadnaught Athletic Club, of Mott Haven, for the afternoon, but as no reply was received to the letter from Plainfield, it was supposed that the Dreadnaughts were not coming, They showed up Saturday afternoon, however, all ready for the game. They went to the Crescents' game and several acted as officials, the rest uniting with the Plainfield rooters. After the game, the management of the P. A. A. held a meeting and decided to pay the visitors their guarantee. Great regret was expressed by both sides at the misunderstanding, and a game will be arranged for later in the season as the Dreadnaughts are anxious to meet Plainfield, while Plainfield players wish to measure their strength with the visitors who defeated the Montclair A. C. several weeks ago.

The Westfield Athletic Club added another victory to its credit in the Journal Football League, Saturday afternoon, by defeating the Plainfield Crescents by a score of 10 to 0. The game was played on Martine Common before several hundred spectators. While the Westfield team was evidently the superior particularly in line bucking, it was the high wind that really won them the game. Plainfield was strong on the ends and the visitors made little gains in that direction, but the Westfield players tore great holes in the Crescent line and gained their distance at nearly every play. In the first half the Westfield eleven had the wind behind them and they took advantage of it to punt at every opportunity. In the first half one goal was kicked making the score, 10 to 0. Neither side scored in the second half. Westfield would just get the ball dangerously near Plainfield's goal when Serrell would punt it to the other end of the gridiron. The teams lined up as follows:

GOLF.

The members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club who have been contesting at golf in the monthly handicap play during the past season completed the contest on Saturday last. Willard Wadsworth was the fortunate player to win the contest and his score was a good one. Much interest has been manifested in the play as almost all of the scores were close. Below will be found the final scores:

	Gross.	Handicap	Net.
W. Wadsworth	83	0	83
J. H. P. Wharton	90	0	90
W. L. Glenny	92	0	92
Dr. Ard	105	12	93
Carl Walz	96	2	94
G. A. Chapman	108	11	97
Howard Huntington	109	12	97
Dr. Richards	100	0	100
H. W. Beebe	109	9	100
T. R VanBuskerck	120	11	109

Last Tuesday the contest for the Chapman cup was started on the links and the first sixteen as given below qualified for play:

Willard Wadsworth, 88; W. L. Glenny, 95; George Schoonmaker, 97; Reeve Stockton, 98; J. H. P. Wharton, 99; F. W. Walz, 100; Carl Walz, 101; James P. Murray, 101; H. W. Beebe, 103; T. R. VanBuskerck, 104; Howard Huntington, 108; W. T. Kaufman, 109; W. D. West, 110; H. M. Stockton, 118; W. C. Baker, 123; A G. Henderson, 125.

In the first round Wadsworth beat Glenny 3 up and 2 to play; F. W. Walz beat G. Schoonmaker 1 up and 20 holes; Reeve Stockton beat Carl Walz 4 up and 3 to play; J. H. P. Wharton beat J. P. Murray 5 up and 3 to play. The second round resulted in Wadsworth beating F. W. Walz by default; Stockton beat Wharton 2 up and 1 to play. This leaves Wadsworth and Stockton to play the finals at some future time. Stockton and H. D. West have each won the cup once, and the one who wins it three times becomes the final owner. It has not yet been decided when the finals will be played.

A PASTOR'S RECEPTION

Rev. A. E. Main Entertained His Parishoners in a Pleasant Way.

Rev. A. E. Main, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, gave the second of a series of receptions to the members of his congregation, yesterday afternoon, from 5 to 7 o'clock. These series of receptions are of a rather novel character to conform with the situation. Mr. Main's house is not large enough to permit him to entertain all of his congregation at the same time so he has decided to take them alphabetically. Those whose last names began with the letters from A to F went last week. Yesterday, those whose last names were included between G and R were entertained. Owing to the large number of R's, that letter was divided.

Mrs. A. T. Maxson and Mrs. L. T. Rogers presided over the dining table while Miss Mabel Maxson and Miss Mabel Mitchell served the guests.

Forty Bills Were Found.

The grand jurors were discharged Saturday morning with thanks for their attention to public service. Forman Hitch carried a batch of bills, in all 39. There were no presentments made. Prosecutor Marsh read the following list of persons who had been charged with crime, but were not indicted, and the court ordered their discharge from custody. William J. Keeley, assault and battery; Joseph Noel, embezzlement; Harry Hamlin, assault and battery; John Meyer, larceny; Michael McGregor, highway robbery; James S. Grady, embezzlement; Richard Burge, assault and battery; Edwin F. Gray, false pretences; Robert Langdon, atrocious assault.

Married at Pastor's Home.

The marriage of Miss Phoebe Cavelear, of New Market, and Walter Scribner, of 165 Duer street, was celebrated last evening at the home of Rev. George Hauser who performed the ceremony. The bride and groom will reside at the home of the groom.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Mary Muldowney, of West Third street, and Stephen Murphy, of the West End.

Miss Edith Hyde, of this city, will be one of the bridesmaids at the marriage of Miss Helen Clifford Page to Arthur Wheeler Francis, in St. Bartholomew's church, New York, November 23d.

FARMER MARTINE'S EPISODE.

A Street Cleaner Stopped in Front of Him and Was Struck.

James E. Martine was the principal actor in an exciting bicycle episode which happened on Watchung avenue shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. The farmer-orator was enjoying a spin upon his bicycle and had just turned from North avenue into Watchung, when a most unexpected thing occurred. Mr. Martine reached the iron railroad bridge when a man suddenly stepped out from behind one of the girders of the bridge and stood directly in front of the bicycle, and only a few feet distant. The man had his back toward the wheel and was apparently unconscious of its approach.

Mr. Martine, who is a novice at bicycling, saw the danger and did his best to steer clear of the man. There was not time enough, however, and the next instant the wheel and man collided and the latter was lifted from his feet and tossed back to the sidewalk, where he lay without moving.

Mr. Martine, who was not injured, went to the man's assistance and learned that he was James McFadden, a laborer, who is employed to work on the streets. He had been cleaning the gutters on Watchung avenue of the leaves. He was sent to his home on West Fourth street, where Dr. Hedges attended him. The man's injuries consisted only of a number of bad bruises.

Toughs Had Taken His Rig.

Yesterday afternoon Thomas Doud, of Duer street, drove to Sebring's Mills to see the owner, Charles Sebring. He had been absent about ten minutes, and when he returned his rig was missing. The latter returned home and reported the matter to the police. Later Mr. Doud secured another horse and wagon and started in search of his stolen rig which he understood was last seen going in the direction of Bound Brook.

After a lively chase Mr. Doud found his stolen property at Smith's hotel midway between Dunelen and Bound Brook. The proprietor told Mr. Doud that a gang of toughs had tied the horse under his sheds and had made their escape.

Overcoat Caught in Wheel.

George Dennick, of West Third street, will think twice before he goes bicycle riding with his overcoat on. Yesterday afternoon he rode to Dunellen in company with friends, and while riding at a high rate of speed his overcoat caught in the wheel and threw Dennick several feet into the air. He was picked up by his friends and brought home on the train. The kneecap was found to be fractured, and as a result Dennick will be unable to walk for many days.

A FLY BURIES A SPIDER.

Marvellous Intelligence Possessed by the Small Undertaker.

Samuel Simon, Sr., a well known resident of Neshannock Township, while strolling near his home one day recently, noticed a fly about half an inch long and of a dark blue color, with a slim body, bearing a large dead spider, says the New Castle, (Pa.) Democrat. The fly crossed his path and laid his load down. It then went about eighteen inches in another direction and commenced digging a hole in the ground. His curiosity being excited, he stopped and watched the work. After the fly had the hole dug about half the length of himself he went to where he had left the spider and took his dimensions. After going back to the hole he found it was not big enough, and commenced digging again. After taking out a quantity of earth he again went to the spider and took his dimensions. He did this eight times, and as often enlarged the hole. When the busy little fellow had the hole too deep for him to throw the earth clear out he would go on the bank and force it back with his feet. After he had the excavation large enough for his purpose, he went for the spider and took it to the grave, for such it proved to be, and dragged it to the mouth of the hole. After he had the body in he covered it with fine earth first and finished by placing a small piece of cinder on top. When he had finished the work he flew away. The whole time consumed was exactly fifty-five minutes, as Mr. Simon says he sat and watched the whole performance.

AN OSTENTATIOUS FUNERAL.

Grandson of a Gypsy Millionaire the Cause of So Much Display.

An imposing funeral attracted multitudes to a suburb of Baden, Austria, lately. The obsequies were those of the baby heir and grandson of the millionaire gypsy chief Stakiewicz, and surely no archducal infant was ever buried with more state.

A large number of clergy headed the procession. Next came a floral car drawn by six white horses; then the white hearse, also with six milk-white steeds, containing the body of the gypsy infant.

The sorrowing clan were clad in irreproachable broadcloth and crape, but the effect was somewhat marred by an ostentatious display of jewelry.

The chief, Sarkiewicz, is said to be inconsolable, as the child was very dear to him. He is supposed to be possessed of an enormous fortune, which he carries upon his person, in notes, after the fashion of his strange, nomad clan.

Preacher Reader Expelled.

Boston, Nov. 8.—The Rev. George A. Reader, who performed the marriage ceremony which united the couple in the lion's den at the Zoo on Thursday night, has been expelled from the Boston University School of Theology because of his performance. The official report of the meeting says that the action was taken because Mr. Reader yielded to a pecuniary temptation despite remonstrances and warnings given him by the faculty. Mr. Reader is an ordained elder in the Methodist Church and is in his second year at the school. He is married and lives in South Boston.

Banker Foster Arrested.

Lubec, Me., Nov. 8.—As a result of an investigation into the closing of the Lubec Savings Bank, Micah M. Foster, treasurer of that institution, was placed under arrest Saturday charged with embezzling $20,000 of the funds of the bank. The arrest caused great surprise in this section of the State, although it was known that an examination of the bank's affairs had been in progress for some time.

Mr. Foster says that he will establish his innocence when the case comes to trial.

Lee Will Sail for Cuba To-morrow.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Gen. Lee left Washington Saturday evening for the city of New York. He will sail for Cuba to-morrow. It is expected that the Consul-General will remain at Havana for quite a period. While in Washington Gen. Lee refused absolutely either to deny or affirm the reports that it is his intention to return to the United States for the purpose of entering the contest in Virginia for Senator Martin's seat in the United States Senate.

Practice makes Perfect.

As in all departments of the Arts and Sciences the oldest devotees are the most perfect in their professions, so in Piano-making does the oldest house make the best instruments.

That subtle knowledge that only comes of a lifelong experience is intensified in the great Piano firm of Chickering & Sons. The founder of this famous house started business in Boston in 1823—74 years ago. The Pianos that bear this name, famous always for the excellence of their tone, are to-day the unquestioned superior of all others made.

authorizing the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey to lay down and maintain a Siding or Turnout across North avenue and to run and operate engines and cars thereon.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to lay down, construct and maintain, one railroad track across North avenue in the City of Plainfield, and to run and operate railroad engines and cars on and over said railroad track across said North avenue, and that such authorization is granted upon the following terms and condition.

A. That the point where such single railroad track shall cross said North avenue shall be between lands of said Railroad Company on the South side and lands of Charles H. Leonard on the North side of said North avenue and not nearer than fifty (50) feet to Berckman street and not father from said Berckman street than two hundred and fifty (250) feet.

B That said single railroad track shall be laid and maintained, as nearly as possible, at right angles to said North avenue.

C. That said single railroad track shall be so laid and maintained that the top of the rails shall be on a level with said avenue.

D. That for one foot on the outside of the rails, and between the rails, the said Company shall lay and maintain in good order on a level with the rails, planking, so that the crossing of said railroad track by vehicles shall be easy and convenient, such planking to extend a width equal to three-fifths of the carriage or driveway of said avenue. That the roadway of said North avenue, adjacent to to said crossing, be continually maintained on a level with said planks, and that the planks shall be renewed when, in the opinion of the Street Commissioner, it is necessary.

E. That said Railroad Company in the laying down and maintenance of said single railroad track shall make such culverts or drains, or both, on the gutter lines of the avenue to pass the surface water flowing in said gutters as shall be required by the Street Commissioner of said City.

F. That said Railroad Company shall erect a sign or signal post on one side of said railroad track on the curb line, to be lettered "Railroad Crossing. Look out for the Locomotive."

G. That said Railroad Company shall cause every engine, car, cars, engine and car or cars, which shall be moved across said avenue to be preceded in the going direction of said cars or engines by a flagman to warn persons traveling upon said avenue of the approach of said cars or engines, and no cars or engines shall be moved at a greater speed than such person can walk.

H. That the authorization above granted shall be terminable on thirty days' notice by a resolution of the Common Council to that effect, served on said Railroad Company, and in such case said Railroad Company shall forthwith remove all tracks and rails from said avenue and restore the said avenue to the condition in which it now is.

Adopted by the Common Council, Nov. 1st, 1897, approved by the Mayor Nov. 6th, 1897.

THE DAILY PRESS.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

AN EFFULGENT SPECTACLE IS THE 'FEST.

IN THE GUISE OF CARDS GAY DANCERS WENT THROUGH A GAME OF LIVING WHIST IN A BEAUTIFUL MANNER.

Crescent Rink Filled With a Fashionable Audience Who Admired and Applauded the Efforts of the Participants—The Place is Beautifully Decorated—Description of Some of the Dances.

The efforts of a multitude of Plainfielders have not been in vain. The Spielkartenfest has begun. Last night saw the opening of that monster benefit for the Muhlenberg Hospital at the Crescent Rink. Auspicious it certainly was, promising an even grander success than the Kirmess that preceded it by two years. The workers who have labored and worried for the last two months had their hearts set at rest, for everybody agreed that the Spielkartenfest was opened most successfully.

Perhaps it was the contrast from the chilly dampness of the outer darkness to the "fairyland" within that so filled the audience with enthusiasm, but however it was, the crowd accorded a hearty reception to each and all of the dances. There was no doubt about the artistic success of the benefit. The booths, the decorations, the costumes were all fitted to satisfy the most critical of judges. Then the dances themselves were given with a vim and spirit that seemed contagious and passed off without a noticeable blunder or mistake.

It was the first night of the Spielkartenfest and therefore it results were most anxiously watched. When the sky appeared all over-cast yesterday morning, there were scores of sorrowing hearts, and when the rain began to fall steadily and without any appearance of ceasing, there was many a sigh and the mental thermometers fell accordingly.

It only took a visit to the rink, however, to infuse new life in the workers. All was activity there and continued from an early hour yesterday morning until the doors opened shortly before 7:30 o'clock last night with scarcely an interval of rest. And what a wonderful place it was that the van guard of the audience found as they took possession of their seats.

White-badged ushers hurried about, dancers wrapped up in long cloaks to protect them from the storm scurried to the dressing rooms to prepare for the coming entertainment, handsomely dressed women gathered in front of the booths and chatted and laughed as the minutes flew by; all was activity. Trolley cars deposited their human burdens in front of the Rink while carriage after carriage drew up in front to bring fresh recruits to the great army of spectators that flowed in a steady stream through the main entrance. Others came on foot but all had the same aim, the same desire, to see the Spielkartenfest and come to the aid of the Hospital. A conservative estimate of the attendance was fifteen hundred people, which was remarkably good, considering the fact that it was the first night and that Dame Nature had advanced all the obstables she could for the occasion. It takes more than a rain storm, however, to keep the Plainfield people within doors when they have such an attraction as the Spielkartenfest at hand.

The wonderful transformation that had been wrought within doors had converted the staid old rink into a place of beauty and light. From every rafter and high along the walls hung flags and bunting while similar decorations were festooned along the edge of the balcony and at every available point. The rough walls were half hidden beneath this load of color which was so arranged as to please the artistic eye. The stage occupied the western end of the building and over it were long streamers of red and white, and orange and black, radiating from a point over the centre of the stage. A blue background of bunting faded away into the semi-darkness behind the scenes while the tall evergreens, which were used as wings to the stage, projected above the dark red curtain.

On either side of the hall running back to the rear were the booths, three on each side, and the restaurant on the right and the ice cream garden on the left. Each booth showed striking originality on the part of the designer, Evarts Tracy. Mr. Tracy was the architect for all except the flower booth, which was the creation of A. Milton Napier, architect for the Astor estate. Lack of space does not permit a complete description of them today. The general effect was charming, however, although they differed widely in appearance. The colors blended harmoniously and the brightly lighted booths became little social suns, as it were, around which its satellites revolved. Even before the entertainment began, the booths were liberally patronized and after it was over the aisle in front of each was crowded with interested purchasers who good naturedly jostled each other in their efforts to reach the counter of the booth.

At last the audience settled down. The orchestra took their seats, the overture began, and then for two hours the audience was entertained by the many dancers in their varied costumes and their different steps while the calcium lights flashed over the whirling and ever changing panorama of bright faces, brilliant costumes and swiftly moving forms.

It was nearly half-past eight when the orchestra played the opening bars of the first selection, and the sweet tones of the serenade, "Love's Sorrow," sung by Elmer E. Runyon, told that the Spielkartenfest had begun. As the last of the serenade died away, the curtain was drawn to one side and the opening scene of the Mirror, or Dance of the Troubadors, was shown.

On the rear of the stage, half hiding the garden scene that formed the background, was a large frame, the false mirror, with screens stretching from either side to the wings. Standing in the foreground was the peasant maid, Miss Florence Williams, clad in a gown of blue and white, with bodice of blue and short skirt of wide stripes of the two colors, and wearing a dainty little lace cap. She, too, had heard the serenade and had thrown a rose to the unknown serenader. Then she stepped in front of the false mirror and another peasant maid, Miss Ella Murray, with gown exactly the same, stepped into view behind the frame as if the reflection of the first. Back and forward they danced in perfect unison until the audience was half in doubt whether or not after all there was really a mirror and only one dancer. The effect was fascinating and the audience broke out into loud applause. Then came an interruption. The two serenaders, Fred H. Freeman and Curtis Beard, entered, the latter carrying a rose, the one which had been thrown from the window. He offered it to the graceful dancer, who turned her head and walked away. Again she refused it and then the trick of the mirror was discovered and the rose was presented to the one who appeared in the frame. The four danced hand-in-hand until, with a sudden rush, the other peasants entered through the frame and the dance of the Troubadors had begun.

The men wore long coats of fancy design, bright with gems and gold braid, while capes were gracefully hung over their shoulders. They wore full trousers and black knee boots.

The calcium light was turned on the scene with marvelous effect and the dancers tripped along amid the ever-changing lights.

They entered with a dash and the dance was continued with a whirl and rush that was in itself inspiring. Although simple, the movements were graceful and full of life, and proved very acceptable to the audience. The dance was chaperoned by Mrs. Fred S. Green. The participants were the Misses Ella R. Murray, Daisy Elisburg, Eleanor T. VanDeventer, Bertha Hall, Florence N. Williams, Mary S. Hull, Eastman, Florence E. Serrell, Ethel Holmes, Elsie A. Jobs, Ethel Green, Laura G. Long; Charles Beard, Allan B. Laing, Aubrey C. Hull, John S. Hull, Fred. H. Freeman, Albert O. Woltman, William Hobby, Volney F. Green, Allen Taylor, Goodwin Beard, Meredith Dryden, and Benjamin O. Bowers, Jr.

At the close of the dance, they grouped together for a final tableau and the curtain was drawn to open again on another grand tableau of all the dancers grouped picturesquely about the stage. In front of all was the Joker, Laurens Hardy VanBuren, in a magnificent costume of appropriate design, who, with his little wand, gave the signal to the rest to rise and begin the grand march. Back and forth across the stage wound the long procession, Gypsies, pages, peasants, soldiers and sailors, while the stately court cards were artistically grouped on a flight of stairs at the back of the stage. The Joker headed the procession and in graceful movements directed its progress. Slowly the wonderful army of the Spielkartenfest passed behind the scenes while the Joker danced a solo, and then the court cards, with dignified and graceful mein, descended to the stage and passed through the stately court gavotte. The costumes were of the sixteenth century, with powdered wigs, and were rich with silks and satins of design appropriate to the cards represented. Glistening crowns distinguished the kings while waving plumes designated the jacks. Miss E. Schipper and Mrs. A. C. Vail were the chaperones to this dance.

Those taking part in it were Miss Vail, Queen of Hearts; Miss Alice Coard, Ten of Hearts; Mrs. August W. Kleinecke, Queen of Diamonds; Miss Jennie E. Van Zandt, Ten of Diamonds; Mrs. L. W. Serrell, Jr., Queen of Clubs; Miss Lily G. Wickersham, Ten of Clubs; Mrs. S. H. Patterson, Queen of Spades; Miss Viola P. Conklin, Ten of Spades; Harry Patton, King of Hearts; Harry F. Johnson, Jack of Hearts; August W. Kleinecke, King of Diamonds; Robert I. Richardson, Jack of Diamonds; Edgar I. Serrell, King of Clubs; William N. Runyon, Jack of Clubs, Fred. W. Stack, King of Spades, Harry Williams, Jack of Spades.

The Danza Cubana was given by eight young girls, in gowns of red, trimmed with black lace and brilliant with numberless spangles that flashed in the light. The dance was soft and dreamy as from the land of Spain and it was given with a spirit that added to the effect of the bright costumes and the dreamy music. The dancers were the Misses Anna Bowen Caboone, Leila Howard, Margaret Goddard, Helen Sprague Martin, Joan Madeleine Anderson, May Eloise Murray, Marian Stephanie Krom, Josephine Herrick Lapsley. Patronesses—Mrs. Kleinecke, Mrs. John Drayton.

The tambourine sounded and then Miss Emma Schoonmaker, the Gypsy Queen, appeared before the footlights. The music was weird and the graceful dancer floated along in a many-colored costume, gorgeous with spangles and glittering chains. Her movements were supple and fascinating. Suddenly the red calcium light flashed on the scene and with a rush the rest of the Gypsy band surrounded their Queen. Then came the Tambourine dance. 'Twas well done, as was the duet by Miss Holly and Miss Van-Boskerck. The chaperone was Mrs. Marion Ackerman. The Gypsies included the Misses Elizabeth Hull, S. Cordelia Miller, Elizabeth F. VanBoskerck, Margaret C. Holly, Emma E. Schoonmaker, Elsie S. C. VanZandt, Ayune McCready, May H. Holly; Wm. L. McClure, W. N. Runyon, Thomas L. McCready, I. C. West, George F. Schoonmaker, Henry L. McGee, John B. Dumont, Jr., Henry Lovell

The dance of the Aces was the serpentine dance, given by four of Plainfield's charming young women, clad all in white, with their voluminous skirts that resembled four beautiful butterflies. A calcium light at either corner of the stage added to the grand effect by its ever-changing colors, that transformed the white robes into wonderful combinations of color. The enthusiastic applause that it received told how successful the dance was. The four Aces were Miss Katherine Reinhart, Ace of Hearts; Miss Florence Abbott, Ace of Clubs; Miss Caroline Randolph, Ace of Diamonds; Miss Annie Murphy, Ace of Spades, with Mrs. W. L. Saunders as chaperone.

The little pages, who were to play such an important part in the game of living whist, were the next to attract attention. This dance was one of the most popular of the evening. The boys were dressed in full tights as the pages of the sixteenth century, while the girls were gowned in white, and wore white hats with waving plumes. They carried wands. The colors attached to the wands and the colors of the boys' costumes were alternately red and white and orange and black. The dance was lively and full of spirit. A charming little dance by the girls took the place of the solo,

CAR STRUCK THE WAGON.

RUDOLF KERSTING'S EXCITING ESCAPE IN A STREET RAILWAY COLLISION.

Didn't See the Appraaching Car and the Vehicle Was Hit With Enough Force to Wreck it and Knock the Horse Down.

Rudolph Kersting, the Park avenue baker, was the victim of a trolley collision this morning that was remarkable for the fact that he was not seriously injured.

Mr. Kersting was delivering one of his routes and was driving along Plainfield avenue to West Seventh street when he approached West Fourth street about 7 o'clock. He was aware of the trolley tracks on the latter thoroughfare and cautiously looked eastward as he arrived at the intersection of the streets to see if there was a car approaching. He could see none coming from that direction, but as he turned his head to glance the other way, he was startled to see a car almost upon him. He reined his horse up quickly, but he was too close to the tracks to avoid driving on them.

The front part of the wagon had just crossed the tracks when the car struck it. The motorman saw the impending collision and had reduced the speed as much as possible. Still the momentum of the car was great enough to overturn the wagon and throw the horse on his side.

Mr. Kersting was precipitated out of the front end in an unceremonious manner, landing on the horse's side and rolling off into the roadway. For a moment he was dazed, but he quickly regained his senses and held the horse's head so that the animal could not plunge and hurt himself.

The motorman, conductor and some of the passengers on the car came to Mr. Kersting's aid and the horse was righted on his feet. The wagon was badly wrecked and was dragged to the side of the road.

Though Mr. Kersting felt somewhat bruised and sore after the collision and subsequent fall, he was not seriously injured.

It is probable that the Street Railway Company will settle for the damages caused by the collision.

Mr. Kersting says that he did not hear the warning gong of the car, but the motorman declares that he rang it vigorously when he saw the bakery wagon approaching the crossing.

The car that collided with the wagon was No. 3. The motorman was George Wallace, and the conductor, James McCormick. The car was not much damaged.

Bowling Tournament Arranged.

The Catholic Club held its monthly meeting in the clubhouse, corner of East Sixth and Liberty streets, last night. The president, George J Tobin, was in the chair, and the attendance of members was large. The bowling committee in its report stated that it had arranged for a bowling tournament, to be held this season on the club's alleys. The entertainment committee is arranging for an entertainment to be held in the clubhouse within the next two weeks. The club also passed a vote of thanks to G. F. Kenney for his gift of furnishings for the clubhouse.

A Paper on Temperance Legislation

Eleven members of the Minister's Association of Plainfield met yesterday afternoon at the home of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of East Front street, and listened to an instructive paper prepared and read by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell on the subject "Temperance Legislation." Following the paper there was an informal discussion of the subject which was participated in by all present. It was left with the secretary, Rev. Floyd Appleton, to arrange for the place of next meeting.

Was Too Disorderly.

W. Korken, a blacksmith employed on Richmond street, was arrested last night on the charge of being drunk and disorderly and using profane language Saturday. The charge was made by Patrick Doyle, of East Third street. This morning Judge DeMeza sentenced him to pay a fine of $10 or go to jail for 30 days.

A Thriving Industry.

Spicer & Hubbard's mill, on Madison avenue, is a lively place in these days. Besides furnishing windows, doors, trimmings, etc., for a large number of houses, they are finding many customers for their ready-made sashes, of which they carry in stock a great variety, glazed for immediate delivery.

Mark Dowd Gets a Contract.

The Watchung Water Company, who were awarded the contract for furnishing water for Lincoln and Beechwood Heights, yesterday sublet the work of laying the pipes to Mark Dowd, of the borough. Mr. Dowd will commence work at once. The system will contain ten miles of pipes.

TO GATHER BY THE SEA.

NEXT ENDEAVOR STATE CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT ASBURY PARK.

The Matter Decided at the Conference of the State Officers Yesterday—Committees Chosen to Arrange for the Event.

Yesterday afternoon the state officers of the Christian Endeavor Society met at the Y. M. C. A., and held their first business meeting for the year. President Brett presided, and in the absence of Miss Ida Stephens, the secretary, who could not be present on account of illness in her family, Miss Mabel Wilson, of this city, acted as secretary pro tem.

The first business was that of receiving an invitation from the Christian Endeavorers at Asbury Park, asking the state convention to come to their place at its next meeting. The invitation was accepted, but no date was fixed. The matter of fixing the time was left in the hands of President Brett, of Jersey City, Rev. Mr. McCauley, of Freehold, and Rev. T. E. Davis, of Bound Brook.

The following persons were appointed as members of the committee on transportation: E. E. Anthony, of Plainfield; W. T. Hamilton, of Newark, Rev. T E. Davis, Bound Brook. This committee will have charge of the transportation for all Christian Endeavor gatherings during the coming year. The committee on programme consists of Rev. J. W. Richardson, Rev. J. Clement French, Rev. Peter Stryker, Rev. A. Bradford, aad Mrs. Louis Fox. The last named is from Paterson. Other matters concerning the work for the coming year were discussed, but no definite action was taken.

Following this meeting all of the officers adjourned to the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, where supper was served under the auspices of the executive committee from the local union. The committee from the executive committee consisted of Miss Ernestine Smith, Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Miss Florence Hawkins, assisted by Mrs. Hawkins, Mrs. E. E. Anthony and Mrs. Thaddeus Smith. Those who served as waitresses were Miss Jessie Utter, Miss Maude Mosher, Mrs. William Hubbard and Mrs. F. J. Hubbard.

The committee in charge prepared a very tempting repast and all of the State officers were loud in their praise of the hospitality evidenced. Nearly all of the State officers were present at the supper, and in addition about twenty members of the local union, including the local officers. After the supper an adjournment was made to the First Baptist church where a rally was held as reported in another column.

NO TRIALS THIS WEEK

The Criminal Cases all go Over Until Next Week.

Court was in session only a short time yesterday. The criminal trials were calendared for yesterday, when the petit jurors a week ago were dismissed to return this morning. The jurors were on hand when court opened, but immediately after roll call they were discharged for another week.

Judge McCormick said the State had expected to begin the trial of the criminal cases, but the Grand Jury was compelled to remain in session until Saturday, which left too little time for the issuing and serving of writs and subpœnaes. In consequence the State could not proceed.

The constables began to serve the subpœnaes and there will probably be arraignments tomorrow morning, at which time dates for trials will also be fixed.

Several boys, who are charged with committing robberies at Plainfield were present, accompanied by their counsel, and expecting to be arraigned, but their cases also went over until Monday.

GIRL PALL-BEARERS.

Impressive and Beautiful Funeral Held in St. Mary's Church.

One of the most beautiful and impressive funerals ever taking place in this city was held over the remains of Miss Mary Elizabeth McCoy, aged 19 years, this morning in St. Mary's church. Miss McCoy was a pupil in St. Mary's parochial school and one of its most promising scholars. Nearly everyone of her schoolmates attended the funeral in a body, while six of her most intimate girl companions officiated as pall-bearers. They were Misses May Day, Katie Walsh, Sadie Hibbits, Ellen Kelly, Mamie Carty and Elizabeth Casey. The floral tributes were extensive and beautiful. The services were conducted by Rev. Father Murphy.

GIBSON DIDN'T RESIGN

MT. OLIVE CHURCH TROUBLE IS LIKE A FARCE-COMEDY.

An Exciting Meeting Last Night, During Which Half of the Members Left the Edifice—Gibson's Friends Stood by Him.

Rev. Philip S. Gibson, pastor of the colored Mt. Olive Baptist church, and his friends are jubilant today over what they claim to be the complete vindication of the pastor. The cause of their gratification is the action of the meeting which was called in the church last night to consider Mr. Gibson's resignation. Instead of doing this it voted to continue him as pastor of the church.

Ever since the conviction of the pastor in the city court two weeks ago on a serious charge preferred by Miss Lucy Swain, a young woman who was at one time a member of his church, the different factions in the church had been looking forward to last night's meeting with anticipations of a very lively time, and they were not disappointed in their expectations. Immediately after the conviction of Mr. Gibson, the trustres of the church held a special meeting and decided to ask for his resignation. When notice of this action was brought to the pastor he agreed and promised to read his resignation before the congregation at any time decided upon by the trustees. The latter appointed last night as the time for the meeting.

This seeming docility on the part of the pastor satisfied for a time those who were anxious for his removal, but not many days elapsed before there was whisperings among the members that threatened to renew the discord. Meetings of the pastor's friends were held frequently at his house, and it soon became noised about that there was a movement on foot to organize a new church in this city and to place him at its head. The congregation, it was said, would meet in Reform Hall. When questioned about this, however, Mr. Gibson denied any intention on his part to organize a new church.

The affair then rested until last night's meeting, when it was expected that the resignation would be forthcoming. Rev. William Hill, of Newark, accompanied the pastor and acted as moderator of the meeting. The first trouble of the evening occurred when someone arose and nominated Deacon Alfred Wilson for moderator. Mr. Gibson arose and declared that the name of Mr. Wilson should not be voted upon, as he would not allow a layman to preside over a meeting at which his case was to be considered; it was a lowering of his dignity to which he could not submit. Mr. Hill bowed assent to this speech of the pastor's, and proceeded with the meeting.

The surprise of the evening was sprung when a minute later Mr. Gibson arose, and instead of reading his resignation, as was expected, stated that he had learned since his conference with the trustees that a majority of the membership of the church was desirous to have him continue to act as their pastor, and in consideration of this feeling in the church he had decided that it was his duty not to resign.

Several members at once rose to protest, but they were declared out of order by the moderator, who suggested that all those in favor of having Mr. Gibson continue as pastor of the church should stand up. Forty-eight stood up to be counted. The clerk of the meeting, Nathan Pollard, who belongs to the anti-Gibson side, furnished some excitement at this time by declaring that more than one-half of those standing were not members of the church, and were therefore not entitled to vote. His protest was not heeded by the moderator, who was serenely engaged in counting the noses of those standing.

While the count was going on, the leaders of the anti-Gibson contingent held a hurried consultation in the rear pews. The situation was serious, and something must be done at once, or all would be lost.

It took but a moment to decide that it was a case where discretion was the better part of valor. The opposition decided to retreat, and before the counting of the aye votes was finished they arose and headed by the full board of trustees, left the church in a body. The meeting adjourned shortly afterward, after voting to have Mr. Gibson preach a sermon in the church tonight.

The trustees are determined that he shall not do this, and say that they will not allow him to enter the church tonight.

SPAIN OFFERS PARDON

Blanco Announces Amnesty for All Purely Political Prisoners.

MERCY WITH A STRING TO IT

Reformist Press Highly Praises Gen Blanco for His Decision, and Urges the Establihment of Peace Under the Spanish Flag.

(Cable Dispatch to the New York Sun.)

Havana, Nov. 9.—Gen. Blanco signed yesterday a proclamation granting pardon to all persons sentenced in Cuba for rebellion against Spain, provided that their sentences were based upon political grounds only. Those who have been sentenced as common criminals and under the military law will be pardoned only if the Captain-General deems it expedient after investigation.

The Reformist and Autonomist press here highly praises Gen. Blanco for his decision, and hopes that all those who are fighting against Spain in the field or conspiring against her abroad will avail themselves of the opportunity to return to their homes and contribute to establish peace under the Spanish flag.

The decree is prefaced by an introduction in which Gen. Blanco declares that in accordance with the magnanimous feelings of the Government of Her Majesty he takes this step in order to prove that Spain is resolved both to punish with severity those who continue to fight against her sovereignty and to open "her merciful arms to her repentant sons."

The trial of the prisoners of the Competitor that was to begin yesterday has been postponed. Senor Jose Bruzon, the newly appointed Governor of the province of Havana, and a prominent member of the Autonomist Junta, will take possession of his office today. The Reformists and Autonomists will compliment him with a demonstration at the palace of the Civil Government.

Will Not Reach Cuban Leaders.

Havana, via Key West, Nov. 9.—Gen. Blanco's decree announcing pardon for political crimes does not extend in its action to "crimes" punished under special military law. To this category belong all the important revolutionists. They have been sentenced for "rebellion and incendiarism" at the same time, the first offense being political and the second a common crime. The pardon, therefore, amounts to nothing practically, since, from Gen. Gomez down to the last soldier in the revolutionary ranks, all have been sentenced by Spanish court-martials as common outlaws.

GEN. DUANE DEAD.

Served with Distinction During the Rebellion.

New York, Nov. 9.—Gen. James C. Duane, U. S. A. (retired), and president of the Aqueduct Commission, died from apoplexy yesterday at his home, 49 East Thirtieth street. Commissioner Duane was 73 years old.

Brig.-Gen. James C. Duane was graduated from West Point in 1848. He went into the engineer corps and served with high distinction in the Army of the Potomac, and at the close of the war had several brevets.

He was chief of the Engineer Corps of the United States Army from 1886 to 1888, when, having reached 64 years, he was retired in accordance with the law.

He was appointed president of the Aqueduct Commission on Aug. 1, 1886. After his transfer to the retired list of the army he served continuously in that position until his death.

He married Harriet Brewerton, daughter of Gen. Brewerton, U. S. A., who, with two sons, Dr. Alexander Duane and James C. Duane, survive him.

Appointed by the President.

Washington, Nov. 9.—These appointments have been made by the President:

W. Godfrey Hunter, of Kentucky, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Guatemala and Honduras.

Collectors of Internal Revenue—James A. Wood for the First District of New Hampshire; Edward T. Franks for the Second District of Kentucky.

Edwin M. Yeran, agent for the Indians of the Lemhi Agency, Idaho.

Receivers of Public Moneys—Thomas C. Burns, at Mitchell, S. D.; Robley D. Harris, at Sydney, N. B.

Edward W. Bartlett, Register of the Land Office at Lagrande, Ore.

Maj. William L. Marshall, U. S. A., member of the Wisconsin River Commission.

Collector of Customs—Thomas O. Thompson for the District of New London, Ct.

Boiler Blown 2,000 Feet.

Sharon, Pa., Nov. 9.—A boiler explosion occurred at Stoneboro yesterday while the miners of the Mercer Iron and Coal Company were in the boiler house eating lunch. David Love, engineer, was killed instantly. John Jackson, Joseph Dowers and Albert Jaxtheimer were hurt mortally. Two other men were hurt severely. No reason is given for the explosion. The boiler had been inspected but a short time before and was found to be in good condition. It was blown over two thousand feet, and the boiler house was torn to atoms.

The Garrison's Wreck.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 9.—The State Railroad Commissioners visited the scene of the recent railroad wreck at Garrison's yesterday morning and commenced their investigation. They are assisted by several engineering experts. The theory of the use of dynamite has been discredited and it is now established that the disaster was caused by a simple washout.

Chicago Alderman Killed.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—While Alderman Henry Rudolph, of the Sixteenth Ward, was on his way to the City Council meeting last night he was run down by a Chicago & Northwestern passenger train. Both legs were crushed at the knees. He died an hour later. The Council adjourned as soon as the news was received.

LONG AND SHORT HAUL CASE.

United States Supreme Court Decides in Favor of Southern Roads.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The Interstate Commerce law has received another severe blow at the hands of the Supreme Court. The long-pending appeal of the commission from the judgment of the Court of Appeals for the sixth circuit in the matter of the order of the commission against the Alabama Midland, Georgia Central and other railroads has been decided against the commission, the action of the court below being affirmed.

Justice Shiras, announcing the opinion of the court, said that the case arose from the effort of the commission to enforce its order made against the railroads at the petition of merchants of Troy, Ala., who alleged that the railroads were violating the provisions of the fourth section of the act, popularly known as "the long and short haul clause." Two questions arose in the consideration of the case, said Justice Shiras:

1. Could competition caused by rival railroads and water routes be taken into consideration as showing that the circumstances of the two routes were not substantially similar?

2. If the circumstances were found to be not substantially similar, could the railroads themselves, in the first instance, without appealing to the commission, make allowance in their schedule of rates for that fact?

Both the Circuit Court and Court of Appeals had substantially decided these questions in the affirmative, and in their conclusion, said Justice Shiras, the Supreme Court concurred.

Mr. Justice Harlan announced his dissent. Taken in connection with former decisions, he said, this decision went far towards defeating the objects arrived at in the passage of the law. It not only minimized the power of the Commissioners beyond the intention of Congress, but it put it in the power of railroad companies, by permitting them to determine for themselves the quality of competition, to destroy the business of dealers at intermediate points.

SEEK SOULS IN ALASKA.

Mission Workers Will Work Their Way to the Klondike Gold Fields.

New York, Nov. 9.—With knapsacks strapped on their backs and hymn books in their pockets the Klondike Gospel Band started for the Alaskan gold fields yesterday.

The start was made from 105 Bowery. The company is composed of Alexander De Sota, a retired sea captain; Frederick Baylis, George Gavner, L. J. Paynter, Harry M. Kepner and two photographers named Boyles and Bliss.

The men have been engaged in gospel mission work, mostly on the Bowery. It is their intention to establish a rescue mission at Dawson City if they ever get there.

Capt. De Sota has been up the Yukon and says he is thoroughly familiar with the country and climate of the Arctic El Dorado. Each man carried his outfit of clothing with him. It consisted of heavy, pliable leather, lined with sheepskin.

The men propose to work their way to the gold fields. When they can't pay their way on the railroad they will walk.

They expect to reach San Francisco by March 15. They will then take a steamer for Juneau and cross the Chilkoot Pass, arriving at Dawson City late in the Spring.

Relief for the Arctic Whalers.

Washington, Nov. 9.—A conference between the President and Secretaries Long, Alger and Gage, and Engineer-in-Chief Melville, of the navy, was held at the White House yesterday, with a view to devising means of sending assistance to the 300 whalers who have been caught in the icepack off Point Burrow, Alaska. Telegrams from Pacific coast Congressmen and prominent men of San Francisco and other cities were received by the President and members of the Cabinet asking Federal aid in succoring the unfortunate men. On account of Engineer-in-Chief Melville's familiarity with the Arctic regions, Secretary Long invited him to attend the conference. Eight vessels are caught in the pack. The conference decided to send the revenue cutter Bear with provisions to the relief of the shipwrecked whalers.

Scrofula, which is one of the worst afflictions of the human race, and comes from impure blood.

Eczema, a most offensive and uncomfortable affection of the skin, also due to impure blood.

Salt Rheum, a torment to the flesh, a disfigurement to the body, and a drain on the system, also due to vitiated blood.

Pimples, which so disfigure the skin, and make the human face divine anything but a thing of beauty, but which are Nature's advertisement of foul blood.

Catarrh, which very often comes from a chronic affection of the circulation, is a constant offense to one's self and all his friends.

Rheumatism, which all authorities now attribute to various acidities in the blood, which this great blood purifier of the age, Hood's Sarsaparilla, corrects.

About
Chickering Pianos.
The underlying principles and generally accepted theories of modern Piano building emanate primarily, and to the greatest extent, from the famous house of Chickering & Sons. Pianoforte construction in its various phases has attained its greatest development at the hands of these renowned makers.
Results of the most artistic value are demonstrated to the highest degree in the modern CHICKERING Pianos; these are facts that cannot be disputed. The CHICKERING is the best the world produces.

Alfred Garland, of New Brunswick, has retnrned home after a brief visit in this city.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, of Coddington avenue, have returned from a week's visit in Brooklyn.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Anthor, of New York city, spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Horsley Barker, of Grove street.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to billious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

Misses Marion and Josephine Randolph, daughters of Former Mayor L V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, sailed for Europe today with the purpose of studying in Paris.

The Coming Woman

Who goes to the club while her husband tends the baby as well as the good old-fashioned woman who looks after her home, will both at times get run down in health. They will be troubled with loss of appetite, head aches, sleeplessness, fainting or dizzy spells. The most wonderful remedy for these woman is Electric Bitters Thousands of sufferers from lame back and weak kidneys rise up and call it blessed. It is the medicine for women. Female complaints and nervous troubles of all kinds are soon relieved by the use of Electric Bitters. Delicate women should keep this remedy on hand to build up the system. Only 50c per bottle. For sale by L. W Randolph.

S. L. Bowden, of South Second street, who was injured on the Central Railroad last Saturday, is now recovering from his injuries which have not thus far proved serious.

Free of Charge to Sufferers.

Cut this out and take it to your druggist and get a sample bottle free of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Cough's and Colds. They do not ask you to buy before trying. This will show you the great merits of this truly wonderful remedy, and show you what can be accomplished by the regular size bottle. This is no experiment, and would be disastrous to the proprietors, did they not know it would invariably cure. Many of the best physicians are now using it in their practice with great results, and are relying on it in most severe cases. It is guaranteed. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. WATTERSON'S CREED.

He Declares It and Says: "If That Is Democracy, We Are a Democrat."

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9.—In the Courier-Journal yesterday Mr. Watterson discusses the political situation and lays down these propositions:

"First—The Government has no right, either equitable or legal, to tax the people except to raise money for its own support; every dollar of taxation diverted from this purpose is robbery; and it is equally important that the money legally collected shall be honestly applied.

"Second—The right of the people to local self-government is an inalienable right; to local option in the counties; to home rule in the cities; to all rights in the State not expressly delegated to the general Government, and the preservation of this right of local self-government is essential to that just equilibrium between liberty and law, which are the cornerstones of our system of Federal and State institutions.

"Third—The money of the country must be good money, circulating everywhere; recognized at once and taken at its full value; and to attain this universal recognition and acceptance it must consist of gold and silver and paper, the whole of interchangeable value, each convertible into the other on demand and freely circulating side by side.

"These propositions are as true now as ever they were. In a general way they embrace the political issues of the day. If they be Democracy then we are a Democrat. If they be not Democracy then we are not a Democrat. In our judgment we cannot have enlightened, conservative government until they are realized in all national and State legislation, and, as so realized, settled finally and for all time."

GRANGERS CONVENE.

They Gather in Harrisburg to Do Business for the Farmers.

Harrisburg, Nov. 9.—For the next ten days Harrisburg will be filled with representatives of the Patrons of Husbandry from all parts of the country. The advance guard has arrived. The State Grange will meet this afternoon at the Opera House, and to-morrow morning the National Grange will go into session in the Supreme Court room. Probably the State body will get through its business this week, but the National Grange will be in session until the close of next week. It is composed of two delegates from every State Grange, usually the master and his wife.

There will be a public reception by the joint bodies at the Opera House on Thursday afternoon. Gov. Hastings, L. H. Rhone, master of the Pennsylvania Grange, and others will make addresses of welcome, and there will be responses by visitors. J. H. Brigham, of Ohio, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, will preside at the sessions of the national body.

The National Grange is composed of fifty-eight delegates and sixteen officers. There is considerable interest in the biennial election of officers. The sixth degree, that of "Flora," will be conferred in the presence of the joint bodies on Wednesday evening; the seventh, or that of the "Assembly of Demeter," on Thursday evening.

Must Pay Damages to France.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The World's Columbian Exposition Company must pay the loss to the French Republic and French exhibitors caused by the fire on Jan. 8, 1894. Such is the opinion of Judge Grosscup, handed down yesterday from the Federal bench. The fire at the Casino and Peristyle showered sparks upon the wooden walk of the Manufacturers' Building. The burning timbers fell into the building and upon the exhibits of the Frenchmen. The French Republic lost some fine Beauvais and gobelin tapestry and two magnificent Sevres vases, made for ornaments at the entrance to the Chamber of Deputies. The loss amounted to about seventy-five thousand dollars.

Gen. Butterworth to Resign.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Gen. Butterworth, Commissioner of Patents, who is ill in Cleveland, just before he left for Ohio had a long talk with the President, and at that time notified him that he intended to resign on Jan. 1. Mr. Butterworth found the work too confining in his present state of health and had determined to get out of public life. The stories about a rupture between the President and Gen. Butterworth are untrue.

No More Prize Fights in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—There are to be no more prize fights or boxing contests in this city. Early Sunday evening the order went out from Chief Kipley to all police officers directing them to stop all such contests. Since Mayor Harrison's election there have been several so-called athletic clubs whose chief object has been simply to foster the sport. Scores of contests of more or less importance will now have to be called off.

Harrison Says He Is Out of Politics.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Ex-President Harrison is in Chicago to-day on legal business. He says he no longer takes any interest in politics, is kept busy with legal practice, and has one of the prettiest babies in Hoosierdom down at his Indianapolis home. Besides this he had nothing to say.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

An appeal will be made to Europe and America for aid for the destitute in Greece.

The Mayor of Denver approved the ordinance requiring a $1,000 license to sell cigarettes.

Only two cases and two deaths of yellow fever were reported in New Orleans yesterday.

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE.

Plenty of Material for the Clerkship —Senator Voorhees' Chances.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 9.—The contest among Republicans for the Legislative offices has begun, and when the first round-up of the Senators and members is made next Tuesday, there will be an announcement of many candidacies for the twenty-two Senate places and the forty-two in the House. The financial value of these places varies from the $166.66 extra salary to the President and Speaker, and $200 to each of the fourteen pages or messengers, to $1,500 to the secretary of the Senate and clerk of the house, both of which places are vacated this year by reason of the occupants having served the allotted three years.

Senator Voorhees, of Union County who has been the Republican leader for three years, is regarded as the coming President of the Senate, with Senators Skirm, of Mercer; Hoffman, of Atlantic and Ketcham, of Essex, mentioned.

Assemblyman George W. Porter, of Essex County, has announced his candidacy for the Speakership, and needs only the united support of the eleven members in his delegation to be successful.

Other members suggested for the Speakership are those of Eugene C Cole, of Cape May, who, with Senator Voorhees, did most of the work on the ballot reform law five years ago; David O. Watkins, of Gloucester; Henry W Gledhill, of Passaic, who was an unsuccessful candidate last year, and John H. McMurray, of Camden. Porter and Watkins are regarded as the strongest candidates.

A number of office-holders in the Legislature, who are entitled to another year in office, find themselves without a Republican Senator or member to urge their claims, and will be compelled to retire.

The latest figures received from last Tuesday's election indicate that the Republicans carried the State by less than ten thousand plurality on the Assembly vote. Essex County contributed about seven thousand two hundred of this plurality, which shows that Essex will be the battle ground next Fall in a fight for the eleven Assemblymen who are likely to decide who shall be United States Senator Smith's successor. It is understood that the Democrats did not put up much of a fight last week, preferring to reserve their energy and money till next year.

The Work of a Gang of Outlaws.

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 9.—The Black Jack gang is credited with the work of the Santa Fe hold-up at Grant's, N. M. Almost every outrage that occurs on the New Mexico and Arizona border is credited to this gang. Black Jack, whose real name is said to be McDonald, has been reported killed on five occasions, but it always proved to be another member of his party who was killed.

Very little is known about him, but it is said he came to New Mexico from Texas, in company with Tim Anderson, in June, 1885. He is said to be a college graduate of handsome and engaging appearance and in his marauding he treats poor persons and women with respect.

Speech Restored by Fright.

Phillipsburg, N. J., Nov. 9.—Samuel Johnson, aged 11 years, son of David Johnson, recovered his speech yesterday through a fright. Three years ago he was so frightened by the appearance of a surgeon, who was to operate on him, that he screamed until utterly worn out. Later it was found he could not speak or hear. His hearing returned, but not his power of speech. Yesterday morning he went into the yard before it was light. He thought he saw a ghost, and ran screaming into the house. When calmed it was found he could talk. He had been frightened by a rose bush covered with white cloth to protect it from frost.

Hogansville Still at It.

Hogansville, Ga., Nov. 9.—The war against Postmaster Loftin has broken out again with renewed vigor. Arrangements have been made with the sympathetic adjoining towns to send mails intended for Hogansville from their offices by messenger. Travelers, drummers, etc., are all commissioned to handle mail. Last evening an Atlanta drummer had his satchel filled with letters which he was to mail from Atlanta. The mail boxes on the mail trains are locked before reaching this place, but the passengers accept the mails and it is deposited in other offices all the way from Atlanta to Montgomery.

Butterworth Not Better.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 9.—Benjamin Butterworth's physicians report no change in his condition last night. Senator Hanna decided yesterday to postpone his visit to the East on account of Gen. Butterworth's illness. He telegraphed to the Home Market Club, of Boston that he would be unable to be present at its dinner to-morrow evening, where he was to respond to a toast. He will remain here until Gen. Butterworth is out of danger.

Madagascar in Open Revolt.

London, Nov. 9.—A special dispatch from Paris says alarming information from the island of Madagascar has reached the French Colonial Office.

Large bands of well-armed, disciplined rebels are scouring Madagascar and cutting off isolated French detachments.

Exposition to Be Permanent.

Louisville, Nov. 9.—The Nashville Centennial Exposition will be made a permanent affair. Herman Justi, chief of the Bureau of Publicity of the institution, says the exposition had paid all debts and that it will be a paying investment to Nashville people in the future.

GRAND AND NOBLE.

The Spielkartenfest is presented for Plainfield's most noble charity, and its purpose alone commends it to the patronage of every citizen. But there are other things besides the sentiment that one is helping simply a good object when you go to this great spectacle—the most effulgent thing of its kind ever arranged in Plainfield. Perhaps it is a hackneyed phrase, but we don't know of an expression more to the point in reference to it than that "you get your money's worth." The affair was elaborately planned to entertain by pleasing the eye with a symmetry of motion and harmony in color, and it has been magnificently consummated. It is an artistically perfect production designed for the optical delectation of a multitude of people who not only live here but will be attracted here by the gorgeous reports of its beauty. It merits all the encomiums that can be said of it.

Those who have been most active in the preliminaries and who are now devoting their personal endeavors to carry success to the end, deserve unstinted praise. Their unselfish desires are well illustrated in the fact that even the majority of the participants are paying admission to the hall that they may contribute their efforts in making the grand finale a presentation to the hospital treasury of a sum of money that will stand as an effective proof of Plainfield's appreciation of so worthy an institution.

NOT UNDER CHURCH AUSPICES.

The Press has been requested by the officers of some of the city churches to correct the impression that has gone forth, erroneously, that the churches of Plainfield have in some way made themselves responsible for the management of the Spielkartenfest on different evenings. While some of the ladies of the different churches are interested in the success of the undertaking, and have charge of the refreshments served each evening, the churches themselves have no connection with it.

A Lively Runaway.

The horses attached to a beer delivery wagon driven by Patrick Cullen took fright on West Third street at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and ran several blocks at a high rate of speed. At the corner of Liberty street they attempted to turn and the wagon struck the curb and was upset. The wheels and the wagon cover were demolished and the beer bottles were broken. The wagon belonged to Mrs Lena Hauster, who runs a beer bottling establishment on Somerset street. The horses were captured after the wagon overturned, and further damage was averted.

The Boys Lectured.

This morning before Recorder Thomas and Mayor Wilson, of the borough, were arraigned the young men mentioned in yesterday's Daily Press as being implicated in the sending in of a false alarm of fire in the borough last Tuesday. The Recorder reprimanded the young men severely and told them what the consequences would be if they should be arrested again. The Mayor also had a few words to say to the offenders, after which they were allowed to go.

Hid the Gate in a Cornfield.

A massive iron gate upon the property of Stephen A. Ginna, on Watchung avenue, was stolen by some persons, presumably boys, on Hallowe'en, and hidden so effectually that it was not discovered until yesterday, when the police found it in a cornfield opposite to Mr. Ginna's place, where the mischief-makers in their pranks had carried it. The gate was concealed underneath several stacks of corn stalks.

—The children of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches, accompanied by the Sisters of each society, will attend the Spielkartenfest Thursday afternoon in a body.

—Supper will be served at the Spielkartenfest every evening from 6 o'clock until the close of the affair The doors of the Rink open at 6 o'clock, and not at 7:30 as many understand.

consisting of suits, overcoats and trousers, now being sold at 33c on the dollar. A great purchase and a great sale of the entire stock of a very widely known clothing manufacturer. Cash is King, and the money on the table enables us to sell this extraordinary purchase at less than 33c on the dollar. This sale would prove the greatest sensation of the day if maker's name could be published, but owing to the fact that nearly every retailer of prominence has a stock on hand from these manufacturers, the latter to protect the former, stipulated that their name must not appear in advertisements. The name, however, appears on every garment, which is an absolute guarantee of perfect satisfaction.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Jack Auten has been the guest of friends in Plainfield for a few days.

Tomorrow a large number of borough sporting men will go out hunting for game.

At the meeting of the Jr. O. U. A. M. this evening business of importance will be transacted.

Miss Lizzie Hunt has returned from Easton, Pa., where she has been visiting Mrs. W. Wilhelm.

The wheelmen's rest at the end of the trolley has been opened again, and it is now possible that it will remain open all winter.

A meeting of the Building and Loan Association will be held next Monday, and on the following Thursday evening a business meeting will be held.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening a fair will be held in Friendship Hall, New Market, under the auspices of the Guild Society of the Episcopal church.

The Slape house will soon be ready to place on the new foundations near the City Industrial Home. The work was stopped yesterday on account of the weather.

Great preparations have been made for the entertainment to be held in the Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon and evening of this week. It will be known as the "Festival of Holidays," and is being arranged by the Christian Endeavor Society of the church.

Rev. Mr. Lamb, of Trenton, who is interested in a State society for the care of orphan children, was at the M. E. church last Sunday evening and gave an interesting address about his work. He had several pictures of inmates at the home at Trenton, and the sympathy of the audience was enlisted from the words spoken by Mr. Lamb. He received a good collection for his work.

An employe of a beef house in Plainfield came to the borough yesterday with a load of meat On his way here he had considerable trouble with a balky horse. The driver's patience came to an end when he started to go beyond the borough, so he telephoned to Plainfield and had another horse sent to him. The balky horse was taken back to his home behind a wagon. The little affair attracted a large crowd of interested boys.

At the New Market Baptist church last Sunday evening the Father Lights Missionary Society had charge of the service. Mrs. Pettit, of Elizabeth, made a most excellent and interesting address on mission work. At the close the collection was taken up by Miss Ida Stites, Miss Minnie VanMiddlesworth, Miss Emma Smalley and Miss Sadie Lawton. The ushers were Miss Ida Giles, Miss Alice Pierce, Miss Minnie VanMiddlesworth and Miss Stella Sofield, members of the society.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Fanwood Board of Education holds a meeting tonight.

Miss Mattie Brown, of Cranford, is visiting relatives in Fanwood.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company held an exhibition drill in the company's rooms last evening.

Fanwood Council, No. 744, Royal Arcanum, will entertain the grand officers at its meeting tonight. The entertainment committee will provide refreshments, and a very enjoyable time is anticipated.

The Greenwood evangelists of Plainfield, consisting of Robert Love, Clifford Braider, Irving Brady, John Wolf and Mr. Cator, will conduct a religious service in the M. E. church next Sunday evening. Mr. Braider will have charge of the music.

Mr. N. N. Osburn, well-known at Woodstock, Mich., was troubled with a lame back. He was persuaded to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It gave him relief in one night. This remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

Walter L. Price, of Newark, spent Saturday with Plainfield friends.

WESTFIELD

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity

Paul Q Oliver is ill with an attack of pneumonia.

R. F. Hohenstein is confined to his home by illness.

Harry A. Knight, of Elm street, is confined to his home by illness.

Miss Edna Bonstil, of New York, has been visiting Miss Estelle Austin, of Broad street.

The case of Taylor against DeMott, on contract, was tried in Justice Hart's court yesterday.

A successful harvest home festival was held in the Locust Grove chapel Sunday evening.

Miss Lottie Daisley, of Brooklyn, is the guest of Mrs. J. R. Paterson, of Cumberland street.

Mrs. Mary A. Ackerson, of Elm street, has been entertaining friends from New York city.

Miss Blanche Hoagland, of Montclair, has returned after a visit with the family of Octavius Knight.

Mr. Irwin, of the Monroe Avenue church, of Plainfield, will conduct services in the Garwood Union chapel next Sunday morning.

The C. and C. Electric Light Company's Works at Garwood are now running night and day to supply the large contracts which the company have on hand.

The Loyal Temperance Legion has reorganized and will hold meetings hereafter every Friday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock in the W. C. T. U. Hall, on Prospect street.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will give a New England supper in the church parlors Friday from 5:30 to 8 o'clock. There will also be a candy table.

A large delegation of Westfield people will attend the reunion of mothers and workers of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, which will be held at 545 East Eleventh street, New York, this evening.

Volney B. Cushing, of Bangor, Me., the noted temperance advocate, delivered his lecture, "The Lost Atlantis," to a good-sized audience in Temperance Hall last night. Tonight he will speak again on "A Modern Triumvoirate." No admission fee will be charged.

Westfield football enthusiasts are planning for a supper to be given to the Westfield Journal League football team at the close of the season, for its excellent work in winning every game that it has played so far in the contest for the trophy cup. The six victories scored thus far by the team make it impossible for Westfield to lose the cup, as Rahway and Elizabeth have each lost three games and Plainfield four, and only two games remain to be played by Westfield. These are with Elizabeth and Rahway, and Westfield feels reasonably sure that she will close the season without a single defeat.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

An interesting game of basket ball will be played at the Y. M. C. A. tonight between the Riverside Athletic Club team and the business men's team, of this city. The lineup of the business men's team will be as follows: Captain, J. H. Doane; Gilmore Drayton, Berry Egan, George P. Smith and Philip Suffern. Rev. W. C O'Donnell and Rev. H. J. Johnson will not be able to play upon the team, on account of the evangelistic services which are now being held in their churches.

During the month of October the Y. M. C. A. building was used as a meeting place by ten different organizations and committees not connected with the association, for a total of twenty-eight meetings.

Charles B. Brown Settled in His Position.

Charles B. Brown, formerly of Plainfield, but now general secretary of the Jersey City Y. M. C. A., is settled in his new position and is meeting with flattering success. Last Wednesday evening he preached at the Riverside Baptist church. New York, and was received enthusiastically. Last Sunday afternoon he addressed the first men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. in Jersey City, and nearly one thousand young men were present. The Jersey City newspapers have given Mr. Brown many kindly notices and his work no doubt will result in a full harvest. His many friends in this city will be pleased to learn that he is doing so well.

AN ORDINANCE

authorizing the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey to lay down and maintain a Siding or Turnout across North avenue and to run and operate engines and cars thereon.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to lay down, construct and maintain, one railroad track across North avenue in the City of Plainfield, and to run and operate railroad engines and cars on and over said railroad track across said North avenue, and that such authorization is granted upon the following terms and condition.

A. That the point where such single railroad track shall cross said North avenue shall be between lands of said Railroad Company on the South side and lands of Charles H. Leonard on the North side of said North avenue and not nearer than fifty (50) feet to Berckman street and not farther from said Berckman street than two hundred and fifty (250) feet.

B. That said single railroad track shall be laid and maintained, as nearly as possible, at right angles to said North avenue.

C. That said single railroad track shall be so laid and maintained that the top of the rails shall be on a level with said avenue.

D. That for one foot on the outside of the rails, and between the rails, the said Company shall lay and maintain in good order on a level with the rails, planking, so that the crossing of said railroad track by vehicles shall be easy and convenient, such planking to extend a width equal to three-fifths of the carriage or driveway of said avenue. That the roadway of said North avenue, adjacent to to said crossing, be continually maintained on a level with said planks, and that the planks shall be renewed when, in the opinion of the Street Commissioner, it is necessary.

E. That said Railroad Company in the laying down and maintenance of said single railroad track shall make such culverts or drains, or both, on the gutter lines of the avenue to pass the surface water flowing in said gutters as shall be required by the Street Commissioner of said City.

F. That said Railroad Company shall erect a sign or signal post on one side of said railroad track on the curb line, to be lettered "Railroad Crossing. Look out for the Locomotive."

G. That said Railroad Company shall cause every engine, car, cars, engine and car or cars, which shall be moved across said avenue to be preceded in the going direction of said cars or engines by a flagman to warn persons traveling upon said avenue of the approach of said cars or engines, and no cars or engines shall be moved at a greater speed than such person can walk.

H. That the authorization above granted shall be terminable on thirty days' notice by a resolution of the Common Council to that effect, served on said Railroad Company, and in such case said Railroad Company shall forthwith remove all tracks and rails from said avenue and restore the said avenue to the condition in which it now is.

Adopted by the Common Council, Nov. 1st, 1897, approved by the Mayor Nov. 6th, 1897.

TEXAS OIL FIELDS.

OPERATIONS ON AN EXTENSIVE SCALE INAUGERATED.

An Apparently Unlimited Supply of Petroleum in Sight—How It Got There a Geological Mystery—An Accidental Discovery.

The development of the crude petroleum product in and around Corsicana is just now attracting a great deal of attention on account of the extensive scale upon which operations have recently been inaugurated. The existence of oil in this vicinity has been known for over two years, but little noise has been made about it, as it was feared that the find would prove limited and profitless. Now, however, investigations have progressed far enough to give reasonable assurance that the field is a very rich one, and, in consequence, there is a great deal of excitement and speculation. Four companies have been organized for the development of the field, with an aggregate capital of about $240,000, two of them being capitalized at about $100,000 each. These two companies are the pioneers, and have been in existence for some time,having now, between them, seventeen wells, fourteen of which are flowing oil at a rate of from twenty to eighty barrels each per day, the average daily output being nearly thirty barrels per well, which is readily sold at 60c to 65c per barrel, and is used by mills and factories in this and surrounding cities for fuel.

The discovery of oil in this territory was purely an accident, and came about through the efforts of the Corsicana Water Development Company to get a supply of water for the city. Somewhat over two years ago the supply of water began to run low, the city having for years drawn its supply from a large tank, formed by damming up a little stream, which began to fall on account of encroachments upon the watershed by new settlements. A water famine was threatened. The progress of the city was checked, and serious loss of business was threatened. It was then that the Water Development Company was formed, and undertook by an artesian well to secure the needed supply. Efforts in this directon had been made before, but had proven fruitless, and the people placed little confidence in the scheme, particularly as the eminent geologist for the state had said that no water would be found at less depth than 3500 feet, and when found it would prove useless. In face of these conditions, work was commenced late in 1894 upon a well in a low piece of ground in the southwestern part of the city.

The drill pounded its way through a monstrous formation known to geologists as Ponderosa marl, but familiar to every well-digger in Texas as "joint clay," to a depth of 1040 feet, when it seemed to enter a much softer formation, which, when brought to the surface, proved to be a bluish sandy shade saturated with a fine quality of petroleum. The drill quickly sank through this streak of shale, which was 20 feet thick, and from which oil flowed in large quantities. A halt was called and a consultation held. The doubting Thomases, who had sturdily maintained that it was useless to bore for water, became more confirmed in their position and suggested that it would be better to stop the well where it was and sell the oil to pay expenses. The water-hunters, however, had started for water, and decided to go on. The oil was shut off as the piping was sunk and the drill in its downward journey encountered another streak of joint clay identical with that which extended 1040 feet down from the surface. This second streak proved to be about 500 feet thick, when a new formation was encountered. This is what is called "Austin and Dallas chalk," by the Texas Geological Department, and proved to be about 500 feet thick. Next came a streak of clay from 400 to 450 feet thick, and when the drill had penetrated this it tapped a subterranean water fountain and out gushed a magnificent stream of pure gallons daily. Water was found at a depth of 2500 feet; its temperature is 120 degrees Fahrenheit, and it has an initial pressure of 56 pounds.

The water problem was solved and at once attention was given to the oil discovery. The petroleum was found to be still forcing its way to the surface through the soil on the outside of the pipe in the water well. Samples were sent to various experts for opinions and in a few days the experts were wending toward Corsicana. The oil was found to be nearly equal in quality to the crude oil of Pennsylvania and several parties were anxious to develop it.

Right in the supposed track of the rich oil current lay a block of about 1000 acres of land, just out of town, owned by Senator R. Q. Mills, who was then at Washington wrestling with the sugar trust and other combines and monopolies.

He was too busy fighting the trusts of the country to lend a helping hand toward organizing or making himself part of one at his own home, and he warned his friends against becoming too enthusiastic over their oil fields, which could be rendered worthless to them in a moment by the Standard Oil Company, the greatest of all trusts. When he came home the siege upon him was renewed, and he repeated his warning, declining at first to do anything toward developing his land. Finally, he yielded and permitted his friend, Capt. James Garrity, a free silver president of a national bank, to bore for oil on the coveted tract.

Refined Torture.

It's on the Decrease in Plainfield—Now a Citizen Explains Why.

Year in and year out many of our citizens have struggled along bearing unnecessary burdens of the back, seeking relief from sources where it could not be found, suffering the refined torture which goes with a bad back. The little conqueror has brought about a wondrous change and from all parts comes the same report. Hundreds of grateful citizens hasten to endorse the good work and speak publicly of their own personal benefit. Read what this Plainfield citizen says:

Mr. F. O. Smith, of 686 West Front street, contractor for painting, etc., says: "For some time I had symptoms of kidney trouble and despite all my endeavors to get rid of it, I never was successful until I obtained a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store. There was a distressing pain across the small of my back which clung to me all the time When I got seated at times if I moved a sharp pain struck me in the back and loins and almost made me exclaim. Any change in the weather if I caught the least cold always aggravated the trouble and caused me to suffer severely. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by one of my employes who had been cured of a long standing case of kidney complaint by their use. I commenced the treatment and derived benefit from it immediately and before I had finished the first box I was cured. It affords me pleasure to recommend such a valuable remedy as Doane's Kidney Pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

AN ORDINANCE

to Provide for the Construction of an Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield.

WHEREAS, At an adjourned regular meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, held on the 21st day of May, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, a petition signed by the owners of at least three fifths in value of the real estate in said City as shown by the Assessor's books, was presented to the said Common Council, praying them to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage in the said City in the manner provided in and by a certain act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in Cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890:

AND WHEREAS, On said 21st day of May, A. D. eighteen hundred and ninety-four, the said petition was by a unanimous vote of the said Common Council referred to the Committee on Finance for verification:

AND WHEREAS, On the fourth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, said committee reported that they had duly investigated and ascertained that said petition contained the requisite number of signatures as aforesaid, which report was then and there duly accepted by the Common Council and ordered together with the said petition spread upon the minutes of the said Common Council:

AND WHEREAS, It has appeared and does appear to the said Common Council and the said Common Council has found and determined and doth hereby find, ascertain and determine that the owners of at least three fifths in value of the real estate in the said City as shown by the Assessor's books have petitioned said Common Council to provide for and cause to be constructed a system of sewerage for said City in the manner provided by said act:

AND WHEREAS, In the opinion of the said Common Council the public good required that a system of sewerage should be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of said act, and the said Common Council so determined and adopted the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25, 1894, and an ordinance entitled "A further ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved June 21, 1895:

AND WHEREAS, In the opinion of the Common Council the public good requires that an addition, as hereinafter described, to the system of sewerage already constructed under said ordinances should be constructed in and for said City under the provisions of said act and the Common Council has so determined and does hereby so determine; therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

THORN'S TRIAL BEGINS

First Great Murder Trial in Greater New York.

JURY DRAWN VERY QUICK

The Most Important Murder Trial Ever Held in the Queens County Court House—Recapitulation of the Grewsome Case.

New York, Nov. 9.—At 5 o'clock last evening the twelfth juryman was selected to try Martin Thorn, the alleged murderer of William Guldensuppe, and court adjourned until 9.30 this morning.

This is the most important murder trial ever held within the walls of the Queens County Court House, Thorn and Mrs. Augusta Nack being jointly indicted for the murder of Guldensuppe. Never before in the twenty-five years' history of the Queens County Court House has so much interest been manifested in any trial as in this case.

For the four months since the mutilated part of a human body was found floating in the East River, to be followed by the finding of another part of the same body in the woods in the northern part of the city, six miles away, and subsequently the discovery of the limbs at the Navy Yard, the names of Martin Thorn and of Augusta Nack, his alleged accomplice, have been before the public.

The developments immediately following the finding of the mutilated body, the identification of it as the body of William Guldensuppe, a rubber in a Turkish bath, the arrest of Mrs. Nack, a German midwife, at her home, and the capture of Thorn a week later, have been described so often that it is necessary now only to recapitulate them.

The contention of the prosecution is that the Nack woman induced Guldensuppe to go to a cottage at Woodside, L. I., where Thorn shot him, cut up the body in a bathtub and disposed of it in pieces. The motive, according to the prosecution, was fear on the part of the woman of Guldensuppe, with whom she had lived, and jealousy on the part of Thorn. As the crime was committed in Queens County indictments were found there, and the trial began yesterday morning in the Queens County Supreme Court before Justice Wilmot M. Smith.

Lawyer William F. Howe defends Thorn. He is supported by Joseph Moss, who worked up the details of the defense. Mr. Howe told a reporter that Carl Petersen, who is alleged to have seen Guldensuppe alive in Germany since June 25, the date on which Thorn is accused of committing the murder, would arrive from the old country to testify for Thorn.

Before the case was called District Attorney William J. Youngs and his assistants were kept busy looking after the important witnesses for the prosecution. There are about forty in all for the State.

Barber Gotha, the star witness for the prosecution, was especially well guarded, so he could not possibly be tampered with. It is mainly on Gotha's evidence that the State relies for a conviction. Gotha caused the arrest of Thorn by informing the police that Thorn had confessed to him that he had killed Guldensuppe in the Woodside house, dismembered his body and wrapped the head in plaster of paris.

The witnesses whose evidence will have a material bearing in determining the guilt of Thorn will not be allowed to hear each other testify. Though Thorn is jointly indicted with Mrs. Nack the District Attorney consented to try Thorn separately. This was agreed to at a previous session of the court.

Mr. Youngs has a room full of exhibits which he will introduce during the trial. The dismembered remains now in the New York Morgue and claimed to be parts of Guldensuppe's body may not be shown in court, and for this reason photographs of each part have been made, and these will be offered in evidence to prove that the remains are parts of Guldensuppe's body.

The photograph of one of the feet shows a peculiar toe, and the prosecution claims Guldensuppe had the same peculiarity about one of his feet.

Another photograph shows where a tattooed figure was cut out of the dead man's breast, presumably to prevent identification. Guldensuppe is alleged to have had a figure tattooed on his breast.

Another exhibit is a bundle containing a smoking jacket, slippers and gaiters, which were found by the detectives in Mrs. Nack's flat in Ninth avenue, New York, at the time of her arrest. These articles are alleged to have belonged to Thorn. The prosecution will offer them in evidence to show the intimacy between Mrs. Nack and Thorn before the murder and disappearance of Guldensuppe.

By Trolley to Washington.

Harrisburg, Nov. 9.—A charter was granted by the State Department yesterday to the Washington, Westminster & Gettysburg Electric Railway Company, which will build a line fourteen miles long from Gettysburg to the State line. This is the company which intends to build a line to the national capital. The capital stock is $400,000, and the officers are: President, James B. Colgrove, Washington; Directors, Samuel S. Bushman, Charles A. Trastel and Henry C. Little, Gettysburg; Henry A. Cady, Washington; Charles H. Duttera and John A. Shore, Littlestown.

Judge Fearn Resigns.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Walker Fearn, of Alabama, United States Judge of the Court of First Instance at Cairo of the International Tribunal of Egypt, has sent his resignation to the Khedive on account of ill health. Mr. Fearn was Minister to Greece under President Cleveland's first administration, and was appointed to the International Tribunal in 1894. He was Chief of the Department of Foreign Affairs of the World's Fair. Mr. Fearn recently returned to the United States in the hope of improving his physical condition.

Gov. Bushnell May Run.

Springfield, Ohio, Nov. 9.—It is reported here that Gov. Bushnell will be a candidate for Senator. The editor of Bushnell's organ says he believes the story.

GENERAL LEE'S MISSION

Goes to Urge Cuban Leaders to Accept Spain's Offer.

BUT WAR MAY FOLLOW

Theodore Roosevelt Demands Substantial Increase in Our Navy and Will Urge Congress to Make a Liberal Appropriation.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Consul-General Fitzhugh Lee goes back to Havana with instructions from the President to strongly urge upon the insurgents the acceptance of autonomy. In order to place the matter plainly before the leaders of the insurgents in the field he is to communicate directly with them and then to transmit their answers to the State Department.

All this will take time, which the Administration is willing to grant. It is thought that the Consul-General can communicate with the Cuban leaders and get his answers to the proposition back to Washington soon after Congress meets, and as there is no intention on the part of the President to disturb existing relations before that time the plan is to be tried.

Meantime preparations heretofore begun will go forward to get the navy in the best possible shape, and to prepare for actual war should that follow after pacific measures have failed.

Of President McKinley's intention to go to the last length in urging a pacific settlement there is no doubt, however. While he is prepared to maintain the right of this country to intervene, he is exceedingly anxious that an actual test be applied to demonstrate the sincerity of Spain's proffer of autonomy and reforms.

Every effort is being made to make the navy as complete as possible so that in any contingency the floating fighting power of the United States may be large enough to take care of Spain or any other nation which may feel that it has a grievance.

Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, entertains strong views upon this point. He declares that he believes that the only efficient defense is a formidable fighting navy of battleships and torpedo boats. He will strongly urge Congress to make a liberal appropriation for the improvement of the navy this Winter.

M'KINLEY DESIRES PEACE.

Gen. Lee Talks of His Instructions Regarding Cuban Matters.

New York, Nov. 9.—Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, who arrived in New York Sunday night, will sail for Havana to-morrow on the Seguranca.

Gen. Lee was guarded in speaking of Cuban affairs, but he referred with satisfaction to his interview with President McKinley last Friday:

"It was, of course, gratifying to me," said Gen. Lee, "to have the President tell me that my course as Consul-General met with his approval. He told me that he had received letters from representative men of all sections in which they expressed their satisfaction at my retention in office. Of course I cannot say what my instructions are, except that I am to look out for the rights of American citizens. To say more would be to get myself into trouble both at Washington and at Havana. As to President McKinley's wishes, all that I can say is that he desires peace."

Asked as to the effect of Gen. Blanco's appointment to succeed Gen. Weyler, Gen. Lee said:

"Of course when a commander is replaced by another in the field it follows that the new commander is to use a new policy. The new general would understand that, even though he received no special instructions whatsoever. What Gen. Blanco's policy will be, however, I cannot say."

Annexation the Cry.

Havana, via Key West, Fla., Nov. 9.—There is an increasing lack of confidence here in the ability of Spain to establish an autonomous form of government in Cuba, and it is feared that the Spanish troops will not be able to suppress the insurrection by force of arms.

This causes a feeling of uncertainty in the future, which increases the business depression, and, on the other hand, it increases the desire among the more level-headed of the population for the annexation of Cuba to the United States.

The Government is well aware of this, and a semi-official hint, conveyed to the annexationists through the columns of a newspaper of this city has induced them to stop their secret meetings. The annexationists were not accused of conspiring against the Government, but the curious charge of "gambling" was made against them.

Died at a Performance.

Pittsburg, Nov. 9.—At the performance of "Chimmie Fadden," at the Bijou Theatre last night, an unidentified woman in the balcony fainted. Ushers carried her downstairs and she died of heart disease in five minutes in the waiting-room.

THE SPIELKARTENFEST.

and the audience gave round after round of applause to the dance.

The chaperones were Mrs. W. J. Roome and Mrs. S. F. Kimball. The dancers were the Misses Isabel Milne, Margaret McCready, Emily Gould, Dora Waring, Rita Pond, Nellie Valiant, Ethel Crane, Edna Smith; William A. Townsend, Paul W. Kimball, Orville Waring, Irving Clark, Howard Bushnell, Morgan Townsend, William Roome, Clarence Roome.

The Dance of the Red Cards was filled with martial spirit and the costumes were bright with gold braid and lace. The steps were appropriate and attractive. The uniforms of the hussars, for such they seemed, were of red with white trousers and knee boots. It was well executed, although the dancers were handicapped by the fact that one of their number could not be present, and Roger Erickson had to take his place without a moment to practice. He did excellent however, and the dance passed off very smoothly, while the duet by Miss Reinhart and Miss Patton was gracefully and delightfully given. The Red Cards were chaperoned by Mrs. F. H. Andrews and Mrs. S. L. Schoonmaker. The cards were the Misses Elsa Pfeiffer, Eight of Diamonds; Mary A. Reinhart, Eight of Hearts; Harriet Goddard, Six of Diamonds; Mary Mann, Six of Hearts; Edmee Cories, Four of Diamonds; Constance Patton, Four of Hearts; Louise Holly, Two of Diamonds; Elsie Martin, Two of Hearts; Roger Erickson Nine of Diamonds; Carroll Runyon, Nine of Hearts; Ernest Swayze, Seven of Diamonds; R. Van R. Schuyler, Seven of Hearts; Morris Dumont, Five of Diamonds; Henry Brower, Five of Hearts; Jack Dumont, Three of Diamonds; Arthur Murphy, Three of Hearts.

The Chrysanthemum dance was a pretty one and found general favor. The participants were gowned to represent the different colored chrysanthemums and carried a rope strung with artificial flowers of that variety. The dance was graceful and the duet was by Miss Williams and Miss Cone.

The chaperones were Mrs. Lucius H. Biglow and Mrs. George M. Randall. The dancers were the Misses Elma Thayer, Margaret F. Burnet, Grace L. Day, Murie Louise Neuman, Helen Pfender, Charlotte Mildred Suydam Susie Milne, E. Mildred Cone, Josie M. Little, Florence Cahoone, Bertha N. Jenkins, Clara G. Long, Daisy Dunn, Elsie Vandervoort, Elsie Isabel Brokaw and Eleanor Williams.

The Black Cards were the Venetian gondoliers. First the maidens from Venice danced alone to the soothing cadences of the waltz and then they were joined by their escorts, each of whom brought a rose. Then they danced together, the men in their black suits trimmed with a touch of color and the strange Venetian caps on their heads. The maidens wore gowns with black bodices and light skirts.

A song, "Good Night," was introduced by Miss Rosabell Schroeder.

The chaperone was Mrs. James T. Scott. The black cards were Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren, Eight of Clubs; Misses Margaret C. Holly, Eight of Spades; Rosabell Schroder, Six of Clubs; May H. Holly, Six of Spades; Florence Huntington, Four of Clubs; Elaine Massett, Four of Spades; Elizabeth Coe, Two of Clubs; Margaret L. Coe, Two of Spades; Irving C. West, Nine of Clubs; Harry L. McGee, Nine of Spades; Frederick L. Huntington, Seven of Clubs; G. F. Schoonmaker, Seven of Spades; Francis W. Frost, Five of Clubs; Richard Gordon Simpson, Five of Spades; J. H. A Day, Three of Clubs; J. P. Welles Taylor, Three of Spades.

The last of the dances was the Hornpipe, which was particularly well executed. It was a difficult dance to give successfully, but all admitted that it was given in a manner worthy of much praise. The costumes were those of the sea and were in red and white. The dance was chaperoned by Miss Verdon. The dancers were Misses Elizabeth V. Day, Annie Lauretta O'Keeffe, Julia Eleanor Day, Maria Agnes Carty, Katheryn F. Flynn, Catherine T. Fitzgerald, Kittie Cooley, Carrie E. Reid, Katherine M. Higgins, Justina Smith; John E. Moran, Michael D. O'Keeffe, James J. Kane, Clinton A. Shannon, Joseph A. Conners, W. J. Kennedy, Edward A. Flynn, Daniel J. Guinee, Michael J. Higgins, John J. Daley.

Last on the programme was the game of "living whist." Lack of space will not permit any lengthy description of this very successful feature of the entertainment. The four of the Park Club was divided against itself, Messrs McCutchen and Townsend playing in the red and white corners and Messrs Howell and Rogers in the orange and black corners. The cards were well shuffled by the Joker and then he turned up the trump card, the Ace of Clubs, Miss Abbott. Mr. Rogers had the lead and his partner won the first trick. The red and white combination held the most of the trumps and high cards, however, and Messrs Rogers and Howell took only one more trick, the score being at the end eleven to two in favor of the red and white. The cards were led out in turn by the pages and the hand was played successfully to the full enjoyment of the audience.

That ended the programme but many of the dancers remained with the audience to visit the different booths and enjoy refreshments or perhaps dance again while the orchestra played some inspiring two step.

The music was furnished during the evening by Rogers' orchestra and they did splended for the first night.

THEATRICAL.

Margaret Mather, the celebrated actress, was booked for an appearance here the present week, but owing to severe strain in traveling, has cancelled her present dates, promising to come later. In view of this fact and the great interest shown in the Spielkartenfest, the new manager, Maze Edwards, has concluded to abandon other attractions for the week, so there will be no performances until Tuesday of next week, when Dan Sully and his company will appear. Cole and Johnson, who will be remembered as principal comedians with the Black Patti Company, appear Thursday, November 18th, in their new play entitled "A Trip to Coontown."

The Revival Meetings.

In spite of the unpleasant weather and other attractions there was a large congregation present in Grace M. E church last evening. The Drew Quartette was present and sang very sweetly a number of pieces. The sermon was preached by Rev. Naboth Osborne. The result of last night's meeting was very gratifying. A number of seekers gathered at the altar, while friends and relatives sought to point them to Christ. The services will be continued every night this week. Tonight an "experience meeting" will be held in which those present shall relate what thing or things led them to God. On Friday the Drew Quartette will again be present to remain over Sunday.

CRISP CHRISTIAN TALK.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF THE ENDEAVORERS HELD.

State Officers Presented and Gave Lively speeches — Singing Services Were an Important Feature of the Meeting.

Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather last evening the First Baptist church was filled with a good-sized Christian Endeavor audience. The occasion was a rally in honor of the State officers of the society. Seldom has there been such an array of Christian talent in this city, and the bright helpful remarks made during the evening was a source of pleasure to all.

The church presented a bright and attractive appearance, made so through arrangement of the society colors, orange and black, which encircled the gallery. On the platform was a pleasing display of flowers, while suspended from overhead were large and beautiful American flags, and beneath was the word "Welcome," in green and white colors.

The service opened with a programme of song led by President H. J. Martin, of the Trinity Reformed church society, and after the reading of the Scripture by Rev. B. W. Hand, of the First Church of Christ, prayer was offered by Rev. C. Schenck, of this city. President E. E. Anthony of the Local Union, had charge of the service and introduced the speakers of the evening in an unusual happy manner. There was a vein of humor throughout and with the introduction of each speaker some bright and witty remark was made. This was responded to happily by the speakers.

Dr. Brett, of Jersey City, the newly elected president of the State organization, was the first speaker, and he said:

"There are two things for which Plainfield is noted. In the first place her hospitality, and secondly its wonderful capacity for the reception of oratory. Of the latter you are sure to get enough this evening, and of the former we can testify. This great world is hungering for the Bread of Life, and we should be the means through which the supply is given. Are you ready for this service?"

Rev. J. Clement French, of Newark, first vice-president, was the next speaker, and in part he said:

"I suppose as a second member of this show I am expected to make an address, but I shall disappoint you. There is a story told of a young married couple who lived happily together for two or three years, when the wife died. The young husband felt his loss very much and upon the tombstone erected over his wife's grave he had the words inscribed, 'The light of my life has gone out.' Later the young man married again and after consideration he thought that something should be added to the above inscription, and at the suggestion of a friend he had the following words added: 'I have struck another match.' So it is with this State society. You have struck another match for the State presidency, and I congratulate you, Dr. Brett, and give you the hand of fellowship. Fellow Endeavorers never think that your field is small. Be faithful and you shall receive the Crown of Life."

Rev. L. A. Dyott, of Newark, was the next speaker. He made a few remarks urging the members of the society to do more for the church and Christ.

At this time Mr. Anthony expressed regret that the secretary, Miss Ida B. Stephens, of Hackettstown, was unable to be present owing to serious illness in her family. He also said that a telegram of sympathy had been sent to Miss Stephens, and he asked all those present who concurred in the action to rise. All stood on their feet. Several other officers were unable to be present for various reasons and accordingly there were expressions of regret.

Rev. E. W. Thompson, of Paterson, a member of the executive committee made a bright address, in which he told of the many benefits derived by the Paterson people from the recent convention.

Miss Mabel Winton, of Hackettstown, superintendent of Junior work, was the only lady member of the official board present, and she made a few remarks in which she conveyed the greetings of her assistants to the meeting. Rev. Mr. McMinn, of Salem, another member of the executive committee, spoke briefly about the work of the State society. His remarks were much enjoyed. Clarence Schenck, of Newark; Willard I. Hamilton, of Newark; and A. E. Farrier, of Jersey City, were the last three speakers, and each had words of encouragement for all.

In closing, Mr. Anthony was introduced by President Brett and the former very kindly asked the audience to give a liberal collection. After the singing of "God be with you till we Meet Again," was sung, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes. After the meeting the State officers remained and each one present personally met them and shook hands with them.

The face of Lawyer Isaac P. Runyon is now wreathed in smiles. It is a boy.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Miss Hummer, of Stone street, and Mrs. Sharp, of West Front street, had a pleasant trip on their bicycles to Flemington last Friday, returning Saturday evening.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball season will regularly open in Plainfield this evening, when the business men's team of the Y. M. C. A. will play their first match game of the season. Their opponents will be the Riverside Athletic Club, of Newark. The business men's team will probably be composd of Doane, right forward; Drayton, left forward; Egan, centre; Suffren, right guard; Smith, left guard. The game is called for 8:15 o'clock. The admission will be fifteen cents.

SHOOTING SEASON OPENS TOMOROW

New Jersey Will Open the Game Districts to Latter Day Nimrods.

Tomorrow New Jersey opens the doors of all her game districts to sportsmen, when pratridge, quail and the cottontail become the legal property of him who knows how to handle a shooting iron.

Licenses for non-residents who wish to try the sport are not now required, the act having been repealed in 1896. Woodcock are also in season, and but a single month exists in which the gray, black or fox squirrel may be taken. Sunday hunting calls for a penalty that is severe, and simply carrying a gun in the woods or fields on the Sabbath renders one liable to arrest.

There is every prospect of a good season. The country along the line of the Delaware and Lackawanna and Greenwood Lake and Midland railroads appears to be alive with game, and along the Erie through Bergen county and into Pike county, Pa.

RECITED FOR THE JUDGE.

A Broken-Down Variety Actor Sent on His Way Rejoicing.

In the city courtroom humorous as well as pathetic incidents are often witnessed. One of the latter sort occurred this morning when Charles Mason, a broken down variety actor from New York, was permitted to entertain the Court with a number of his recitations.

Masan came to this city yesterday to sell song books, and becoming a victim of temporary financial embarassment, he applied at the station house last night for a lodging. He was allowed to remain there over night, and this morning was arraigned before the City Judge upon a charge of vagrancy, preferred by a police officer.

After hearing Mason's story and listening to his recitations, which were well rendered, His Honor discharged the prisoner.

Now a Full Fledged Attorney.

Among the successful candidates for admission to the New Jersey bar at the present term of the Supreme Court yesterday, was George Ball, who has been connected with Counsellor Angleman's office in this city. Mr. Ball passed an exceptionally good examination, and was the recipient of many congratulations. He is a resident of Scotch Plains, and was educated at the Scotch Plains schools and at the schools at Whitehall, N. Y. Mr. Ball took the regular law course at the New York University Law School, and received the degree of Bachelor of Laws from that institution in 1896, since which time he has been in Mr. Angleman's office. He probably will open an office in this city.

A Barn Party.

Miss Sadie Huyler, of 700 West Front street, gave a pleasant and unique barn party to a number of her schoolmates, Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6. The barn was gorgeously decorated with flags, bunting and chrysnthemums, and presented a pretty scene. During the afternoon songs were sung by Miss Florence Cuttying, Miss Freda Gray, Miss Mable Hand, Miss Maud Higgins and Miss Janette Neal. The host was assisted in receiving her guests by her mother, Mrs. John Huyler, and Miss Carrie Hoffman.

Wm. J. Stephenson, of North avenue, has returned from Bushnell, Ill., where he went to accompany his wife's sister, Miss Reniger, back to this city, where she will reside.

Rev. M. D. Mason, D. D., the colored preacher of Cincinnati, who is a representative of the Freedman's Aid Society, was present at Grace M. E. church last Sunday morning, and delivered a sermon.

Miss Mabel Winton, daughter of Senator Winton, of Hackettstown, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Anthony, of West Front street, during the past two weeks, returned home this morning. While in Plainfield Miss Winton made many warm friends.

AHOY FOR CITY ELECTION; DARK OUTLOOK FOR G.O.P.

THE REPUBLICAN SHIP HAS A STORMY TIME BEFORE HER AND SHE MAY BE FLOUNDERED.

The Colored Members of the Party are Going to Demand a Councilmanic Nomination—Dissatisfied Republicans and Democrats Will Probably Unite.

Ahoy there for city election! Nautically speaking, the politicians are beginning to trim their sails for the cruise of the municipal sea of politics. As the winds of the populace blow just now the barometer indicates a stormy sail for the big ship with the letters G. O. P. imprinted on her bow. Indeed, a black cloud, literally a cloud of dusky hue hovers over her course, and betokens a hurricane that may come from most any direction and swamp the brig before the pilots can steer her to port. And further, that black cloud portends mutiny among her crew, mutiny that cannot be quelled by irons and castigation in the forecastle. The captain, the mates and the loyal crew are doing their best to cast oil upon the now choppy waves to dispel the tossing, thundering billows that threaten a complete flounder on the high sea in the midst of the cruise.

Meanwhile the Democratic schooner, which has floundered so many years in succession that it will not be a new experience if it is gone through with again this season, lays anchored in the hearts of unterrified crew. Though she has the marks of many a hard knock, and her sailors are an unorganized set, they see indications of a balmy cruise. Ubiquitous visits are received from members of the G. O. P. vessel, who relate strange stories of dissatisfaction with the sailing masters and the erratic course that has been pursued. Sometimes loudly, and again in whispers, they proclaim their intentions to desert the old ship and come to the Democratic bark.

And again there are quiet conferences and much talk of letting the Democratic bark remain anchored while an entire new ship, to be christened the "Citizens'," shall be launched. True, it is related that two years ago a ship with this name on her bow was lost in the sea of votes, but it is argued that what was two years ago may and probably will not be the same this year. But that is all nautical talk. Here is the actual condition of affairs:

City election is scheduled on the calendar for December 7th—the first Tuesday in the month. The offices to be filled are seven members of the Common Council. As all know, the Council is entirely composed of Republicans. However true they have been to the to the best interests of the city as satisfying their own minds, there are plenty of people—and scores in their own party ranks—who believe that they have administered poorly from a practical businesslike standpoint. Perhaps it would be better to state that they have administered too well—spent too much money for things that are considered by some as luxuries rather than necessities. In the eyes of the average voter that is as much of a derelection of duty as not to provide those things which are actually demanded.

It was this condition of affairs that impelled many otherwise steadfast Republicans to join the citizens' movement two years ago. Probably every Republican who voted the citizens' ticket at that time will do so again—if one is put in the field, and if not then the Democratic—and their forces will be augmented by the others who have become dissatisfied with the administration during the last two years. The opponents of the Republicans declare that these forces will defeat the candidates of the G. O. P.

Now here comes the most important proposition for the Republicans to deal with—virtually that which is the backbone of the majorities that have been rolled up for them for several years. It is the colored people and their demands. There are in the neighborhood of 700 colored votes in this city and it is conservatively estimated that 85 per cent. of this goes to the Republican party. The colored leaders, it is asserted, have been promised much and given little by the present G. O. P. leaders. They have concluded to make or break, so to speak. The colored adjunct of the Republicans are going to demand that the city convention nominate one of their race for Councilman-at Large. If the convention repudiates their claim for some of the spoils there is every chance that they will desert the G. O. P. standard-bearers by the wholesale, which, with the members who are already certain to vote against them, means defeat.

And again, if they concede a nomination to a colored man then there is sure to follow desertions of men who would ordinarily remain true to the party, but who will not condone such political expediency. Whichever way it goes, it seems from present prospects that Republican success is imperiled at the city election.

Within the next week or two things will begin to shape themselves into order, and then lookout for surprises.

G. F. BROWN FOR COLLECTOR.

It is Considered Certain He Will Get H. N. Spencer's Present Office.

Now that H. N. Spencer has been chosen for the position of Surrogate, thus leaving the office of Borough Collector vacant when he takes his county office, there is naturally a great deal of guessing as to who will be the next Collector. Several persons have been spoken of for the position, but The Daily Press is able to announce for the first time the name of the man who will without a doubt be the choice of the Council. The man will have to be appointed by the Mayor and Council and he will hold the office until the next borough election when he will be chosen by the people, if it is their wish.

The man who will be appointed to the position is George F. Brown, of Grove street. Mr. Brown has for a long time been a resident of the borough, and has always taken an interest in her welfare. He is a person that is popular with Democrats and Republicans alike and he has the ability to fill the position with credit.

Attempted Westfield Burglary.

Two tramps attempted to break into the general store of Fred Heinzer, on Central avenue, Westfield, at 9:30 o'clock last night. Heinzer, who lives in a house adjoining the store, heard the noise made by the men, and looking out saw them attempting to force open the shutters upon one of the store windows. On seeing that they were discovered the men took to their heels. Constables Marsh, Chamberlain and Koester were notified and spent several hours in an unsuccessful attempt to capture them.

Firemen Go to Trenton.

Among those who went to Trenton this morning to attend the firemen's celebration are Chief T. O. Doane, William Townley, George Feiring, F. S. Moore, L. M. Dunavan, C. E. Hepburn, Charles DeGraw, Daniel Force, John Beekman, Dr. L. S. Pocock, William Hand, Charles Gaskill, William Dagnall and Nicholas Myers.

THE SOMERSET TROLLEY CASE.

Chancellor McGill Heard Arguments in the Injunction Proceedings.

Chancellor McGill yesterday heard argument at the State House on the rule made by Chancery Court in the latter part of October, commanding the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company to show cause why an injunction should not issue restraining it from operating its trolley line between Bound Brook and Somerville. The Chancellor took all the papers in the case and will later render a decision.

When the rule to show cause was made a temporary injunction issued enjoining the comany from operating its road until the matter had been finally disposed of.

This is the piece of road that caused the bitter war between the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company and the Brunswick Traction Company, ending in the laying of tracks on Sunday, October 24th, by the former company.

The matter has been in an unsettled state for a long time, the New York and Philadelphia Company being enjoined early last spring from completing three miles of track in Bridgewater township, the Brunswick company charging that the other concern had no right of way.

Justice Mosher's Court.

Summons were issued today from Justice Mosher's court in the contract cases of The Simmond Furnace Company against Bassett, and Haff against Dehart. Both cases will be tried next Tuesday. The case of Graves against Hodge, which was to have been tried yesterday was postponed one week.

A Good Time Promised.

At the meeting of the Reform Club tomorrow evening there will be a programme of unusual interest, and will include piano and cornet solos, vocal and instrumental duets and comic songs. The talent will be the best and all are invited to attend and enjoy the entertainment.

SEXTON KEPT THE KEYS

HE WAS REV. P. S. GIBSON'S FRIEND AND OPENED THE CHURCH.

Board of Trustees Will Make a Formal Demand for Keys and if Not Given Up Legal Action Will Be Started at Once.

There was a lull last night and today in the exchange of courtesies which have been taking place between the factions of the Mt. Olive colored Baptist church. After the meeting of Monday night, which voted to retain Rev. Philip S. Gibson as the pastor of the church, certain members of the board of trustees, which is unanimously opposed to the pastor, announced that neither he nor Rev. William Hill, of Newark, would be allowed to enter the church last night. It was announced by the Gibson faction that there would be preaching services in the church last night. It was this announcement that awakened the wrath of the trustees, and they gave out a statement to the effect that no one would be allowed to enter the church at the time stated.

The expectation that a struggle was about to take place between the trustees and the pastor, for the possession of the church, spread like wildfire among the members, and the time set for the service was awaited with interest.

The plans of the trustees to exclude the pastor were frustrated, however, by the action of the sexton. When a demand was made upon him to deliver up the keys of the church, he refused flatly to do so. At 8 o'clock he opened the church without encountering any opposition, and a few minutes later Pastors Gibson and Hill entered the church and took seats upon the pulpit platform. The audience was a good-sized one and very orderly. The remembrance of recent events seemed to oppress the people somewhat. They were not quite sure, either, that something serious would not happen any minute. Rev. Mr. Hill preached on brotherly love, and the service passed off without interruption of any sort.

The trustees have engaged counsel, and acting under advice they will hold a meeting tonight and make a formal demand upon the sexton for the keys. If their demand is not complied with, legal proceedings will probably be commenced for possession of the keys.

TROLLEY NOW TO BOUND BROOK.

The Company and the Metlars Come to an Agreement.

One of the chief obstacles to the completion of the trolley line from New Brunswick to Bound Brook was removed yesterday when the Brunswick Traction Company succeeded in coming to an agreement with Mr. and Mrs. George W. Metlar, both of whom secured writs of certiorari to prevent the company from building the road. The agreement was signed yesterday and the company will set to work to complete the road.

By the terms of the agreement the company is not to lay its tracks in the road in front of the Metlar property, but upon a purchased right of way, Metlar transferring a narrow strip of land at the side of the road.

The restaurant at the Spielkartenfest is promising to be a successful feature. The prices are reasonable and the cusine excellent. The menu is as follows: Soup, 10 cents; salad, 25 cents; turkey with cranberry sauce, 25 cents; roast beef, 15 cents; ham, 15 cents; tongue, 15 cents; creamed oysters, 20 cents; fried oysters, 25 cents; potatoes, 5 cents; celery, 5 cents; coffee, 5 cents; pie, 5 cents; cake, 5 cents; Charlotte russe, 10 cents; French ice cream, 20 cents; American ice cream, 10 cents. Welch rare-bit is prepared during the evening and finds many purchasers.

One Dog Kills Another.

A large dog was found on East Sixth steet, near Washington street, today, with his throat horribly mangled and bleeding profusely. It was said that another dog had attacked him and was responsible for his condition. The animal was allowed to remain on the street until he died. The attention of the authorities is called to the matter as the residents in that vicinity would like to have the dog removed.

Interesting News For Ladies.

Miss K. Thorne, representing the Princess of Wales Company, manufacturers of Her Majesty's corsets, will be at Edward White's store all next week to demonstrate to the Plainfield ladies the worthiness of Her Majesty's corsets. Every lady likes a perfect-fitting corset, and in the Majesty corset there is style, comfort and wearing qualities that no other corset has.

GAME SAID TO BE SCARCE

SUMMER FLOODS DROWNED OUT THE YOUNG RABBITS.

Pot Hunters Find Hundreds of Acres of Land Posted With Trespass Notices and Owners Ready to Prosecute.

A scarcity of game and a combination of the land owners have made the game season, which opened today in New Jersey, far from profitable to the pot-hunters. Today the bann of the State has been removed from the hunters of the elusive cottontail, and New Jersey is filled with sportsmen from within its own borders and all the surrounding States. Long before the hard-working farmer had left his couch to begin his morning duties the boom of the gun and the howl of the dog could be heard over the fields and through the woods. In this section the game is reported scarce and the numerous hunters have not met with the luck of which they have dreamed for many a month. Sportsmen from New York and out-of-town places were comparatively few here, but the local shooters went forth to try their skill.

The farmers and landowners between the first mountain and Stirling over in the Passaic valley have formed one gigantic combination against the pot hunters and irresponsible strangers who have heretofore swept the fields clean of any kind of game before the owner of the land had a chance to go out. Last year, the Game Protective Association was introduced to the public and now the property within the bounds already mentioned is completely surrouded by signs prohibiting shooting on the land. The prohibition does not affect the members of the association, however, who have the privilege of hunting through their own and their neighbor's land.

The new game laws give the owner of posted land the right to arrest any trespasser who refuses to desist when ordered out and the famers of that region are preparing to make things lively for the hunters who do not belong there. There are sure to be trespassers and the result may be watched with interest.

The morning was a delightful one for the hunter and the local shots were out in force equipped with everything from the modern breech loader with smokeless powder cartridges, to the old fashioned muzzle loader and its accompanying powder and shot flash. The mournful howl of the rabbit hound as he scented a new trail broke the morning stillness. There were numerous dogs of all kinds out in the fields and the poor frightened cotton-tail found his enemy on every side.

While the hunters were plenty, indeed, the cottontails were scarce The big storm of August had drowned many of them and in the Passaic valley they were almost unknown as a result of the flood there. The steady advance of civilization converting open fields into building lots had had its effect on the rodents. The partridges, quail and woodcock were also few and far between and most of the hunters found that their day was up to anticipations. Up the road, however, the rabbits were reported more plentiful and several car loads of New York gunners were on deck at an early hour to enjoy their annual hunt. Perhaps it was the result of the publicity that the attempt of the Game Association to keep its preserves for the use of its members only, but at any rate, the sportsmen from other towns seemed to fight rather shy of th isdistrict.

VOTE IN THE COUNTY.

The Election Board Complete the Canvass of Returns.

The County Board of Election completed the canvass of the vote in Union county Friday afternoon. The returns show that the total number of votes polled in the county was 14,867, which is 4,000 less than last fall, and 2,000 less than in 1895.

The official figures are as follows:

For Surrogate—Parrot, R., 8,107; Crowell, D., 5,673; Coughlin, S. L., 649; Osborn, 309. Parrot's plurality, 2,434.

For Assembly—Republicans: Squire, 7,959; Murray, 7,849; Houston, 8,119. Democrats: Lawrence, 5,677; Jackson, 5,767; Wolfskiel, 5,774. Socialists; Gould, 645; Campbell, 655; Eidenmiller, 641. Prohibitionists: VanCise, 350; Phelps, 337; McLeod, 342.

For Coroner—MacConnell, R., 7,941; Dolan, D., 5,747; Herstein, S. L., 655; Myles, P., 311.

An Appeal Argued.

Counsellor McClure, representing R. O. Howell in an action brought against him by A. H. Phelps, appeared at Trenton last Monday and argued for a new trial. Decision was reserved in the case.

LITTLE FOLKS GRACEFUL AND PRETTY IN THE 'FEST.

THEIR DEBUT MADE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON AMID THE PLAUDITS OF ADMIRERS.

Every Part Taken by the Juveniles Was Quite as Perfect as the Seniors—The Performance Last Exening Was Well Attended—Tonight's Programme.

The second day of the Spielkartenfest is past, and it more than equalled the anticipations aroused by the great success of the opening performance. The participants had somewhat recovered from the excitement attendant on their first appearance on the stage, and everything passed off smoothly and in order. The experiences of the first day had taught the workers at the booths many things that they were glad to take advantage of, and the large crowds that thronged the spaces in front of each of the booths found their wants attended to with business-like promptitude. The finishing touches just needed to complete the decorations had been made, and the Spielkartenfest was in its full glory.

The smaller children made their appearance at the first matinee, held yesterday afternoon, when a programme of four dances was given. The juvenile dancers proved a great attraction, and rivalled the evening dancers as favorites with the audience. Perhaps all the youthful participants were not able to pass through the various movements in their dances with the precision of the older ones, but they danced with a simple grace and vigor that was irresistible to the onlookers. The matinee was well attended, fully seven hundred people being present.

The afternoon performance began at 4 o'clock with the overture by the orchestra. Then the curtain was drawn and a beautiful picture was presented to the view. In the foreground was the charming little "Queen of the Butterflies," Miss Louise Saunders, surrounded by her attendant Butterflies and Flowers. Behind them, grouped in artistic array, were the quaint little Dutch peasants, the stately little ladies and gentlemen of the minuet, and the many wonderful characters of the game of Old Maid, while the Old Maid herself, in a green silk gown, with her work-bag on her arm, occupied a prominent position. At a signal from the dainty Queen, the grand procession began.

As the last of the other dancers disappeared behind the scenes, the court folk came to the footlights with stately step and graceful mein and danced the minuet. The costumes were of the colonial day, with powdered wigs for the men and lofty coiffures for the ladies. The chaperone for the dance was Mrs. Frank Bushnell; the dancers were the Misses Wilhelmina Patton, Ida C. Borsum, Elsie Goddard, Ruth Titus, Martha Robert, Nina Sampson, Gladys Bigelow, Marion Lambert, Charles Robert, VanWyck Brooks, Francis Martin, Ames Brooke, Dudley Barrows, Richard Minford, Effingham Pinto. Howard Roome.

The next dance, the Duch Reel, was in striking contrast to the dignified movements of the court folk. The costumes were quaint and simple. The little maids wore long, plain gowns of various colors, set off by lace kerchiefs and caps. In funny little sugar-loaf hats and baggy knickerbockers the lads seemed fresh from the land of dykes and windmills. They skipped and ran in orderly confusion to the great amusement of the audience. The simplicity with which they clasped hands and tried to wander successfully through the different figures, and the regularity with which the wee ones lost themselves in the shuffle, was ludicrous in the extreme; and while the audience laughed and laughed, the little tots went through their parts with an earnestness of purpose that made it all the funnier. The chaperones were Mrs. Jose A. Machado and Mrs. R. H. Depew. During the dance the little ones came to the front of the stage and sang a specially arranged version of "Ta-rah-rah-boom-de-ay," in their own quaint way. The dancers were the Misses Hazel Grant, Louise Davis, Margaret Carman, Caroline Lambert, Ellen Ulrich, Julia Fitzgerald, Caroline Martin, Julia Martin, Jessie Richardson, Margaret Drayton; Harold White, Lambert Johnson, Egbert Bogardus, William Lambert, LeRoy Carman, Herbert Hand, Richard Anthony, Earl Biglow, Jack Martin, Francis Wilcox.

The most beautiful dance of the afternoon was the Mardi-gras dance. The pretty little Butterflies, in spangled pink gauze gowns, drew a gilded chariot, in which rode their dainty queen, clad in a similar gown of pale green, and carrying a long silver wand. At either wheel was a gallant cavalier, costumed in white and gold. Following the car came the Flowers, dressed all in red, with their escorts in white and gold, with a touch of green to give color to the effect. They danced gracefully together, keeping excellent time, and showing the result of long and thorough training. Then the queen was assisted from her position of honor for her solo dance. She received a handsome bouquet of flowers. The chaperones of this dance were Mrs. J. Parker Mason and Mrs. Charles E. Brooks. The dancers were: Butterflies—Misses Kathleen Phillips, Nettie Robinson, Nathalie Work, Helen Moody, Virginia LeCand, Dorothy Johnson, Marjorie Work, Margaret Townsend. Flowers—Misses Antoinette Moody, Grace Wilcox, Henrietta Work, Olivia Bogardus, Eleanor Waring, Rosa Woltman, Mamie Dunham, Alberta Livezay; Pendleton Rogers, Edwin Daniel, VanWyck Brooks, Charles Perkins, Clint n Ivins, Jimmie Scott, Dudley Wilcox, Reginald Roome.

The last dance of the afternoon was the game of Old Maid, danced by twenty-five little people. They were divided into couples whose costumes were the same and were supposed to represent all sorts of strange characters. There were Quakers; Mr. Punch and his wife were there; Li Hung Chang and his faithful spouse were in line besides numerous other ones. Each couple did its little act appropriate to its character and all united in several little songs in which the "Old Maid," Miss Hannah Thayer, played a prominent part. She took her part with skill and caused no end of amusement in her unsuccessful efforts during the dance to get an escort. After mixing them up, there was a finale in which they were matched while the Old Maid ran hither and thither trying to capture a man. That ended the performance. The dance was chaperoned by Mrs. Alfred Slauson and Mrs. A. C. Vail.

The dancers were Mr. and Mrs. Cachucha, Charles Pedersen, Miss Jean Douglass; Mr. and Mrs. Up-to-date, Albert Beers, Miss Mildred Ulrich; Mr. and Mrs. Quaker, Brockholst Miller. Miss Fannie Cahoone; Mr. and Mrs. Antique, Levis Minford, Miss Jessie Maclay; Mr. and Mrs. Highlander, Harry Slauson, Miss Marion Lambert; Mr. and Mrs. Esquire, Selden Thayer, Miss Edna Long; Mr. and Mrs. Li Hung Chang, Harold Robert, Miss Miriam Carman; Mr. and Mrs. Yankee Doodle, Treadwell Slauson, Miss Ethel Murray; Mr. and Mrs. Deutscher, Montague Minford, Miss Martha Robert; Mr. and Mrs. Punch, Percy Phillips, Miss Grace Weeks; Mr. and Mrs. Horsetrot, Munroe Long, Miss Margery Phillips; Mr. and Mrs. Prince Charming, Douglass Waring, Miss Edith Terhune.

The clouds that had been so dark and heavy all day broke away late in the afternoon and the sun came out. A chilly north wind began to blow and the people who started for the evening performance had to cling to their hats to save them from the clutches of the gale. The moon came out and looked cold and pitiless.

The attendance at the evening performance, while not as large as that on Monday evening, was equally as enthusiastic and accorded a hearty reception to each and all of the dances. The programme was shorter than that of the first night, the Mirror Dance, the Danza Cubana and the Dance of the Black Cards being omitted.

The game of "Living Whist" was again played and resulted in a victory for Messrs. Howell and Rogers against Messrs. McCutchen and Townsend by a score of 10 tricks to 3. Hearts were trumps, the Four of that suit, Miss Constance Patton, being the trump card. The victors held excellent hands and handled them with skill, which resulted in their large score. The result of the different hands will be added together as the week progresses, and the victors will be those scoring the most tricks during the week. The complete score is now Messrs. Townsend and McCutchen, 14; Messrs. Howell and Rogers, 12.

The programme at the Spielkartenfest today is as follows:

AFTERNOON.

Tableau and Procession.
The Minuet.
Dutch Reel.
Game of Old Maid.
The Mardi Gras.
Procession.

EVENING.

Mirror or Dance of the Troubadours.
a. The Serenade.

SPAIN BIDS FOR PEACE

Amnesty for Competitor Prisoners Will Remove Serious Danger.

FULL TEXT OF NOTE READ

Considered as Very Pacific by the Cabinet Meeting and Calculated to Allay Any Fear of a Hostile Outbreak.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Diplomatic representatives of all countries are greatly interested in the postponement of the trial of the Competitor prisoners. It is the general impression that Spain will grant them amnesty, and thus remove one of the most serious dangers of friction with the United States.

It is said that the Administration is in possession of official confirmation of of the information that these prisoners will be included in an amnesty proclamation shortly to be issued by the Spanish Government.

This action would indicate that the Sagasta Ministry intends to start its work of attempting the pacification of Cuba by completely reversing the policy of Gen. Weyler and by removing, as far as possible, all possibility of friction with the United States. The Competitor case has long been looked upon as one of the most threatening to the friendly relations of the two governments. It is said here that the Spanish Government proposes to direct the discharge of the Competitor prisoners upon the condition that they will leave the Island of Cuba at once, never to return.

Full Text of Spain's Note Read.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The full text of Spain's reply to Gen. Woodford's note was read at the Cabinet meeting yesterday.

Its tone was very prolific, and was regarded by the Cabinet as satisfactory, and as calculated to allay any fear of a hostile outbreak.

CHINA AND GOLD.

New Departure in Her Currency Not Likely to Prove Practical.

London, Nov. 10.—According to a special dispatch from Shanghai, the Emperor of China and the Board of Revenue have approved a memorial presented in favor of establishing a gold standard and prohibiting the export of gold.

It is doubtful, however, whether this will have any practical result.

Until 1889 China had no coinage of its own except brass "cash," small discs with square holes through them, and of which 1,350 are estimated to be worth a tael.

In 1890 China opend her mint, and has coined since many millions in silver. The standard of the country is silver, the Mexican dollar being largely used.

Gold is at present not even legal tender in the Celestial Empire. To-day the great masses of the people use only the "cash" in their daily transactions. The estimated monetary stock of the country is $750,000,000 in silver and $200,000,000 in cash.

China is supposed to have been the first nation in the world to experiment with paper money, having had an abundance of irredeemable "shinplasters" many centuries before the present era.

SENATOR FORAKER TALKS.

States His Position as to the Ohio Senatorial Situation.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Senator Foraker arrived here yesterday afternoon from Cincinnati. He said he thought most of the disturbance over the Ohio Senatorship was in the Democratic papers. He continued:

"I do not know a thing about a fight over the Senatorship, except as I see statements to that effect in the newspapers. I have not talked with Gov. Bushnell or any of the members-elect of the General Assembly, directly or indirectly, on the subject, and I do not know what is contemplated.

"All I have said to any one is that, so far as I am concerned, the campaign ended on election day. So long as it was a fight against Democrats, I spared neither time nor strength. If there should be a contest among Republicans, I shall not have anything to do with it, if allowed to act according to my preferences."

Senator Foraker expects to go to New York to-night or to-morrow.

Crank at the White House.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Another crank was arrested at the White House yesterday. He is about 28 or 30 years old, and called at the mansion early, saying he wanted to go to the fourth floor. He asked to be shown to the elevator. When told that there was no fourth floor, he made a bolt for the interior of the house, saying that the President had invited him to breakfast. He also said that the President had wronged him, and that he intended to right himself. It was then decided to arrest the man, but he ran away.

He was finally found hidden among the greenhouses on the White House grounds, and arrested and taken to the station house.

More Appointments.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The President has made the following appointments: John T. Wilder, of Johnson City, Tenn., to be Pension Agent at Knoxville, Tenn.; Dwight Jarivs, to be Appraiser of Merchandise in the District of Tampa, Fla.; Eugene A. Webster, to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of South Carolina. The following naval officers are promoted: Capt. John C. Watson, to be commodore; Commander French E. Chadwick, to be captain; Lieut.-Commander Frederick M. Wise, to be commander.

Desperado Killed at Church.

Weston, W. Va., Nov. 10.—Milton Hickman, leader of a band of desperadoes, was shot and killed near a church by Deputy United States Marshal Rader and a large posse.

The fight was protracted, and Rader and also two of Hickman's band were wounded.

Hickman left the mourners' bench to engage in the fight. He was a post office robber and the leader of a dangerous band. The affair was in the mountains, near Mudd Lety.

TRIED DOUBLE MURDER.

Shoots His Father-in-Law and Brother-in-Law and Himself.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—Frederick Fritz and his son Joseph, beer bottlers, of 2020 North Fourth street, were shot yesterday afternoon and mortally injured by Charles Garbach, the son-in-law of the elder Fritz, who afterward sent a bullet through his own brain. He died last evening.

Garbach is a cigar manufacturer, whose home is on Norris street, near by. A dispute growing out of business relations is said to have caused the crime. Frederick Fritz was the senior partner of the firm of Frederick Fritz & Sons. The business is at Fourth and Leithgow streets. The establishment is large, and the father and sons are well to do.

The crime occurred in the residence part of the building, which fronts on Fourth street. Garbach visited the Fritz residence this morning. He was in the place some time. Finally the neighbors heard angry words and other sounds of an altercation. These were followed by cries.

Neighbors rushed into the building, but before they reached the scene Garbach was seen to hurriedly leave the place. He ran directly to his own home, about a mile away, and there shot himself. Fritz and his son were hurriedly removed to the Episcopal Hospital, where it was found that both had been shot through the right temple. Garbach was also removed to the same institution. He had shot himself through the right temple.

CHAOS IN AUSTRIA.

The Political Situation Is So Strained That Bloodshed May Result.

London, Nov. 10.—A letter received here from Vienna says that the published reports of the political situation in the Austrian Empire convey no adequate idea of the chaos prevailing. "Badeni must go," is the general war cry now, and his downfall is considered inevitable, regardless of the outcome of the present fight between the Germans and the Czechs. The letter adds:

"No one can foresee how it will end. If the Germans win there may be bloodshed in Bohemia, and if the Bohemians are persistent the Germans will have to fight with their sharpest weapons to assert their prerogative and save the Austro-Hungarian duality. The danger, however, lies in the active party in the Reichsrath, which openly declares for Prussia, and wants to see the former German provinces, as Bohemia, handed to the Hohenzollerns."

Killed Himself with Gas.

New York, Nov. 10.—After writing a letter to his wife, Ernest Sharland, 23 years old, of New Orleans, La., committed suicide yesterday by turning on the gas in his rooms at the Walton apartment house, 509 Fifth avenue. From what he wrote it would seem that business depression was the cause of his self-destruction, but friends who have known him for a long time say that he killed himself because of quarrels with his family. He had been employed in New Orleans by the Washington Life Insurance Company, of this city, but had left its employ about a month ago. Sharland was a stepson of Doulton, the manufacturer of the famous English chinaware which bears that name.

Ate Deadly Mushrooms.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Col. A. De Vecchi, an ardent Republican worker, is said by his doctors to be dying from the effects of mushrooms which he ate at breakfast.

Col. Vecchi was connected with the Republican National Committee at its New York headquarters during the last Presidential campaign, and is credited with having rendered much effective work for the party.

Dr. D. J. Kelley, an assistant examiner in the Pension Bureau, ate breakfast with Col. Vecchi, and was rendered seriously ill by the mushrooms. He was taken to the hospital for treatment, but Col. Vecchi was too ill to be removed.

Miss Cisneros Goes to Washington.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Miss Cisneros, the young Cuban refugee, has returned to Washington, and is at the Arlington Hotel. The future of this young lady has not been decided. It is a moment-out question, and those interested in her welfare are giving the subject much thought. The impression is that she will be placed in some school or institution in the District of Columbia, for the purpose of completing her education. Yesterday afternoon Miss Cisneros and Karl Decker, the newspaper correspondent, gave a private reception at the Arlington to the law students of the Georgetown University.

Ben Butterworth Dying.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The extreme illness of Commissioner of Patents Butterworth is regretted by his many friends in Washington. The Commissioner has resided in Washington for many years and has gained the respect and admiration of men of all parties. The reports received to-day from the bedside of the sick man are not reassuring to his friends, and they feel considerable alarm as to the result of his illness. There have been many telegrams sent to Cleveland inquiring as to the Commissioner's prospects for recovery.

Minnesota Millionaire Fails.

Mankato, Minn., Nov. 10.—John A. Willard, well known as a millionaire and banker, has made an assignment.

Mr. Willard estimates his direct liabilities at about four hundred and eighty thousand dollars. All is secured with what was, when made, supposed to be ample security, and may be so [illegible]

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Mrs. John Croft Collins, of Galveston, Texas, is the guest of Mrs. Charles H. Hall, of Duer street.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

E. E. Marshall is having an addition built to his barn on Fairview avenue.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to bilious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

Mrs. Charles Graves, of Liberty street, has returned from a visit with Brooklyn friends.

The Coming Woman

Who goes to the club while her husband tends the baby as well as the good old-fashioned woman who looks after her home, will both at times get run down in health. They will be troubled with loss of appetite, headaches, sleeplessness, fainting or dizzy spells. The most wonderful remedy for these woman is Electric Bitters. Thousands of sufferers from lame back and weak kidneys rise up and call it blessed. It is the medicine for women. Female complaints and nervous troubles of all kinds are soon relieved by the use of Electric Bitters. Delicate women should keep this remedy on hand to build up the system. Only 50c per bottle. For sale by L. W. Randolph.

WADE HAMPTON'S LAST REPORT.

Low Water Mark of Railway Building Reached Last Year.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Before Gen Wade Hampton retired from the office of Commissioner of Railroads he filed with Secretary Bliss his annual report for the year ended on Sept. 30 which has just been made public. He notes that the long period of depression in railroad business reached its lowest point in 1896, when the falling off in passenger traffic and demoralization in freight rates, together with the decrease in volume of business, most seriously affected the earnings.

"The low water mark," the Commissioner continues, "was reached in railway construction, and during the year thirty-four roads, with 5,441 miles of road, passed into the hands of the courts, and fifty-eight others, which had been previously placed in receivers' hands, were sold at foreclosure." Regarding the settlement of the Union Pacific debt, Gen. Hampton says:

"I have, in each one of my previous reports, recommended the adjustment of the indebtedness of the Pacific railroads to the Government through the medium of a commission to be appointed by the President, and it has always seemed to me that a settlement more advantageous to the Government could be obtained if all the companies, particularly the Union and Central Pacific, could be negotiated with at the same time, and possibly in the same way, than could be accomplished by settling with them at different times and on a different basis. I am not disposed, however, to question the wisdom of the course pursued by the Department of Justice in the case of the Union Pacific Railway, and viewed from a financial standpoint, it would seem to be about the best thing for the Government to do under the circumstances. The main objections which have been urged against this method of settlement have come from strong advocates of Government ownership, or of operation under Government supervision. I have always regarded this as not only a doubtful, but a dangerous experiment, which would involve the Government in enormous expense and would in all probability result disastrously."

IN LEAGUE WITH SATAN.

A Murderer Makes This Astonishing Plea for Defense.

Dove, N. H., Nov. 10.—His compact with Satan was witnessed by a clergyman, Joseph E. Kelly said yesterday, when his trial for the murder of Cashier Joseph A. Stickney, of the Great Falls National Bank, in Somersworth, began before the Supreme Court.

This astonishing statement, upon which the defense will base a plea of insanity, was made to the prisoner's counsel, James Ryan, Jr., of this place.

"Ever since I was 11 years old," he has said, "Satan has been my constant companion. And the agreement with him will not run out until January 15, 1899. I will be 25 years old then. My first act under the agreement was to steal a watch, and I was impelled to deeds worse and worse until I killed the old man in the doorway of his bank and took all the money in sight."

Many insanity experts have been retained by the defense, and a doctor who treated Kelly for some injury to the head years ago has been subpoenaed as a witness.

A LAND OF SKELETONS.

Famine Reduces Men to Bones in Archangel.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 10.—A terrible famine is ravaging the Province of Archangel, a Government of European Russia, in the extreme north, extending from the Ural Mountains on the east to Finland on the west. Many have already died of starvation.

The people wander about, reduced almost to skeletons, their heads swollen to the size of buckets. Tea is the only means of subsistence.

The Province of Archangel has an area of nearly two hundred and ninety thousand square miles, but it is one continuous flat and almost an unvaried scene of desolation, especially in the most northern parts, where the ground remains frozen nine months in the year.

Almost the only crops raised are hemp, flax, potatoes and some rye, neither the climate nor the soil admitting of the cultivation of oats or wheat. The timber forms the principal wealth.

In spite of these unfavorable conditions, the province has a population of about three hundred thousand souls.

Revealed Through Jealousy.

New Orleans, Nov. 10.—Six years ago the body of Gen. Harrington, of Abbeville, was found floating in Bayou Vermilion. An autopsy showed that he had been murdered, but no evidence could be found as to the murderer. Yesterday Mrs. Horace Guidry testified that her husband had murdered Harrington. She had concealed the guilt of her husband until he had abandoned her for the widow of the man he had murdered. Jealousy prompted her action. Guidry was arrested and is now in jail charged with murder.

SILVERITES ALARMED

Think the Prospects for Reform of the Currency Good.

CLOTURE IN THE SENATE

Some Democrats Would Help Change the Rules to Clear the Way for a Monetary Bill Which They Would Not Directly Favor.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Notwithstanding the apparent impossibility that any financial legislation should get through Congress, some of the best informed Democrats and silver men insist in private that there will be a determined fight over the question, and that the outcome is uncertain. They exhibit considerable alarm and declare that there is no doubt that desperate expedients will be adopted to get through the Senate the measure that will be passed by the House on the recommendation of the President. They say that the fight will start in the Senate on a proposition to adopt cloture, almost as soon as Congress meets, and that there are some Senators who will vote to amend the Senate rules who could not justify themselves before their constituents if they voted directly to pass a currency-reform measure. Yet, if cloture is adopted, they believe that it may be possible to pass a currency measure which would be disastrous to the silver party.

The Republicans say nothing of such a plan, and on the surface it does not seem possible of accomplishment, but there is no doubt that those who oppose currency legislation are extremely anxious, and are preparing for a desperate struggle, which they say may last throughout the entire session.

The Republicans have forty-three Senators, and there being a vacancy, forty-five is a majority. The Democrats have thirty-four Senators, and there are twelve Populists and independents. Two Democrats, Lindsay and Gray, are likely to vote for a reform of the currency, if they have an opportunity, though they probably would not dare vote for cloture. If they did, it would pass the monetary bill. Now, if some of those who would vote for a currency measure should vote for cloture, it would open the way for those who would vote for currency reform. It is not certain how Senator J. P. Jones or Senator Kyle would vote on the cloture proposition, but it is thought likely that Kyle would vote for it, and it is not improbable that Senator Jones would do the same.

It is impossible to get Republican authority for an assertion that this plan is in contemplation, but there is no question about the Democrats believing it and being anxious about it.

THE SEALING CONFERENCE.

It Will Commence To-Morrow and Will Be on a Broad Scope.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Gen. Foster and Sir Julian Pauncefort conferred yesterday as to the arrangements for the meeting of British, Canadian and American representatives relative to Behring Sea. A general understanding was reached that the arrival of Sir Wilfred Laurier, the Canadian Premier, and party, would permit the meeting to open to-morrow, as to-day is likely to be given to an exchange of views between the Canadians and British.

The British Ambassador accompanied the Premier to the White House this morning and introduced him to the President. This was a call of courtesy, however, and it was not expected that any of the pending questions would be referred to. The British Embassy has extended an invitation to Sir Wilfrid to be a guest during his stay here, but he has determined to remain with the other Canadian representatives at the Shoreham, where quarters have been engaged.

It is now definitely settled that the coming meeting will take a much broader scope than was first anticipated. At the outset there will be a comparison of notes between the seal experts, Mr. Hamlin for the United States, Prof. Thompson for Great Britain, and Prof. Macoun for Canada. The Canadian Premier and Sir Louis Davies, Sir Julian Pauncefote and Gen. Foster will be present in an unofficial capacity, ready to take up the larger phases of the question when the seal experts have concluded their exchange of technical information.

WILL USE CHINESE AS MINERS.

An Announcement Which Caused Intense Excitement in Illinois.

Streator, Ill., Nov. 10.—The announcement that Chinamen would be placed in the mines of the Northern Illinois coal field has caused an immense excitement here, and a call has been issued for a full convention of the district to be held this afternoon in this city. Every shaft will send delegates, and in the meantime the various organizations will get together and take action.

COMING EVENTS.

November 11—Parliamentary Club, Y. M. C. A., 10 a. m.

"Union county can have North Plainfield just as soon as she wishes it, and the sooner she annexes it the better," says the Somerset Democrat. Union county would like well to have North Plainfield. It is a good, sound, energetic Republican town. But Union county is already Republican from centre to circumference and does not desire to deprive Somerset county of its share of the good which we enjoy. North Plainfield helps to keep Somerset county sweet and good and pure, and supplies it with some of its very best officials; a surrogate for example. Oh, no; Union county likes North Plainfield well, but would not rob Somerset for anything in the world.—Elizabeth Journal.

The time of School Commissioner L. N. Lovell expires this year, and his friends will endeavor to secure for him a re-election. The other members of the Board have another year to serve.

The Republican plurality in New Jersey on Assemblymen, as shown by the official returns, is 8,245. The Prohibitionists polled 7,685 votes, as against 5,836 last year, a gain of 1,849.

Gov. Griggs yesterday appointed Wm H. Vredenburgh, of Monmouth county, as a Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals, in place of the late Judge Dayton.

THE EXPERT ACCOUNTANT.

A Borough Taxpayer Wants to Know Why It Is Necessary.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The Press of a few nights since published the proceedings of the Borough Council of North Plainfield, including a remarkable resolution, which certainly ought to be further explained through the newspapers for the enlightenment of the taxpayers of the borough.

The resolution was to the effect that inasmuch as Borough Collector Spencer would go out of office January 1st, and, therefore, to audit his accounts and to have the new collector open a new series of books, it would be necessary to employ an expert, which the Mayor was both authorized and directed to employ at a salary of $750.

Was this resolution to provide a fat berth for some accountant, or what is its true inwardness? Some two years ago or more an expert was employed by the Borough Council who went carefully over the books and inaugurated a new system of bookkeeping. Books were obtained that were especially ruled and printed according to his direction; at least I gathered that from the public prints at the time. Then, some months ago, all the members of the present Council, excepting one, went over the collector's books for ten years past and declared them correct. Now, for the third time, we are informed that $750 must be expended to get out a new set of books. Isn't it an outrage on the taxpayers? If it is not, let it be explained. The Council all seemed to vote for the resolution without discussion, and I, for one, want to hear some explanation of the necessity for such a remarkable expenditure, and I have heard others strongly express themselves of the same opinion.

A Taxpayer.

No Football Game Saturday.

There will be no football game in Plainfield Saturday afternoon. The Plainfield A. A. had a game scheduled with the Hoboken A. A., but it was called off and no game will be played so as not to conflict with the matinee of the Spielkartenfest. Most of the players are taking part in the dances and any injury that would incapacitate them would prove doubly unfortunate.

Revival in the West End.

The revival meetings at Monroe Avenue church are being continued this week with encouraging results. Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, the pastor, is in charge and gives a short Gospel talk every evening. The attendance at the services has been excellent and good results are looked for.

consisting of suits, overcoats and trousers, now being sold at 33c on the dollar. A great purchase and a great sale of the entire stock of a very widely known clothing manufacturer. Cash is King, and the money on the table enables us to sell this extraordinary purchase at less than 33c on the dollar. This sale would prove the greatest sensation of the day if maker's name could be published, but owing to the fact that nearly every retailer of prominence has a stock on hand from these manufacturers, the latter to protect the former, stipulated that their name must not appear in advertisements. The name, however, appears on every garment, which is an absolute guarantee of perfect satisfaction.

Last Monday afternoon while F. L. Reed was working on a building in New York, he fell from a ladder, and as a result fractured his nose. He fell a great distance and his nose struck a portion of the ladder near the ground. He was picked up in an unconscious condition, but soon came to his senses. He then sought the services of a physician who set the broken bone. Mr. Reed is now detained at home, and it will be some time before he can go to work again. As soon as he gets well he expects to move from his present residence to New York.

THEATRICAL.

In "McFadden's Row of Flats," the hilarious farce comedy which is this week's attraction at the Grand Opera House, New York, is fresh fun, clever specialties, humorous dialogue and no end for cause for laughter, the panacea which all amusement seekers take with a relish for that "tired feeling." One of the funniest is the witnessing of those clever little boxers, the Speck Brothers, in their wrestling match, in which, though small, they are great.

Another change of bill was made at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, Monday evening, when Mr. Sothern appeared as the valiant and ardent Huguenot Captain, triumphant in spite of treachery. "An Enemy to the King," is one of the best of recent romantic dramas, and while its plot is clear and deftly constructed, its "love interest" is uncommonly strong, and its characterization more than usually rich. The play is beautifully set at the Lyceum, and Mr. Sothern's efforts are ably seconded by those of Miss Harned, who has a particularly interesting and congenial role.

DICTATIVE GOVERNMENT

PROF. WHEELER DON'T UNDERSTAND WHY UNCLE SAM ADMIRES RUSSIA.

Second of the University Extension Lectures—Russia's Attitude Toward Turkey Dealt With in an Intelligent Talk.

Prof. A. M. Wheeler, of Yale University, gave the second of the University Extension lectures in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church last evening before a very large and intelligent audience. The lectures treat with modern history and Prof. Wheeler continued last evening his first lecture on "Modern France and Its Government."

It had to do with four stormy years from 1848 to 1852. The speaker said that at the end of the revolution movement there was a spirit of conservatism. There has been no revolution in England, and under these conditions there was a desire to establish certain rules. Prof. Wheeler said that he never could understand why this country had such an admiration for Russia unless it is that the latter nation has never crossed our pathway. Russia, he said, had succeeded in getting away with one nation and was now trying to get away with another which could hardly be called a nation.

Continuing, he said, "What would we say as a nation if another nation should come to us and want to dictate to us regarding some important matter. Such was the case with Russia and Turkey. The Czar failed to recognize the new Emporer, and there was a chance to break up the combination formed since 1815. The object was to break the Russian Empire and England at this time had come up side by side with France. In France it was the desire to secure the support of the Catholic church and its subjects. Turkey declared war on Russia. The Western powers hurriedly prepared to assist if necessary. Turkey fought well and held her own. In March, 1854, there was war between the Western powers and Russia. The war was won by the Western powers, and the Czar was completely and fairly beaten. Then followed the war between England and France. The latter adapted themselves better to all conditions and made a splendid showing throughout."

Prof. Wheeler then went on to describe the war somewhat in detail, and concluded his lecture by giving some of the salient points concerning the treaty of France. The lecture was listened to with a great deal of interest, and was enjoyable in every particular. The next lecture will be given Tuesday evening, November 16th, at the same place.

—Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will be inspected at the meeting to be held Tuesday evening, November 23d.

Mr. and Mrs. David Snediker and Miss Louise Snediker, of Grove street, have returned from their western trip.

—The Plainfield Camera Club held a meeting Monday evening and completed the arrangements for its future exhibition of prints.

E. S. Dryden, of West Seventh street, has gone to Virginia.

Mrs. Joseph Bogert, of East Sixth street, is seriously ill at her home.

Miss Carrie Gardner, of Brooklyn, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Miller, of Orchard place.

Mr. N. N. Osburn, well-known at Woodstock, Mich., was troubled with a lame back. He was persuaded to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It gave him relief in one night. This remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

Left Eight Kittens in Front of a Door.

Some practical joker had a little fun all by himself Monday evening, besides ridding himself of some troublesome visitors. The joker, whoever he was, owns a cat. Several weeks ago the cat was the mother of a large litter of black kittens. Tuesday morning when the residents on West Second street, between Park avenue and Madison avenue, came to open up the houses in the morning, they found a bag that had been deposited on each doorstep during the night. When the bag was taken inside and opened a small black kitten crawled out. There were eight of them in all. Now the recipients of the uncalled for gifts are wondering what to do with the little black visitors

Several Young Men Converted.

The interest is still increasing in the revival services at Grace M. E church. Last night there was a good congregation present and several young men were converted, while others went away under deep conviction. Tonight Rev. J. O. McKelvie will preach. The regular monthly meeting of the official board will be held after the service.

—Unity Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will hold a regular meeting this evening.

DELICATE SCALES.

A Pencil Mark on a Piece of Paper Will Make a Difference in the Weight.

The question most commonly asked by visitors in a chemist's laboratory is "How small a thing can you weigh on your scales?" It conveys little meaning to tell the average person that a good pair of chemist's balances will weigh accurately to one-tenth of one milligramme; but if he is told that a short hair from a man's head can be easily and accurately weighed the questioner begins to approach the delicacy of adjustment in the scales. More delicate still are the balances used by the assayers. The weighing of gold by the assayer requires the greatest possible accurary since a small speck of that metal on the scale-pan may represent very large quantities of it in the ore or bullion out in the works. The balances made for this "gold work" are the most sensitive of any used for commercial work, and, in fact, are more accurate than those employed by many scientists. Some idea of their accuracy and sensitiveness can be obtained by the following experiment:

A piece of ordinary white paper the size of a cent is carefully weighed and then a short pencil mark is drawn on it and the paper is reweighed. This second weighing will differ from the first by just the weight of the graphite left by the pencil mark. If care is taken and the balances are in perfect adjustment, the result will always be the same, no matter how many times the paper without the pencil mark and the paper with it be weighed. The two weighings always differ by just the same amount, and that is the added weight of the graphite. Of course such balances require the greatest care, for they easily get out of order, and when once disarranged, there is no telling how long it may take to get them adjusted again. It may be two minutes, and it may be two hours. Some good assayers say that it is impossible to work successfully with "gold balances" unless one possesses a large stock of patience and profanity. From what I know of skillful assayers, I should say that this is approximately true.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

LIKE "THE MARTIAN."

A Farmer Finds on a Pad Stories That He Has Dreamed.

A dispatch from Kirkwood, N. Y., to the Baltimore "American," says that William Hill, a farmer living a few miles from that village, is an easy-going, matter-of-fact man, who devotes his attention to the farm, and during his waking moments can talk of little else than the products of the land.

When he is asleep, however, a curious thing occurs. For some time Hill has told his family that he has dreamed of stories that would discount anything heretofore published, but he invariably forgot them on awakening He, however, conceived the idea of placing a writing material by his bedside, and when he dropped off to sleep his mind was impressed with the thought that whatever he dreamed must be written down. At first there was no result; then on awakening in the morning he would find a few indistinguishable marks on the paper.

Now, however, he has several times arised to find the pad filled with a short story. Those to whom the manuscript has been shown pronounce it of unusual merit, and of a strictly original style. Hill in his waking moments can not recall a line of the productions, and reads the manuscript with interest. While he is a man of little education, the sketches are well written.

Psychologists who have heard of the case point to this fact as a demonstration that the man has two distinct personalities.

A WATCH'S PECULIAR VALUE.

It Helped Impecunious Actors When They Were Hard Up.

M. Nado, director of a Parisian theater, had a silver watch which, though dear at 30 francs, had in the course of its service saved its owner a snug fortune. He was rich, and was known to be so throughout the theatrical world and his opportunities of making small loans to impoverished actors were quite unrivaled. The artist would state his case, and the great man would listen sympathetically. "Ah," he would say, "that is sad, very sad Would I could help you, but I've just made some heavy payments, and haven't ten francs about me. But hold, my friend, here is this watch. Take it. Truly it is not much, but it is all I have." Generally, of course, the offer was not accepted; but if by chance it was, M. Nado continued: "And bring me the pawn ticket to-morrow. I'll redeem it." As no pawnbroker in Paris would lend more than 5 francs on it, M. Nado always recovered it without serious outlay, and it was ready for the same service over again.—Philadelphia Record.

The Rolling Prisons of Texas.

Texas, according to those who have driven through the State, has some queer ways. The climate is said to be the hottest, coldest, wettest and driest in all the country.

Convicts work on the roads in this State. Following the chain gang is a wagon conveying a big cage, in which bloodhounds are kept in the daytime. The dogs, of course, are used to track escaped prisoners. At night the brutes are turned out and the convicts sleep in the cage. The chain gang processions are seen on the roads summer and winter.—Toledo Blade.

evidently, and the business shou d be done by all means. Buildings require paint. Of course a house may be left unpainted and let to become weatherbeaten and a wreck. That doesn't pay, though; it's much cheaper to paint, and our paints in all colors are the best in the market for durability under the most trying conditions. They are well adapted to our exposure and we sell everything in the line of paints and painters' supplies at short prices.

ones—more than 15 superbly built, elegantly trimmed and polished bedroom suits have had one-third taken off their rightful prices. Our aim: To make a startling sale Newark seldom sees. Your profit's in the saving for you—ours in the advertising it'll do for us!

One of the varieties—$24.75—actual cost to us! Cherry, elegantly trimmed and finished—liberal dresser and stand—same as cut. Look for prices of other suits later in the week—space won't let us tell of more.

Detailed description: Not one of these Suits are cheap, flimsy affairs, but the work of one of country's greatest manufacturers. Extra large dressers and washstand, heavy French bevel plate miror, solid oak of finest graining, hangings of solid brass, carving graceful and skilled. Note the one we've pictured in ad. It's but one style out of the twenty.

Carpets bought here are well bought.
Why not do Parlor Suit choosing from our 100 vafities, where prices are always at lowest point? $16.50 up to $200.

A Stove Stock you'll not soon find a copy of—every style stove and range put at smallest known figures—backed by strongest known guarantee. "The Portland" Range is the star exhibit—see it before you buy any make—over 9,000 in constant use—it can't do poor work.

Palor Stoves now $6.38—nickel trimmed—the best of everything in it.

MRS. NACK CONFESSES

She Will Appear as a Witness Against Thorn.

MYSTERY IS CLEARED UP

German Midwife Weakens After First Day's Testimony—Officials Are Secretive but the Story of the Guldensuppe Murder is Known.

New York, Nov. 10.—Emanuel Friend, counsel for Augusta Nack, who is indicted with Martin Thorn for the murder of William Guldensuppe in a cottage at Woodside, L. I., telephoned to the Sun office last night that Mrs. Nack had made a confession, and that she would appear as a witness for the State on Thorn's trial.

Mr. Friend was retained by one of the city papers to defend Mrs. Nack.

Mr. Friend, at the same hour, between 9 and 10 o'clock at night, sent word by telephone to the same effect to District Attorney Youngs, to William F. Howe, counsel for Thorn, and to various other persons. He asked District Attorney Youngs to meet him early this morning at the Long Island City Court House and said that he would then furnish Mr. Youngs with full particulars.

William F. Howe was awakened in his room at the Park Avenue Hotel about 9.30 by a bellboy, who handed him a card, upon which was written:

"W. F. Howe—Mrs. Nack has confessed and will be the first witness for the State in the morning.

"E. M. FRIEND."

Mr. Howe did not appear perturbed, and made a statement of what effect Mrs. Nack's confession would have on Thorn's chances of acquittal.

"At first I was astonished," he said, "but two minutes' reflection dismissed my doubt and perturbation. I came to the conclusion that if Lady Macbeth killed Duncan she had a perfect right to say so, but she lied about when she said her husband committed the crime.

"I knew, and 'Manny' Friend knew, that I had as perfect a case as could be built. I am utterly at loss to understand how any lawyer could sanction his client making a confession when there was such an utter absence of proof against her. Assuming her story is true, which I deny as far as it may implicate Thorn, there would be no evidence to prove that she was more than an accessory.

The evidence which the District Attorney had secured to complete the chain against Thorn was all provided by the prisoner himself in statements which he made to various persons. In each of these statements the prisoner gave some name or fact which enabled the people to add to their case until it was as near perfection as anything could possibly be. District Attorney Youngs was of the opinion last night that Mrs. Nack could add but little to the evidence already possessed by the prosecution.

The District Attorney said later in the evening that his only information as to Mrs. Nack's confession was contained in Mr. Friend's brief telephone message. He had made no arrangement to put Mrs. Nack on the stand against Thorn. The confession, he said, would make little difference with the outcome of the case, as he was already in possession of positive proof that Thorn killed Guldensuppe and was prepared to adduce the evidence on the trial. Mr. Friend, it is said, was fully appraised of this fact, which may account for the readiness with which Thorn's accomplice offered to turn State's evidence, with the idea of saving her own life at the expense of her lover's.

Mr. Friend said last night that the confession was locked up in his safe, and that nobody would know anything about its contents until this morning, when it will be produced in the court-room and when, as he understands, District Attorney Youngs will call Mrs. Nack as the first witness of the day.

Mr. Friend says it is understood that Mrs. Nack herself will be allowed to plead guilty to murder in the second degree, involving imprisonment for life.

She was induced to make the confession by the Rev. Mr. Miles, of the Ravenswood Presbyterian Church, who has been her spiritual adviser since she was removed to the Queens County Jail. She has been very much wrought up, especially since the trial opened, and has been in a condition bordering on hysteria.

Finally, Mr. Miles told her that if there was ever a time when she was going to make a statement about this case, to tell the truth and make her peace with God, this was the time to do it.

She sent for her counsel, Mr. Friend, yesterday afternoon, and when they were alone made the confession to him. That is all Mr. Friend would say about the case last night.

THORN TRIAL BRISK.

Witnesses for the People Rapidly Examined—The Finding of the Body.

New York, Nov. 10.—The trial of Martin Thorn, accused of the murder of William Guldensuppe, was adjourned abruptly at 3.40 yesterday afternoon until 9.30 this morning, on account of there being no more witnesses on hand.

The skirmishing before the real battle for the life of Thorn began in the Queens County Court House yesterday morning. The prosecution simply began laying the foundation of its case. The boys and men who had been concerned in the finding of the portions of the human body, supposed to be that of William Guldensuppe, in the woods and river, gave their testimony.

The oil cloth and cheese cloth which were wrapped around the portions of the body, and which will cut such an important part in the case, were identified.

Mr. Howe began his fight as soon as testimony was introduced. He objected to any testimony regarding the finding of the parts of the body, on the ground that there was no evidence to prove the remains were those of William Guldensuppe.

Martin Thorn showed some interest at various stages of the trial. He was particularly moved when District Attorney Youngs spoke of Mrs. Nack. When the oil cloth was held up he looked at it in curious fashion.

Immediately after court opend the District Attorney began his address to the jury. He assured the jury that the trial would be the most extraordinary one held in the county in a decade.

Story of the Crime.

Then Mr. Youngs went on to unfold the several chapters of horror that tell the story of the murder of William Guldensuppe, the Turkish bath attendant, who disappeared on June 24 last, and has never been seen alive or heard from since that day. The luring of Guldensuppe from New York to the Woodside cottage; the alleged killing there and the dismemberment of the body; the wrapping of it in oil cloth, and the casting of it into the East River; the discovery, the flight of Thorn, the arrest of Mrs. Nack—all this was outlined rapidly, but with minute attention to detail. The District Attorney declared that the people would prove to the complete satisfaction of the jury, by unimpeachable evidence, that Thorn had confessed his crime; that he had related how he had laid in wait behind a door, and had shot down his victim, and had then carried the still warm body to the bath tub, where it was cut up, after which Thorn had notified Mrs. Nack, who was waiting for him, that it was "all over."

Thorn "Interested."

The defendant never moved a muscle while the District Attorney was speaking. He kept his eyes fixed on Mr. Youngs' face, and during the most scathing part of the arraignment his countenance was absolutely immobile. He gave not the slightest indication—except in the listening attitude he took—that he was in the least affected by what he heard. If there was any of that "nervousness" inwardly which has been attributed to Thorn by the novelists who have come to witness his ordeal, he showed not the slightest outward evidence of it.

The case for the prosecution was opened by placing upon the witness stand John McGuire, the young man who found, on June 25 last, the upper part of a mutilated human trunk in the East River, at the foot of Eleventh street, near the ferry slip.

The witnessed identified a piece of red-checkered oil cloth which was shown him as the cloth in which the remains were wrapped, and a photograph as a correct picture of the part of the human body he had discovered, in company with James McKenna, a boy companion. McKenna was called in corroboration.

There was no cross-examination. The youthful witnesses were not kept on the stand more than six minutes. It was a surprisingly brief examination. Thorn's expression remained unchanged as the oil cloth was held up for identification. From where he sat he could plainly see the faint blood-stains on its under, or cotton, surface.

Policeman Jacob G. Mahr, of the Union Market station, added his testimony to that of the boys'. They had notified him of their find, and he looked over the contents of the bundle. The witness was obliged to describe with great minuteness the cuts he saw on the body, as far as he could remember them. Another policeman and the driver of the Morgue wagon completed this particular link in the chain.

A Brisk Trial.

It was clearly the intention of the court to hurry the proceedings as rapidly as consistent with the interests of the accused. All witnesses except the medical experts were excluded from the courtroom and kept in a small room adjoining. As one retired another took his place in the witness box, and the celerity with which the testimony was recorded is probably without precedent in any great capital case in the country. The five witnesses were disposed of in less than fifteen minutes.

The finding of the other portion of what is alleged to be Guldensuppe's body was testified to by Edward Myer, aged 13, who, with his father and brother, stumbled over the remains while hunting for berries in Ogden's Woods on Sunday, June 27, the day after the grewsome bundle was fished out of the East River.

Herbert, two years younger, spoke up with fearless confidence of childhood when placed on the stand. He told of the berry picking, and meeting a man in the woods, and afterward the finding of the body. Then came the father, Julius Myer. "I remember Sunday, June 27," he said. "I took my two boys out berrying. While walking along they suggested getting wild raspberries, so we leaped over a stone wall at the woods, at 177th street, near Washington Bridge, and went down towards the bushes. I saw a bundle there. It was a brown paper and oil cloth bundle, and contained part of a human body."

A photograph was shown and identified by the witness, after an ineffectual objection on the part of Mr. Howe. A motion to instruct the jury to disregard this testimony and that it be stricken from the record was overruled, and the usual exceptions taken.

The forging of the second link was finished with the testimony of the policemen who were notified by Mr. Myer and his sons of the human trunk found near the raspberry bushes in the woods. Mr. Howe pulled hard to break them asunder, but the links showed no flaw, and held firm and true. The faintest shadow of a smile flitted across the face of the defendant.

Court took recess at 12.30 and reconvened at 1.30 o'clock.

Maria Barberi and her new husband occupied seats in the rear of the court-room. Ex-Lieut.-Gov. Saxton was invited to a seat on the bench after court had been reconvened, and viewed the progress of the trial with much interest.

Frederick Uhl, driver of the Morgue wagon, and Detective-Sergt. Alconcle told of their ride to the Morgue with the package found in the woods near High Bridge.

The two portions of the body, that found in the river on Saturday and that discovered in the woods the day after, were fitted together by the testimony of Detective George A. Alconcle and Policeman Frederick Collins, of Brooklyn, who found the legs of a dead man in the river near the Navy Yard. This built up what the prosecution alleges was the headless body of William Guldensuppe.

Five Little Pigs Sold for $1,150.

Fairfield, Ia., Nov. 10.—That the prices of live stock are rapidly increasing in Iowa is shown by the records of some Poland China pig sales recently. E. M. Metzgar sold one pig to S. E. Shellenberger, of Camden, O., for $683. A litter of five pigs, born in February last, brought $1,150. In all forty-one pigs were sold, netting $3,900.

With apologies to the worlds' playwright.

DRAMATIS PERSONAE.

Somerville citizen.
Bound Brook citizen.
N. Plainfield citizen.
Scene—Sebring's Mill.
Time—Before election.

Enter Somerville citizen and Bound Brook citizen.

Somerville—What kind of meat do the mechanical creatures of North Plainfield eat? Are they hogs? They have the state senator and now they want the surrogate, which being given them they will reach out for everything in sight and we will become mere pawns to move about the county at their sweet will.

Bound Brook—Truly, sir, all you say is so. What great man lives in Bound Brook? Didn't Bound Brook try to get the senator last fall when North Plainfield stepped in with its capacious maw and Bound Brook hasn't seen it since? I'm sulky. I want revenge. The only things I see are blue envelopes. A knife! My political ambition for a knife!

Somerville—It is a great matter. These growing feathers must be plucked else they will soar above the view of men and keep us all in servile fearfulness. North Plainfield thinks she breeds eagles—they are nothing but black, black crows—no wonder they are black Republicans.

Bound Brook—Upon my life, Somerville, this thing is getting dangerous and must be checked. North Plainfield begins to bestride the country like a colossus and we petty men peep about and are mere underlings before their strong, skillful delegations. Why, they own the county conventions, all our figuring is reduced to a cipher. Let us strike and start a spirit of revolt.

Somerville—Somerville is to the manner born and holds the county by right. The court and offices are in our town and we want the money and political power. North Plainfield, the upstart, the discarded offspring of Plainfield, the Uitlander of Union, the mixed blood of New York, the commuters sleeping place, what right and title has it to the politics of Somerset. Down with North Plainfield. Somerville! Oh, Somerville forever.

Enter North Plainfield.

Bound Brook—The air bites coldly.

Somerville—It is a nipping and a withering air.

North Plainfield—What does this mean, gentlemen, you seem frost-bitten? Your blood seems to have turned to water. Your faces are as white as milk. Let us commune with some apple juice, something to restore the rosy color to your cheeks. You seem cold, sour, sullen, dyspeptic.

Somerville—What about the surrogate?

Bound Brook, (faintly)—Yes, the surrogate.

North Plainfield—That's the milk in the cocoanut.

Somerville—The Surrogate must be mine. All the county offices are mine. The other townships are mere things hanging on my will.

Bound Brook—Where do I come in, Somerville?

Somerville—We'll settle your wants with patronage and deputies. Give some men a little brief authority so they may strut about. You are very near and dear to us, you know.

North Plainfield—We will take the Surrogate. We have never had a county office. We will pile up a majority so big that you can't overcome it. We will show you that other parts of the county are entitled to as much consideration as Somerville. We will teach you loyalty. We will show that it doesn't pay to cut tickets. Bridgewater is not the whole county. We have friends in Bernards, Branchburg, Franklin, Hillsboro and elsewhere. We will not forget them. "Friends remembered not" is not the motto of North Plainfield. Farewell, gentlemen.

Exit all. Somerville and Bound Brook sharpening knives. C. S. S.

APPEAL TO CATHOLICS.

Circulars in Behalf of New Cathedral Sent Out by Bishop Wigger.

Bishop Wigger, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Newark, has sent out a circular letter, signed by himself, making an appeal to all wealthy Catholics for aid in the erection of the proposed new Cathedral building in Newark.

He says there are 250,000 Catholics in the diocese, and the Cathedral should be an edifice worthy of so large a diocese.

He has called a meeting of well-to-do and influential Catholic men, to be held in the Catholic Institute in Newark Wednesday of next week.

Charter Day at Rutgers.

The celebration of Charter Day, marking the 131st anniversary of the founding of Rutgers College, will take place this afternoon. The exercises will be held in Kirkpatrick chapel, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Addresses will be made by Rev. Dr. Wm. Elliott Griffis, of the class of '69; Senator Foster M. Voorhees, of the class of '76; Leonor F. Loree, of the class of '77, and Louis Bevier, Jr., of the class of '78. The college glee club will sing.

BASKET BALL.

Friday night the Summit Y.M.C.A. basket ball team will play the evening team here, game to be called at 8:45.

Last night, the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium was no small factor in sports. The Riverside A. C. team lined up against the business men's team of this city. The first half showed the Riverside team to be more experienced in the game, the score being 8-2. The second half was even livelier than the first, a new man having been added to the home team, to replace one who was unable to finish. The result of the game being 26-7 in favor of the visiting team. The line up for Plainfield was: J. H. Doane, G. P. Smith, B. Egen, P. Suffern, G. Drayton, W. Long. The home team played under difficulty, three of the regular team being absent. Refreshments were served to both teams after the game.

POLITICIANS IN TRENTON.

Over Half the Legislators On Hand—Essex After Salaried Offices.

Yesterday began the usual series of weekly gatherings of Senators and Assembleymen at Trenton that precede the organization of the Legislature, and over half of the legislators were on hand. Senator Voorhees' friends say they can surely count on seven votes for him for President of the Senate, with several Republican Senators yet to be heard from, and that his election seems to be assured. Essex county Assemblymen are indisposed to make a fight for the Speakership, for which Assemblyman Porter is an avowed candidate. The candidacies were announced of ex-Assemblyman Charles B. Duncan for Clerk of the House, and George Powell and ex-Assembymen Harrison and Benedict for Sergeant-at-Arms. This indicates that the Essex members will again seek the salaried offices.

James Parker, of Passaic, will seek re-election as Clerk of the House on his record for the past three years Assemblyman Gledhill has announced that he is a candidate for the Speakership, but it is probable that the place will go to Watkins, of Gloucester county. Ex-Assembyman Hopkins, of Morris, wants to be engrossing clerk. Henry B. Rollinson, of Rahway, wants another year as Secretary of the Senate, in case Voorhees is not chosen President. Senator William M. Johnson, of Bergen, will probably be the Republican leader in the Senate, and Assemblyman Porter leader in the House, in case Watkins is elected Speaker.

NEGLECTED HIS INJURY.

For a Long Time Toman Did Not Know He Was Badly Injured.

Frank F. Toman, of Bound Brook, while going out of the Arlington Hotel about a week ago, slipped and hurt his neck. He let it be, thinking he had only wrenched it, but yesterday it became so painful that he consulted a doctor. Upon the request of the doctor he was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital. He was told that his shoulder was broken and an artery had burst.

It was owing to his neglect to see the doctor that the hospital physicians had to perform an operation. It was found that his shoulder had been paralyzed. He underwent the operation successfully and the shoulder was reset in time to prevent his whole side from being paralyzed.

Vandals in a School House.

When Mrs. Williams, teacher of the school at George's road, near New Brunswick, entered the school building Monday morning, she found that everything had been overturned in the place. Some one had entered the building by removing a window, sash and all. The flag staff had been torn from the building and the rope cut. Nothing had been stolen.

THE SEQUENCE CAR.

Considered Good Luck to Find the One Bearing a Certain Number.

Freight car numbered 12,345 of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad passed through Darlington, Pawtucket, one day recently on the branch railroad. What that car contained, where it was from, or where it was going is of no consequence. The number of the car, 12,345, is all that is of special interest.

This number on freight cars is the fortunate number to find. A few years ago, and perhaps until to-day, commercial travellers and whoever else was travelling much, or was much about the railroad, were all the time looking for this magic number, in the belief that to see it was a good omen, and wonderful were the stories told of the good fortune which fell to those who were so happy as to see it. It is a simple matter, and yet it is not often a car with this number comes into view. It is very likely that had any other particular number been chosen it would have been as difficult to find it.

A gentleman who saw this car the other day had been looking for it continually for more than half a score of years, and during that time had travelled thousands of miles but had never before discovered it.—From the Providence Journal.

How Peasants Broke a Drought.

In the village of Apraximo, in the Orel district of Russia, the peasants addressed the Volost (the oldest land owner, who is made chief of reason of his age), asking what should be done to break the long spell of drought, no rain having fallen for many weeks. The Volost called a meting of all the peasants of the district and advised them in the meeting to resort to an old custom, dating back to the days of Czar Ivan, the terrible. This proposition was carried out, and the next day all the women of the village were compelled to take a bath in the stream running by, while the men had to sing litanies to soften the heart of the Deity. Curiously enough, rain set in on the following day, and the old custom will hereafter have a large number of believers.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Mrs. Logan's Bet.

The famous saying during and after the war of "Here's your mules" was started by Mrs. Logan, says an exchange. Her brother-in-law had a fine pair of mules, and one day he came to Mrs. Logan and said he would bet them against $300 that her husband would come over to the Democratic side. Mrs. Logan took the bet without her husband knowing it and won. The team then became famous and Gen. Logan drove all over the state with the mules during his political work, and was greeted on all sides by "Here's your mules," as that was the disgusted expression of Mrs. Logan's brother-in-law when he paid his bet.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Bright Men With Rich Wives.

Those who remember the time when Whitelaw Reid and John Hay used to dine together night after night at a little cheap French restaurant on Fourth avenue, New York, must realize that a great change has taken place in the last quarter of a century—from the days of 85c table d'hote dinners to grand banquets given to royalty. This change has been due to two causes, the first—highly creditable to them—mental ability; the second, rich wives. Without the combination of these two the personal successes they have made would have been impossible.

Cleverest Conjurers in the World.

These are the Hindoo jugglers, who, for marvelous tricks and feats, put our European performers in the shade.

One who moves about perched upon a single long stick is the latest novelty. This performer is mounted on a bamboo pole about fifteen feet high, the top of which is tied to a girdle worn around his waist. A small cushion is fastened a few feet down the pole, which acts as a leg-rest. He also executes a sort of dance, and goes through a little pantomime. It is a marvelous feat of equilibrium.

He appears absolutely perfect in the art of balancing. He can balance a very light stick on his nose and another on his chin. When balancing these two sticks, end on end, he will make one revolve in one direction and the other in the other.—Golden Days.

A Famous Drummer.

Probably the most remarkable drummer who ever lived was Jean Henri, the famous tambour-major of the Emperor Napoleon. One of his feats was to plan on fifteen differently toned drums at the same time in so soft and harmonious a manner that, instead of the deafening uproar that might have been expected, the effect was that of a novel and complete instrument. In playing he passed from one drum to the other with such wonderful quickness that the eyes of the spectators could hardly follow the movement of his hands and body.

A Critical Moment.

CITIZENS' TICKET TO BE PUT UP FOR CITY ELECTION.

OPPOSITION TO THE REGULAR REPUBLICAN ORGANIZATION WILL BE VERY STRONG.

It is Reported That One of Their Erstwhile Vigorous Workers, Justice V. W. Nash, Has Deserted—Some of Those Liable To be Nominated.

Are the Republican leaders going to support the men that they have put in power as Councilmen at the last two elections, or are they going to prepare a new policy and renounce their representatives? Such is the question that many are asking, but there seems to be no doubt but that the G. O P. men will stand by their Councilmen and sink or swim with them as the case may be. In the latter case a Citizen's ticket will be inevitable.

It is conceded by all that the administration of the city affairs during the past year has not suited all. The unusual increase in the tax rate arrayed a number of votes against the party that is in power at present. There has been a feeling, no matter how hard the Republicans have tried to smother it, that the commuters have too much voice in the conduct of the city's business. Many claim that the men who spend the greater part of the day in New York are not as closely identified with the city's interests as those whose business affairs keep them here all day. In the present Common Council there is a majority of commuters, and now a demand comes from many of the voters that the city's local business men be better represented.

It is undoubtedly true that there is a large number of the citizens of Plainfield who daily commute between this city and New York, and that many of them are property owners and fully entitled to representation in the legislative branch of the city government. There is also a goodly portion who gain a livelihood within the limits of the city.

The city election, which takes place December 7th, promises to be one of the most eventful that this city has seen. It happens that seven out of the eleven Councilmen are to be elected, and that any decided change in the party put in power will mean an entire new set of governmental machinery for the city. At present the Republicans are entirely in power, but dissatisfaction in the ranks of the G. O. P. added to the followers of the Democratic banner will make a force, which, if united, is going to prove an important feature in the coming election.

The Republican party in Plainfield is very strong and has a well organized corps of workers in all the wards. The desertions will be mostly from the ranks. One well-known politician of the Second ward, who has formerly used his efforts under the shade of the Republican banner, is not with the G. O. P this year, but is accredited with being with the proposed new ticket. The man in question is Judge Vincent W Nash.

There promises to be some fun in his ward before the election is over. There has long been trouble between Nash and the other workers, but not until this year has it reached such a breach. There is one Councilman to be elected from that ward, the present occupant of which office is George H. Frost. Mr. Frost has many friends in his ward and there is much talk of a renomination. Mr. Frost has always been decidedly against the liquor element, and it is stated on good authority that the advocates of high license will work for his defeat at the ward primary and the substituting of some man who is known to believe in high license rather than in prohibition. Mr. Frost was instrumental in the establishment of the sewer beds, which, like all public works, has its enemies. That will also be brought against him. There have been several names mentioned for the nomination, but none with sufficient prominence to warrant their mention.

Ralph I. Tolles is the retiring Councilman from the First ward. The fact that he is a Plainfield business man gives him the support of many for renomination if he cares to take it.

Over in the Third ward there is going to be a lively tussle. Elliott T. Barrows' term runs out this year and the place is to be filled. It is understood that Mr. Barrows would take the nomination readily if tendered to him. There has been a feeling against Mr. Barrows since his reorganization of the police department. It has been claimed by some that he was extravagant and tried to run the city's affairs on too liberal a plan for the welfare of its citizens. His support of the plan for the extension of the Public Library caused criticism. D. W. Littell is spoken of as his successor.

Both of the Councilmanic plums in the Fourth ward will be open for contest this year. The present incumbents, W. A. Westphal and Alfred H Leviers, are both mentioned for renomination and have the support of the Republican leaders. They will have the hardest ward in which to work as the Democratic party is stronger there than in any of the other wards.

The terms of the three Councilmen-at-Large, John B. Dumont, Albert C. Stebbins and Harold Serrell, expire this year. Mr. Dumont, it can be decidedly stated, will not run for the Council again. Mr. Serrell has built a house in North Plainfield and will soon make himself ineligible to the office by moving into the other county and borough. What Mr. Stebbins' sentiments in the matter are it is impossible to say as yet.

Politicians are wondering whether it is to be a Citizen's ticket or whether the Democrats will take the field and conduct the campaign against the G. O. P. For various reasons, it seems that the Citizen's ticket will be an assured thing. Its supporters will include many of those who headed the unsuccessful revolt against the Republican domination two years ago. George O. Stevens is spoken of as the possible candidate for the Fourth ward Councilmanic nomination. The names of several of the prominent Gold Democrats in the Third ward are mentioned as candidates for the nomination there. Meanwhile the Citizens' movement is but in its infancy and the developments of the next few weeks will prove very eventful.

SAY THAT GIBSON MUST GO.

APPEAL MAY BE MADE TO COURTS.

A Meeting of the Church Officers Held in Judge DeMeza's Office and Plan of Action Defined.

The plot continues to thicken in the dramatic struggle between Pastor Phillip S. Gibson, of the Mt. Olive Colored Baptist church, and the trustees and deacons of the church.

Another phase in the struggle of the pastor's enemies to exclude him from the pastorate was developed last night in a meeting of the anti Gibson leaders, including a majority of the trustees and deacons, which was held in the office of City Judge DeMeza, who is acting as counsel for that side of the case.

Mr. Gibson's refusal to hand in his resignation, after it was demanded from him by the trustees, was discussed, and it was finally decided to take immediate action to oust the pastor from the church.

A formal demand will also be made upon the sexton to surrender the keys of the church at once. When these are in their possession, the trustees intend to take the bull by the horns, and prevent the pastor from entering the church until the dispute has been finally settled by the courts.

The exact line of action to be taken has not been fully decided upon. The efforts to oust Mr. Gibson may be confined wholly to the tribunals of the Baptist church. There will be no hesitation, however, in appealing to the law courts if any dissatisfaction exists with the action of the church tribunals.

Bordering on a Revival.

The prayer meeting of Trinity Reformed church last evening was turned into a testimony and experience meeting, and was full of earnestness and fervor which is seldom seen at a prayer meeting, except when the Holy Spirit is present working upon the hearts of the people. Two young men, who were convicted of sin after listening to Mr. Schenck's solemn words of Sunday evening, were present, and one of them testified for the first time for Christ, and the other, being too timid, was vouched for by the mother. A young lady was also convicted at last night's meeting and assured her parents upon arriving home that she desired to become a Christian. It was late when the meeting closed, so many were the testimonies given, and all present seemed loth to leave the place as God's presence was so plainly felt.

TAMPERED WITH MAILS.

LETTER-CARRIER NEIGHBOR CONFESSES TO A SERIOUS OFFENSE.

Opened a Letter and Took $3 From it.—Afterwards Destroyed Several Letters Referring to the Missing Sum of Money.

For the paltry sum of three dollars John Neighbor, the popular letter-carrier, has lost his position under Uncle Sam and now stands charged with tampering with United States mail and embezzling letters and their contents. He admits his guilt.

There has been no better known man in the employ of the Plainfield postoffice than John Neighbor, who for nine years faithfully attended to his duties as carrier in the service. He was very popular with the people along his route which extended from Madison avenue to Richmond street, between Sixth street and the railroad. He is one of the oldest carriers in the service in Plainfield starting soon after the free delivery system was established here. He has a wife and five children.

October 8th, Mrs. Mary James, a colored woman in the employ of Robert B. Waldo, of 326 East Sixth street, gave Neighbor a letter and asked him to post it at the office and put a special delivery stamp on it. The letter was addressed to a woman in Norfolk, Va, and is said to have contained $3 in bills.

Neighbor admits that he did not post the letter but opened it, took the contents and destroyed the letter. Several letters came from Norfolk, but Neighbor, fearing that they might relate to the letter that did not arrive, destroyed them. Mr. Waldo paid some taxes in Norfolk for Mrs. James by his personal check, but failed to receive any receipt. The receipt was sent, but it is supposed that Neighbor destroyed it. Mr. Waldo wrote to the postmaster at Norfolk, and the reply of the letter was held by the carrier.

Mrs. James kept asking for a letter, and finally asked Neighbor to investigate to see if her letter had been lost. He told her that a tracer would be put on to look up the letter. At last he told her that the tracer had returned and that the letter had been found in the Norfolk postoffice, but that the address had been so blurred that it could not be read.

Last night, Mr. Waldo and Mrs. James went to see Postmaster Hetfield about it to see what should be done. When he heard the story, he suspected something was wrong as there was no record of a tracer to Norfolk. He confronted Neighbor with the two visitors in his private office and at the sight of them the hitherto trusted carrier broke down completely and confessed his guilt. Mr. Waldo and Mrs. James were greatly troubled at the unexpected result of their visit and expressed great sorrow for the unfortunate man and his family.

This morning Postmaster Hetfield appeared before Justice Nash and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Neighbor on the charge of violating the postal laws. The warrant was placed in the hands of Constable Moffett who found Neighbor easily and placed him under arrest. He was then brought before the Justice.

Neighbor pleaded guilty and was held under $200 bail for sentence by a United State Judge. Although it is probable that the sentence will be light Neighbor will lose his position under Uncle Sam.

JURORS VOTED TO DISAGREE.

Novel Attitude Taken in a Contract Case in Justice Mattison's Court.

The landlord and tenant case of J. A. Blatz against George Rilling, the Somerset street shoemaker, was tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Mattison and a twelve-men jury, consisting of J. M. Smalley, Abram King, E F. Titus, Wm. Lunger, D. D. Smalley, A. G. Perry, A. J. Winckler, Geo. Kirch, Wm. Debele, Edward Schenck, Frank Kesselring and J. B. McMurtry.

The remarkable part of the proceedings was that the jury was locked up at 5 o'clock last evening and did not get through until 2:30 this morning, and then were unable to agree.

The case was that of Rilling being sued for $72 rent for the place occupied by him at 23 Somerset street. Lawyer Hetfield represented Rilling, and Blatz was represented by Murphy & Blatz. A. J. Winckler and George Kirch were the two jurors who voted to disagree, while the other ten were in favor of a verdict of no cause for action.

The jury failing to agree, it will be necessary to have another trial. The jury would probably not be in by this time only for the reason that Mr. Debele was obliged to look after his milk route.

MRS. LEASE SAW SILAS.

THE GREAT PUBLIC WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE IN LINCOLN.

No One to Greet Her But the Energetic Drake and Miss Egel—Mrs. Lease Had to Laugh—What was Said and Done.

Silas Dashing Drake is the forty horse power wonder of the nineteenth century in procuring by his own indomitable energy and ingenious devices free advertising which no other living man has ever been able to accomplish for either love or money. The very next time that Buffalo Bill or Barnum & Bailey's "greatest show on earth" wants a press agent who will give them stupendous returns for little outlay, we commend the irrepressible Silas. He's a phenomonon.

Lincoln—but less than two years ago a corn and wheat stubble—has risen to the dignity of becoming known from one end of the country to the other through a series of sensational advertising schemes which this nervy man has precipitated upon the public at opportune moments and in a manner that has commanded the attention of newspapers to the extent of columns.

His greatest act—let's call it his coup 'd eat, it was so subtlely conceived—was when he presumed to institute women on an equal plane with the men in the matter of voting and holding office.

In the progress of his mental calculations incident to this scheme, Mayor Drake—that's his title now—bethought himself of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lease, the most distinguished public woman in the United States. Though Mrs. Lease is in no sense an advocate of woman's suffrage, other than what her own intelligence and participation in public affairs contributes as showing the equality of at least some of the fair sex with their brethern—the Mayor concluded that it would be in keeping with the fitness of things if he could get Mrs. Lease's name identified with the woman's movement at Lincoln. Of course,—incidentally only, the Mayor reasoned!—there would be publicity in it.

To make a long story short it can be be said that Mrs. Lease consented to visit Lincoln yesterday afternoon and see Councilwomen legislate. Just what sort of a mission her trip would result in Mrs. Lease confesses she did not know when she left New York on the Central train.

Presumably she expected—perhaps she was assured—that her visit would be graced with formal arrangements that would leave a charming effect, a convincing argument of the nicety of women actually serving as town solons

Here is what actually took place:

As Mrs. Lease and her son, Charles H. Lease, of 510 Mott avenue, New York, stepped from the car platform, two farmers stood gapping at the noted woman from the road, and Mayor Drake bustled up and introduced himself. Miss Emma Egel, president of the Council, following, was introduced to the great Kansas woman. They formed the reception committee.

The party, including several reporters—ah, here were the people that the Mayor was actually aching to see—were escorted to the office of the real estate boomer, serving for the occasion as the Council chamber.

With a wave of his hand Drake seated Mrs. Lease in a chair directly in front of his desk. Her son and the reporters, all that were there besides Miss Egel, pre-empted the long wooden benches arranged to seat the audience.

The Mayor poised in front of the desk, faced Mrs. Lease, and said that he owed her an apology. He attributed the lack of an audience to greet her to the fact that the time between receiving her letter of acceptance and the Council meeting was so short as to preclude his notifying such distinguished people as he had wished to have grace the affair. Concluding, the Mayor moved towards the door of a rear room and as he did so he motioned to Mrs. Lease's son and exclaimed:

"Excuse me Mrs. Lease, but can I see you a moment Mr. Lease."

The young man responded and was escorted in the depths of the rear room. The two remained inside for a minute when the young man appeared with a mystified look on his face. A moment later the Mayor also made his entrance. This time he carried several sheets of yellow paper in his hand. It was his speech of welcome.

The Mayor read his welcome which was a clever tribute to the distinguished guest.

By this time it was plain to be seen that Mrs. Lease was ill at ease. During the intervals when Drake was not talking she had been chatting with the reporters about the weather and

IN RHYME SOLON RUNYON TOLD ABOUT THE 'FEST.

HIS VERSES FILLED WITH HUMOR AND MADE A GREAT HIT LAST NIGHT.

The Big Hospital Benefit s Now Coining Money—Description of The Booths and Those Who Preside—The Whist Game.

The success of the Spielkartenfest has been thoroughougly demonstrated and now the good folk of Plainfield are flocking to the Crescent Rink to witness it. Last evening saw the largest attendance yet, fully 2,000 people being seated or standing about the hall. The dancers were at their best and all received their share of the enthusiastic applause. There were two surprises in store for the audience. The Pages gave their delightful dance, although it was not on the programme, and just before the game of "Living Whist," Councilman William N. Runyon came to the footlights in his costume as Jack of Clubs and sang an original song, composed for the occasion to the tune of "A Son of Gambolier." To say that the reception he received was enthusiastic would be putting it mildly. The audience could not contain themselves. The words of the song were as follows:

Kind friends, pray give attention,
While I warble a little lay,
Concerning our great Spielkartenfest
And the gents and ladies gay.
We extend a hearty welcome,
And we all sincerely trust
That when Saturday night has come and gone
Everyone of you will be "bust."
For we're doing it all for charity,
And we're going in to win.
We're doing it all for charity.
Which covers full many a sin.
So come and blow your money.
Come buy out all our stock
And we'll see our brave old Muhlenberg
Established like a rock.

We cannot tell what moment
Anyone of us may be hurt,
Since every day by dangers
We're continually begirt.
But try and imagine the blissful joy
That would come with a broken neck.
To be able to say, "It's in part due to me
That the hospital's still on deck."
Remember it's all for charity.
This great Spielkartenfest.
Remember it's all for charity.
S. start in to invest.
You can't resist the ladies,
And you'll show a great big head
If you'll do good work while still on earth.
And not wait until after you're dead.

Please don't forget the restaurant.
Where viands extra nice
Are served in great profusion
To whoever has the price.
The waitresses are charming
And with ever-watchful eye
They'll guide you through the bill of fare
From soup way down to pie.
For they're doing it all for charity,
And you can't resist their wiles.
They're doing it all for charity.
With fascinating smiles.
And if by chance you eat so much
That you cannot move about.
We'll take you down to Muhlenberg
And treat you free for gout.

You may not all have noticed,
But the hardest workers yet
Are those distinguished gentlemen.
The Park Club Whist Quartette.
I know you all will agree with me
When I say it would make us hump
To learn how to play a game of whist
When every ace is a trump.
But they're doing it all for charity.
And playing as best they can.
They're doing it all for charity.
Is every single man.
To McCutchen and Townsend and Rogers and Howell
We must render the highest praise.
And strange though it seems, we admire them most
For their very tricky ways.

I've heard an ugly rumor
A-floating about the town.
A very ugly rumor.
And I've tried to run it down.
They say Chief Grant is coming around
To inspect the Dance de Court,
And arrest us men because we have
No visible means of support.
But we're doing it all for charity
And we're doing our level best.
It's all on account of charity
That we're all so gaudily dressed.
It's mighty nice for the boys and girls.
But alas for us poor old men,
It's a terrible shame to dress us up so,
And I hope they won't do it again.

If I could be consulted
On the question of finance,
I'd discount all the ladies
With the scheme that I'd advance.
I'd hold a great big auction
And sell every little peach
Who is in the Dance of Pages
For a million dollars each.
"Remember it's all for charity."
Their pas and mas would say;
"As long as it's all for charity,
You can take our dears away."
Then no more difficulties
Would the ladies have to meet,
But with money to burn, they could live in peace,
Evermore upon Easy street.

The game of whist was very close. The Joker turned up the Two of Spades, Miss Margaret L. Coe, and was given to Mr. Townsend. Mr. Howell had the lead. Hearts were led. Mr. Howell held a number of the face cards and with the assistance of his partner, Mr. Howell, captured four out of the five first tricks. Messrs. Townsend and McCutchen held the high trumps, however, and won the hand at the last by a score of 7 tricks to 6. The detailed play of the hands will have to be omitted today for lack of space. The score for the week is Messrs. McCutchen and Townsend, 21; Messrs. Howell and Rogers, 18.

In the account of Tuesday evening's performance, the fact was omitted that the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein rendered two selections, "Grusse an die Heimath," and "Dixie's Land," in an excellent manner.

While the dances are the real attraction of the Spielkartenfest, it would be far from complete without the booths and interior decorations. The interior decorations have already been described. As to the booths, they are charming creations every one. They are arranged three on each side of the Rink.

The first on the right at entering the hall is the flower booth, specially designed by A. Milton Napier, architect for the John Jacob Astor estate. It is of rustic design with a thatched roof of evergreen. The flowers, cut and in pots, have been distributed through it with wonderful results. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson, chairman: Mrs. Harry M. Stockton, Mrs. W. A. Pinto, Mrs. Thomas Minford, Mrs. James T. Scott, Mrs. J. S. Wheeler, Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Mrs. Alfred Streuli, Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, Mrs. J. Frank Raymond, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna. Their aides are Miss Warning, Miss Florence Waring, Miss Daisy Shepard, Miss May Evans, Miss Elizabeth Stewart, Miss Massett, Miss Bessie Ginna, Miss Edith Hyde, Miss Edith Smalley, Miss Gertrude Baker, Miss

THIEF WAS A BOLD LOOTER.

WORKED WHILE THE VICTIMS SLEPT.

W. H. Day, of Richmond Street, Reports That His Trousers Were Taken Out of His Bedroom.

It was the east end of the city that Plainfield's burglar visited last evening. Nothing had been heard from him for several weeks and it was hoped that he had disappeared, but this morning, W. H. Day, of 829 Richmond street, reported to Chief Grant that the burglar had visited his domicile last night and disappeared with considerable plunder.

Nothing was known of the nocturnal visit until this morning when the family awoke. Mr. Day's trousers were nowhere to be found in his room. They were afterwards discovered in the front hall with the pockets turned inside out; a pocket book containing $25 and some loose change amounting to 75 cents were missing from the pockets. The front door was found partly open.

A further investigation showed that four coin silver forks had been stolen from the sideboard, while a set of silver teaspoons and several large silver spoons had been left behind. When the family had returned at night, they had neglected to slip the catch to one of the windows in the dining room and the burglar had no trouble in raising the sash and gaining entrance in that way.

None of the family were awakened by the prowlings of the midnight visitor and there was no trace of his identity.

IN HONOR OF HER BIRTHDAY.

A Very Pleasant Time Given at the Home of Miss VanNatta.

Miss Josephine VanNatta gave a party in honor of her birthday at her home, 351 East Third street, last evening. The chief amusement of the evening was dancing, with music by Prof. O'Reilly. Mrs. P. R. King and Miss VanNatta gave a piano duet and Edward Martin treated the guests to several selections on his phonograph. Singing was also enjoyed and at 12 o'clock refreshments were served.

Among those present were Mrs. Savage, Misses Creda Conrad, Fannie Mills, Florence Taylor, Cora Scully, Maud Butler, Dora Ulrich, Mabel Hockridge, Nettie Chanler, May Shime, Francis Thorn, Lillian Thorn, Addie Savage, Mrs. King, Bessie Saughts, Mabel Staats, Mary Buckhimer and Miss Edyth Magill, of New York; Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Natta, of Philadelphia; William Winters, Robert Carpenter and William Carpenter, of Westfield; Charles Corriel, Daniel Richardson, Edward Hardingham, George Greves, William Thorn, Owen Smith, E. C. Murray, G. Green, Edward Edward, Mr. Martin and Mr. Scully, of this city, and John Burdett and Mr. Marsh, from New York.

MRS. NACK TELLS ALL

Takes the Stand Against Her Former Friend, Martin Thorn.

HER STORY IS COMPLETE

She Says that the Murder Was Done to Satisfy a Grudge Thorn Had Against Guldensuppe and She Acted as a Confederate.

New York, Nov. 11.—Goaded by terror and remorse, Mrs. Augusta Nack went upon the witness stand yesterday morning in the Queens County Court House and confessed that she and Martin Thorn together had plotted the death of William Guldensuppe, the Turkish bath attendant, who disappeared on June 24 last; that she lured him to the place fixed upon for his assassination, and there waited until the deed was done; that, with her accomplice, who had dismembered the body, she helped to dispose of the dreadful evidence of the crime.

It was an intensely dramatic recital—begun in calmness, and ending in frenzy. Step by step the wretched woman told of the propositon made by Thorn that Guldensuppe should be slain, of her horror-stricken rejection, of the constant persuasion and her final yielding, and the preparations for acomplishment and concealment. As she went on, Mrs. Nack raised her voice, until at last her phlegmatic, imperturbable nature could stand it no longer, and she almost shrieked, "I am glad this day has come. I am here before the people and before my God. I free my conscience."

Wrung by Despair.

Her face became contorted, and down her cheeks rolled scalding tears. Sobs convulsed her, and for a moment she could not speak. Then looking up, she continued: "No matter what comes of this; no matter what hangs over my head. I don't care what happens to me; they can hang, they can kill. I tell all."

Martin Thorn, the prisoner at the bar, was sitting sphynx-like when Mrs. Nack entered the court room. His usually pale face became paler still as she advanced to the witness stand, but the only other sign of emotion he showed was a convulsive movement of the throat and a moistening of the thin lips. He seemed to be making a desperate effort to attract Mrs. Nack's attention, but her eyes never once looked into his. Showily dressed in silk, and with a fichu of lace about her throat, she took her place in the witness chair, and began the story of her life from the time of her marriage in Germany up to her meeting with Guldensuppe, and later with Thorn, in this country, and the awful events that followed.

It was known that after the action of Emanuel Friend, in making public the fact that Mrs. Nack had confessed to him the prosecution would be forced to change the programme of examination of witnesses. A conference between District Attorney Olcott, Deputy Assistant District Attorney Rosalsky, of New York; District Attorney Youngs, of Queens County, and Mr. Friend resulted in a decision being reached that Mrs. Nack should be placed upon the witness stand immediately afer court convened.

Mrs. Nack Begins.

The jury filed into their places in the jury box at 9:30 o'clock, and ten minutes later the District Attorneys and Judge Waller entered the court room. Behind them came Mrs. Nack, in charge of two keepers. Her cheeks were rouged, and the dark circles under her eyes were partly concealed by white powder. Thorn partly turned his head as the woman entered, but made no other motion. She took a chair about five feet in advance of him, and in front of the jury box. At 9:45 the crier of the court called out, "Augusta Nack."

Without the slightest evidence of trepidation or nervousness the woman walked to the witness chair and sat down. Judge Weller immediately began the examination.

Mrs. Nack said she came to America in December, 1888. She was married in Bavaria, where she was born. In June last, she said, she was living with William Guldensuppe at 439 Ninth avenue. He was a bath rubber, said Mrs. Nack. She first became acquainted with Thorn in 1896.

Surrogate Weller asked her to describe the fight between Thorn and Guldensuppe last February.

"Thorn came in when Guldensuppe was at my room," said Mrs. Nack. "They commenced to fight. Thorn pulled a revolver, but Guldensuppe came and beat him down."

The incidents after the fight were described by the witness, who was very difficult for the reporters to understand. She saw Thorn again four days after the fight. She had been told by a man that Thorn was in the hospital. She frequently gave Thorn money, she said.

Thorn asked her to leave Guldensuppe, and she refused. She told Thorn she was married, but Thorn told her it was not true. Guldensuppe was called Mr. Nack. Thorn asked her repeatedly to leave Guldensuppe. In March, 1897, Thorn said to her that she must give him money. She gave him $50. Afterward he asked for more money and she refused. Then Thorn said to her, "I don't want money. I want Guldensuppe's head."

Thorn Wanted Mrs. Nack to Help Kill Guldensuppe.

Mrs. Nack said that Thorn asked her to aid him in killing Guldensuppe in the early part of June. She said that she would not do it.

"I said, 'Kill me,'" said Mrs. Nack. Thorn answered, "That would be no satisfaction."

Thorn came one evening and asked her if she loved him, and when she said no, he took her by the throat and strangled her until she was unconscious.

Before this Thorn had spoken of the Woodside cottage. She went to Woodside finally to make arrangements for hiring the cottage. The landlord was in New York and she returned there. She found the landlord and hired the house for $15 a month. Thorn was with her and paid the money. Thorn gave the name of Brown. The house was hired for one month. Thorn then told her that she must take Guldensuppe over to the cottage in Woodside. Thorn would be in the house when the victim was brought there. Guldensuppe was to be taken to the house on Friday morning.

Victim Lured to the Woodside Cottage.

She said to Guldensuppe that day that she had a house at Woodside and he said "All right." On Friday morning at 8 o'clock she spoke again to Guldensuppe about going over. He assented and they went over to the cottage in Woodside.

"I opened the back door," said Mrs. Nack, "and Guldensuppe went upstairs. I was standing in the yard. In a moment I heard a shot. After a while Thorn came out and told me. He said: 'I shot Guldensuppe.' He was excited and I was half dead. He told me I should go home and come back in the afternoon at 5 o'clock.

"I bought oilcloth. I was so excited I can hardly remember about it. It was in Long Island City somewhere I bought it."

The oilcloth which had covered the parts of the body was shown to the woman. She looked at it, and said: "Yes; that's the kind."

"I do not know whether it was on Thursday or Friday that I bought the oilcloth," went on the monotone. "I went back to the Woodside house then. Thorn was there. He was ready to go home. He gave me a little parcel and said it was his clothes. We went over a ferry. I don't know which one. Thorn had the head. It was in a parcel in paper. He told me he had put it in plaster of paris.

"Next day Thorn came to me and told me the head was gone.

Disposing of the Head.

"The head was wrapped in gray paper. He told me he threw it in the river. When we landed in New York we took the First avenue car. I went home. I met Thorn Saturday morning at the Thirty-fourth street ferry. We went to the house in Woodside by a trolley car. Thorn told me he had a big parcel; he couldn't carry it. He told me the big parcel was this part (spreading her hands over her bosom).

MARTIN THORN.

"Yes, the breast, I mean. He told me to take it away. Of course I did everything he told me to. I hired a carriage. I hired it in Ninth avenue, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets, from an undertaker. We were not long in the house on June 26. We took the breast part and went to New York together. We took a downtown ferry. When we were crossing the ferry Thorn left me. He came back and said he had thrown it overboard.

SCROFULA

It is Foul Blood's Advertisement

But It is Soon Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Yes, Scrofula, if anything, may be called the advertisement of foul blood. It is the scourge of the world—offensive, painful, debilitating, stubborn and well nigh unendurable.

Outward applications do not cure, they only drive the difficulty to new quarters. Emollients may palliate, they cannot abolish the evil. There is but one sure way out, and that is to eliminate the taint from the blood.

There is one remedy that can effect this, and it is the only one that, so far as we know, has almost invariably succeeded—even where the system has been poisoned by long years of taint, and the ravages to be repaired are tremendous. That remedy is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this:

"My daughter was afflicted with impure blood. There were running sores all over her body and they caused her much suffering. We tried medicines that were recommended as blood purifiers, but could not see that they did any good. A friend told me about Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began giving the girl this medicine. The result was that she was perfectly cured after taking a few bottles. She has had no symptoms of scrofula sores since that time." MARIETTA M. SMITH, South Middleboro, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Insist upon HOOD'S; take no substitute.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

NOTICE!

Is hereby given that the Common Council have fixed the eighteenth day of November, A. D. 1897, at 8 o'clock p.m., at the Council chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., as the time and place for Aaron D. Thompson, William A. Pinto and Alonzo T. Ayres, the commissioners appointed by the Common Council pursuant to the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to widen Westervelt avenue from the northwesterly side line of East Front street to a point 108.66 feet southeast of Orange place," approved July 26th, 1897, and the resolution of the Common Council in the premises adopted November 1st, A. D. 1897, to meet and enter upon the discharge of their duties and make their estimates and assessments under said ordinance and said resolutions and the statues in such case made and provided. The street to be widened to extend from the northwesterly side line of East Front street to a point 108.66 feet southeast of Orange place, the center line of which street, as well as the width thereof being particularly described in said ordinance and shown on map, referred to and on file in the office of the City Clerk, entitled "Assessment map for the widening of Westervelt avenue, from East Front street to a point 108.66 feet southeast of Orange place, March, 1897."

The lands, real estate and appurtenances intended to be taken for such purpose are all that come between central line and a line twenty-five feet southwesterly and parallel therewith between the northwesterly side line of East Front street as now laid out and opened, and a point 108.66 feet southeast of Orange place, as shown on said map and said ordinance to which reference is hereby made for more detailed description. By order of the Common Council.

JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.
Dated, Nov. 1st, 1897.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY

To Charles B. Barber, Mrs. Charles B. Barber Frank W. Tyler and Mrs. Frank W. Tyler.

By virtue of an order of the court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Edward Smith is complainant and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainants, on or before the first day of December next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Frank H. Odiorne and wife to Edward Smith, dated September 20, 1894, and you, the said Charles B. Barber and Frank W. Tyler are made defendants because you hold encumbrances on said lands or some estate therein, and you the said Mrs. Charles B. Barber and Mrs. Frank W. Tyler are made parties because you are the wives of said Charles B. Barber and Frank W. Tyler respectively, and may claim some interest in the premises by virtue thereof.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to bilious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

—Charles B. Clifton, of West Second street, is expecting to take possession of his new house on West Seventh street next week.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Next Tuesday evening, at the meeting of Old Glory Council, Daughters of Liberty, two candidates will be initiated.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

On Saturday I got the carriage and we went to Woodside again. Thorn told me he had a bottle of ammonia and to clean up the blood stains. I cleaned up the blood stains. There was some white stuff in a tub downstairs.

"I took a parcel Thorn gave me and put it in the bottom of the carriage. It was an open carriage with two seats. Me and him put the parcel in together. We drove to the Ninety-second street ferry. Then to High Bridge. We went to a place where both sides was woods He said: 'This is the place where we're going to fire it down.' We took it out and fired it over the bank. It was dark. We drove back to Twenty-sixth street and Tenth avenue. I got out and went home. He delivered the carriage. I met Thorn Monday night at Twenty-third street and Ninth avennue. We had no conversation. I went home. I don't know where he went. I did not see him again at all after that."

Mrs. Nack then identified pictures of Guldensuppe, which were offered in evidence. She identified a newspaper picture and photographs of the Woodside cottage.

Confessed to Clear Her Conscience.

"Mrs. Nack, said Surrogate Weller, slowly, "why did you make this statement?"

"I make it because of my God and my clear conscience."

For the first time the woman's voice broke.

"I am glad the day has come," she shrieked, and began to sob violently. "I could not bear this thing any longer."

She cried: "I do not care what they put upon me, or what they do to me. They can hang me, if they like."

It was a dramatic moment. Martin Thorn was the only person unmoved in the courtroom.

"Was any promise made to you in return for this statement?" asked Mr. Weller.

Mrs. Nack Breaks Down.

"No," replied the woman, between her sobs. "No, no, no. I do it all myself. I free my conscience. I tell this for the people and for God. Never mind what comes of it; what hangs over my head; no matter what may happen to me. I can be hanged; they can kill."

The woman's agitation did not last long. In less than a minute she had dried her eyes and steadied her voice Her story of the crime, one of the most tragic and remarkable in the history of tragedies, had been told. It took just an hour. As the lawyer got her to identify some letters written to her, the tense strain that had held the crowded courtroom was broken.

The witness was next shown a number of letters in Thorn's handwriting, which she identified. She had now fully recovered from her temporary breakdown, and answered the questions put to her calmly and in a firm tone of voice.

The identification of the documents having been completed, the prosecution announced that the witness was at the disposal of the defense.

The Cross Examination.

The cross-examination was then commenced by Mr. Howe. He put question after question for the purpose of determining the credibility of Mrs. Nack. The witness appeared alternately to be in despair and defiant. She answered several of Mr. Howe's questions angrily and shortly. She seemed anxious to reserve nothing.

Court took a recess at 12.30 and reconvened at 1.30, with Mrs. Nack on the stand. Under the fierce, menacing cross-examination of Lowyer Howe she wept and shuddered by turns, but she refused to admit that she had herself fired the fatal shot. She laid the blame for the butchery upon Thorn, saying that fear of him caused her to become an acomplice.

She admitted that she lured Guldensuppe to the Woodside cottage, but she said Thorn was concealed in an upper room and that he fired the shot and cut up the body in the bath tub. She admitted going into the garden in response to Thorn's instructions, so that she might not see him slay her lover. She admitted helping Thorn tie up the bundles and dispose of them.

Thorn and she rode over on the ferryboat together, when Thorn cast most of the body into the East River, she said. She hired the surrey with which they took the remaining part of the body to High Bridge and hid it in the woods.

She denied positively that she had been promised immunity in return for making the confession.

Mrs. Nack then retired from the stand and listened wth seeming avidity to the grewsome testimony of the Coroners and bath rubbers who held the autopsy and identified the body. Coroner Tuthill told of the methods by which he proved that the various parts were all of the same person.

In spite of Mrs. Nack's confession the prosecution went on to make Thorn's doom more sure by proceeding to prove the whole case as though she had not testified.

Late in the afternoon there was a feeling among many that Thorn might go on the stand himself and declare that the shooting was done by Mrs. Nack.

At 3.40 Mrs. Nack asked "to go home." She was taken to her cell.

Court adjourned at 4.30 o'clock until 9.30 this morning.

Thorn Wants Revenge.

Whether or not Mrs. Nack has gained immunity from punishment by this sacrifice of her accomplice those who are in a position to know decline to tell, but certainly if Thorn's lawyers can accomplish it she will go with him to the death chair. Thorn is to go on the witness stand—to-day probably—and he is to tell his story. This much his lawyers have said openly with vindictiveness. As she shielded herself in her statement, throwing all the blame upon him and making him the leader in the butchery, so will he shield himself and tell how through her evil influence he was led to be her accomplice, maintaining to the end that she is guilty of the actual killing. Then, if this does not save him, it may at least aid in her conviction. He would no doubt go to his death with less reluctance if he could feel himself revenged upon his betrayer.

It was reported this morning that Thorn is to turn against Mrs. Nack, and will testify that she did the killing and he merely helped to dispose of the body.

Election of a Bishop.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 11.—The special convention to select a Bishop for the diocese of Central Pennsylvania of the Protestant Episcopal Church concluded its labors last evening by choosing the Right Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, D. D., Missionary Bishop of Wyoming and Idaho, to be Bishop Rulison's successor. The contest for the vacant episcopate was spirited, fifteen names having been presented and considered. The contest narrowed down to one between Bishop Talbot and the Rev. A. M. Smith. Bishop Talbot was chosen on the fourth ballot, receiving 44 clerical and 79 lay votes, to 35 clerical and 51 lay votes for Mr. Smith.

Capitol to Be Built at Once.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 11.—The Supreme Court at Pittsburg having affirmed the decisions of the Dauphin and Lancaster County Courts in favor of the Capitol Building Commission, there will be no further delay in the matter. A member of the commission said last evening that Architect Cobb would be in Harrisburg early next week with the specifications for the building, at which time the commission will meet to consider them. Bids for the construction of the building will be invited at an early date and the work pushed.

Another Fatal Football Injury.

Pittsburg, Nov. 11.—Football is responsible for another death in this neighborhood, the victim this time being W. J. Keating, aged 21 years, of North Homestead. During a game last Saturday he was injured in a rush and had to be carried from the field. He soon recovered and went home. On Sunday he began to feel pains in his head, and went to bed. He continued to grow worse and died yesterday. The attending physicians are of the opinion that death was due to brain concussion.

$250,000 Fire in Middlesboro, Ky.

Middlesboro, Ky., Nov. 11.—At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon fire was discovered in the great foundry and machine works here. In less than an hour the building was in ruins. The loss is estimated at $250,000.

150,000 HAVE PERISHED.

The Awful Famine Is Depopulating Fair Cuba.

Havana, Nov. 11.—From Sagua, Santa Clara Province, a Spanish correspondent writes to the Diario de la Marina:

"The spectable of misery and starvation among the reconcentrados is beyond description. They are herded in the large Betharte sugar warehouse, where they are dying by scores. A family numbering twenty-five persons has been reduced to two by death. There is only one coffin in which to place the bodies and send them to the cemetery. It goes and comes on its ghastly work. Smallpox is increasing, as well as famine, and the most horrible facts about the situation are not allowed to be reported."

Another Spanish correspondent, writing to the same Spanish newspaper from Santo Domingo, Santa Clara, says:

"In a town like this of only 4,500 inhabitants it is horrible to think that no less than fifty persons are dying every day. The cause of so many deaths is fevers and hunger, principally hunger. No pen is able to describe what is occurring here. Most of the dead remain unburied, and their dead bodies are thrown out in the open country, because there is no place for them in the cemetery. A miserable hut has been reared a half mile from the town, and it is called a hospital.

"The change from Weyler to Blanco has as yet brought no relief, and it is probable will bring none, as Gen. Blanco, however praiseworthy his intentions, has no means of remedying the desperate condition of things that Weyler left on the island.

"From the date of my first news of the famine, which was sent in September, until the present time 150,000 persons have died of hunger in Cuba. There is not the least exaggeration in this report."

Prominent Men Killed.

Chester, Pa., Nov. 11.—Charles Roberts, president of the South Chester Manufacturing Company, was killed instantly and Charles A. Weed, president of the Tidewater Steel Works, fatally injured by being struck by an express train on the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad last night.

Mr. Weed died shortly afterward. Mr. Roberts was 60 years old and Mr. Weed was 65 years old.

The Yale-Harvard Game.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 11.—Every one of the 24,000 tickets for the Harvard-Yale football game of next Saturday has been sold. It is certain that fully 50,000 people who banked on witnessing the game will be disappointed. The management could have provided about 2,000 more seats by building an addition to the west stand, but 24,000 people is a good-sized crowd, and Manager Bingham was satisfied with this number.

A CHARMING WOMAN.

The writer had the pleasure yesterday of meeting Mrs. Mary E. Lease, whose public utterances and participation in political affairs have given her a National name. To one whose acquaintance with Mrs. Lease consists of the view which the newspapers usually take of her, it is natural to form the opinion that her ways must be very mannish and her talk egotistical and garrulous—sort of a caricature on what we think a woman ought to be. On the contrary, Mrs. Lease is the personification of everything that is lady-like and charming. It seems that one cannot meet her without feeling an admiration for her. Perhaps Mrs. Lease was never placed in a more trying position, one that would really and naturally tax the temper, than yesterday, but in all the time that she was unwittingly the principal character in a veritable comedy there was no scowl or word that indicated anything but a happy disposition. Mrs. Lease told the writer that she was thinking of locating in the east. We trust that she will visit Plainfield and see what a pretty, desirable place it is for residential purposes. Plainfield could well feel honored if Mrs. Lease should take up her home here.

"Christian Science," so far as devotees seek to apply it to the cure of disease, will soon be the subject of judicial consideration. A female practitioner has been arrested in Kansas City for failing to notify the health authorities of a case of diphtheria which she attended. The validity of her arrest and of any punishment that may be inflicted for violation of health regulations or for the practice of what is known as "divine healing" will be contested by appeal to the courts of last resort. The Christian Scientists of Kansas City are said to number from 1,500 to 2,000 persons, who will pool their money and influence in defence of a cherished belief.

May be a Costly Joke.

Yesterday Andrew Lutkins, of Somerset street, went hunting in the vicinity of Samptown. While the party went into the woods to look for game. Mr. Lutkins tied his horse by the roadside. When he returned his rig was missing. He was unable to find his horse and wagon and was obliged to walk home. On reaching home he secured another rig and started out for the missing one. After spending most of last night in searching the country he found his missing property at Coddington's ice house on Union avenue. Mr. Lutkins is now of the opinion that some one played a practical joke on him, but if he finds the guilty party he will see that they are property dealt with.

One Young Woman Converted.

A large congregatian was present in Grace M. E. church last night to hear Rev. J. O. McKelvie who preached a sermon admirably suited to the occasion. The interest manifested was as great as ever, one young woman being converted, while several young men went away under the deepest conviction. Tonight the meeting will be in the nature of a "prayer" service. Requests for prayers for unconverted friends and relatives will be presented and read.

School Bonds Short.

The bonds for the erection of the new schoolhouse at Washingtonville were sold yesterday to the Dime Savings Institution of this city at par. There was $2,500 worth of bonds at 4½ per cent in five series. Mundy Brothers have the contract for the erection of the building and have been at work for the last two weeks.

Taking of Testimony.

William Newcorn appeared before Special Master Charles K. Cannon in Hoboken Tuesday afternoon, at the taking of testimony in the case of O'Connor against O'Connor, in which case Mr. Newcorn represented the defendant.

Inspected Sanitary Plant.

A delegation of New York business men came to Plainfield yesterday afternoon and inspected the plant of the Plainfield Sanitary Company. They were very much pleased with Plainfield and with what they saw.

Mayor Fisk is in Trenton today on business.

JOTTINGS OF THE DAY.

ENTERPRISINGLY GATHERED AND CONCISELY TOLD BY REPORTERS.

Newsy Notes of More or Less Importance Bunched Together for the Ready Reference of Press Readers

—The regular meeting of the A. O. H. in this city will be held tonight.

—There will probably be a bowling match next Tuesday evening on the Ulrich alleys.

—Work was started yesterday laying the foundations for the new Stillman building on West Front street.

—Suit has been brought by George Lunger against Andrew Bushnell, on contract, in Justice Mosher's court.

—This evening a sociable will be held at the home of Miss Mabel Van-Middlesworth, of West Front street.

—The doors at the Crescent Rink where the Spielkartenfest is being held, open at 7 o'clock in the evening.

—Stephenson, the North avenue caterer, furnished the supper at the Marsh wedding at Scotch Plains last evening.

—Supper will be served at the Spielkartenfest every evening, beginning at 5 o'clock. An excellent meal is served. 11 10 4

—There will be a meeting soon of the Sixteen Social Sisters, when a programme of music and recitations will be presented.

—A social will be given in Hope chapel next Monday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the chapel.

—A crosswalk has been laid at the corner of Grant avenue and West Front street, and the improvement will be appreciated.

—Owing to the fact that revival meetings are being held at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church there will be no sociable at that place tonight.

—The reliable Welsbach light has been reduced to $1.50, with shade. Gavett is pushing them along all the time and they are great gas savers.

—There are several ugly hollows in the roadway on Park avenue near Front street that need attention. They make bicycle riding dangerous.

—Tomorrow evening the Christian Endeavor service at the First Baptist church will be one of special interest, and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

—The Christian and Missionary Alliance will meet this evening at the residence of Mrs. Winters, 215 East Fifth street, for prayer, praise and testimony.

—J. W. Gifford, representing the National Building, Loan and Provident Association, of Newark, is in Plainfield endeavoring to organize a branch association.

—The appealed case of Neal against Sherman came up before Judge McCormick at Elizabeth this week, and was laid over until the next term at the request of counsel.

—Farmers and others desiring trespass signs to prevent hunting and trespassing upon their grounds, can procure them printed on muslin at The Daily Press office. tf

—Ben. Vandervort, of the bor ugh, was arrested yesterday for carting merchandise without a license. In default of paying a $10 fine he was committed to jail for thirty days.

—Judge Bartine, of Somerville, is presiding over the Union County Court of General Quarter Sessions in the place of Judge McCormick, who is confined to his home in Elizabeth with illness.

—Thos. Muir, one of The Press carriers, has accepted a position as assistant in the office of Street Commissioner Gavett. He will still continue, however, to carry his route in the afternoon.

—Street Commissioner Gavett has a considerable amount of work to do on the streets before winter sets in for good, and West Front street will probably be well taken care of beyond Grant avenue.

—Charles J. McNabb, of McNabb & Clark, lawyers, was the guest of the Polish consul in New York yesterday on business. He went to secure information regarding an estate left to one of his clients.

—During the past few months Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, has received a number of calls to other churches, but the probabilities are that Mr O'Donnell will remain where he is.

—The insurance on the property destroyed by fire and owned by Joel Compton, at Oak Tree, was settled two days after the fire by that reliable and tried insurance merchant, W. A. Woodruff. This statement is made in justice to Mr. Woodruff who was reported incorrectly in another paper regarding the fire and the settlement of the claim.

consisting of suits, overcoats and trousers, now being sold at 33c on the dollar. A great purchase and a great sale of the entire stock of a very widely known clothing manufacturer. Cash is King, and the money on the table enables us to sell this extraordinary purchase at less than 33c on the dollar. This sale would prove the greatest sensation of the day if maker's name could be published, but owing to the fact that nearly every retailer of prominence has a stock on hand from these manufacturers, the latter to protect the former, stipulated that their name must not appear in advertisements. The name, however, appears on every garment, which is an absolute guarantee of perfect satisfaction.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, of Plainfield, called on borough friends yesterday.

E. E. Brown, who has been in town on business, has returned to his home.

Mrs. V. L. Frazee, of Plainfield, was the guest of friends at New Market yesterday.

Mr. Clark, of Fifth street, Plainfield, was in the borough on business yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Young have returned to their home at Sydney, after a visit with friends in the borough.

Mr. Kuhn was among those who went after game yesterday. He reached Junction and had good luck.

The borough seemed to be full of sportsmen yesterday, but none of them appeared to have any too much game.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Farlee left this afternoon for Somerville, after spending several months with their son, G. S. Farlee.

Mrs. W. S. Bullock, of Plainfield, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Slape, were guests of borough friends yesterday.

Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer, Mrs. Harry Swackhamer and Mrs. Wilson Fredericks spent yesterday with friends at Springtown.

"The Festival of Holidays" will be held this and tomorrow evenings at the Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

The evening of December 9th the Ladies' Orchestra of Dunellen, New Market and Plainfield, will give an entertainment in Friendship Hall, New Market.

The painters will finish painting the Presbyterian church this week. During the heavy wind storm Tuesday night the topmost part of the steeple was slightly twisted, and it was with difficulty that it was straightened.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance at the M. E. church this evening when the Klondike Gospel Mission Band will be present and relate some of their wonderful experiences. No admission fee will be asked.

J. Hervey Doane, of Plainfield, sought the woods of the borough yesterday for game. When seen returning home he said that he had made arrangements with a friend to send the game to his home, as it was too heavy to carry.

There is every reason now to suppose that the Brunswick Traction Company will be given a franchise to run a trolley through the borough. It is stated on authority that the company is willing to do what the Council desire they should do, that is, macadamize the street from curb to curb, instead of fourteen inches each side of the rails. The public opinion seems to be in favor of the trolley, and the members cannot help but feel that they are bound to listen in a measure to their constituents. The hearing will be held next Tuesday evening, when the company will present a petition. Should a franchise be granted it is quite likely that the tracks of this company will connect with those of the Plainfield Street Railway Company at Jefferson avenue.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Knights of Pythias hold a meeting tonight.

Miss Alida Mooney is confined to her home by illness.

Miss Sadie Walpole visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

Miss Mildred Gaskill, of New Market, is the guest of Miss Emma Clark.

Mrs. Joseph Clark, Clinton Clark and John Hunter are spending the week in Hazlet.

Mr. N. N. Osburn, well-known at Woodstock, Mich., was troubled with a lame back. He was persuaded to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It gave him relief in one night. This remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

WESTFIELD

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity

Fred Lee, of Elizabeth, is visiting friends in this place.

Charles McDougall took a business trip to Philadelphia this week.

Louis Davenport has given up his position in the Westfield Leader office.

Herman Stelle, of Utica, N. Y., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Booth.

Edward Taylor, of South avenue, has returned from a visit with friends in Flemington.

Miss Olive Russell, of Sound Beach, Conn., is the guest of Miss Adele Bogert, of Central avenue.

The Westfield Club football team will play the Rahway Journal league team in Rahway Saturday afternoon.

The Westfield High School football team will play the Jersey City Aronial team on the North Broad street grounds Saturday afternoon.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Westfield Congregational church will give a New England supper in the church parlors tomorrow at 5 o'clock.

The Westfield Universal football team will play the team of the "All Around" Athletic Association on the North Broad street grounds Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A lecture entitled "From the Bowery to the Klondike," was given in W. C. T. U. Hall, last night, by a number of missionaries who are on their way to establish a mission station in Alaska.

Mrs. H. H. Butler, of Downer street, was crossing the railroad at the Broad street crossing last night when a strong gust of wind carried her off her feet. She fell upon the rails, sustaining a severe nervous shock and cutting her face badly in several places.

It is reported that a number of leading citizens of Westfield are seriously considering the organization of a company to give the town its own water supply. The subject was thoroughly considered a few years ago, when the Union Water Company entered the town.

MR. WHITE CHOSEN PRESIDENT.

At the Head of a Big Syndicate of Dry Goods Merchants.

Edward White, Plainfield's dry goods merchant, has been elected president of the Dry Goods Syndicate, of New York. The syndicate is composed of fifty of the leading retail dry goods merchants throughout the United States, with headquarters in New York city. They have great advantages in buying goods, as they buy in large quantities and divide the purchases up among each concern. In that way they are enabled to get every possible benefit in the way of low prices, and they in turn give the customers the benefit of the saving.

To Give Vocal Lessons.

Misses Sarah and Harriet Manning have arranged to give vocal lessons to pupils in this city. Both of these young artists possess great musical talent and have always sung. They have natural voices, which have been highly cultivated. They have studied under the best American and foreign vocal teachers and have made a success wherever they have appeared. Each can sing about four octaves, which is considered phenomenal. Their advertising announcements appear in the educational column of The Press today.

Divorce for Husband.

A bill of divorce has been filed in the Court of Chancery at Trenton in the case of James McEvoy against Ellen McEvoy, his wife. The complainant is a resident of this city and, according to the bill, his wife is now residing in Stamford, Conn. The case is brought on statutory grounds. The papers were filed by William Newcorn, of this city, as attorney for the complainant.

WEDDED AT THE PLAINS.

MISS GERTRUDE RINEHART BECOMES MRS. HOLLINGSWORTH, JR.

Ceremony Performed at the Home of Mr. and Mrs. John Marsh Yesterday Afternoon—Guests Who Witnessed the Event.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized in Scotch Plains, yesterday afternoon, when Miss Gertrude Rinehart, of that place, became the wife of Loftus Hollingsworth, Jr., of Scranton, Pa. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Marsh, on Front street, at 4 o'clock.

The house was prettily decorated with pink chrysanthemums and palms. The bride entered the parlor, where the marriage was solemnized, on the arm of her cousin, Charles R. Rinehart, of Easton, Pa. She was attired in white satin, en train, with pearl trimmings and a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. In her hand she carried a bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor, Miss Lida Irene Hueston, of New York, wore a gown of pink silk and chiffon and carried a boquet of pink roses. Samuel Hollingsworth, a brother of the groom, was best man, and Frank Hollingsworth and Elmer Bogert acted as ushers.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. S. Braker, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, assisted by Rev. J. H. Parks, D. D., also of Scotch Plains.

After the ceremony a short reception was held and refreshments were served by Caterer Stephenson, of Plainfield. At 6 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Hollingsworth left upon their wedding journey, which will be to Boston, Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Braker, Dr. and Mrs. Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Hollingsworth, the Misses Agnes, Lulu and Nellie Hollingsworth, Samuel, Frank, Albert and Master William Hollingsworth, of Scotch Plains; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Darby, Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Needham, the Misses Alice and Bertha Needham, of Plainfield; Harry Needham, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Marsh and family, of Scotch Plains; the Misses Lida, Sadie, Suse and Margaret Hueston, of Harlem; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Rapp, of Elizabeth; Mr. and Mr. A. R. Rinehart, Charles Rinehart, of Easton, Pa; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Calvin, of Raubsville, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. William Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. John Robbins, of Carpentersville, N. J.; Oliver Tuthill, of Goshen; Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Clark, Mrs. Phebe Post, of Bound Brook; Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, Miss Rogers, of Brooklyn; the Misses Florence Nicholl, Josie Banks, Millie Havell, Addie Johnson, Eta Cook, Florence Bettman, Ivy Reinette, of Scotch Plains; Mr. and Mrs. Hueston, of Harlem; Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie, of Scotch Plains; Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Collard, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. Bogert, Elmer Bogert, of Passaic; Mr. and Mrs. E. Barrett, of Jersey City; Mr. and Mrs. Doremey, of Port Colden; Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Collard, of Passaic, and O. Tuthill, of Goshen.

CARLOTTA OF MEXICO

THE SAD BUT INTERESTING STORY OF THE MAXMILLIANS REVIVED.

After Thirty Years' Life as a Maniac, the Ex-Empress Is Regaining Her Mind—Plans for a Visit to the Scenes of Her Youthful Splendor.

One of the most interesting, pathetic and tragic personages in modern history is the mad ex-Empress Carlotta of Mexico. Royal blood flows in her veins, yet is the poorest peasant more powerful and free; imperial beauty once set its splendor upon her face and form, but time and tragedy have frosted her shining dark tresses, dimmed the brilliancy of her eyes and stolen the majesty and beauty from her stately figure.

Forty years ago this lovely and hapless woman was married to the brilliant and handsome young Archduke Maximillian, brother of the present

CARLOTTA OF MEXICO.

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. The beautiful young bride was the favorite child and only daughter of Leopold I, King of the Belgians, and she brought her husband a handsome dot and all that was lovely and winning in woman. On the sunlit shores of the blue Adriatic Maximillian built a superb palace for himself and bride, and called it Miramar. It is to-day one of the loveliest of royal residences in Europe, and is the favorite home of the Austrian Empress Elizabeth. In 1864 Louis Napoleon, after having subjugated Mexico, decided he would establish a great Latin empire across the sea, in the New World, and while pretending that Mexico should choose its own government he arranged that the country should select a head pleasing to him. Thus handicapped, the Mexicans decided on a limited hereditary monarchy, with a Catholic prince. The imperial crown was offered to Maximillian, who, with a heart more full of love for his beautiful young wife than of ambitious dreams for himself, seemed not specially attracted by the far-away splendor. But Carlotta, with a woman's love for power and royal grandeur, urged her young husband to become the Emperor of the Mexicans, and her pleadings won the day.

On April 14, 1864, the imperial couple embarked from Trieste with a convoy of twelve steamers and an imposing retinue of Austrian, French and Mexican officers of high rank.

They landed at Vera Cruz, amid plaudits, welcomes and proclamations, and they entered Mexico's capital in the midst of an imposing and imperial pageant. Ancient Chapultepec was selected for the imperial residence, and a brilliant court was established, wherein the young couple shone as splendid figures, in the power and light of Old World royalism.

But an unruly and haughty army of opposing elements soon taught the young Emperor the difficulty of his position. Dark and imperious hidalgoes were determined that no foreign king should rule over Mexico, and fanatical priests, vengeful Indians, brigands and adventurers joined the hidalgoes. The "Black Degree," which Maximillian signed against his wishes, hastened his overthrow. This document decreed that all revolters under Juarez should be captured and shot, and the slaughter was something fearful. The Civil War of America ended about this time, and the Government at Washington, carrying out the Monroe Doctrine, ordered Louis Napoleon to let Mexico alone. He did so, and Maximillian and Carlotta were left to their fate.

Francis Joseph offered to restore the Austrian succession to Maximillian, but his pride was aroused and he resolved to stay and conquer or lose it all. Carlotta began to tremble at the clouds that speedily lowered about her husband. In July, 1866, she went to Europe to secure aid for the tottering New-World empire. Her father, Leopold I of Belgium, had died the year before, leaving his many millions equally divided between his son and his daughter, the Empress of Mexico. Carlotta looked upon this inheritance as a providential relief for her husband and hastened to Belgium to secure control of the fortune. When she reached Brest she learned that her brother positively refused to allow her to put her inheritance to the cause so near her heart, and the poor, frenzied young Empress, seeing her dearest hopes fleeing from her, gave way to a fearful burst of anger and resentment that shook the walls of her reason. She cursed and denounced her brother, and so completely was she shattered and unnerved that she fainted while talking with Louis Napoleon in the Tuileries, imploring him to help her husband. Carlotta hastened to Rome to see the Pope. Here, while conversing with His Holiness, the weight of her misfortune suddenly seemed suddenly to crush her, and she broke out in wild, mad ravings against her brother, leaving the Vatican a hopeless maniac. Mind and memory were mercifully taken at the same time, and Carlotta was removed to beautiful Miramar, a wreck and a living tragedy.

Meantime the young Emperor was betrayed into the hands of his enemies and was made to surrender to the two generals, Escobedo and Palacia, on May 19, 1867. A month later, on June 19, with his two brave and loyal generals, Mejia and Miramoir, Maximillian was shot, his last words being for Mexico's happiness.

And now the poor, widowed, childless Empress after years of madness, is said to be regaining her mind and to long to visit Mexico, the scene of her brief triumph and deathless suffering. Prince Revenholler has been in Mexico to obtain permission for Carlotta to re-visit the country, and it is understood that the request has been granted. Every honor and attention is to be paid her by the Mexican Government, and her physicians say they think that she will be greatly benefited by the journey.

She is yet bitter and unforgiving toward the brother whose sympathy and aid were withheld from her in her supreme hour of need, but the woman seems gliding back toward the shadow of the brief splendor of her youth, and perhaps the pilgrimage to the shrine where her husband fell may restore the proud mind to the imperious brilliancy of its youth.—New York Tribune.

PARIS' LATEST SENSATION.

An American Girl Who Became a Princess and Then a Gypsy.

It is an American woman who just now is engaging the eyes of the French capital. She was bargained to a foreign prince by an ambitious mamma, but love was cold, and she eloped with a gypsy musician who played at her palace.

In Paris she is described as a feast of beauty of white, soft, alluring flesh. She is tempting in figure, and her lips are ripe like the heart of a pomegranate. She is all curves and softness, and her flesh is white and firm like a baby's. She has exceeding grace and a most charming smile that shows little, even teeth. Her great eyes follow you and then go back to her lover's face, for she sits and watches him by the hour.

EX-PRINCESS CHIMAY.

When she drives in her carriage he sits beside her in his smart clothes. She keeps her hand on his knee or on his wrist, and he likes the sensation that is caused as the carriage sweeps along. Her toilettes are beautiful. She has retained her American chic and taste, and she even exercises it on her Gypsy for he rivals the smartest of Parisian beaux in the shining perfection of his clothes.

When the Princess rides her wheel the cafe chantants are deserted. She is a whole performance and the band to boot, for she gets herself up in the most astounding costumes and parades before the excited Parisians. She has had her photographs taken in one of her costumes, which is of black velvet, made with bloomers and a blouse cut away to show her white throat. The bloomers, reaching just to the knee, show her soft, pretty legs in transparent, black silk stockings, and a little three-cornered cap is perched on one side of her head.

THE BIG GUN AN ELEPHANT.

Difficult to Shoot It Without Hitting Some Other Country.

Some years ago the rulers of the little republic of Andorra decided that the country should possess a cannon. Krupp, therefore, was ordered to manufacture one of the most modern type.

The great gun arrived at its destination in due time, and was placed on the highest point in the "country," so that the citizens could see that the valley was well protected. A day was appointed to try the cannon, which was able to send a ball eighteen kilometers. To direct the shot, however, toward the surrounding mountains would be the same as firing at France or Italy, as the ball would necessarily fall on the territory of one of these countries. A war might be the result.

It was then decided to shoot the ball in the air, but some one suggested that this would endanger the lives of too many people in its descent, and possibly bore a great hole in the republic of Andorra. Good council prevailed, and the two artillerymen were commanded to unload the gun. The shot has not yet been fired according to the latest accounts, and the good republicans are uncertain what to do with their expensive gun.—Ohio State Journal.

Walter Kittredge, author of "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," is living at Reed's Ferry, N. H. He was a popular singer long before the war, and wrote many of his songs. None ever acquired a popularity equal to "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," which Mr. Kittredge wrote and composed on the night after he was drafted into the army.

Ready for Business

evidently, and the business shou d be done by all means. Buildings require paint. Of course a house may be left unpainted and le't to become weatherbeaten and a wreck. That doesn't pay, though; it's much cheaper to paint, and our paints in all colors are the best in the market for durability under the most trying conditions. They are well adapted to our exposure and we sell everything in the line of paints and painters' supplies at short prices.

Refined Torture.

It's on the Decrease in Plainfield—Now a Citizen Explains Why.

Year in and year out many of our citizens have struggled along bearing unnecessary burdens of the back, seeking relief from sources where it could not be found, suffering the refined torture which goes with a bad back. The little conqueror has brought about a wondrous change and from all parts comes the same report. Hundreds of grateful citizens hasten to endorse the good work and speak publicly of their own personal benefit. Read what this Plainfield citizen says:

Mr. F. O. Smith, of 686 West Front street, contractor for painting, etc., says: "For some time I had symptoms of kidney trouble and despite all my endeavors to get rid of it, I never was successful until I obtained a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store. There was a distressing pain across the small of my back which clung to me all the time When I got seated at times if I moved a sharp pain struck me in the back and loins and almost made me exclaim. Any change in the weather if I caught the least cold always aggravated the trouble and caused me to suffer severely. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by one of my employes who had been cured of a long standing case of kidney complaint by their use. I commenced the treatment and derived benefit from it immediately and before I had finished the first box I was cured. It affords me pleasure to recommend such a valuable remedy as Doane's Kidney Pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS

Predicted That the Coming Session Will be a Short One.

FORECAST OF THE WORK

The Hawaiian Treaty Will Be Considered by the Senate—Cuban Affairs. Repeal of the Civil Service and Other Important Questions.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Members of Congress express the opinion that the approaching session will be a short one. The Republicans especially appear desirous of a short session for the reason that they will desire to have all the time possible to devote to their campaigns for re-election. Some of the members go so far as to predict that the session will not last beyond June 1.

There is but little discussion going on as to the probable course Congress will adopt. This is because the leaders have not yet arrived in the city. Until the Speaker and a few of the big Republican leaders, to whom the majority of the members of the House look to conduct the business of Congress, arrive it cannot be told definitely what the policy of the House of Representatives will be.

There is no doubt but the Hawaiian treaty will occupy the attention of the Senate at a very early date, and many of the Senators think it should be one of the first measures to be disposed of in order that the Senate may get to work on other business.

Among other important questions which will attract attention during the coming session will be the Cuban question, repeal of the Civil Service, finance, legislation relative to the Nicaraguan Canal and bankruptcy.

CONFERENCE OF SEAL EXPERTS.

First Session of the Representatives of England and the United States.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The conference of American and British seal experts began at the State Department yesterday afternoon, but the first session was very brief. It was devoted mainly to organization. Charles S. Hamlin, of Massachusetts, and David Starr Jordan, of California, represented the United States, D'Ary Thompson was the British expert, and C. W. Maconn appeared for the Dominion of Canada. The Hon. John W. Foster, former Secretary of State, was present in an advisory capacity to the American experts, and Sir Julian Pauncefote, Sir Wilfred Laurier and Sir Lewis Davies represented Great Britain and Canada.

The advisers will have the right to ask questions, but will not be entitled to participate in the actual work of the experts, which is largely scientific, dealing with the habits of the seal herds, their rate of decrease and the effect of pelagic sealing.

Whether Great Britain will agree to make a treaty similar to that entered into by the Governments of the United States, Japan and Russia for the suspension of pelagic sealing is a question that will be disposed of outside the experts' conference room. R. M. Venning, of Canada, a seal expert, was also present at the meeting.

After the party had assembled they were greeted by Secretary Sherman, and the conference then proceeded to its preliminary business. The session lasted less than an hour.

PRIEST IS MURDERED.

Found Dead in a Pile of Rubbish in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—Rev. Father Henry J. McPake, assistant priest at the Roman Catholic Church of the Annunciation, at Tenth and Dickinson streets, was found murdered in the yard of St. Paul's Academy, at Tenth and Christian streets, about five blocks distant, yesterday.

The priest's body was lying in a heap of rubbish near a brick wall, with the skull crushed and the clothing disarranged and bloody. The wound which had caused death seemed to have been inflicted by some blunt instrument.

The police theory is that the pastor was sandbagged and robbed in the street and the body thrown over the wall.

The school where the body was found is conducted by a Catholic sisterhood, and the pupils are boys and girls. There is no clew.

Father McPake was a young priest, who had many friends and no enemies so far as known.

GOV. TANNER WON'T HAVE IT.

Will Refuse to Allow an Illinois Coal Company to Hire Chinese.

Brainwood, Ill., Nov. 11.—W. D. Ryan, State Secretary of the Illinois Miners' Union, has received a telegram from his representative in Springfield, saying that Gov. Tanner had given his pledge to forbid the General Wilmington Coal Company to bring Chinese miners here to break the strike. The telegram says:

"Gov. Tanner says he will not permit any coal company to import Chinamen to Illinois from Wyoming or any other State for the purpose of taking the place of strikers."

Secretary Ryan read the telegram to a meeting of local strikers, and the wildest excitement followed. The strikers threw their hats in the air and cheered. They are confident of winning the strike.

Incandescent Gas.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Consul Duester, at Crefeld, Germany, reports to the State Department a discovery made there which, it is said, will revolutionize the methods of illumination.

It is an incandescent gas. A single jet of ordinary size can emit a light of much more than 1,000 candle power, and fine print can be read at a distance of 100 feet.

The inventor says the cost of a light of 1,500 candle power is only 4½ cents per hour, while that for an ordinary electric light of 400 candle power is 14 cents per hour.

Chainless Bicycle Patent Sold.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 11.—A Western firm has paid $45,000 for a chainless bicycle patent. The inventor is Robert W. Jamieson, of this city. It is thought the firm which has bought the patent intends to compete with the Eastern chainless wheel.

SPAIN'S PACIFIC TONE

Not a Sentence in the Note That Could Give Offense.

TO CORRECT CUBAN ABUSES

Accepts American Good Offices and Requests that All Possible Be Done to Restrain Filibustering—The President's Cuban Policy.

Washington, Nov. 11.—It is stated on good authority that Premier Sagasta's reply to Minister Woodford's note, the full text of which was read at Tuesday's Cabinet meeting, is eminently satisfactory to this Government.

In it the Spanish Ministry pledges itself to correct the abuses in Cuba which were the subject of so much complaint during the Weyler administration, and gives assurance of its friendly feeling toward the American people. It accepts the good offices of America in its efforts to restore peace in Cuba, and in a perfectly respectful and friendly spirit asks this Government, so far as possible, to restrain the insurgent sympathizers in the United States from giving material aid to the enemies of Spain in Cuba.

The reply intimates that but for the assistance given by filibusters, peace would have been restored long ago. The reply, it is stated, does not contain a sentence that could give offense, or be construed into an expression of an unfriendly purpose or feeling against the Government of the United States. On the contrary, the note is distinctly conciliatory in tone, although insisting upon the right and duty of Spain to put down an armed insurrection within its own territory.

Facts Ready for Congress.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The President and Assistant Secretary Day have been in conference for two days past over Cuban affairs, for the purpose of preparing that part of the President's message relating to the subject. The fact that the work was practically completed Tuesday gave rise to rumors, especially in Wall street, that the President had settled the Cuban question, and that a public announcement would be made of the fact at once. There is no truth whatever in the report. Judge Day said yesterday that there was no intention of making public the President's conclusions before the message was sent to Congress. There has been no change in the President's policy, and the Administration believes that when the facts are made known to Congress there will be less talk of war than at present.

The message from Senor Sagasta confirms what has been said in these dispatches, that the answer to Gen. Woodford's note was most conciliatory. It also shows that both Spain and the United States are working for a peaceful solution of this vexed problem, and that nothing will be done to disturb the situation before Congress meets. Minister De Lome called at the State Department yesterday, and, although he refused to be interviewed, his visit was evidently to present the cablegram which Senor Sagasta sent.

There are, however, some Senators who do not believe that the outlook is perfectly peaceful, and among them is Senator Caffery, of Louisiana. He says:

"I do not see how war can be avoided. With the jingoes in this country and the fools in Spain, it seems to me as if trouble is sure to come."

Lee Sails for Cuba.

New York, Nov. 11.—Gen. Fitz-Hugh Lee, United States Consul-General at Havana, sailed yesterday on the Ward Line steamer Seguranca. The boat got away at 3 o'clock. Gen. Lee arrived at the pier about two minutes before strating time. He found time to tell a reporter, however, that he had received specific instructions.

"I am going to protect the lives and property of Americans in Cuba, to look after the commercial interests of Americans and after the rights of Americans. That's all."

THE STRIKE AGAINST DEARMITT.

Miners' Convention Resolves to Raise a Fund to Carry On Its War.

Pittsburg, Nov. 11.—The New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Company, W. P. De Armitt, president, secured from Judge White last evening a temporary injunction restraining E. M. Bigelow, Director of the Department of Public Works, from readvertising for bids on the city's coal supply. The City Council threw out the bids on Monday and directed the readvertising for bids.

Mr. De Armitt charges that the Council's action is the result of a conspiracy of labor leaders against him. At the Miners' Convention a resolution was passed last night assessing each miner 18 per cent. of his wages to create a fund for carrying on the strike against De Armitt. The resolution pledges the miners to march against all mines at which the diggers refuse to pay the assessment, in order to compel them to cease work until they pay the money.

DIED IN HER 93D YEAR.

SHE RETAINED HER FACULTIES ALMOST TO THE END.

Born at Peapack, But Had Lived in North Plainfield Since 1859—She Leaves a Large Number of Direct Descendants.

In the death of Mrs. Susan Honeyman, of Grove street, which occurred Tuesday afternoon about 5 o'clock, the community loses a woman who was greatly admired for her many excellent qualities. Mrs. Honeyman was in her 93d year. Remarkable though it may seem she retained almost to the very last her mental and physical faculities.

She was born in the vicinity of Peapack, and in 1859 together with her family she moved to North Plainfield, where she has resided ever since. Up to last Sunday afternoon she was able to go about the house unattended, and was able to go up and down stairs at will. Her eyesight and hearing were affected somewhat toward the last, but aside from that she was in ful possession of her faculities. She was a faithful member of Trinity Reformed church, and always attended the services as long as she was able to do so. During her life she exerted a Christian influence which was felt by all with whom she came in contact.

She leaves two sons and five daughters as follows: Mrs. LeRey, of Minnesota; Mrs. Todd, of Atlantic Highlands; Mrs. Charles Dunham, of Bound Brook; Mrs. D. C. Adams, Mrs. Elizabeth Parse, J. Newton Honeyman, of North Plainfield, and John H. Honeyman, of Knoxville, Tenn. There are also a number of great and great-greatgrandchildren.

For sometime past she has lived with her daughter, Mrs. D. C. Adams, of Grove street, and the funeral will be held from that place tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

FIRST TRESPASS CASE.

Edward Perkins Charged With Being Disorderly by the Owner.

The first of the arrests incident with the opening of the hunting season was made last evening, when Edward Perkins, a colored laborer, who likes to track the elusive cotton tail once in a while, was arrested on complaint of Robert McNabb, of Rahway road. McNabb's property is just within the city limits.

Yesterday afternoon, it is alleged, Perkins, Edmund Scott and James Saunders, all colored sportsmen, entered McNabb's property, which is conspicuously posted with notices warning trespassers and hunters to keep off. McNabb heard them as Scott and Saunders fired at a rabbit, killing it. He ordered them off, and they slowly retired. McNabb accusee Perkins of using foul language to him. Perkins was arrested on the charge of being disorderly. The other two were captured this morning by Roundsman Frederickson charged with shooting firearms in the city limits. They were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza who set down their trial for Friday morning.

On Their Way to Klondike.

A band of seven missionaries from the Bowery Mission in New York passed through this city today on their way to the Klondike, where they will engage in Gospel labors. They expect to make their way across the country on foot to San Francisco, where they will take a steamer for Dyea and reach Dawson City by way of the Chilkoot Pass. They will stop at various places along the route and conduct evangelistic services, taking up collections to pay the expenses of their journey. Tonight the party will conduct a meeting in Dunellen, and will go direct from there to Trenton. They expect to reach Dawson City about June 1st.

Report of a State Convention.

The regular meeting of the Parliamentary Club was held in the small hall of the Y. M. C. A. building, this morning. The president, Miss C. R. Yates, rendered a report from the convention of the State Federation of Woman's Clubs, which was held in Camden, October 28th. The report called attention to the fact that one of the latest of the clubs to join the federation was the Town Improvement Association of Plainfield. It was also recommended that the club use its influence in aid of the free kindergarten movement, and the movement to preserve the Palisades. The president appointed the following chairmen of committees: Committee on foreign affairs, Mrs. G. H. Frost; on local affairs, Mrs. M. H. Eaton; and on art and literature, Mrs. Frank Clawson.

Likely to Be the Experi Accountant.

It is quite likely that Stuart A. Patterson, of Central avenue, will be secured to act in the capacity of an expert accountant in accordance with a resolution adopted at the last meeting of the Borough Council.

—Attention is called to the change of advertisement of Ira F. LaRue, the real estate agent, in today's Press.

—Neuman Bros., the Watchung avenue grocers, have received a carload of the famous Curtis Bros. jams and preserves and also a stock of their Blue Label soups, all of which goods will be sold at special prices.

MRS. LEASE SAW SILAS.

casual subjects. The truth had dawned upon her that she was the very big part of a very small affair.

It was suggested that Mrs. Lease and the rest of the party go out and look over the town. They acceded and the fresh air outside seemed to put Mrs. Lease in brighter spirits.

After a tedious wait of an hour and a quarter the Council was finally convened. The Mayor read the reports, made the motions; in fact, did everything that was to be done. It was so farcical that Mrs. Lease and the few others that were present had hard work from breaking out into open laughter. Several times Mrs. Lease was compelled to suppress a broad smile behind her handkerchief.

After the Council meeting Mrs. Lease was asked by the Mayor to say something. Mrs. Lease spoke briefly of the enterprising spirit of the community and said that it reminded her of the progress made in the west. She was glad to see the recognition of women's services in an official way. It was not until sometime after that Mrs. Lease was aware that the Council had no legal existence. "Women," said Mrs. Lease, "have always achieved laurels, but have not always been permitted to wear them. I am glad to see that here in Lincoln they are not only allowed to win them, but to wear them."

The little gathering applauded the sentiments.

Then the Council adjourned, and Mayor Drake invited the crowd to another building where a stock of soda water is kept. He "treated." Mrs. Lease drank strawberry flavor. After passing cigars to the men, Mrs. Lease, her son and the reporters were escorted to the building that serves as a station, the 4:37 train flagged, hands shaken all around and then Mayor Drake was left standing on the platform serenely satisfied that he succeeded in getting Mary Elizabeth Lease to travel from New York to Lincoln, at her own expense, to lend aid to the one of the most monumental free advertising schemes after devised and consummated by man.

To the Press reporter Mrs. Lease said that "this is the funnies episode of my life."

THE SPIELKARTENFEST.

VanBoskerck, Miss Maud VanBoskerck and Miss Annie Murphy.

Next in order is the stationary booth, where everything from pen, ink and paper to Spielkartenfest buttons can be procured. An elaborate and tasteful display of articles are shown in a charming little structure of neat design, the roof to which is covered with various kinds of posters. The committee under whose charge this booth has been placed, consists of Mrs. John Gray Foster, chairman; Mrs. Frederic G. Mead, Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs Frank O. Herring, Mrs. J. Stockton Schoonmaker, Miss Emily B. Tracy. They are assisted by the following: The Misses Gertrude Haviland, Margaret Tracy, Edith Clapp, Anna Miller, May Shreve, Gertrude Walz, Katheryn Wood, Jennie Foster, Daisy Shepard, Edith Hyde, Edith Smalley, Minnie Wood, Elizabeth Stewart, Emma Haviland, Hattie Goddard, Madge Sutphen and Amelia Day.

Light blue is the principal color used in the decorations of the flower and doll booth. Bunting is festooned along the counter and on the roof in bright design. The many fancy articles, some of them the result of hours of patient effort on the part of friends of the Hospital, are shown in tasteful array. The committee, of which Miss Elizabeth R. Cock is the efficient chairman, is composed of Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. Edward White, Mrs. E. E. Runyon, Mrs. L. H. Bigelow, Mrs. Schwed, Mrs. Massett, Miss Massett, Miss Rodman, Miss Maxwell, Mrs. G. A. Chapman, Miss R Coe, Miss VanBoskerck, Miss Wickersham, Miss Bass, Miss Clark, Miss Florence Tweedy and Miss Cooley.

Right in the corner, half facing the entrance of the hall, is the lemonade booth or bower. No pains were spared to make it a work of art and such it is. Four hundred artificial yellow roses have been used in its decorations while evergreens are used with charming effect in the construction of the sides and thatched roof. This booth is particularly a favorite among the dancers who find the cool lemonade much to their taste. This booth is looked after by a committee chairmaned by Mrs. S. S. Guion. The other members of the committee are Mrs. S. P. Simpson, Mrs. N. P. T. Finch, Mrs. Albert J. Berle, Mrs. J. L. Anthony and Mrs. Hugh Knox. Their aides were Miss Burt, Miss Bessie Burt, Miss Ethel Finch, Miss Florence Beale, Miss deMaziere, Miss Mabel Bogardus, Miss Nellie Smith, Miss Braine, Miss Geraldine Anthony and Miss Brown.

The candy booth is the first of the booths proper on the left of the hall. The posts that support the roof apparently are immense striped sticks of red and white candy. The same materials are used in the construction of the sides, front and roof, making a pretty and appropriate combination. At the booth all varieties of home-made and confectioners' combinations of sweets are sold and find ready purchasers. The committee in charge has a double head, Miss Schipper and Mrs. Hugh Hastings. The other members of the committee are Mrs. Chas. E. Brooks, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Pliny Fisk, Mrs. Wm. E. Lowe, Mrs. Carl Pfeifer, Mrs. Alfred T. Slauson, Mrs. John F. Wiechers, Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Miss Jennie Harriott. The aides at this booth are Mrs. E. M. Van Buren, Miss Elizabeth Massett, Miss Elizabeth T. VanBoskerck, Miss Mary E. Wilson, Miss Mary E. Tracy, Miss Helen Graff, Miss Clara D. Finley, Miss May Evans, Miss Margaret C. Holly, Miss Mary H. Holly and Miss Florence Abbott.

But most attractive of all to the children is the children's booth, with its wonderful electric railway. The booth is gaily gotten up with the flags of many nations flying from its turrets. The prevailing colors of the decorations are red and yellow. Part of the booth is devoted to the up-to-date revision of the grab-bag, the railway.

There is a scene of a little cabin, in the front door of which a little colored boy jigs away unwearily all the evening. The car is propelled by electricity and runs out on a track across the front of this miniature stage. A coin is placed in the car, an electric button is pressed, and the car disappears in a tunnel at the side to reappear in a moment with a package for the depositor of the coin. The rest of the booth is devoted to the display of toys, games and everything that interests the young. The committee in charge of this attractive haunt of the young folks consists of Mrs. Leonidas Dennis, chairman; Mrs. George S. Clay, Mrs. Wm. O. Pellitier, Mrs. John B. Drayton, Mrs. C. Arthur Baynon, Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, with Miss May Kirkner, Mrs. Julius Erickson, Miss Covert, Miss Hoyt and Miss Patton as aides.

An old-fashioned carryall has been converted into a wonderful gypsy wagon and stands close to the stage. Here fortunes are told and the happenings of the future predicted. Mrs. Marion Ackerman is in charge, assisted by several of the young women of society as gypsy queens.

With the exception of the flower booth, all the booths are the creations of that well-known Plainfield architect, Evarts Tracy. His ideas were well carried out by H. S. Thatcher, to whom was awarded the contract for erecting them.

The ice cream and soda water department is a very important part of the Spielkartenfest as is the restaurant. They will be described and the workers named in a later issue of The Press.

The audience at the Spielkartenfest last evening indicated a growing interest which will increase up to the end, as was the case with the Kirmess. The Press would urge the wisdom of securing seats in advance.

PHOTOGRAPHIC EXHIBITION.

Camera Club Arranging an Event for the Latter Part of the Month.

The Plainfield Camera Club desire to notify their friends and the general public, and especially all those interested in amateur photography, that they have arranged to hold a photographic art prints exhibition at the club gallery, Babcock building, during the week of November 22d to 27th. The exhibition will be open each evening from 7:45 to 10:00 o'clock, and also Thursday (Thanksgiving Day) and Saturday in the afternoons from 2 to 5:30 o'clock. Admission for adults, 25 cents, and for children, 10 cents.

The club desire to notify their friends and members, who purpose exhibiting their photographic work, that the committee wish to have the exhibits hung and passed upon by the judges and the awards made Saturday, November 20th, and for that purpose it will be necessary for all exhibits to be in hand at the club rooms Thursday evening, 18th inst., or not later than Friday evening, 19th inst.

The Trench is Being Dug.

The trouble between the city and Justice Nash last Monday has been settled satisfactorily. A gang of men were at work that day digging a trench from the city jail to connect with the sewer in the street when they were ordered to stop work by Justice Nash, who claimed to have a lease of the property from the Jersey Central railroad, which owned the land. He refused to let the work proceed until it was ascertained whether the company objected. Permission was obtained from the company and the Justice withdrew his objection. Work was resumed this morning and the connection is now being made.

Satisfaction in "The Best."

It is a very real sense of satisfaction that comes of owning an article that is the very best of its kind; few there are who have not experienced it. Every one has something of exceptional quality that he treasures, and the thought that "it cost considerable, but it was worth it" only heightens the appreciation.

The CHICKERING Piano is bound to be a source of satisfaction to the buyer; the more of a musician he is the better he will be pleased with his investment, for the tone of the CHICKERING is the height of perfection that is without equal. The cost, too, is but slightly greater than that of other Pianos by good makers.

We've CHICKERING Pianos in great variety.

THE DAILY PRESS.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

CITY ELECTION IS NOW GOSSIP FOR THE VOTERS.

INTERESTED CITIZENS WRITE THEIR OPINIONS OF THE SITUATION FOR THE PRESS.

The Colored Republicans Are Divided Among Themselves, and This May Relieve the Leaders of the Disagreeable Act of Turning Down Their Demands.

There was an unusual stir among the local politicians when the article appeared in The Daily Press regarding the wishes of the colored element to be represented on the Republican ticket at the coming city election. It was conceded that there was such a demand, but many of the local G. O. P. men seemed to be of the opinion that the demand would never avail.

There is undoubtedly a strong sentiment among the colored Republicans of the city that their efforts of the last few years in bringing their dusky fellow-citizens into line should be recognized. They consider that they are entitled to at least one representative of their own color in the Council. Several names have been mentioned for the place, but that of Alonzo B. Hill, the North avenue barber, has been most prominently mentioned. He is considered a sound business man and perfectly capable of fulfilling his duties in the Council, should he be elected to that part of the city's machinery.

If the boom does fall flat, as some of the Republican workers are inclined to believe, it will be the result of discord in the ranks of the colored men. It is well understood that there are two factions among the colored voters of the city. They are jealous of each other and have made things lively in the Colored Men's Republican Club in their efforts to down each other. Neither side is willing to allow the other to take the lead in the matter and receive recognition at the hands of the Republican city convention. This jealousy is likely to swamp the boom before it takes firm root unless some compromise can be agreed upon by the leaders of the faction.

The only show that the colored voters have of securing a nomination of one of their own number is to put up a firm and determined front and announce their wishes as one man. With such a solid delegation at hand, the Republican leaders of the city would think long before they refused them any moderate request. The two factions show very little prospect of coming together, however. They are machine men and rather fear their rivals may at the last moment weaken and leave them out of the swim altogether by deserting to the machine.

Some of the G. O. P men declare that it would be impossible for the party to place a colored candidate on the ticket without running their chances at the coming election. They admit there is opposition to the present rule and they will try to prevent anything to further destroy the harmony in the Republican party in Plainfield.

The forecast of the strife likely to take place over the election of members of the Common Council December 7th, published in The Press Wednesday and yesterday, has caused no end of talk. The following letters have been received from prominent citizens who are anxious to take a hand in the discussion:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Your columns are always so "wide open" to friend and foe that I feel inclined to call you down for your sweeping assertion in last night's paper that scores of Republicans believe that the present Council have "administered poorly from a practical businesslike standpoint." I beg leave to differ with you that too much money has been spent "for things that are considered by some as luxuries rather than necessities."

I am strongly of the opinion that the "recent improvements" in our beautiful city is bringing hundreds of people here to settle permanently. All the real estate men will tell you that more houses have been rented in town during the past six months than for years. Ask the building inspector and he will state, I understand, that new buildings are going up for a year past at least one in every two days. The increase in the assessed valuations of the city has been remarkable for the past year. According to your paper recently Passenger Agent Baldwin, of the New Jersey Central Railroad, stated that the station receipts were increasing greater than any other station on their railroad system.

Tax valuations of our real estate is very low, and our assessor shows wisdom in not increasing them otherwise the county and State would profit largely at our expense.

Great credit is due the members of the present Council, I think, and a change of administration now would be a step backward. Plainfield is bound to grow in the near future. No business man in town, if he is wise, will vote to change the present policy, which is doing so much to make attractive this city of ours.

Republican.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The statement you made in last evening's Press that the Republican colored voters at the coming election were going to demand a Councilman-at-Large was the talk of the town. I heard of it on the streets, at the Spielkartenfest and at the Country Club. Our colored friends are posted in political tactics, and well know that if they come to the primary and outvote their white brethren, their candidate will stand. They surely will not risk nominating a man likely to be defeated at the polls. If, on the other hand, they are disappointed in getting one of their race nominated, I do not think they will show their displeasure by rushing en mass to the Democratic party without that party giving them a place on their ticket.

The majority rules is a cardinal principal of the Republican party, no distinction being made to race, color nor religion Fairplay.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Now that the election of Greater New York is over and the problem solved as to who shall rule the big city, let us take up the cry and say who shall rule our beautiful city. Shall it be the present ring rule, or shall we have a new order of things? Why not nominate a Citizens' ticket? Let there be a meeting called of both political parties, who are opposed to the present Council, and let them select ten delegates from each ward to go in convention and nominate a ticket, said ticket to be ratified at a meeting of citizens to be called for the purpose irrespective of party. In that way place a Citizens' ticket before the people that will command the support of the citizens, and elect men to office who would have the best interest of our fair city at heart and who would run the city government for the whole people. They will be assisted by the following vocalists: Mdlle. Antoinette Trebelli, soprano; Miss Charlott Maconda, soprano; Miss Zetti Kennedy, soprano; H. Evan Williams, tenor; also Miss Bessie Silberfield, the wonderful child pianist, aged twelve years. The instrumental soloists are: Eugene Weiner, flute; Hermann Brandt, violin; Louis Heine, violoncello; Henry Lehman, double bass.

The Hebrews of Today.

A lecture on "The Everlasting Nation" will be given in the Congregational church next Sunday evening by Rev. Samuel Frender. Mr. Frender was formerly a Jewish Rabbi and is now a Congregational minister. He will speak of the numbers and religious condition of the Hebrews of today, their reasons for continued refusal to accept the Messiah and of his own experience in change of belief. Some illustrations of Synogogue worship will be given. The Rabbinical costume will be shown, and a psalm chanted in the Hebrew tongue. The lecture will be helpful for all Bible students.

HUNTERS IN TROUBLE.

SOMERSET COUNTY FARMERS ENFORCE THE TRESPASS LAW.

One North Plainfield Gunner Filled a Rabbit and a Neighbor's Dog With Shot—A Law Suit Threatened the Guilty One.

The farmers of Somerset county are aggressive in their efforts to keep the gunners off their farms. Notices to trespassers to keep off have been liberally posted, and these are emphasized by watchers Farmer Vanderbeek, of Burnt Mills, caught John Hammond, a New York hunter, and some local gunners in his woods, where notices had been posted, yesterday. The local sportsmen ran away, leaving Hammond at the mercy of the farmer. Hammond, however, showed fight, and danced about Mr. Vanderbeek, pointing his gun at his head until the farmer, with trembling knees, sought for mercy. No sooner had he got out of shooting range, however, than he jumped on a horse and hurried to North Branch for a constable. A warrant was obtained and the remainder of the day was spent in looking for Hammond. The latter's friends spirited him away to New York. The farmers swear vengeance on the gunners, who, they say, break down their fences and trample their grain fields, besides shooting all their game.

Ernest Hand and Charles Dodd were out shooting Tuesday with Hand's dog. They had been looking for rabbits but the little bunnies were few and far between. They met a German from North Plainfield, whose name is unknown. He, too, was looking for the elusive cottontail. At last Hand's dog spied a rabbit and ran him in front of the three hunters. The dog was close on his victim when the German let fly and emptied both barrels into the rabbit and dog together. Hand threatens to bring a suit for damages unless the unlucky hunter pays for the dog.

Assemblyman W. R. Codington joined the army of hunters that visited the fields in the neighborhood of Mt. Bethel. He met with more success than most of them and captured seven of the cottontails.

John Abbott, John Sharkey, James Campbell and George Gould went to Three Bridges Wednesday and found plenty of game. They shot thirteen.

Police Officer Jim Babbit, was out Wednesday for a few hours after the frisky cotton tails and come home with seven in his game bag.

Henry Angerbauer, of East Third street, went to Short Hills Wednesday on a hunting expedition.

Frank Vanderhoef went hunting yesterday and brought in five rabbits and three squirrels.

H. A. Weber has returned from a hunting trip to Lakewood.

A TIME OF SOCIABILITY.

First Church of Christ Endeavorers Get Better Acquainted.

The inclement weather of last evening did not keep the members or friends of the First Church of Christ Christian Endeavor Society away from the sociable that was held at the home of Miss Mabel VanMiddlesworth, of West Front street, and in consequence the home was filled with guests who passed a very pleasant time in singing and listening to piano and vocal solos. A portion of the evening was devoted to the playing of games, in which all joined heartily. The sociable accomplished the purpose for which it was held, that of permitting the members and friends to get better acquainted. After the serving of refreshments, the guests adjourned to their homes feeling well satisfied with the time they had spent.

CATER TO PLEASE.

Hillier & Company Always Aim to Satisfy Their Patrons

Hillier & Coi, the celebrated laundry and dyeing firm of Newark, has made great progress in their work. Their customers appreciate their efforts to save linen and at the same time do the finest work. This house now guarantees to laundry colored shirts, that cost $1 or over, and not fade them. They charge no more for their work. Another innovation at this house is the cleaning, dyeing and re-trimming of old silk hats or hats of any kind for men. They make a specialty of silk hats and guarantee satisfaction, providing there are no holes or breaks. The new advertisement for this house appears in another part of the paper and is worth the reading. Their store in this city is at 179 North avenue, where orders can be left and promptly attended to.

Had No Light on His Wheel.

H. C. Munger, of Washington avenue, was unfortunate last evening in being caught while riding his wheel without a light. Recorder Thomas imposed a fine of $1 which was paid.

SILAS IS ON TOP AGAIN.

MRS. LEASE WRITES A LETTER TO THE LINCOLN BOOMER.

Says She Wants to Talk Business With Him—Miss Egel, of the Common Council, Didn't Like the Story in Yesterday's Press.

It was 9 o'clock, the reporters were reporting, the editor was editing, when suddenly from out above the tumult of thumping typewriters and scratching pens was heard the tinkling of the telephone bell.

Off came the receiver and forth came the words: "Hello! Well!"

"Hello," came the response over the wire, "who's this?"

"The Daily Press."

"This is Lincoln. Is Mr. So and So there?"

"Right here. Go ahead," replied the voice in the sanctum santorum.

"Well, this is Miss Egel. I've got something I want to tell you—if you've got time to listen." The voice was smacking of irony, a desultory echo of the story in yesterday's Press concerning the visit of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lease, the most distinguished public woman in the country, to Lincoln.

"Certainly I'll listen, what is it?" replied the Plainfield end in assuring tones.

"Mr. Drake has just telephoned me—will you listen till I get through—that Mrs. Lease, or rather her son, it's the same thing, has written—will you take this as I give to you—"

"Why, of course," chimed in the listener, who hadn't been anything but an attentive listener.

"That they want to meet Mr. Drake in private conference with a view to a business transaction, and they say that they admire Mr. Drake for his hustling abilities. Will you put it in just that way? Mr. Drake says put it in that way even if he has to pay for it."

"Certainly I'll put it in that way," humbly spoke the scribe.

Having accomplished her mission for Silas Dashing; Miss Egel proceeded to deliver herself of her own injured feelings over the story in yesterday Press. "We are surprised that you would treat us that way," pathetically said Miss Egel.

"Why, what was the matter with it," referring to the story.

"Well, there were a good many thing the matter with it," exclaimed Miss Egel's voice with brisk intonation.

Miss Egel was—well a woman, and it was disagreeeble to have a telephonic argument with such a graceful member of the fair sex. And besides, the preposterous idea of a humble penpusher disputing the point made by the president of the Common Council of Lincoln!

Assuring Miss Egel that what she said would be truthfully reported, there was a farewell goodby and the newspaper man commenced his work, of which evidence is herewith produced.

LATER.

Ting-a ling, ting-a-ling. The telephone calls again.

"Hello! Well?" Whir-r r r.

"Hello! This is Lincoln," said a familiar voice. "Mr. Drake's here and wants to talk to you. This Mr. So and So?"

"Yes"

"Wait a moment."

Mr. Drake's breezy voice was now sounding over the wire. There was no indignant words about him. They were such as to soothe the ruffled spirit. Mr. Drake is a master hand at the business.

The Mayor of Lincoln said that he had just received a letter from Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of this city, president of the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage Association, in which she expressed regret at not being able to meet Mrs. Lease at Lincoln Wednesday. A previous engagement had prevented her, but at some future time she hoped to see Lincoln and its people.

Then the Mayor said that Miss Egel was coming to Plainfield this afternoon to visit some of the woman suffrage advocates and present a plan by which Lincoln would become the center of agitation for the rights of the fair sex at the ballot-box.

Referring to the letter of Mrs. Lease, the doughty Drake said:

"Yes, I'm going to see her again. In less than seven days Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lease will be in partnership with S. D. Drake. See? Understand? Eh?"

And Mr. Drake rang off.

Teachers to Meet.

The fourth annual meeting of the New Jersey High School Teachers' Association will be held in the Battin High School, Elizabeth, December 4th. There will be sessions, morning and afternoon, and no doubt there will be a large attendance from this city and the borough.

THE 'FEST IS A FEAST FOR MULTITUDES OF EYES.

IT IS NEARING ITS END, BUT THE GLORY OF THE SPECTACLE IS NOT DIMMED.

The Dances Provide an Ever-changing Scene, But the Booths, Filled With Pretty Faces and Persuasive Tongues, Are Not the Least in Results.

The storm of yesterday cleared up last evening, too late, however, to benefit the Spielkartenfest at the Crescent Rink. While the rain undoubtedly kept many away, the house was well filled and the attendance compared favorably with that of Tuesday evening. The sale of reserved seats for last evening had been very large, so that all but the last two rows of those seats were filled. The general admission seats were occupied even before the curtain was drawn on the first scene of the Mirror Dance. The interior of the Rink looked just as beautiful and the dances were just as attractive despite the gloomy weather outdoors. The cloak-room did a thriving business checking the dripping garments of the arrivals who found that much preferable to carrying their wraps with them through the performance.

The Court Cards and the Black Cards did not dance, those dances being omitted last evening. There was a change in the Dance of the Aces, Miss Elsie VanZandt taking the place of Miss Florence Abbott, who was confined to her home with illness. Tuesday night Miss VanZandt had learned the dance in half an hour and was able to substitute that night for Miss Caroline Randolph.

During the programme a number of bouquets were presented to some of the different dancers through the medium of the Joker. Miss Stewart was also led to the front of the stage by the Joker and presented with a handsome bouquet.

The game of "Living Whist" vied with the game Wednesday night for closeness. The trump was the Five of Hearts, Henry W. Brower. A duet was danced by the Joker and the trump card after the other cards had been dealt and before the game began.

Mr. McCutchen had the lead. He held the Jack, Six, Four and Two of Hearts, the Queen, Ten and Five of Diamonds, the Ace, King, Queen, Ten and Nine of Spades, and the Six of Clubs. Mr. Rogers, his opponent, held the Ace, Queen, Ten, Nine and Eight of Hearts, the Ace, Jack, Nine and Seven of Diamonds, the Jack and Seven of Spades, and the King and Eight of Clubs. Mr. Townsend, Mr. McCutchen's partner, held the Seven and Three of Hearts, the King, Four and Two of Diamonds, the Six, Five, Four and Two of Spades, the Queen, Five, Three and Two of Clubs. Mr. Howell, Mr. Rogers' partner held the King and Five of Hearts, the Eight, Six and Three of Diamonds, the Eight and Three of Spades and the Ace, Jack, Ten, Nine, Seven and Four of Clubs.

McCutchen led with Queen of Spades and played that suit very successfully, winning four tricks on it. Rogers' high trumps carried all before them and with the assistance of his own and his partner's high cards in Diamonds and Clubs, gave them the odd trick, the score being seven to six in favor of Rogers and Howell. The total score for the week so far is 27 to 25 in favor of Townsend and McCutchen.

While the dances provide for the entertainment of the mind, the inner man is not forgotten over at the Spielkartenfest. There are two very important departments that provide specially for him and which have so far not been described. They are altogether very popular places, the ice cream and soda water department and the restaurant.

The space on the left hand side of the hall which is not utilized by the booths, running from the gallery wall to the candy booth, has been converted into a beautiful ice cream garden. The walls have been lined with white on which evergreens have been hung. The electric lights with their red shades give the needed color to the general effect. There are a score of small tables arranged in the space while several screens separate the resting place of the cooling refreshments from the room in which they are served. During the rush of the evening the tables are soon surrounded and the crowd of customers has to overflow into the seats in the hall, where the ice cream is served.

The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Henry Lapsley, chairman; Mrs. F. S. Martin, C. C. Cokefair, Mrs. William Stillman, Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, Miss Endicott, Miss Clara Hill, Miss Sarah Drayton, Miss Mary K. Jobs and Miss Belle Butler. The decorating was done under the direction of Mrs. Craig A. Marsh and Mrs. W. M. Stillman. A small army of waitresses divided the work up for the different evenings. They are as follows: The Misses Lena Morgan, Elsie Martin, Mary Anderson Reinhart, Leila Howard, Clara Hellwig, Gussie Long, Florence Curtis, May Murray, Anna Eastman, Stephanie Krom, Margery Fleming, Mabel Pound, Lucy Pound, May Sebring, Josephine Lapsley, Helen Brown, Florence Patterson, Sarah Richards, Marjorie Sterling, Emma Sterling, Elsa Pfeiffer, Harriet Goddard, Virginia Hegeman, Bessie Bowen, Helen Martin, Madeline Ostermoor, Ethel Bowen, Mary Mann, Ainita Fraley, Margaret Goddard, Grace Peck, May Serrell, Beatrice Miner, Elma Thayer, Mildred Thayer, Clara Hill, Helen Brainard, Helen Lovell, Bessie Taylor, Mildred Cone, Louise Curtis, Grace Day, Helen Pfender, Grace Dunn, Laura Lovell, Elsie Jobs, Edith Little and Grace VanSickle. Abbott Brainard and Frances Martin have also assisted.

The space on the right of the main entrance back of the side door is devoted to the restaurant. The appetizing odors that issue from the depths of that part of the Rink tell very plainly that there is plenty to eat there. The rooms are decorated in white and yellow, while evergreens are hung about the walls with artistic taste. The linen is spotless and the table equipments bright. The menu, which has already been published, is an excellent one and very reasonable, while the orders are generous ones.

The care of this department is under the general supervision of Mrs. R. M. Stover, who is assisted by a new committee each evening. The different churches alternate in the care of this department.

Monday night the committees were from Grace and Holy Cross P. E. churches. Mrs. O. T. Waring, Mrs. VanBoskerck and Mrs. T. Logan Murphy were the chairmen. The other ladies were Miss Tweedy, Mrs. Robert, Mrs Erickson, Mrs. Gifford Mayer, Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, Mrs. J. E. Terrill, Mrs. B. F. Western, Mrs. M. F. Elderton, Mrs. Horsley Barker, Mrs. A. T. Gallup, Mrs. William Wright. The waitresses were Miss Margaret Long, Miss Agnes Smith, Mrs. Buckingham, Mrs. W. A. Westphal, Miss Barker, Miss Rachael Emmons, Miss Mary Mumford, Miss Edith Little, Mrs. Charles Stover, the Misses Hagen, Miss Mary Collier, Miss Elsie Smith, Miss Clara Woodward, Miss Graham and Miss Peterson.

The restaurant Tuesday evening was under the charge of St. Stephen's and the Church of the Redeemer. Mrs. S. P. Simpson was chairman of the committee from the former. Her committee was composed of Mrs. Hugh R. Knox, Mrs. A. J. Beale, Mrs. N. P. T. Finch and Mrs. P. Woodward. The waitresses were Mrs. Chas. Howard, and the Misses Brown, Burt, Beal, Simpson, Davison, Hasbrouck, Edson, Beale, Fellows, and deMaziere. Mrs. Emil Woltmann was chairman of the committee from the Church of the Redeemer, with Mrs. S. L. Clapp, Miss Stevens, Miss Davis and Mrs. W. E. Brock as the rest of the committee. The waitresses were Miss Clapp, Miss Emily Thompson, Miss Alice Thompson, Miss Mabel VanDeventer, Miss Halla VanDeventer, Miss Clara Woltman, Miss Helen Phillips, Miss Moore, Miss Audsley and Miss Marion Henderson.

Wednesday night, the committee was as follows: First Baptist church, Mrs. Clinton Randolph; Park Avenue Baptist church, Mrs. J. J. Coard; Seventh-Day Baptist, Mrs. J. N. VanSickle. They were assisted by a number of the young women of those churches as waitresses.

School Entertainment.

Two entertainments are being planned to be held in the North Plainfield High School this winter for the benefit of the library fund of the school. The scholars in the High School will probably give an entertainment just before Christmas, entitled "The Temple of Fame," and the primary and intermediate departments will give the other entertainment about Washington's Birthday.

THORN'S TRIAL STOPS

Illness of a Juror Prevents the Continuation of the Case.

NEW JURY MAY BE DRAWN

Thorn Intends to Tell a Different Version of the Murder, Charging Mrs. Nack with Shooting Guldensuppe and Cutting Up the Body.

New York, Nov. 12.—The trial of Martin Thorn for the Guldensuppe butchery came to a halt yesterday morning. Whether it will be resumed is a mater of doubt. Magnus Larsen, the sixth juror, is lying ill with appendicitis, and his physician does not yet know whether an operation will have to be performed or not. If such is the case, it is more than likely that a mistrial will be declared and a new jury impaneled during the present term.

There would have been another sensation yesterday had it not been for Juror Larsen's illness. Martin Thorn would have been put upon the witness stand and he would have sworn that Mrs. Nack shot Guldensuppe in the Woodside cottage, and that it was she who cut the body into pieces and wrapped it up in packages. Mr. Howe was authority for that statement, and says that Thorn will swear to the following story in the witness stand when the court is reconvened:

"Mrs. Nack, who says that I killed Guldensuppe, conceived, planned, plotted and accomplished the murder of Guldensuppe. It was she who suggested the actual murder, who arranged for the hiring of the house, for the meeting of the man, for the cutting up and bundling of the remains, and eventually for the disposition of the dismembered trunk.

Shot Him Herself.

"Mrs. Nack herself shot Guldensuppe with the revolver shown in court yesterday. She went into the house at Woodside with Guldensuppe, remained but a few minutes, during which time I heard a shot, and then, down stairs, she told me that Guldensuppe was dead, shot in the temple by herself.

"Later in the day she went back to the Woodside cottage, undressed the body and cut it up into four pieces.

"She has reversed the true story, charging me with doing just what she did of this awful business. On the witness stand I will prove conclusively that I am telling the truth, and that man Friend, knowing the true story of the murder and believing that Mrs. Nack would surely be electrocuted, prevailed upon her to swear that I killed Guldensuppe, so that her own life might be saved.

"It was a dastardly piece of work, but by telling the truth about it I believe that I can convince the jury of her desire to take now a second life, mine.

He Helped to Hide the Body.

"When the body was cut up by Mrs. Nack and wrapped up in the oilcloth which she had bought for the purpose at Mrs. Reger's, it was she who suggested the distribution of the pieces in the river and in the woods at High Bridge.

"It was hard for me at first to agree to this, because I was afraid that it was a bad plan, but I did not want to get Mrs. Nack into trouble after her awful crime, so I agreed reluctantly to help her.

"The surrey was hired by Mrs. Nack, as every one knows, and her money paid for it. The rent for the Woodside cottage was paid by her, and she drew all her money from the bank and sewed it in her corset, so she would be able to fly at a minute's notice if the story of the murder got out.

"Her purpose in getting rid of Guldensuppe, she told me at the time, was to get him out of the way because she had ceased to love him, and he, realizing this, sought to hold her by threats of beating her to death. He would not have hesitated to kill her. I know that from the brutal way he beat me that day in the flat.

"He even kicked me down stairs after having knocked me down in the room, and he threatened to kill me if I had anything to do with Mrs. Nack.

"I wish to God now I never had had anything to do with her. I have tried in every way to shield her. I have been silent when I might have talked, and talked when I might have remained silent, all to shield and help her, and she has turned on me and tried to fasten her own guilt upon me. Her dread of the chair at Sing Sing has killed all the love she once had for me, and she is now trying to do away with me, just as she put Guldensuppe away, to save herself."

She Says Thorn Lies.

A jailor went to Mrs. Nack's cell and informed her that court had been adjourned and that Thorn accused her of the murder.

Her reply was that Thorn's statement was a pack of lies.

Immediately after court was opened yesterday morning and the prisoner had been brought in manacled, District Attorney Youngs stated the facts of Larsen's illness. On hearing this statement made by the physician attending the sick man Justice Smith ordered court to be adjourned until this morning at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Nack's dreadful recital Wednesday morning had the result of changing the plans of the prosecution as originally laid out. Instead of proving the corpus delicti and then proving the commission of the crime by purely circumstantial evidence, which would have been the programme had she made no confession, the programme was to corroborate her admissions, in accordance with the usual procedure, and to conclude by placing the barber Gotha on the stand, the man to whom Thorn first told the story of the murder. Then the prosecution would have rested its case.

This is what Thorn's counsel looked for and had prepared for. His programme immediately after briefly addressing the jury and denouncing Mrs Nack as the arch conspirator and the real slayer of Guldensuppe was to place the defendant on the witness stand and there cause him to relate a still more shocking story than that told by the woman, in which he (Thorn) would exculpate himself and lay all the blame upon her.

If Juror Larsen recovers to-day Thorn will tell this story to the jury as he has already told it to his counsel and printed above. If he does not lay it bare then and several days intervene, and the spirit of self-preservation becomes stronger than the spirit of revenge, he may not tell it at all—and then the programme will be recast and the tragic play will start afresh.

Judge Weller says that the District Attorney will finish in an hour and a half, possibly an hour and a quarter, after court meets again.

Suicide Precautions

A panic was caused in the Long Island City jail yesterday morning by a telegram received from Sheriff Doht ordering that Thorn be searched, as word had been received that he had concealed poison and would attempt suicide. Thorn was searched. No poison was found, but the jail officials firmly believe that if Thorn gets a chance he will take his own life. To guard against this a double watch is now stationed inside and one outside his cell, night and day.

There was a rumor this morning that Thorn would offer to plead guilty to murder in the second degree, and that this plea would be accepted to save Queens County the expense of another trial. Howe vigorously denied that Thorn would make such an offer. He would be satisfied with nothing short of an acquittal, he said.

ROBBED OF $19,500.

A New York Bookmaker Fleeced by His Cashier.

New York, Nov. 12.—The Chief of Police of Petersburg, Va., notified Chief of Detectives Capt. George McClusky and the New York office of the Pinkerton's National Detective Agency that he had arrested in Petersburg and held, subject to their orders, Frederick, alias "Pinky," Fishel, a Hebrew, 40 years old, who is charged with having stolen $19,000 from Alexander Ullman, a bookmaker, of this city. The crime with which Fishel is charged is alleged to have been committed in this city between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1 of this year.

Ullman is a bookmaker, and Fishel was his cashier. It was a part of Fishel's work the morning after each day's races, or on Monday morning when the races took place on Saturday, to deposit the larger part of the winnings of his chief of the day before, if winnings there were, in the Garfield National Bank. He had a key to the bookmaker's cash box, and also had charge of Ullman's bank book.

Ullman was one of the bookmakers in attendance upon the races at Morris Park, which opened on Oct. 14 and closed on election day. Fishel was in the cashier's box of Ullman's stand at the races on the Saturday before the election. When the races were over Mr. Ullman took his cash box to the Holland House, where he was stopping, and put it in the hotel safe, to be kept there until Monday morning, when Fishel, who lived at the Bartholdi, was to go to the Holland House, get as much of the money in the cash box as it was his custom to deposit, and take it to the bank.

Ullman did not see Fishel on Sunday. On Monday he learned that Fishel had left suddenly for the South. He then suspected that all was not right, and went immediately to the bank and asked for his balance. When he heard the report of the bookkeeper Ullman nearly had a fit. It was many thousand dollars less less than the bookmaker had supposed, and he asked to have his bank book made up at once. When this had been done Ullman didn't need anyone to tell him that he had been robbed.

When he found out that he had been robbed Ullman reported the case to Capt. McClusky and to the Pinkertons. McClusky caused circulars to be printed giving Fishel's description and his photograph. These were sent to chiefs of police all over the country. While these were being sent out McClusky's men learned that a man answering Fishel's description was a passenger on the Baltimore & Ohio train which left Jersey City at 11.30 a. m. on Sunday, Oct. 31. A Pinkerton detective followed this man to Washington, and from what he learned decided that the man was Fishel. When the circular sent out by Capt. McClusky reached Petersburg the Chief of Police there caused a search of all the hotels to be made. At the Imperial Hotel a man answering the description, who had registered under the name of "F. Baum," was put under surveillance. Becoming convinced F. Baum was the man wanted, the Petersburg detectives arrested him Wednesday night.

When arrested Fishel admitted his identity, and said he was willing to come to New York without compelling the authorities to take out requisition papers. He arrived here this morning. As Capt. McClusky has already procured an indictment against him, he will be immediately committed. When arrested Fishel had only $23. He said that all the rest of the small fortune which he had stolen had been lost playing faro in the gambling houses of Long Island City. He has given the names of the keepers of the houses where he lost Ullman's money, and, so the Pinkertons say, steps will be taken to recover the money which Fishel gambled away.

This is not Fishel's first experience as an embezzler. He was arrested at Gravenhurst, near Hamilton, Ont. Jan. 1, 1886, charged with robbing his employers, August, Bernheim & Bauer, clothiers, then doing business at 516 Broadway, of $75,000. Fishel was the firm's confidential bookkeeper. He was an expert accountant, and attended to all the firm's banking business. In less than a year, by a method very similar to the one he employed in his alleged thefts from Ullman, he had taken $75,000.

How to Cure Billious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to billious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

—The Women's Association of the Congregational church will hold a sociable in the church parlors this evening.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. AN ORDINANCE granting permission to the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, its successors and assigns, to lay and maintain underground conduits, cables, wires and manholes for electrical conductors in the city of Plainfield, New Jersey, to be used for telephone and telegraph purposes.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, its successors and assigns, be and it hereby is authorized and empowered to construct and maintain for the uses and purposes of its business aforesaid, a system of subways or underground conduits, including the necessary manholes and street openings, and lateral connections to property lines beneath the surface of the streets, avenues and other highways in the City of Plainfield, and to place, maintain and operate in said system of subways or underground conduits the wires, cables or other electrical conductors necessary for its said business; also to construct, maintain and operate for such purposes a system of electrical conductors in connection with the necessary poles for distribution from the electrical conductors to be placed in the subways and underground conduits herein before mentioned.

Section 2. And be it further ordained that the following streets, avenues and highways and parts thereof are hereby designated for the constrction of the underground conduits of said Company to be opened only after the adoption of a resolution granting permission in each street:

Front street from the Esatern to the Western limits of the City.

Somerset street from the Nothern limits of the City to Front street.

Park avenue from Front street to Randolph road.

North avenue from Park avenue to Watchung avenue.

Watchung avenue from Front street to Kensington avenue.

East Fifth street and South avenue from Watchung avenue to Leland avenue.

Eighth street from Park avenue to Plainfield avenue.

Sixth street from Watchung avenue to Plainfield avenue.

Central avenue from Front street to Randolph road.

Fourth street from Watchung avenue to Plainfield avenue.

Liberty street from Front street to Eighth street.

Washington avenue from Front street to the Northern limits of the City; and all other streets, avenues and highways of said City as may be necessary and from time to time designated in permits to be issued by the Street Committee for the construction of such conduits; said Company may on the same streets, avenues and parts thereof erect the necessary poles fixtures and supports for distributing its electrical conductors along, across and above the surface of the streets in connection with said subways; said poles shall be placed inside and within eighteen (18) inches of and adjacent to the curb line; said cables shall in all cases be placed under the carriage-way and within five (5) feet of the curb line, unless obstruction make it necessary to go further from the curb line, and then only after written permission has been given by the Committee on streets and sewers, and shall be placed at least eighteen (18) inches below the surface of the street.

Section 3. And be it further ordained that the said manholes shall be located beneath the surface of the streets at such points along the line of the subways or underground conduits as may be necessary or convenient for placing and operating the electrical conductors which the said Company may from time to time place in said subways or underground conduits, and shall be so constructed as not to interfere with the passage of the public over and along the said streets; and the said Company shall restore any street or avenue which may be disturbed in the construction or maintenance of said subways or conduits and manholes to the condition in which it was at the commencement of the work thereon and free from any cost or expense whatever to the City of Plainfield. And the said Company and its servants and employes in the laying of any wires or conduits, in excavating or replacing the earth in any street, alley or public place, and of the pavement thereon, shall be under the supervision of the Street Commissioner, and shall promptly comply with any order of said Commissioner in reference thereto.

The earth removed in making any excavation shall be restored, and the pavement taken up shall be relaid by the said company in as good condition as before the making of such excavation or taking up of such pavement, and thereafter shall be maintained in as good condition as the surrounding pavement, until such street, avenue or highway in each case shall be repaved by the City. No street, avenue, alley or public place shall be incumbered for a longer period than shall be necessary to execute the work for which the excavation is made. The cost of restoring the earth or otherwise, arising from such excavations, and the laying of pavements and repairs thereto, caused by the opening of any such avenue, street, alley or public place, shall be paid by said Company, and said work shall be done under the supervision of the Street Commissioner.

In case the company shall fail to restore, relay or repair any pavement or street surface within 48 hours after receiving notice from the Street Commissioner that such work is required, said Street Commissioner shall have the right to cause such work to be done, and the cost thereof shall be paid by the Company.

Section 4. And be it further ordained that said Company shall indemnify the Common Council of the City of Plainfield against and assume all liability and damages which may at any time arise, come or occur to said City, from any injury to persons or property from the doing of any work herein mentioned, or from the neglect of the Company or its employes to comply with the provisions of any ordinance of the City relative to the use of streets or other public places, especially as to the putting up of lights or barriers at or around excavations; and the acceptance by the Company of this ordinance shall be an agreement by it to pay to the Common Council of Plainfield any sum of money for which the City may become liable from or by reason of such injury and damage.

Section 5. And be it further ordained that the said Company shall file with the Mayor or City Clerk its acceptance of this ordinance within twenty (20) days from the date when such ordinance shall take effect, and shall also file with the City Treasurer a satisfactory bond with sureties approved by the Mayor in the sum of Three Thousand Dollars ($3,000,) that it will faithfully comply with and perform all of the terms and conditions of this ordinance.

Section 6. And be it further ordained that the said The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company shall provide sufficient space in said subways or underground conduits to accommodate the telegraph or telephone wires or conductors operated from time to time by the Police, Fire and other Departments of the City of Plainfield.

Section 7. And be it further ordained that said Company shall pay into the City Treasury all advertising and printing fees incurred by the City under this ordinance, and that this ordinance shall take effect immediately.

Adopted by the Common Council November 1st, 1897.

Approved by the Mayor November 11, 1897.
CHAS. J. FISK, Mayor.
Attest: J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

PACIFIC MOVE BY SPAIN

Revocation of Weyler's Concentration Order Is Announced.

M'KINLEY'S WISH GRANTED

Sagasta Intimated in His Note that Weyler's Inhuman Edict Would Be Revoked, as the President Asked—Blanco Has Taken Action.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The Administration is greatly gratified at the receipt of a telegram from Capt.-Gen. Blanco, through Minister Dupuy de Lome, announcing the revocation of Weyler's inhuman concentration order. President McKinley, in conversation with Minister Woodford, has been especially solicitous for this action, and has practically made it a sine qua non in the negotiations for a settlement of the Cuban question. In the Sagasta note, sent n reply to Minister Woodford's presentation of his letter of instructions, it was intimated that the wishes of the President in this regard would be respected. The official notification that the action so warmly desired by the President has been taken is accepted as an evidence of the sincerity of the professions of friendship in the Sagasta note, which was read at length at the Cabinet meeting on Tuesday.

The prompt revocation of the barbaric concentration order is further regarded by all members of the Administration as a hopeful sign that Spain will gradually, step by step, accept the good offices of the United States to end the war and allow Cuba to secure its freedom.

Protection for Cuban Planters.

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 12.—Capt.-Gen. Blanco has issued a circular announcing that he has decided to furnish all the protection necessary to the resumption of general planting, harvesting and reconstruction throughout the country, especially in the case of the sugar crop. He further decrees that all the island authorities are to lend unconditional support to the proprietors of farms in gathering their crops and tending their cattle.

The civil authorities are instructed to encourage to the utmost those who are hesitating about grinding sugar cane, and to assure them of the necessary military forces to protect them and their property. The regions where agriculture is more extended will be specially provided for by all the authorities of all ranks. The latter are authorized to assist even those who are behind in their taxes, and to do their utmost to increase the commercial facilities of the planters.

All war measures are abrogated in regard to agricultural implements, machinery, etc., and the right of the railroads to charge 20 per cent. on all freight carried is also done away with.

The Government officials are instructed to faithfully comply with these instructions, and they are notified that, if they show themselves deserving, they will be rewarded in accordance with the degree of zeal they have manifested in pushing the work of bringing about "reconstruction."

Another Concession from Spain.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Assurances have been received at the State Department that the Competitor prisoners are to be released from prison in Cuba. Department officials will not tell the source of the information, but say they are satisfied that it is absolutely correct. It probably came from the Spanish Minister. The information has not been confirmed by the representative of the United States in Madrid or Havana. When such confirmation comes it will be made public. The department also has reason to believe that the postponement of the trial of the Competitor crew, which was set for last Monday, was due to the intention to release the men without further formalities.

Much gratification is expressed by officials of the department over the manner in which the Spanish Government has acted towards Cuba since the installation of the Liberal Ministry.

GOV. BLACK'S PROCLAMATION.

He Names the Twenty-fifth as a Day of Thanksgiving and Prayer.

Albany, Nov. 12.—Gov. Black has given out his Thanksgiving proclamation. It reads as follows:

"The year now passing has been filled with occasions for thanksgiving. Commerce has flourished and all forms of industry have yielded reasonable returns. Charity and benevolence have been exercised and encouraged, the rights of citizenship respected, and the supremacy of the law maintained. The manifold evidences of general prosperity give us courage for the present and hope and confidence for the future. For these beneficent conditions we should acknowledge our gratitude to Almighty God.

"Wherefore, I, Frank S. Black, Governor, do hereby designate Thursday, the 25th day of November, instant, as a day of general thanksgiving among the people of the State, and I recommend that on that day they refrain from their ordinary pursuits and assemble at their accustomed places of worship and give devout acknowledgements to God for the blessings of this year. I also commend for that day special thoughtfulness for the poor and unfortunate. No higher form of worship could grace Thanksgiving Day than the exercise of a charity so generous and strong that it will continue unabated throughout the year."

A STUDY IN TAXES.

Here in Plainfield, where the matter of high taxes is discussed so much, and especially just now with city election as an incentive, a study of the report of the State Board of Taxation becomes interesting. Figures compiled by the State Board show that the average tax rate in New Jersey has increased from $1.77 to a fraction less then $1.88. A table of rates by counties shows that last year the rate in Union county was $2.29; this year $2.33. The highest tax rate in any municipality in Union county is $2.86, which is found in Elizabeth. Clark township has the credit of being the lowest, $1.64. The rate in Somerset county this year is $1 47, which is one cent less than last year. North Plainfield has the highest, $2.19, and Franklin township the lowest, $1.05.

AN INGENIOUS FARMER.

It takes the Jersey farmer to devise money-making schemes of a novel character. A Burlington agriculturist is the owner of a hundred acres which is literally a hunters' paradise, and sportsmen look on it with longing eyes. The first day of the hunting season the farmer announced that tickets of admission to that piece of ground would be just $2 each, which would include a good turkey dinner, stabling and feed for horses, and privileges at the cider barrel. Tickets sold like hot cakes, and Mr. Ewan soon began to gather in dollars as fast as he could count. It is a great scheme, he says. It beats raising hogs and tomatoes all hollow, asserts the farmer, and he thinks of turning his whole farm into hunting ground next year.

Senator Reed would surely confer a great favor upon Somerset county if he can have the matter of taxation so adjusted that Somerset will not be taxed to help educate children in other counties. If his investigation, and conclusions are correct, as set forth in his views expressed in another column of this issue, then it is time that some action was taken to enforce a more equable system of taxation. Senator Reed proposes to look into the subject carefully, and if legislation is found necessary, he will endeavor to have a law passed this winter.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

It is related that in the twenty-nine years that Charles A. Dana was at the head of the New York Sun he took nearly $2,000,000 out of the establishment as his share of profits and salary. When it is considered that The Sun was one of the moderately profitable newspapers of the metropolis, and always remunerated its employes more lavishly than any competitor, that sum seems stupendous. Beyond this view of it there is also the convincing moral argument that the man who pays a living wage will prosper abundantly.

Major Carl Lentz, the Republican leader of Essex county, was in Camden on a political reconnoitering expedition Wednesday. He saw some of the Camden leaders and then expressed the belief that Essex county could only be induced to accept the House Speakership on a silver platter, This would seem to indicate that Assemblyman D. O. Watkins has almost a clear field.

An opinion given by the Supreme Court holds that where an exempt fireman claims to be entitled to relief from the Firemen's Relief Association and is denied by the officers in whom by statute the jurisdiction is vested to consider the matter, no remedy exists by mandamus to revise such determination.

There is a word of truth in the following from the New York Press:

One Jersey Nimrod returned to his home in Elizabeth yesterday with a 30-cent snipe. On the previous day he had expended $30 for a gun, $20 for canvas clothes, including hip sack and boots, and $5 for ammunition, red and black. He seems to be out $54.70. Others have had a similar experience.

—The case of Neuman Brothers against Peck, in Justice Newcorn's court, has been settled.

—Councilman William N. Runyon is expected to sing at the Spielkartenfest tomorrow evening.

—15 cents a pair—lot of children's 25 cent heavy rubber stockings, tomorrow, Saturday, at VanEmburgh's.

—The work of macadamizing Sycamore avenue in the city was started yesterday by ploughing up the street.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of Warren chapel is arranging for a missionary sociable to be held in a short time.

—Supper will be served at the Spielkartenfest every evening, beginning at 5 o'clock. An excellent meal is served. 11 10 4

—Trinity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., held a meeting Wednesday night and worked the second degree upon one candidate.

—The Sixteen Social Sisters will meet at the home of Miss Jessie Hockridge, on East Fifth street, next Tuesday evening.

—Letter-carrier Edward Hann was taken ill Tuesday night, and since then Substitute Tingley has been covering his route.

—A meeting of the board of governors of the Park Club was held last Tuesday evening. Nothing but routine business was transacted.

—H. J. Leggett yesterday received an order from New York from one user of his witch hazel soap for nine cases to be shipped at once.

—Woodhull & Martin, the popular dry goods merchants, have an excellent line of fall and winter goods at their large store, and their prices are all right.

—The Thursday Night Euchre Club will hold its first meeting of the season at the residence of Miss Maybelle Force, on Watchung avenue, next Thursday evening.

—Farmers and others desiring trespass signs to prevent hunting and trespassing upon their grounds, can procure them printed on muslin at The Daily Press office. tf

—Queen City Lodge, No. 26, I. O. O. F., expects to have a large attendance at its meeting Monday night, when several propositions for membership will be received.

—John F. Lloyd, of Matteawan, has just succeeded in passing his State law examinations with credit, and will be admitted to the bar. He is a son of J. F. Lloyd, of this city, and is well known here.

—The Water Company has announced that it will cease making taps in its mains after December 1st, and those property owners wishing to connect their houses will do well to notify the company at once.

—During the absence of the superintendent, J. A. Robinson, on a trip to Europe, the Sunday-school of the Congregational church will be under the charge of the assistant superintendent, W. L. Morgan.

—The charter list for the new lodge of Elks in this city is steadily growing. So far some twenty names have been added, including some of the representative men of the city. The selection of proposed members is being made very carefully.

—The foundations for the new Sycamore avenue bridge are about completed. This bridge will be a plank one, and some people think that the Boards of Freeholders in both counties have made a mistake, and should have made it the same as the Watchung avenue bridge.

—A rubber boot and shoe factory in Boston turns out 25,000 pairs a day. Doane & Edsall have been gathering up a few items on the subject and estimate a yearly output of these goods in this country alone to be 50 000,0 0 pairs. Can you realize it? It's an immense number! Other interesting items on the subject can be found in their ad in another column. They claim to sell the best of these goods and at the very lowest prices. Satisfaction guaranteed on all goods they sell.

Bought Under the Auctioneer's Hammer

$12,000 Worth of Clothing for Men and Boys.

consisting of suits, overcoats and trousers, now being sold at 33c on the dollar A great purchase and a great sale of the entire stock of a very widely known clothing manufacturer Cash is King, and the money on the table enables us to sell this extraordinary purchase at less than 33c on the dollar. This sale would prove the greatest sensation of the day if maker's name could be published, but owing to the fact that nearly every retailer of prominence has a stock on hand from these manufacturers, the latter to protect the former, stipulated that their name must not appear in advertisements. The name, however, appears on every garment, which is an absolute guarantee of perfect satisfaction.

Fine Exceptional Values In The Cloak Section.

Quick selling here brings new goods daily, ofttimes some remarkably good values. Of especial interest are the five assortments of cloaks placed on sale today; interesting not only for their perfection of quality and style, but for the exceptionally low prices. Two assortments at $6 75, two at $5.80, one at $10 50. There are other cloaks here as low as $3 98 and as high as you like.

It would take a page to tell of the good things the store offers today. Values of importance, especially to economical people. There is no old stock, no secrets, no trash of any kind to offer. Every article, every inch of goods, is new.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. F. L. Read is confined to her home with a serious illness.

The Misses Marienscheck, of Plainfield, were guests of relatives in the borough yesterday.

Jacob Johnson went hunting yesterday and captured three rabbits. The day before he shot five.

F. L. Reed and family expect to move to Plainfield instead of New York, as previously reported.

A dime social will be held in the M. E. church parsonage on the evening of November 18th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of that church.

It has been decided by the Borough Council that Front street, from Jackson to Jefferson avenues, shall be macadamized. The work will be started at once.

Considering the weather there was a fair attendance last evening at the "Festival of Holidays," being held at the Presbyterian church. The affair will be continued this evening.

Michael Watson, of Plainfield, has made application to the courts for a liquor license to open a place in the borough. Several persons have filled a remonstrance to the granting of the petition.

On the afternoon of November 30th the members of Piscataway township will meet to hear objections to the granting of a franchise to the Brunswick Traction Company to lay tracks through the township and operating a trolley system.

Yesterday former Postmaster Abner S. Coriell, of New Market, celebrated the anniversary of his seventy-seventh birthday, and in honor of the affair a few relatives gathered at his home last evening and joined in congratulating him on his well and prosperous condition. The event was in every way a pleasant one.

It is almost an assured fact that the road between the borough and Bound Brook will be macadamized this year, if possible. F. A. Gise, of the Board of Freeholders, is trying very hard to have the work put through, and during this month the county engineer will go over the road and make the necessary plans and specifications preparatory to advertising for bids.

A complete surprise party was given to Abner S. Coriell at his home Wednesday evening. It was arranged by his sister, Edna Coriell, and Carrie Haffner, and was in honor of the celebration of his birthday. The features of the evening were dancing and playing games. Music was furnished by Miss Ella Boice and Charles Coriell, Jr., on the piano and piccolo. The young celebrant was the recipient of many nice presents as souvenirs of the happy event. Those present were: The Misses Edith Boice, Emma Craig, Louisa Brakeley, Julia Dodwell, Mamie Teel, Nellie Dodwell, Maudie Wilcox, Edna Vail, Edna Baldwin, Bessie Vail, Carrie Haffner, Nettie Haffner, Edna Coriell; Charles Coriell, Charles Vail, Wm. Dealaman, Frank Fletcher, Huddie Wilcox, Fred Wilcox, Percy Abbott, Wm. Giles, Archie Brakeley, Abner Coriell and Harry Apgar. During the evening a fine supper was served to the guests.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Knights of Pythias held a meeting last night.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet in the council rooms tonight.

Miss Emma Adams will entertain her Sunday-school class at the residence of Mrs. Thomas Whitenack this evening.

The Fanwood fire company will give an elaborate house-warming in the new fire house next Thursday evening. There will be dancing at 9 o'clock.

The pound sociable which was to have been held in the Methodist church last evening, was postponed on account of the storm. The new date has not yet been fixed.

WESTFIELD

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity

Miss Ada Ruth will entertain the A. O. V. at her home on Union street tonight.

The new time-table of the Lehigh Valley Railroad will go into effect Sunday.

Rev. N. W. Cadwell has returned from a week's hunting in Gouldsboro, Pa.

Walter Lee, of Orchard street, is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Huyler, of Brooklyn.

Edward Taylor, of South avenue, has returned from a hunting trip near Flemington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kells, of Brooklyn, are the guests of F. P. Kelly, of South avenue.

The Domino Club will meet at the residence of Miss Georgina Lee, at Mountainside, next Friday afternoon.

The Westfield Club football team will play the Rahway Y. M. C. A. at Rahway tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Lincoln High School team will play a team from Jersey City on the North Broad street grounds tomorrow morning.

Miss Clara Welch entertained the Young Ladies' Mission Band of the Methodist church, at her home on Westfield avenue, last evening.

The Westfield Universal football team have postponed their game with the All-Around Athlectic Association of Elizabeth for one week and instead will play the Echo football team of Cranford on the North Broad street grounds tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will give its annual New England supper in the church parlors this evening from 5:30 to 8 o'clock. There will also be a candy table. The proceeds of the supper will go into the church treasury.

Miss Madeline Zeltner was given a surprise party in honor of her fifteenth birthday, at her home on Prospect street, last evening. The guests, to the number of thirty, arrived at 8 o'clock. Games were the chief amusement until 9:30 o'clock, when refreshments were served. The little hostess received a number of beautiful presents.

The pipe which supplies the Lincoln Public School building with water was cut, where it passes through the cellar, by some mischievous scholar yesterday. The deed was not discovered until about an hour after the noon recess, when the janitor, having occasion to go into the cellar, found it flooded with water. An examination showed that the pipe had been cut through.

The commuters of Westfield and Cranford have petitioned the Central Railroad authorities to have the 8 o'clock a. m. train, which runs to Newark, made a New York train. If this petition cannot be granted, the commuters ask to be allowed to board the New York train at Roselle instead of at Elizabeth, as they have heretofore done. It will be more convenient to change at Roselle, as they will be enabled to go at once from one train to the other without a long wait on the station platform.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Substitute Pierson is now filling the place in the carrier department of the postoffice left vacant by the resignation of Letter-carrier John Neighbor.

—James McFadden, the member of the street cleaning force, who was injured by being run into by a wheelman Tuesday, is able to be out again. His injuries consisted in a number of bad bruises.

—The directors of the Plainfield Water Supply Company held their regular quarterly meeting Tuesday. President Frank Bergen was unable to attend, however, and no business of special importance was transacted.

—The largest gun in the world is now being constructed at the Bethlehem Iron Works in Pennsylvania, for the defense of New York harbor. It weighs 126 tons, exceeding the weight of the large Krupp gun by six tons, and is nearly five feet longer.

"The worst cold I ever had in my life was cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes W. H. Norton, of Sutter Creek, Cal. This cold left me with a cough and I was expectorating all the time. The Remedy cured me, and I want all of my friends when troubled with a cough or cold to use it, for it will do them good. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, cor. of Park and North avenues.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Smith gave the second of their "at homes" at their residence on Madison avenue Wednesday evening.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way.

Mrs. Taggart, of Brooklyn, is the guest of North Plainfield friends.

Miss Beatrice Craig, of Jersey City, was the guest of Plainfield relatives yesterday.

Gen. Long, of the borough, has returned from an extended stay in New York State.

Charles G. French, of New York, is spending a few days in this city with relatives.

Edward F. Randolph, of West Front street, is somewhat improved from his serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peggs, of this city, have returned from a visit with John Dennis, of Bloomsbury.

Frank Clarkson, of East Second street, has resigned his position with the Metropolitan Insurance Company.

Miss Miriam Wilcox, of Fairview avenue, is expecting to entertain her cousin from Brooklyn at an early date.

Mrs. M. S. Taylor and family, of Rockview terrace, left today for Colorado Springs, Col., to spend the winter. They will return to Plainfield in June.

Fred Leland, of this city, who is now living at Charlotte, Va., writes home that he is much improved in health. His many friends will be glad to hear the good news.

Leroy Phillips, of Madison avenue, is able to be out again after being confined within doors for some time by an injury to one of his knees, received in football practice.

Everett J. Peck, of Myrtle avenue, returned from Lehigh University yesterday afternoon, accompanied by his college chum, G. G. Underhill. They will remain in Plainfield until Monday to attend the Spielkartenfest.

THEATRICAL.

'O'Brien, the Contractor," is replete with deft touches of humor and pathos combined with a story of absorbing heart interest. The stage settings and scenery are carried complete and make an ensemble that give a series of delightful stage pictures, unique, picturesque, and appealing to the refined tastes of cultured theatregoers. The costumes worn by the ladies of the company possess special interest as they are the handsomest worn in any company on the road, and are reproductions of Worth and Felix, the Parisian men milliners, latest creations. "O'Brien, the Contractor," is a play that is full of bright comedy and is interpreted by a strong company which cannot fail to please the most fastidious play-goer. At Music Hall next Tuesday night.

Realty Changes.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded from North Plainfield during the past week:

John H. Johnson et al to Emily J. DeForest, North Plainfield, $1. John H. Johnson et al to Emily J. DeForest, North Plainfield, $1. Carrie C. Boice et al to Annie E. Williams, North Plainfield, $1. W. H. H. Wyckoff, Sheriff, to Andrew Lutkins, North Plainfield, $554.18. Thomas Rutledge to Andrew Lutkins, North Plainfield, $600.

Mr. N. N. Osburn, well-known at Woodstock, Mich., was troubled with a lame back. He was persuaded to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It gave him relief in one night. This remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

—Mr. Losey, of this city, has secured a place at Boehm's dry goods store.

CORPORATION NOTICE.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS

SECOND NOTICE.

The subscriber, the Collector of Taxes of the City of Plainfield, hereby gives notice, pursuant to Section 25 of the Act of the Legislature entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this state," approved April 7, 1890, and the amendments thereof and supplements thereto, that unless the assessments hereinafter specified, with interest thereon at the rate of one per centum per month, and all costs and fees, shall be paid to the subscriber at his office, No. 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J., within thirty days after the first publication of this (being the second) notice, the subscriber will on Tuesday, the 7th day of December, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, at his said office, No. 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J., between the hours of one and five o'clock in the afternoon, that is to say, at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, proceed to make sale of and sell at public auction the several parcels of land and real estate upon which the said assessment shall remain due and unpaid, being those hereinafter particularly described, for the lowest term of years, but in no case exceeding fifty years, for which any person will take the same and pay the amount of such assessment, with the interest thereon as aforesaid, and all costs and fees, including the expense of advertisement and sale.

The assessments above referred to are the assessments made by the Commissioners of Assessments of the City of Plainfield heretofore appointed under the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessments under Chapter CXLI, P. L. 1895," approved April 25th, 1896, containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses, as the case may be, for the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances (including house connections), under and by virtue of the Act of the Legislature entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and ordinances of said city entitled "An ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25th, 1894; and a further ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage, approved June 21st, 1895, and the ordinance hereinabove first mentioned and other proceedings of the Common Council had under said acts of the Legislature, said assessment and the report of said commissioners covering the whole of said system of sewerage already completed, that is to say: the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances (including house connections) in streets and parts of streets mentioned in said report, and the construction of sewerage disposal beds and appurtenances, which said report and assessment were ratified and confirmed by the Common Council of said City on the twenty-eight day of December, A. D. 1896, and a brief abstract of said assessments showing the name of the owner or owners, when known, a brief description of said lands and real estate, and the amount of unpaid assessment due thereon, is as follows, (the maps referred to in said descriptions being that certain set of maps numbered from 1 to 24, both inclusive, and from 101 to 123, both inclusive, each map being marked "Sewer Construction Assessment Map, dated Dec. 7, 1896," and filed in the office of the Collector of Taxes December 7, 1896, and referred to by said Commissioners of Assessments in their said report and assessment.)

LACE CURTAIN AND BLANKET CLEANING

Is a delicate piece of work—it requires skill and carefulness to get them daintily white without injuring a thread. Few can do this—but we can, because we have made a specialty of it. We have thought about it and experimented until we have found the only perfect method. Let us send for your curtains. They will be returned to you white—not a design or a thread will be out of place. Price 50c. per pair. Called for and delivered free of charge. Orders received by postal card.

Ready for Business

evidently, and the business should be done by all means. Buildings require paint. Of course a house may be left unpainted and let to become weatherbeaten and a wreck. That doesn't pay, though; it's much cheaper to paint, and our paints in all colors are the best in the market for durability under the most trying conditions. They are well adapted to our exposure and we sell everything in the line of paints and painters' supplies at short prices.

Collars and Cuffs

nicely laundered are essential to every gentleman's toilet. We have every facility for doing up collars and cuffs that are used by the manufacturers in Troy, N. Y. Our plant is an exact duplicate of theirs. So is our work. If you want your collars and cuffs to look like new have our wagon call for them. We are the only laundry in New Jersey having a plant of this kind.

We guarantee linen to last longer when washed by us than when done elsewhere. We absolutely guarantee not to fade colored shirts that, when new, cost $1 or over. We don't know of another laundry that offers to do this. We don't charge any more than the others, either.

AN ORDINANCE

to license, regulate and prohibit shows and exhibitions.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That no person shall exhibit in the City of Plainfield any traveling or other show, circus, menagerie or athletic or scientific exhibition, or theatrical or variety performace or play, without first obtaining a license therefor, as herein described.

Section 2. That the license fees to be charged for such licenses respectively, shall be as follows; to wit: for a license for a circus, with or without a menagerie, charging twenty-five cents or more for one admission, the sum of not exceeding One Hundred Dollars for each day; for a license for a circus, with or without a menagerie, charging from ten to twenty-five cents for a single admission, the sum of not exceeding One Hundred Dollars for the first week, and the sum of not exceeding Fifty Dollars for each week thereafter the same shall continue; for a license for a concert or entertainment charging fifty cents or more for a single admission, the sum of not exceeding Twenty-Five Dollars for each concert or entertainment; but this provision shall not apply to a concert or entertainment given for charitable or benevolent purposes; for a license for an an athletic or scientific exhibition the sum of not exceeding One Hundred Dollars for each exhibition; for a license for a theatre, opera house or music hall, the sum of Fifty Dollars a year.

Section 3. The Mayor shall have authority to determine the amount of any license fee within the limits aforesaid and to decide whether a license is required under the terms of the preceding Section, when there is a doubt upon an application, and also authority to grant or withhold a license. Upon the payment of the license fee to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield or Chief of Police and the production of his receipt therefor to the Mayor, there shall be given to the applicant a license which shall state the name of the person licensed and the purpose for which it was granted.

Section 4. That any person or persons who shall make or have any exhibition or show of any kind hereinabove described, without first obtaining a license therefor, as hereinabove provided, shall, on conviction, be subject to a fine not exceeding One Hundred Dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding sixty days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 5. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances which conflict with any of the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same are hereby repealed.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text:—I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.—Romans i: 16. Nov. 14, 1897.

17. "After three days Paul called the chief of the Jews together." The expression "three days" is so suggestive of resurrection that one cannot fail to think of it who has anything of the spirit of Paul, who had as one of his heart utterances "That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection" (Phil. iii, 10). At his conversion he was three days without sight, and then Ananias came to him, sent of God. Probably he gave himself to prayer these three days in Rome that he might be fully in the Lord's hands as His messenger to accomplish His pleasure, and now the principal Jews of the city have come together to hear what he has to say.

18. "There was no cause of death in me." Yet here he is in Rome a prisoner by the will of God. So there was no cause in Christ why He should be hated (John xv, 25) or crucified, yet by the will of God He suffered the just for the unjust. To be willing to endure hardship for the good of others is Christlike, for He loved us and gave Himself for us, leaving His home in glory for over 33 years and suffering all the humiliation consequent upon His being the sinner's substitute, that we who accept Him might not only be saved, but share His glory.

19. "Not that I had aught to accuse my nation of." Although it was through his own people that he was now a prisoner, yet he would not accuse them, but rather see the hand of God in it all and continue to love and pray for his poor, blinded people. See his heart for them in Rom. ix, 3, and x, 1, "I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren." "Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is that they might be saved." And it was his custom always as here in Rome to seek the Jews first.

20. "For the hope of Israel I am bound with this chain." By comparing chapters xxiii, 6; xxiv, 15; xxvi, 6, 7, it is evident that the hope which Paul meant was associated with resurrection, the resurrection of Christ and then of His people. The resurrection spoken of in Dan. xii, 1-3, and in Hos. vi, 2, and elsewhere—very fully in Ezek. xxxvii, where it is said that they shall be one nation in their own land, under one king, never to be divided or scattered any more.

21, 22. "As concerning this sect we know that everywhere it is spoken of against." They had heard nothing evil of Paul, but they had heard the followers of this Jesus Christ spoken against. Simon said to His mother, that He would be for a sign spoken against (Luke ii, 34), and it is written, "All that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution" (II Tim. iii, 12). The carnal mind is enmity against God, and the wisdom of this world knows not God.

23. "He expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus, both out of the law of Moses and out of the prophets from morning till evening." Having appointed him a day, they came to him to his lodging, and thus he talked to them. The beginning, middle and end of his talk was Jesus and His resurrection, looking to the kingdom yet to be established with Israel as a righteous nation at the center, Jesus, the Son of David, as their King, and all nations blessed through them, their King acknowledged by all as King of kings, and Lord of lords.

24. "And some believed the things which were spoken and some believed not." So it has been and will always be in this age. Paul never expected that all would believe him, but he labored that he might by all means save some (Rom. xi, 14; I Cor. ix, 22). Our Lord taught us that some seed will fall by the wayside, some on stony soil, some among thorns and some on good ground; that the tares will grow with the wheat until the harvest, and that the kingdom will come at harvest time.

25-27. "And when they agreed not among themselves they departed after that Paul had spoken one word." That one word was a quotation from Isa. vi 9, 10, and is also found in Math. xiii 14, 15; John xii, 40; Rom. xi, 8. Isaiah having seen His glory and having heard the question, "Whom shall I send and who will go for us?" replied "Here am I, send me." Then he was told that the people to whom he was sent would not all receive his message.

28, 29. To the Jew first was his way always; then, when rejected by them turn to the gentiles, sure that somehow the Lord shall see of the travail of His soul and shall be satisfied. Since He shall not fail nor be discouraged (Isa. xlii, 4), there is no room for any servant of His ever to be discouraged. We must remember His word to Moses and to Joshua to put off their shoes, which if I understand it, signified that the work was the Lord's and not theirs.

30. "And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house and received all that came in unto him." During that time he probably wrote the epistles to the Ephesians, the Phillippians, the Colossians and some others.

31. "Preaching the kingdom of God and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ with all confidence, no man forbidding him." Thus this book of the Acts begins and ends with the kingdom, for we read in chapter i, 3, that during the 40 days between the resurrection and ascension our Lord, when He appeared from time to time, spoke of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God. The time will come when the kingdoms of this world shall have become the kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ, when all kings shall fall down before Him and all nations serve Him (Rev. xi 15; Ps. lxxii, 11). What can we do to hasten it? First let Him save us freely by His grace, then let Him as our Lord use us as He will and where He will to make Him known to others that they, too, may receive Him and help complete His body and hasten the time of His return to bring the kingdom and restore all things of which the prophets have spoken.

Reform Club's Good Time.

A good-sized audience gathered at Reform Hall last evening and enjoyed the entertainment provided by the committee in charge. W. C. Smith, president of thh club, presided and directed the rendition of the programme which consisted of cornet solos by Benjamin LaVere, accompanied by Bert Harold, on the piano, vocal solos by Mrs. J. H. Manley, and remarks by Mr. Armstrong and Vice-president Marcley. Next week it is expected that the Ladies' Orchestra will be present and give one of their pleasing programmes.

Stairs to Avoid the Cells.

A big improvement is now being made at the borough lockup under the direction of the License and Marshal committee. On the outside of the building an enclosed stair case is being erected, so that it will not be necessary for persons who want to gain an entrance to pass through the jail proper where the prisoners are kept The Mayor now has his office in the upper part of the lockup and it is not always desirable for people who want to see him to go through the jail. The improvement is a much-needed one.

Faithful Officers Re-elected.

The regular meeting of the consistory of Trinity Reformed church was held last evening at the home of Elder G. L. VanEmburgh, East Second street, and a large amount of important business was transacted. The present clerk, Fred. E Smith, was unanimously re-elected to serve the ensuing year, as was also the present treasurer, George Gayle. The pastor will announce the standing committees at the next meeting of the consistory.

NOTED CHARITY WORKER DEAD.

Mrs. Sophia S. Shea Passed Away in Elizabeth Yesterday.

Mrs. Sophia S. Shea, widow of Dr. John Gilmary Shea, the noted Catholic historian and literary man, died yesterday at her home, 138 Catherine street, Elizabeth, after an illness of one week.

Mrs. Shea was in her sixty-sixth year and has resided in Elizabeth since the close of the Civil War.

While her husband was engaged in his literary labors Mrs. Shea largely devoted herself to works of charity.

She was one of the organizers of the Ladies' Aid Society to help along the Elizabeth General Hospital, and was one of its most earnest supporters.

She was one of the founders of the Sacred Heart Catholic church, Elizabeth.

Two daughters survive her.

Mrs. Shea was a cousin of James E. Martine, of this city.

ADVISED TO RESIGN.

Rev. P. S. Gibson's White Brethren Tell Him He Ought to Get Out.

There was a lull today in the trouble between Rev. Phillip S. Gibson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Colored Baptist church, and the trustees of the church, who are trying to force him to resign the pastorate. Some interest was awakened by the intelligence that the Baptist Ministers' Asscciation has privately advised Mr. Gibson to resign. A statement to that effect was made yesterday by one who is familiar with the business of the association.

The trustees and deacons of the Mt. Olive church will hold a meeting in the office of City Judge DeMeza tonight to decide upon what further action shall be taken against the pastor. It is understood that some of the members of the First Baptist church will be present and offer their advice.

Cadets in New Uniforms.

The cadets of the New Jersey Military Academy appeared this morning in their brand-new uniforms, which are of cadet grey trimmed with black braid. The uniforms are very natty in appearance and have greatly pleased the cadets. The letters "N. J. M. A." are in gold letters on the collar. The overcoats are of dark blue cloth with capes. The officers of the cadet company are: Captain, George Proctor Smith; first lieutenant, Lindley M Hillman; first sergeant, Arthur Smith; second sergeant, Aubrey Hull; first corporal, Fred. Bonny. The other officers will be selected later.

MUST ANSWER TO UNCLE SAM.

Former Letter-Carrier Will Go Before a United States Judge.

Inspector Lewis, of the U. S. Postal Department, was in Plainfield this morning on business relating to the arrest of John Neighbor, the former letter-carrier, on the charge of tampering with the United States mail and embezzeling letters and money. The offense is one against the postal laws of the United States, and comes under the authority of the United States officers.

According to the laws, however, a justice of the peace has the power to issue a warrant for the arrest of an offender under the charge already mentioned.

Inspector Lewis took the papers relative to the case back to Newark with him and a United States Marshal will come to Plainfield to take Neighbor to Newark, where his bond will have to be renewed before Commissioner Whitehead. As he has pleaded guilty, Neighbor is being held for sentence by a United States judge.

VETERAN'S FATAL SORROW.

Son's Suicide After Mother's Death Hastens the End.

Alfred V. Rossell, father of Steven Rossell, 16 years old, who committed suicide at Newark a few days ago through grief over the death of his mother, died Thursday in the Soldiers' Home in Kearny.

Rossell had been ill for some time and the death of his wife a month ago was a severe shock to him. He rallied somewhat and was a little stronger, until he heard of the tragic death of his son. The blow proved too much for him and he gradually sank until death came to his relief. Rossell was 65 years old and a vetern of Company E, Seventh Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers. He formerly resided on Stone street, near Somerset street, in the borough, where he was well known.

SIX YOUNG MEN CONVERTED.

Great Success Rewarding the Efforts of Methodist Revivalists.

That the interest in the meetings had in no way diminished was made very apparent last night in Grace M. E. church. After a very impressive service, in which requests for prayers were read and made, the usual invitation was given to come forward and seek pardon from God, whereupon six young men went forward to the altar and became happily converted. At the service tonight the Drew Quartette will be present. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Sherman Powell.

Surprised on His Birthday.

A pleasant surprise party was given to E. B. Maynard at his home, 141 North avenue, last evening, in celebration of his 40th birthday. Singing and games were enjoyed by the party until a late hour, when refreshments were served. A number of appropriate gifts, including flowered china cups and saucers and a handsome teacher's Bible, were presented to Mr. Maynard. An address appropriate to the occasion was delivered by Rev. J. W. Mitchell. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Maynard, Rev. and Mrs. James Groves, Miss Berth Groves, Miss Maud Doyle, Miss Nellie Pierson, Mrs. Peters, Misses Ida and Bessie Mitchell, Alexander Stills, Frank Kelso, William Groves and Mr. Cannon.

Remarkable Act of the Wind.

Just as P. & R. locomotive No. 385, drawing the Philadelphia express, arriving here at 11:10, reached the Clinton avenue bridge this morning, the engineer was startled to see the bell lifted out its socket and tumble onto the running board along the side of the boiler. It seemed to have moved by some mysterious force, as there was no break in the frame that holds it or severe jolting of the locomotive. It was thought, however, the powerful gust of wind got under the bell and actually threw it out of place. The piece of metal weighs about seventy-five pounds.

VOORHEES MUST FIGHT.

SENATOR SEWELL SAID TO BE HIS BITTEREST FOE.

Sewell Will Probably Oppose the Union County Man for the Presidency of the Senate—Some of Voorhees' Supporters.

It has developed during the past few days that a fierce fight is likely to occur over the organization of the new New Jersey Senate. Senator Foster M. Voorhees, of Union county, who was the Republican leader on the floor of the Senate last year, and who is in line for the Presidency by virtue of seniority, as well as party service, is going to be opposed by the Sewell wing of the party, and that means a bitter and interesting contest.

As soon as the smoke of the late political fight had cleared, the friends of the young Senator from Union county began advancing his claims for the highest office in the Senate. As a matter of fact, it has been known among the Senator's most intimate friends for some time that a majority of the Republican Senators are under pledge since last year to make him President. The existence of this compact was unknown to Senator Sewell until within the past week. As a result, the Camden warrior is reported to be in a furious state of mind. His agents at Trenton wore a sacred look last Tuesday, and in whispers they passed it along the corridors that "the old man was mad," because of the state of affairs in regard to Voorhees.

The Republican Senators who have pledged themselves to Voorhees will now have to face the wrath of Senator Sewell, and it remains an open question whether they will be able to withstand the pressure he will be able to bring upon them.

Voorhees has never enjoyed the confidence or esteem of Senator Sewell. He has disobeyed the latter's mandates many times, not only in party conventions, but in the Legislature. His greatest offence, however, was his refusal to vote for Sewell's re-election to the United State's Senate. Sewell has turned him down a number of times, in the party conventions, and in the State Gubernatorial convention in 1895, at which Griggs was nominated, when the entire convention was on its feet, howling for a speech from Voorhees, Sewell, white with rage, rose in his place and forced the adjournment of the delegates in order to shut off the Union statesman.

Several times Voorhees has attempted to even up scores with Sewell. Last year he succeeded in defeating Sewell's pet scheme for biennial sessions of the Legislature. Sewell paid him back for that by defeating the Voorhees judiciary amendment to the Constitution.

It now remains to be seen whether Sewell has the power to administer another rebuff to Voorhees by forcing the majority of the Republican Senators to withdraw the pledges they have made. It is just possible that a new element may appear in the fight in favor of Voorhees, and that is the influence of the Hobart-Griggs forces allied in the fight against John Kean's candidacy for United States Senator. Voorhees, being an anti-Kean man, will naturally command the support of the Vice-President and the Governor against the Sewell influence. Again, it is among the strong possibilities that the Hobart-Griggs forces may have to unite upon him for the Gubernatorial nomination next year, because he is the embodiment of all the opposition to Kean and Sewell. Hence, they would enjoy material advantage by the influence in their favor which Voorhees could exert on the presiding officer of the upper house.

The friends of Senator Voorhees pretend that they are not surprised at the activity all over the State of the Sewell men against their candidate, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that they are making a desperate effort to hold all the Senators to their pledges.

Senator Johnson, of Bergen county, is regarded as the man whom the Sewell forces will finally centre upon for the Presidency, but in case he is not considered available it will be Ketcham or Skirm.

Good Time Assured.

Thanksgiving Eve the lovers of dancing will have an excellent opportunity to indulge in that pasttime, when the Twilight Social Club will give their third grand masquerade ball in the Crescent Rink. This club has the reputation of giving some of the finest dances in the city, and they will make this one no exception to the rule. The committee, consisting of F. S. Moore, Theodore Smith, Louis Feiring and E. C Searing, are sparing no work to make it a success, and a pleasant time is assured all who attend. The music will be furnished by Rogers' full orchestra.

—Fred Shepard will leave the employ of Neuman Brothers tonight.

A LARGE INDUSTRY COMING

HETFIELD COAL YARD IS WANTED.

Extensive Sash and Blind Mill to Be Erected and the Proprietors Will Not Join the Combination.

One of the prominent real estate dealers is negotiating with a New York company for the sale of the Hetfield coal yard on Madison avenue. In the event of their taking the yard, they contemplate building an extensive sash and blind mill, and of also running a coal and lumber business on a large scale.

This company say that they will not join the combination and as they have a large saw mill in the New England States, they say that they can afford to sell goods at a lower figure than the dealers who have joined the combine.

This movement will probably cause a stir among the builders and contractors, and the mechanics of this vicinity will in all probability have plenty of work.

WANAMAKER WANTS AN AGENT.

He is Looking for a Good Man to Handle Humber Wheels.

The widespread interest manifested by bicyclists and the bicycle trade generally in the reports of the contract recently made between John Wanamaker's firm and the Humber Company lends interest to the rumor that it is proprosed to establish an agency in this city for the sale of the various Wanamaker bicycles.

The size of the Humber contract with Wanamaker is unknown, but it must have been large. Small considerations would never have tempted the Humber Company to part with the right to distribute their wheels in one of the most populous and prosperous sections of the country. Wanamaker controls all the Humber interests between Washington, D. C., and Hartford, Conn., with a broad strip of land westward from the Atlantic coast.

It is evident that the merchant and not the maker must be the distributer of bicycles in the future. The people are not disposed to support the extravagant system by which the cost of selling a bicycle has added so largely to the retail price. The logic of events is working out. The capital and organization of the dealer—Wanamaker in the present instance—come to the relief of both maker and retail buyer. By saving superflous cost the maker is paid better and the cyclists buys cheaper. We hope in due time to announce the completion of plans for introducing to this community not only the Humber but the several other bicycles that Wanamaker has made famous.

BETTER GO SLOW.

That is J. E. Martine's Attitude About a County Trolley Road.

A reporter of The Press recently asked J. E. Martine what his views were on the Pierson plan of the trolley and a bicycle path on the county roads. He said:

"I feel that this is a great project which involves a large expenditure of money, and is an entirely new scheme for a county to undertake. I am not just decided as to the project, but think it wise to consider the matter well. This will be for all time, so let us go slow rather than make a mistake."

"Are you in favor of municipal or county ownership of franchises?" he was asked.

"Yes, I believe this the only solution of the vexed question of monopoly. But again I say let us consider the matter well, let us go slow."

Paid $5 to Get Free.

Harrison Randolph, colored, was arrested on Somerset street last evening by Patrolman Saffron for being drunk. He was locked up. When arraigned before City Judge DeMeza, this morning, Randolph indignantly denied the charge. The officer had the necessary evidence on hand and Randolph was pronounced guilty by the Judge and sentenced to pay a fine of $5 or go to jail for 20 days. Randolph reluctantly laid down the cash.

A Great Improvement.

One of the best improvements in the city in a long time is that on East Fourth street, where the Central Railroad Company has had removed the side tracks that formerly occupied most of the street. A substantial stone wall now shuts the railroad off from the street, and the tracks have been placed where they belong, alongside of the other tracks.

A Costly Residence.

George L. Colgate, manager of the Bard Cycle Company, has decided to build a home for himself in this city. The house will probably cost $10,000.

—Additional locals on page 3.

—Crane & Clark, the hatters, 120 West Front street, have a very large line of gloves for mechanics as well as dress.

CITIZENS' TICKET SURE.

NEUCLES FORMED IN THE FOURTH WARD LAST NIGHT.

Conference of Dissatisfied Voters Which Resulted in Organization That Will Be Taken Up Effectively All Over the City.

A Citizens' ticket in opposition to the regular Republicans at the forthcoming municipal election is now assured. The neucles was formed in the Fourth ward last night and as soon as possible the rest of the wards will be organized to combat the Republican foe.

The west end of the city is the Democratic stronghold, if there is such a thing in these parts, and it also is the abiding place of many Republicans who are disgruntled with the prevailing condition of affairs in respect to municipal business. It was natural, therefore, that the opposition should take form in the Fourth ward. The preliminaries for the meeting held last night were quietly conducted and only those on the inside of the scheme know of it.

The meeting place was 1101 West Front street, a vacant house owned by I. S. Randolph, who, strange to say, was one of the machine candidates a year ago for the Council in the Fourth ward.

The meeting was attended by about twenty-five men, a sprinkling of Democrats and Republicans both. Though they commenced to gather as early as 8 o'clock it was 9 o'clock before the meeting was called to order by George O. Stevens, the West End coal merchant. Mr. Stevens was made permanent chairman.

It was explained that the meeting was called for the purpose of forming the Organized Independent Voters of the Fourth Ward, which would appoint a committee to confer with representative men in other wards with a view to extending the independent movement all over the city, the final result of which would be the nomination of complete ward and city tickets in opposition to the regular Republicans.

The organization was completed by the election of the following officers: President, George O. Stevens; vice-president, Mr. McCue; secretary, Charles Randolph; treasurer, Henry Leifke.

The following committee was appointed to confer with sympathizers in other wards: Henry Leifke, Michael Higgins and George O. Stevens.

The committee will take steps immediately towards performing the duty for which they were appointed, and it is expected that in a short time an independent movement will be under way that will threaten the present administration with defeat at the polls.

Among those who were present at the meeting were George O Stevens, Henry Leifke, I. S. Randolph, Chas. Randolph, John Kriney, Jacob Kriney, William Kriney, T. B. King, Henry Waters, Ira Hulbert, Michael Higgins and John McCarty.

Of course, the most important personage there was I. D. Randolph, who was elected to the Council last year by the Republicans. It will be remembered that after the Council was organized that Randolph was selected for the appointment of street commissioner. In order to secure the position he wrote out his resignation as Councilman, which was accepted before the appointment was made by the Mayor. Alfred Leviers was selected in his place. Then for some reason Randolph was never appointed street commissioner. He feels very sore and will do his utmost to defeat the Republicans this fall. His name has been mentioned as a candidate for Councilman on the independant movement, but he says that he does not want it.

Mr. Hill Says Nay.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I saw in yesterday's Press that my name was mentioned in connection with the Councilmanic nominations soon to take place in this city. While I appreciate the great honor attached to even a nomination to such an exalted position, and would willingly do all that I could for the advancement of our city, and also of our people, as a private citizen, but as to politics I desire to decline to take any part other than to exercise the right of suffrage.

R. A. Hill.

Roger Murray a Red Man

Several weeks ago Roger F. Murray was elected to the New Jersey Assembly. Last night he was made a wild and woolly brave of the Miantonomoh Tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men. He was adopted into the tribe with all the imposing ceremonies that accompany such an act, and the Assemblyman-elect found the Red Men a genial set of fellows who were very glad to receive their representative into their ranks.

EVERYTHING PROFIT NOW

SPIELKARTENFEST GOES ALONG MERRILY TO SUCCESS.

Tonight, the Last, Will be the Biggest of the Week—Many Dancers Get Flowers—Result in the Voting Contests.

The end of the Spielkartenfest is now at hand. Tonight the good people of Plainfield will have their last chance to attend the monster benefit for the Muhlenberg Hospital. From the start its artistic success was assured; now the management is jubilant, for its financial success has been proven. Wednesday night the receipts amounted to a sufficient sum to cover all expenses, and since then the funds have been rolling in to increase the treasury of the Muhlenberg Hospital. Thursday and Friday the money rolled in fast, and today everything points to a fit climax for this wonderful event that has so taken possession of the whole town and its people.

Last evening saw by far the largest crowd that has yet attended the Spielkartenfest. All the chairs were occupied and many had to stand in the rear of the hall. The Hornpipe and the Chrysanthemum dances were omitted from the programme last evening. The other dances were received with enthusiasm, however. One of the serenaders in the Mirror Dance, Fred H. Freeman, was confined home with illness. His place was filled by Allan E. Laing, while Paul Kimball was substituted for Laing in the latter part of the dance. Laing did very well, considering that he had only part of the day in which to learn the step and movements of the quartette.

During the dances the Joker frequently made his appearance with gifts of flowers for the different dancers. Chrysanthemums and roses were the most numerous.

Harry Milligan is now conducting a contest for the most popular dance. To date the vote is as follows—Afternoon dances: the Minuet, 74; Dutch Reel, 17; the Mardi Gras, 71; Game of Old Maid, 18. Evening dances: the Court Cards, 24; the Mirror Dance, 9; Danza Cubana, 87; Tambourine Dance, 3; Dance of the Aces, 16; Dance of the Pages, 234; Dance of the Red Cards, 16; Chrysanthemum Dance, 2; Dance of the Black Cards, 1; Hornpipe, 2.

ALIVE WITH A BROKEN NECK

BUT HIS RECOVERY IS IMPOSSIBLE.

Remarkable Case in Bound Brook—Medical or Surgical Skill is of No Avail.

One occasionally sees in the daily press where a person lives with a broken neck, and as often the item is put down as a fake. Bound Brook furnishes proof that such a thing can be, in the person of Frank Toman, who is now prostrated at his home on the Water Company farm.

Some seven weeks ago Frank, who is in the bottling business in partnership with his brother James, had occasion to enter a place in Bound Brook to collect some money due him. As he was about to leave the place he made a misstep and fell downstairs, landing upon his head. He complained of a pain in his neck and after being taken home a physician was summoned, but no serious injury was discovered. He did not recover and was taken to a Newark hospital, where he received treatment for a few days. Being somewhat better he returned home but was again attacked, more seriously than at first.

In a few days he was taken to New York, where Dr. Carpenter, on Tuesday of last week, performed an operation. He found the neck broken and that medical or surgical skill could be of no avail. Consequently he was again brought home, where he is now prostrated. Dr. Carpenter says his recovery is impossible, although he might live several months.

TO AWAIT COURT DECISION.

Rev. P. S. Gibson Agrees to Vacate Pulpit Until Legal Case is Settled.

A joint meeting of the officers of the First Baptist and Mt. Olive Baptist churches was held last night at the offices of City Judge DeMeza to discuss the trouble between Rev. Phillip S. Gibson, pastor of the Mt. Olive church, and the members of his flock.

Rev. Dr. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church and Mr. Gibson were present, and the situation was talked over with a view to avoid further dissensions. The meeting at last proposed that Mr. Gibson vacate his pulpit until the courts shall finally decide whether or not he is guilty of the charge preferred by Lucy Swaln. The case has been appealed to the higher court by Mr. Gibson, and will not be decided for some time to come. The trustees have engaged Rev. J. B. Randolph, of Trenton, to preach in Mt. Olive church tomorrow.

APT AND FUNNY ANSWERS.

PLEASANT CONUNDRUM SOCIABLE.

Puzzling Questions Asked, But Answers Were Given That Showed Much Thought.

A conundrum social was held at the Congregational church last evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church, and it proved to be an admirable entertainment. The parlors were prettily arranged and made as homelike as possible by the committee in charge, consisting of Mrs. Fuller, chairman; Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Messerschmith and Mrs. Laing. The attendance was excellent and all joined heartily in the festivities of the occasion. As each one came in a piece of paper was handed to them, upon which was written a conundrum which they were supposed to find an answer for. Some of the conundrums were very mysterious and required considerable thought to find a suitable answer. One question was, "For what was Eve created," and the answer was, "For Adam's express benefit." Another one was, "Why was Adam the swiftest runner in the world." The apt reply was, "Because he was the first in the human race." "Why do we know that Joseph was a straight man," was another question, to which the reply was, "Because Pharaoh made a ruler of him." An amusing conundrum was, "Why was Adam of more consequence than Eve?" "Because Eve was nothing but a side issue." One of those present received the conundrum, "Who was Jonah's tutor?" The reply was, "The whale that brought him up." Everyone had a conundrum and each was a source of amusement to all.

During the evening Mrs. M. E. Dwight favored the audience with several piano selections, after which the committee served refreshments to all. The evening was profitably spent and each declared that they had a good time.

FUNERAL OF MRS. HONEYMAN.

Consoling Words Spoken to the Bereaved Ones by Rev. Cornelius Schenck.

There was a large gathering of relatives and friends at the funeral services of the late Mrs. Susan Honeyman, which were held yesterday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. C. Adams, on Grove street, at 1:30. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of the departed, conducted the services and spoke praiseworthy of the life of her who had received her reward after a beautiful Christian life well spent in the Master's vineyard. His testimony to her exemplary life was in close touch with the feelings and sentiments of all present. An earnest prayer at the close of the discourse, was a comforting petition to the Throne of Grace for the bereaved ones. The floral tributes expressed the highest regard of the donors for the departed. The pall bearers, all grandsons, were James Todd, Esmay Todd, Herbert Todd and Albert E Honeyman. Interment was in Hillside Cemetery in the family plot.

$100 WATCH MISSING.

Belonged to a Jersey City Man and He Can't Account for Its Loss.

A gold watch, valued at $100, disappeared from the pocket of the owner at the Crescent Rink last evening. The timepiece was the property of J. W. Chilton, of Jersey City, who is now visiting his sister, Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell, Jr., of Crescent avenue. Chilton went to the Spielkartenfest last evening and carried some of the articles belonging to his sister behind the scenes to her. His watch was in his overcoat pocket at the time. When he came out he missed it and has seen nothing of it since. It is supposed that the watch must have slipped from his pocket in some manner.

The watch was a valuable one and greatly prized by its owner, who has offered a reward for its return.

GIRLS ENJOY BASKET BALL.

Contesting Team of Fair Sex May Come From Summit for a Game.

There seems to be no cessation in the interest among the girls of the Plainfield High School in basket ball. The girls of the Third class met for practice yesterday afternoon in the Whittier building under the direction of Fred Bonny. The attendance was large and much interest was manifested.

This morning the Senior girls met for practice in the Whittier building, Walter Long acting as coach. While they are all showing considerable adaptability in the game, they are yet somewhat afraid of themselves.

Summit has a girls' basket ball team in one of its big private schools, and exciting games are played there on the lawn. The Summit girls have even considered the advisibility of challenging the Plainfield girls.

CITY IS BUNNY'S HAVEN.

WITHIN MUNICIPAL LIMITS NO SHOTS CAN BE LEGALLY FIRED.

An Ordinance That Prevents Hunting in the City Limits—Two Violators Fined in City Court for the Offense Yesterday.

Plainfield is to be a paradise for rabbits. Within the city limits they will be free from the horde of hungry gunners who pursue them with dog and gun outside the bounds of this good city. Such was the result of an ordinance recently passed by the Common Council and which City Judge DeMeza and Chief Grant are now enforcing. The ordinance itself on casual examination does not appear to be aimed at the hunters but on careful reading the truth comes out. The ordinance says that no gun, revolver, or firearm of any kind shall be fired in the city limits. Therefore no weapon can hurl its load of shot at any frightened cottontail.

Yesterday afternoon, two colored men had to pay a fine of $10 each for hunting a few rods inside the city line. The offenders were Edmund Scott and James Saunders. They were arrested on the complaint of Robert McNabb for firing their guns and for cursing and swearing at the complainant. Perkins was arraigned at the same time but everybody, complainant included, agreed that he had neither shot a gun or used bad language and so he was released.

The trouble was that the two colored men were hunting and McNabb claimed, that they went on ground that was posted and under his control. He was represented by Robert M. Clark. Frank J. Blatz was the attorney for the prisoners. The prisoners pleaded guilty to shooting in the city limits but not guilty to the other charge. It was also claimed by both sides that an assault had been committed. There was considerable evidence deduced but not sufficient to convict the prisoners of using the language alleged On the charge of shooting, they were each fined $10, which was paid.

There is lots of hunting going on these days in the fields on the outskirts of the city which are inside the city limits. There are rabbits there in plenty but the enforcement of this ordinance will result in the driving away of the hunters. The real purpose of the ordinance was to prevent hunters from following their game into inhabited districts and perchance injure someone by the reckless use of guns.

TWELVE FOUND PEACE.

Great Success of the Revival Meetings at Grace M. E. Church.

Overflow meetings will soon be necessary if the attendance at the meetings in Grace M. E. church continues to grow. Long before the time for service people began to flock into the church last evening, and seating the crowd became difficult for the ushers, accustomed as they are of late to seating large numbers. Rev. Sherman Powell presented the way of Salvation in a simple and plain language, and pressed home the need of the unsaved. A number came forward to the altar and twelve or more found peace.

Tonight there will be a "young converts rally." They will be addressed by Rev. W. P. Drew, and they will take the front seats in the church, all sitting together.

RUNNING BACKWARDS AND HURT.

Arthur Lederer Stumbled and Fell Unconscious on a Stone Walk.

While running backward in the schoolyard yesterday morning, Arthur Lederer, one of the Seniors at the Plainfield High School, met with a serious accident. There were three of the Seniors racing backward and Lederer did not notice the flag-pole that stands in the centre of the yard. He struck the back of his head against it and fell to the ground unconscious. His face was also cut. He was taken into the High School building by Henry W. Brower and Rhey T. Snodgrass and restoratives applied. He recovered in ten minutes and was assisted to his home, where he was confined the rest of the day. He has now mostly recovered from the effects of his accident.

Event in Colored Society.

An enjoyable affair in colored social circles was held at the home of Chas. Shelton, of West Third street, last evening when Mr. Shelton celebrated his twenty-seventh birthday. The evening was spent in games and social chat, Besides the host and hostess and Mrs. Betty Shelton, Mr. Shelton's mother, those present were: Mr. and Mrs. George Henderson, Mrs. P. H. Brown, Miss Cora Morris, Miss Betty Brown, Miss Addie Blount, Miss Grayton, John A. Perkins, William Burton, James Curtis, Thomas Morris, Robert Venable and Bert Harvey.

NEW TRIAL FOR THORN

District Attorney Refuses to Impanel a Twelfth Juryman.

THE JURY IS DISCHARGED

Case to Go On a Week from Monday. The Defendant Is Very Much Disappointed—How Mrs. Nack Came to Confess.

New York, Nov. 13.—The trial of Martin Thorn, charged with the murder of William Guldensuppe, has been postponed until Monday, Nov. 22, when a new jury will be selected from a specially summoned panel. This unsatisfactory end of the famous murder case was caused by the illness of the sixth juror, Magnus Larsen, who was operated upon for appendicitis and who will not be about again for a month in all probability.

It was generally believed at the courthouse yesterday that Thorn would have to be tried over again, but the lawyers did their utmost to discover some way in which the present case could be brought to a close. They searched authorities and conferred among themselves and with the judge. Mr. Howe made suggestions, and the District Attorney investigated them, but it was all to no purpose. They could not agree upon any solution of the difficulty.

Then District Attorney Youngs made an effort to have the new trial set down for next Monday. Mr. Howe objected to such haste, and the judge took his view of the case and gave the defense a week longer.

Justice Smith, of the Supreme Court, yesterday afternoon discharged the jury from further duty, and ordered a new trial for the murderer. Justice Smith was not in favor at any time of the proposition to retain the eleven well jurors and empanel an additional juror, but at the first session of the court yesterday he ordered a recess, so the opposing counsel could consider the matter. He set Monday, Nov. 22, as the date for the new trial, and ordered the necessary talesmen to be summoned.

Thorn, after learning that the case would have to be retried, passed his hands in a worried manner over his forehead, and remarked: "I don't understand it at all. Why couldn't they get another juror? I am anxious to have the thing over with; what's the use of dragging it out in this manner?" When Thorn said he was anxious to have the thing over with, it is supposed that he was thinking about his going on the stand.

When the news reached Mrs. Nack all she said was, as she leaned forward in her chair: "Will I have to go on the stand again?" She seems afraid of Mr. Howe. Matron Glick says that the woman aged five years in appearance while she was under the cross fire of the defense's chief.

How Mrs. Nack Confessed.

The sensational confession made by Mrs. Nack is now said to be due to a sermon and the influence of a child. The two worked upon her mind, aroused all the latent religious feeling of her woman's nature and caused her conscience to assert itself.

These two influences—a child and a sermon—did what the keenest detectives in Greater New York had been unable to accomplish. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Robert H. P. Miles, pastor of the Ravenswood Presbyterian Church, of Long Island City. The child was his 4-year-old son, Parker.

Mr. Miles preached a sermon—a simple personal appeal—to her in her cell last Thursday week. He carefully refrained from mentioning her crime. Suddenly she stopped him.

"Would God forgive me, too?" she asked, with tears in her eyes.

"If you confess your sins and truly repent he will," Mr. Miles replied.

That was all that was said at the time. Then came the boy who accompanied his father on the jail visits. Little Parker sat in her lap while his father read from the Bible and talked with her. Tears coursed down her cheeks as she stroked the child's head.

The iron will had been broken. The woman's heart reasserted itself. She sent for her lawyer and insisted on making the confession which perhaps clinched the death penalty for both herself and her former lover. Religion and a child paved the way for the great dramatic climax in the strangest of murder cases.

KANSAS REDEEMED.

Her Reputation Now as Good as Her Character, Says Gov. Leedy.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 13.—Gov. Leedy did not refrain from hitting the traducers of Kansas a blow in his Thanksgiving proclamation issued yesterday. He said:

"After seven years of self-denial our people have so reduced their enormous indebtedness that at last their liabilities bear a reasonable ratio to their resources. The attacks upon this State to which it has been so long subject have been discontinued, and the reputation of Kansas is again as good as its character always has been. For these blessings let us return thanks to the Great Author of the Universe who watched over and guided our fathers when they established in the Western prairies the foundations of our State. In the day of our rejoicing let our people not forget the poor and needy of the great cities and of foreign countries, but send up our petition as a giver of all good things may enable them to be as self-reliant, as self-supporting and as self-respecting as are the citizens of this commonwealth in Kansas."

Has Spain Found a Loan?

London, Nov. 12.—The Daily Mail says that Ernest T. Hooley, the English promoter and financier, has made an offer to Spain to raise for her a loan of about $17,500,000, the security to be on the lines of the old quicksilver loan. The Spanish Government will consider the proposal on Nov. 18. It is understood that the rate of interest suggested is 4 per cent.

Bookmaker's Cashier Held.

New York, Nov. 13.—Frederick Fishel, the defaulting bookkeeper of Joe Ullmann, the bookmaker, was arraigned before Judge McMahon yesterday afternoon. He pleaded not guilty to a charge of grand larceny, and was committed to the Tombs in default of $7,500 bail.

READY FOR CONGRESS

Chairman Cannon Has Announced His Sub-Committees.

CALLED TO MEET NOV. 27

Work on the Appropriations to Be Begun at Once and a Short Session Anticipated — Possible Adjournment by May 1.

Washington, Nov. 13. — Chairman Cannon, of the House Appropriations Committee, intends to begin preparing for the appropriation bills at the earliest possible date. He has announced the sub-committees, and those on the Pension, Legislative, Executive and Judicial bills have been called to meet Nov. 27, a week in advance of the assembling of Congress.

As the House is fully organized, by the appointment of all the standing committees, it will be expected to get down to business as soon as it reassembles on Dec. 3. Ordinarily it requires a month to organize, but this year at least one of the regular appropriation bills, and probably two, will have been passed before the Christmas recess. Most of the members who have already arrived express the opinion that the coming session will be the shortest regular "long session" of Congress in years. Ordinarily the long session lasts from six to ten months. Mr. Hopkins, of Illinois, predicts that Congress will have completed its work and adjourned before May 1.

The sub-committees of the Appropriations Committee, announced by Chairman Cannon yesterday, are as follows:

Sundry Civil—Cannon, W. A. Stone, Northway, Sayers and McRae.

Legislative — Bingham, Hemenway, Moody, Dockery and Livingston.

District of Columbia—Grout, Pitney, Bingham, Dockery and Allen.

Pensions—W. A. Stone, Barney, Belden, Allen and Bell.

Fortifications — Hemenway, Pitney, Pugh, McRae and Bell.

Deficiencies—Cannon, Northway, Barney, Sayers and Livingston.

Permanent Appropriations — Moody, Grout, Pugh, Allen and Bell.

Chances of a Monetary Bill.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Representative Grosvenor, of Ohio, is very doubtful about there being any financial legislation at the approaching session of Congress.

"I presume," he said "that there will be some agitation of a currency measure, but action on the subject is very uncertain. Everybody knows that there is very little chance of an agreement among the members of the Banking and Currency Committee on any financial measure, and it will be next to impossible to make a party question of such a measure in the House. Some proposition might be made which the Republicans would stand for, but there is no probability of a general agreement on any of the broad schemes that have been suggested."

"You do not think that the Republicans would unite on a proposition for the retirement of the greenbacks?"

"Certainly not. I do not believe that the President will recommend such a thing. I have not talked with him on the subject, but I have no idea that he would make such a recommendation."

Speaking of Hawaii, Mr. Grosvenor said that he thought there would be no difficulty in the way of the ratification of the annexation treaty. He thought that it would be acted upon favorably very soon after Congress met.

TRAIN HELD UP AND LOOTED.

Train Robbery Near Independence, and a Big Loss Feared.

Kansas City, Nov. 13.—The Missouri Pacific Express, or train 8, which left here at 9 o'clock last evening and was due in St. Louis at 7.10 o'clock this morning, was held up east of Independence at about 10 p. m. by four bandits and plundered.

A special engine with officers left here at midnight for the scene of the robbery. It is believed that the bandits made a big haul, as it is known that the express car carried considerable treasure. Whether the robbers blew open the safe or not cannot be learned at this writing.

Shadow of Herself

Stomach Was Too Weak to Retain Food

A Complete Cure Effected by Hood's Sarsaparilla

Now Enjoying the Best of Health, With Digestion Perfect.

"My mother was subject to sick headaches and indigestion for over a year. She was unable to stand for any length of time, and was obliged to stay in a dark room as she could not bear the light. She had no appetite whatever and her stomach was so weak she could not retain what food she did eat. She also had severe pains in her head. She suffered so much that she became but the shadow of herself. One day I happened to read a testimonial about Hood's Sarsaparilla. It

Sounded So Truthful

I persuaded her to try this medicine. Before finishing the first bottle there was an improvement in her condition. She no longer threw up her food and her headache was not as severe. She took in all four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and several boxes of Hood's Pills and regained her weight. She is now enjoying the best of health. Her digestion is good and she can eat almost anything she wishes. She is 42 years old and says she feels as well as when she was 16. Hood's Sarsaparilla made a complete cure in her case." evidently, and the business should be done by all means. Buildings require paint. Of course a house may be left unpainted and let to become weatherbeaten and a wreck. That doesn't pay, though; it's much cheaper to paint, and our paints in all colors are the best in the market for durability under the most trying conditions. They are well adapted to our exposure and we sell everything in the line of paints and painters' supplies at short prices.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn Persons who are subject to billious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

Messrs. Hegeman and Eugene Foster, of New York, have been visiting at the home of their uncle, D. N. Groendyke, of Mercer avenue.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Next Tuesday evening the Sons of Veterans will meet and hear a report from the fair committee. It is now thought that about $280 will be made as profit on the recent fair.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. GEN. REEDER EXONERATED.

The Grand Jury Refuses to Indict Him on Conspiracy Charges.

Easton, Pa., Nov. 13.—Fred Van Valkenberg's conspiracy case against Gen. Frank Reeder, Assemblyman Weiss and M. C. Luckenbach for conspiracy and bribery, have been ignored by the Grand Jury, and the costs have been put on the prosecutor. He was sentenced to pay these costs this morning, as he was not in court last night when the Grand Jury made its return. William Shipman, who had withdrawn from the case as private counsel for the prosecution, said to the Court that he appeared for Mr. Van Valkenberg, and agreed to produce him in court today.

The case was given to the Grand Jury at 9.45 a. m. yesterday, after Judge Scott had explained the nature of the indictments which were to be laid before it. Gen. Doster, the special District Attorney, told Judge Scott that he was ready to proceed with the case, although all his witnesses were not here. The Court declared that there had been sufficient delay and the case must be taken up.

Later Constable Ackerman returned from Philadelphia and reported that he had been unable to find William A. Winsboro, the principal witness of the prosecution. He had searched in all the knows resorts of Winsboro, as well as at his boarding house.

Soon after this Sheriff Fenicle arriven from Scranton with Congressman Connell and four other witnesses summoned on bench warrants. They were called before the court, and the reasons they gave being satisfactory, they were excused and the costs of the attachments were made part of the costs of the prosecution. It was shown that there was carelessness in subpenaing the witnesses, and that H. A. Mackey, one of the counsel for Van Valkenberg, had told some of the witnesses they need not attend.

The finding of the Grand Jury was expected. It was generally declared to be the belief that the prosecution did not subpena Winsboro because they wanted the case to fail before the Grand Jury in order to have some influence in securing a settlement of the prosecutions against E. A. Van Valkenberg, brother of Fred Van Valkenberg, which are called for trial next Monday in Pottsville.

Gen. Reeder said last night he had nothing to say with reference to the case. He looked pleased, and was overwhelmed with congratulations.

The Yield of Cotton Per Acre.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Preliminary reports to the statistician of the Department of Agriculture indicate an average yield of 181.9 pounds of lint cotton per acre. The principal State averages are as follows: North Carolina, 184 pounds; South Carolina, 189; Georgia, 178; Alabama, 155; Mississippi, 120; Louisiana, 245; Texas, 165; Arkansas, 215; Tennessee, 132; Oklahoma, 132; Indian Territory, 300. In the main the crop has been picked in excellent condition, the weather having been highly favorable.

Bridegroom Missing.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Warren Beckwith, who eloped with ex-Secretary Robert T. Lincoln's daughter Bessie, is missing. He cannot be found at his hotel, and it is thought he has left Chicago.

Since the young couple were married last Wednesday the bride has remained at her father's home, pleading for forgiveness, but he refuses to grant it. Beckwith remained at a downtown hotel until Thursday night, when he went away, no one knows where.

His Earthquake Prophecy True.

Oaxaca, Mex., Nov. 13.—The predictions of Contreras, the earthquake prophet, have been fulfilled again. The shocks on the isthmus of Tehauantepec and in the southern part of this State were the severest of recent months. Many houses were thrown down, and it is feared that there was loss of life in the country districts. The coast towns south of here have suffered severely, and many believe that the formation of another active volcano is at hand.

Daughters of the Confederacy.

Baltimore, Nov. 13.—The United Daughters of the Confederacy ended their fourth annual convention yesterday. Baltimore and Maryland were honored by the election of Mrs. D. G. Wright as first vice-president. She is now president of the United Daughters of Maryland. Mrs. Helen C. Plane, of Atlanta, Ga., was chosen as the other vice-president. Mrs. Kate Cabell Currie, of Dallas, Tex., was elected president.

Two Girls Tarred and Feathered.

Holgate, Ohio, Nov. 13.—Edith and May Roberts, of Oakwood, aged 19 and 17 years, received a White Cap notice warning them to leave the town and county, but paid no attention to it. On Wednesday evening they were awakened by a band of ten men. The girls were dragged from their beds to the road, where they were terribly whipped. A coat of tar and feathers was then applied to them. May is in a critical condition.

THE CUBAN SITUATION

Spain's Ability to Pay for Two More Cruisers Doubted.

NEGOTIATING WITH JAPAN

Reported Intention to Pardon Competitor Crew Confirmed—Friends in Congress Sure to Pass a Resolution Favorable to Cuba.

London, Nov. 13.—Striking evidence of Spain's financial straits is furnished in the dispatch of the Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail, saying that the Spanish Government, finding it impossible to raise £3,000,000 by loan or taxation, to carry out its original naval plans, has decided to build two new cruisers only, of 2,000 tons each. It is pointed out here that the cruisers referred to were to have been battleships, for whose construction Spain negotiated with the Armstrongs months ago. The contracts were eventually signed and the keels of the new battle ships were laid, but the Armstrongs refused to proceed without assurances of payment. Now it is doubtful if Spain will even be able to pay for the small and comparatively ineffective cruisers which are intended to replace the projected battleships.

American diplomats have learned that Spain recently endeavored to arrange with Japan whereby, in the event of war with the United States, the thirty or so war ships now building in various shipyards for Japan would be transferred to Spain, and it is supposed that upon the failure of these negotiations the Spanish Government entered upon a deal with Chili for the transfer to the Spanish flag of several vessels about completed for the South American republic.

It is said that, from the standpoint of international law, the completion of such a deal might be regarded as an unfriendly act towards the United States.

Besides the Rothschilds, other prominent financiers of London and Paris have entirely cut off the monetary supplies which Spain has hitherto succeeded in obtaining.

Cuba's Friends in Congress.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Speaking of the Cuban situation, Representative Grosvenor said: "The House this session will adopt a resolution favorable to Cuba by a large majority if a chance to vote on it is given. Whether a vote can be had depends somewhat upon the character of the information furnished Congress by the President. Undoubtedly the strain will be somewhat relieved if it is shown that the Spanish Government is sincere in its professions of abandonment of the Weyler policy of concentration of non-combatants in narrow zones. There is no doubt that the reatest cruelties and horrors of the Cuban war resulted from this concentration, and if this policy is abandoned entirely it will mollify the feeling in this country.

But there is bound to be a very strong sentiment in Congress in favor of some Cuban resolution. I have no doubt that nine-tenths of the American people are in sympathy with the insurgents, and would approve any action by Congress calculated to benefit the cause of liberty on that island. Talking to the people and mingling among them during the campaign, I found this sentiment everywhere. Members of Congress returning this session come with a knowledge of this almost universal feeling."

GENERAL MASTER WORKMAN.

New York Man Succeeds Sovereign at the Head of the K. of L.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 13.—The General Assembly Knights of Labor, at their session yesterday, elected Henry A. Hicks, of New York City, to succeed General Master Workman Sovereign. Mr. Sovereign declined re-election because his time is taken up in political work. He also means to do a great deal of editorial work, and will work for the Knights of Labor on a salary. His successor has been engaged in the work of the order for twenty-five years and is a practical builder. Mr. Hicks was elected unanimously.

Mr. Sovereign read his annual address, which touched upon the labor troubles of the year and denounced the holders of idle capital, the gold standard, and corporations. It contained no noteworthy recommendation, but urged laboring men to go into politics.

The election of officers resulted: General Master Workman, Henry A. Hicks, New York; General Worthy Foreman, L. D. Chamberlain, Colorado; members General Executive Board, Henry Bostick, Indiana; Sarsfield Fitzpatrick, Montreal. The Knights will remain ten or twelve days longer in session.

FIRE IN A HISTORICAL HOUSE.

A Thousand Students Cheered When It Was Extinguished.

Boston, Nov. 13.—Excitement was caused in Harvard square early last evening by a small fire in Wadsworth House. The Cambridge Fire Department responded to the call. A crowd of more than a thousand Harvard students and many Yale men gathered about the building and cheered after the fire was put out. Little damage was done.

Wadsworth House is the most historic house in Harvard square, and one of the most celebrated buildings of Harvard University. It was built in 1726, and for more than one hundred years it was the President's home. In 1775 Washington made it his headquarters during his stay in Cambridge. The building is now used as a students' dormitory. One room is devoted to the use of the visiting preachers to Harvard University, and another room is used for the office of the bursar.

To Suspend the Duties.

Washington, Nov. 13.—The President has issued a proclamation suspending the collection of discriminating duties upon Mexican shipping upon satisfactory proof that no discrimination is practiced against American ships in Mexican ports.

Reception to Sir Wilfred Laurier.

Washington, Nov. 13.—A formal reception, largely attended, was given tonight at his residence by Secretary Sherman in honor of Sir Wilfred Laurier, the Prime Minister of Canada.

A CHARACTER TO STUDY.

One of our silent delights is the study of human nature and one of our principal subjects is that fellow Runyon, who edits the News. We might refer to him as that gentleman or that editor or that man, but we like to say fellow because it reflects a companionable feeling, and we commune in our own mind so often and so gently with his varying emotions as evidenced in his professional or business conduct that actually sometimes we incur an interest that almost bears an interminable relationship to the subject. He interests us truly, Runyon does. Newspaper life in Plainfield would be prosaic and uneventful were it not for Runyon. He is always adding spice to it, and fun, too. Sometimes we set for days and days at our desk and grow methodical and gouty reading column after column of such common-place things as murders, suicides, railway casualties, political developments, etc., etc. We long for something that will set our mind in a whirl, give us something to think about, not merely an intuition to write of. Just as we have decided to resign our thoughts to the even tenor of their way and soliloquize on the good old days, we are startled from the reverie by Runyon. Alas and alack for whatever inspired it, it remains a fact that we are roasted and toasted over the sarcastic and humorous editorial fire of our professional brother. Our lethargic mind is stirred and sometimes our spirit is stung. Our light flickers and pales in the glow cast by his irridescent castigation. Crestfallen we go forth only to hear the allusions of our friend—or foe, which?—cast up to us by candid persons who say we are asses for "taking it"—meaning, of course, that we should reply in kind. Indeed, it makes us think earnestly and forcibly about replying. Then we fall to philosophizing, and when one earnestly philosophizes he does only reasonable, sane things. Had we not wished for excitement for mind? Hadn't Runyon given it to us? Had we ought to do anything more than take it as gracefully as we can? All these and many more perplexing questions come to our mind. We finally conclude that Runyon is all right and we're all wrong. Then once more we are at peace with the world. Out of it all, however, comes the indescribable pleasure of studying a wonderful character at close range.

THE COLLECTOR'S SALARY.

For the benefit of those people who may have been misled by the reckless statement made in the News that the City Collector's salary is $2,500 a year, it might be well to state that the salary is only $2,000 regularly, but that this year, owing to the additional work incurred by the collection of the sewer taxes, $500 additional was voted by the Council. Formerly the salary of the Collector was $1,500, while over $1,000 a year was paid to the delinquent tax collector. Now, however, the delinquent taxes are collected by the City Collector, thus actually saving the city $500, and sometimes more, a year. It is recognized that the measure of a public official's salary should be at least ten per cent. of the amount of bonds he is compelled to furnish, but Collector Bird's salary is even less than this. Editor Runyon doubtless believes that the city officials should be remunerated on the same basis as he pays his own employes.

The Press is the only newspaper in Plainfield that publishes political news without bias or prejudice, and is therefore the only medium that can be depended upon to present all sides with fairness. This is recognized by every citizen who takes an interest in the forthcoming city election. Its columns are open for the discussion of the issues involved in any way.

The New Jersey editor of The Tribune wants to know the name of the author of the "Spielkartenfest" song rendered by Councilman Runyon at the great hospital benefit. Mr. Runyon is both composer and singer. We shall not be surprised if the facetious editor of The Tribune will now crown Mr. Runyon the poet laureate of New Jersey. You can't lose our Billy.

JOTTINGS OF THE DAY.

ENTERPRISINGLY GATHERED AND CONCISELY TOLD BY REPORTERS.

Newsy Notes of More or Less Importance Bunched Together for the Ready Reference of Press Readers.

—Randolph, the pharmacist, is making a special window display of Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

—The Friends' meeting-house, on Watchung avenue, is being thoroughly cleaned and renovated.

—One of the horses of Alert hose carriage is ill, and only one horse is now being used to that vehicle.

—Your last chance to attend the Spielkartenfest comes tonight. Councilman William N. Runyon is to sing.

—The city jail has now been connected with the sewer according to the demand of the Plainfield Board of Health.

—Supper will be served at the Spielkartenfest every evening, beginning at 5 o'clock. An excellent meal is served. 11 10 4 —Division No. 4, Ancient Order of Hibernians, will give a dance in the Crescent Rink on the evening of November 30th.

—This evening an entertainment, consisting of an illustrated lecture, will be given in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church.

—The students at the New Jersey Military Academy have just received their new military uniforms, and they make a fine appearance.

—George Saunders, of Orchard place, has recovered from his recent illness and will soon be able to resume his duties at Howell's grocery.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will go to Newark Monday to take part in the exhibition drill by the National Fife and Drum Corps of that city.

—Alvah Carey and his brother, Harry Carey, of the borough, have formed a partnership and will open very soon a storage warehouse in this city.

—About fifteen members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., accompanied Charles Stephens to Rahway, where the latter inspected the Post.

—The work of sending out tax bills in the borough is so great that Collector Spencer has secured the assistance of his son, Addison Spencer, to help him out.

—The reduction by Gavett in the price of the Welsbach gas burner to $1.50 is increasing the sale of this popular gas saver. Save your money and get more light.

—Since the establishment of the new laboratory at the Plainfield High School, a number of students return in the afternoon for experimental work under the supervision of Prof. Meredith.

—There is every prospect that the dance to be given in Washington Hall on the evening of December 2d, under the auspices of the drivers of the Plainfield fire department, will be a great success.

—There is not much likelihood that the work of building the new chapel for the East Third Street mission will be started this fall or winter. The matter is now under advisement as regards the plans, etc.

consisting of suits, overcoats and trousers, now being sold at 33c on the dollar. A great purchase and a great sale of the entire stock of a very widely known clothing manufacturer. Cash is King, and the money on the table enables us to sell this extraordinary purchase at less than 33c on the dollar. This sale would prove the greatest sensation of the day if maker's name could be published, but owing to the fact that nearly every retailer of prominence has a stock on hand from these manufacturers, the latter to protect the former, stipulated that their name must not appear in advertisements. The name, however, appears on every garment, which is an absolute guarantee of perfect satisfaction.

Fine Exceptional Values In The Cloak Section.

Quick selling here brings new goods daily, ofttimes some remarkably good values. Of especial interest are the five assortments of cloaks placed on sale today; interesting not only for their perfection of quality and style, but for the exceptionally low prices. Two assortments at $6 75, two at $5.80, one at $10 50. There are other cloaks here as low as $3 98 and as high as you like.

It would take a page to tell of the good things the store offers today. Values of importance, especially to economical people. There is no old stock, no secrets, no trash of any kind to offer. Every article, every inch of goods, is new.

Julius J. Stahl, of North Plainfield, was in town yesterday on business.

Miss Minnie VanMiddlesworth has been the guest of Plainfield friends.

Miss Lillian Staats, of Front street, entertained company from New York yesterday.

Mrs. James Manning, of Trenton, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Runyon.

Mr. Kuhn and two companions, who went to Junction hunting, have returned with forty-five rabbits.

Samuel Merrill has almost recovered from his severe hip affection which made it difficult for him to walk.

H. L. Terry and A. N. Randolph have returned from a hunting trip. They brought back a bag of game.

Gus. Warden has returned from a very successful two days' hunting trip He captured a number of rabbits and quail.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church met yesterday afternoon in regular session. A devotional meeting was held, which all enjoyed.

There was an exceedingly large attendance at the "Festival of Holidays," held in the chapel of the Presbyterian church last evening, when the affair closed. The society under whose auspices it was held are much gratified with the results of the festival, and no doubt the receipts will be large.

The attendance at the M. E. church last Thursday evening was not large, owing to the storm. The members of the Klondike Gospel Mission Band gave excellent talks and related some of their experiences. They started yesterday for Clinton, Hunterdon county, and expect to walk the entire distance.

The trolley question is being agitated considerably on the part of Dunellenites, and a great many people are anxiously awaiting the result of the business between the Council and the Brunswick Traction Company. There are very few people opposed to the trolley and most all of the people are in favor of it.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Miss Elsie Brown, of Fanwood, is spending a few days with friends in Elizabeth.

WESTFIELD

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity

The little village of Picton, on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, about one mile from Westfield, is now afflicted with a scourge of black snakes. Last summer a twenty-acre lot of the Scudder farm was leased by a local farmer and planted with corn. When the time came for harvesting the corn, the farm hands found the field a veritable nest of snakes. Hardly a day passed during the harvesting season when the hands did not dispatch a dozen or so of the reptiles. As fast as the snakes were killed they were laid along the road which passes the farm, and the sight was a source of terror to bicyclists who passed that way. A number of the farm hands left their work, terror stricken by the snakes, and could not be induced to enter the field again. As cold weather drew near, however, it was thought that the snakes would leave the farm and retire to their winter quarters. A few days ago the work of husking the corn began and it was then found that the snakes were still in the corn. The work would be interrupted at frequent intervals by a yell from one of the men, who would pick up a snake instead of a whisp of corn. It was necessary to spread the stalks on the ground and rake them over thoroughly with sticks to separate the snakes from the corn, before the work of husking could be completed. Picton Scudder, a nephew of one of the proprietors of the farm, has kept a count of the number of snakes killed there during the season, and places it at 162. They range in size from eighteen inches to over six feet. The field has not been cultivated for several years, and has been known as "the snake patch." The people of the village have shunned it, although luscious berries grew there, as they were fearful of encountering the reptiles.

A successful supper was given in the Sunday school room of the Congregational church last evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. The rooms were prettily decorated with potted plants and flowers and the tables, seven in number, were arranged about the room. Supper was served by the members of the society from 6 to 10 o'clock. The proceeds will go into the church treasury.

The pastor will preach on the Sixth Commandment in the Congregational church tomorrow morning, and the annual collection for the American Missionary Association will be taken. In the evening a special musical service will be held with selections by a number of soloists.

The Westfield Universal football team has postponed its game with the All-Around Athletic Association, of Elizabeth, for one week, and instead will play the Echo football team, of Cranford, on the North Broad street grounds this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Westfield Club football team plays a game in the Journal trophy series with the Rahway Y. M. C. A. team at Rahway this afternoon. The game will be called at 4 o'clock.

The Ministering Children's League of the Congregational church will meet in the Sunday school room this evening at 8 o'clock. The study of China will be taken up.

The members of the A. O. U. and friends will go on a bicycle run to Rahway this afternoon to witness the Westfield-Rahway football game.

The Lincoln High School football team played a team from Jersey City on the North Broad street grounds this morning.

Robert V. Hoffman has accepted a position in the office of the C. & C. Company, at Garwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Huyler, of Brooklyn, have returned from a visit with Walter Lee, of Elm street.

Miss Ada Ruth entertained the A. O. V. at her home on Union street last evening.

J. E. Townsend, of Plainfield, visited friends in town yesterday.

Wm. McKenzie has returned from Europe.

"The worst cold I ever had in my life was cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes W. H. Norton, of Sutter Creek, Cal. This cold left me with a cough and I was expectorating all the time. The Remedy cured me, and I want all of my friends when troubled with a cough or cold to use it, for it will do them good. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, cor. of Park and North avenues.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Saffron, of this city, will go to Somerville tomorrow to attend the wedding of Mr. Saffron's brother, George Saffron, to Miss Lizzie Rich, of the above place. The bride and groom will reside on Harmony street on their return.

THEATRICAL.

A scene of special interest in "O'Brien, the Contractor," which comes to Music Hall Tuesday night, will be a touch of nature introduced between O'Brien and the children. The little daughter of a wealthy lady meets O'Brien and with a child's intuitiveness recognizes the diamond in the rough, and through her friendliness, is the cause of her mother becoming the wife of O'Brien when he attains the fortune for which he has been working. It is all brought about so naturally and with so many deft touches of humor and pathos as to make it of special interest to all lovers of the good and beautiful in dramatic art.

Cole and Johnson, colored comedians, will be at Music Hall next Thursday night.

Mr. N. N. Osburn, well-known at Woodstock, Mich., was troubled with a lame back. He was persuaded to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It gave him relief in one night. This remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

GOLDILOCKS.

Goldilocks sat on the grass,
Making up of posies fair.
Hardly could a sunbeam pass
Through the cloud that was her hair.

Purple orchids lasteth long,
Primrose flowers are fair and clear,
Oh, the maiden sang a song
It would do you good to hear.

Sad before her leaned the boy,
"Goldilocks, that I love well:
Happy creature, fair and coy,
Think o' me, sweet Annabel."

Goldilocks she shook apart,
Looked with doubtful, boubtful eyes,
Like a blossom in her heart,
Opened out her first surprise.

The boy may clear his brow,
Though she thinks to say him nay,
When she sighs, "I cannot now;
Come again some other day."

—Jean Ingelow.

THE ENGINE-DRIVER.

"Yes, sir. That old shuntin' engine that's puffing an' snortin' like a broken-winded old horse, could tell a tale, if it wa.n't so short o' breath. That's the very engine old John Wright used to drive when I was his stoker. Let me see—I've been drivin' three year—aye, it'll be ten year come next September. He was a fine figure of a man, was John. He stood six feet one an' a half in his stockin's. an' was broad in the shoulders, too In his greasy peaked cap, an' oily blue jacket, he looked a giant.

"Was he an old man?"

"Oh, no; he'd be forty odd, I suppose, but I was a young man of twenty-three, an' he seemed old, like, to me. As I've said, he was a bachelor an', as far as I knew, likely to remain one. There wasn't much of the ladies' man about John. But still waters run deep, they say, an' John Wright had his little secret.

"About three mile out o' town, I used to notice that he whistled three times and always looked across a couple o' fields, a bit farther on, as if he were lookin' for somethin'. I asked him once or twice what it was, but he edged me off, an' changed the subject, so I didn't press it. But I kept my eyes open.

"It was early winter when I first went on to stoke for John, an', of course, bein' a goods train, it was generaly gettin' on for eight o'clock at night when we passed this partic'lar spot, bound for Barnham, fifty mile away. It's 'up bank,' as I daresay you know, from here to Longbridge, eight mile up the line, an' we never got any great speed on until we'd passed that length, especialy when we'd a heavy freight. But all I could make out for some months was the dim outline of a cottage, that had an 'upstairs' window with a red blind. The cottage lay a couple o' fields away. What made me notice the red blind was that as we passed, the window was always suddenly lighted up.

"Aye, an' so was John Wright's face as soon as ever he saw it. Such a smile!—an' he had a kind face, nad old John—an' then he'd seem lost a bit, as if he were thinkin' o' somethin' as was good to think about.

"I chaffed John rarely about it, first time I saw it, an' he blushed—he did indeed sir! Though his face was grimy on the top, and copper color under that, I'll swear he blushed. But he looked pleased an' proud, for, by that time, we'd grown such thick friends, that I'm sure he didn't mind me knowin'.

"Then, bit by bit, it all came out. John and her father, who used to be pointsman at Chubb Junction, half a mile farther up the line than the cottage, had been lads together. John had gone up for a 'camp' every Sunday for many a year. He'd known Mary Mathers since she was born, an' when she was a little lass he'd nursed her on his knee, an' told her he'd wait for her. I dare say he meant it in fun at the time, but, as she grew up, he knew he liked to be where she was better than anywhere else in the world. That's how he put it, sir. Then Tom Mathers, her father, fell ill, an' I learnt afterwards, an' I guessed even then, that John Wright made his wages keep four instead of one. Mary's father never worked again. He was on his back for eighteen months, an' then he died.

"An' then, you may be sure, John was a father to the fatherless, an' a husband to the widow—as far as lookin' after 'em went, at any rate—only he wanted to be a husband to the daughter, Mary.

"Mary seemed to make no objection. Why should she? She'd never met anybody she liked better, an' a finer fellow than John Wright never walked!

"One Saturday night he says: 'Harry, you'd better walk o'er wi' me to-morrow.'

"'Walk o'er wi' you,' I says; 'where?'

"'Why, to Mrs. Mathers', to be sure. I'd like you to know my Mary. An' then you can tell me what you think of my sweetheart'. An' as he said it that sweet, far-off look came in his face, an' I knew he loved that lass as few lasses are loved.

"Well, I went; an' I wished at the time I'd stayed away. It was love at first sight wi' me, an' I felt I should never, never be the same again. God forgi' me! but after that Sunday I felt at times I hated John Wright. When she stood at the stile, at the crossing midway between the cottage an' the signal-box—as she did every evenin' from the very day I went wi' John—an' waved her hand to him, bashful-like, an' he threw her a clumsy kiss I felt I could ha' knocked him off the engine.

"I fought again' it—an', you must understand, I didn't feel that way all the time, for we were good friends, an' no one would have seen a difference; but when he talked of her, in his quiet way—of bein' wed, an' such-like—it was like knives in me.

"Then he pressed me to go again an' spend Sunday at the cottage. I put him off, but he wouldn't take 'no' for an answer. So, whether for fear of hurtin' his feelings, or because I couldn't keep away, I can't say, but I yielded, an' went. After that I went several times, an' each time I got deeper an' deeper in love with John's sweetheart, aye, an' what seemed worse, I couldn't help knowin' that Mary was troubled the same way. But I will say this, I never tried to make Mary love me, an' never a word of love passed between us, but, sometimes, I thought I saw trouble in John's eyes, an' then I vow to myself to go no more.

"One evenin', in the early autumn of that year, we were goin' at as good a speed as the incline would let us, an' just gettin' towards the cottage. John had sent me around to th' front o' the engine with my oil-can, an' I couldn't help lookin' ahead to see if Mary was standin' waitin' at the stile. Yes, she was there as usual, right in front of us, for the line curved to the right just at the stile, an' was hidin' from view behind a little wood. I could see her print dress, an' the same white linen bonnet she wore when I first saw her in the garden on that spring evenin'. Oh, how my heart went out to her, an' how that old wicked feelin' towards John rushed through me, an' made my nerves tingle from head to foot.

"Mary had her back towards us—a very unusual thing—an' I remember wonderin' why. Then the usual three whistles sounded, short an' sharp. She turned instantly, an' threw up her hands like one demented. We went thunderin' down to the crossin' where she stood, an' I saw her eyes starin' at me, like coals of fire set in a face as white as chalk. She fascinated me.

"Just then old John shut off steam, an' I heard him doin' a thing he'd never done afore—reversin' the engine! All of a sudden Mary seemed to wake up, an' find a horrible dream true, for I heard above the roar of the train, the grindin' of the rails, an' the shriek of the brakes,that had been jammed hard down—I heard one piercing scream. It was a word—my name—'Harry!'

"Of course, all this happened in a breathless second or two. Half a lifetime is sometimes squeezed into half a minute, sir. I took my eyes from Mary's face as we passed her, standin' as if turned to stone, an' I looked ahead. Heavens! what a sight! Bearin' down on us at a great speed was an engine an' tender—a runaway! It was comin' down the bank tender first, an' we were timed to meet at the junction. I saw it all in a flash. The train was jumpin' like a buckin' horse, an', with my body all of a tremble, I'd as much as I could do to get back to the foot-plate.

"There stood John Wright, ot course. I seemed to see him, an' naught else. He'd done all man could do, an' was standin' stock-still, with one hand on the lever. But it wasn't his stillness that made the tears start to my eyes. It was the look on his face. It made me nearly forget the doom to which we were rushing. I can't describe it. It was the look of a man who has nothing left to live for—whose hope had been suddenly wiped clean out for ever.

"The instant he saw me his face changed. He sprang towards me an', seizin' me by the arm with a grip of steel, spoke in a horse whisper that could be heard above everything: 'Jump off, my lad—you've time—you can do it. Jump off!—for her sake—she loves thee, lad—she loves thee—for her sake. Harry—for Heaven's sake!'

"I said, 'Nay, John.'"

"'Quick,' he says. 'Harry! Harry! Jump for your Mary's sake;'

"I swung one leg off the engine—life was dear—an' prepared to spring into the grass. Then a great surgin' love for this man came over me, an' I turned sudden-like, an took him by the hand, an' I says, 'John, we'll stick together, an' die together—if it's God's will—for her sake'. An' he just gave me that sweet look, an' stepped in front of me, as if to put his great frame betwixt me an' death, an' there came a crash as if heaven an' earth had met, an' I seemed to roll over an' over, an' then it felt as if the whole earth had risen up an' smitten me—an' I knew no more.

* * * *

"I woke from a troubled dream, that seemed to have lasted a lifetime, an' opened my eyes, half conscious, an' not sure but I was still dreamin' Then I slipped off again, an' I remember thinking that the sweet eyes, that mine had seemed to meet, were the eyes of my guardian angel. An' they were sir—for, when I opened my eyes again, all the past came back to me with the tearful face of Mary Mathers.

"I put my hand out on the counterpane, an' she put hers gently on the top of it. An', believe me, sir, that's the only way I ever 'popped the question.' We'd been through too much together to need much fuss.

"'Where is he?' I framed my lips to say. I don't know whether she heard, but she understood, for she put her hand into her bosom, an' drew out a black-edged card, an' held it before my eyes, whilst her own filled again with tears. I read: 'In loveing memory of John Wright, who was killed at the post of duty.'"

"And you've been happy in your married life?"

"Happy! Happy isn't the word for it, sir. Ours is one of the matches made in Heaven."

"SAYINGS OF JESUS."

THE RECENTLY DISCOVERED LOGIA —THE MEN WHO FOUND THEM.

A Collection of Words Uttered by Our Lord and Proof That They Are at Least 100 Years Older Than Any Known Manuscript of the Gospels.

Last winter, on behalf of the Egypt Exploration Fund, says the London Daily Graphic, Messrs. R. P. Grenfell and A. S. Hunt conducted excavations at Behnesa, a picturesque little village, standing on the site of ancient Oxyrhynchus, upon the west bank of the Bahr Yusuf Canal, and their labors resulted in the discovery of larger quantities of papyri than had ever before been obtained from one site. The discoveries included literary fragments, accounts, business contracts and numerous documents relating to the conduct of municipal affairs. Many large rolls were obtained in perfect condition, and of these no fewer than 150 were presented to the Gizeh Museum. But the greatest treasure of the collection, and one of which it would be difficult to over-estimate the importance, is a small leaf of papyrus about six inches long by four wide, upon which is written a collection of logia, or sayings of Christ. The leaf had evidently formed part of a book which in all likelihood contained a collection of "sayings" of our Lord. It is probable that this collection was made before the second century; and the character of the writing affords incontestable proof that it cannot be of later date than the third. Hence it is at least a hundred years older than any known MS. of the Gospels, and consequently of the greatest interest to all students of the Scriptures.

Mr. Henry Frowde has recently published a pamphlet which contains illustrations of the precious fragment, renotes by the fortunate discoverers of the papyrus. All the logia commence with the words "Jesus saith," and it is natural to suppose that they are the teachings of our Lord as popularly reported in Egypt in the second and third centuries, which some early Christian of those times committed to writing, either for his own edification or that of his co-religionists. No doubt there were many such collections made in those days, and as the Egypt Exploration Fund proposes to establish a special department for the investigation of Gaeco-Roman sites, we hope that further treasures such as Messrs. Grenfell and Hunt have this year secured for England may be forthcoming, if only the work meets with the financial support which it merits.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE SMALLEST CITY.

It Has a Regular City Government, but Only 100 Inhabitants.

John De Salme bears the unique distinction of being mayor of the smallest city in the world. He is the chief executive of Fenton, a beautiful little hamlet on the picturesque Meramec river, fifteen miles to the south and west of St. Louis.

There are less than 100 people in Fenton, yet it has been an incorporated city for more than twenty years. And during that time it has grown considerably. When it was first incorporated there were less than forty-five inhabitants in the place.

It is the only city of its size, in all probability, in the world that is incorporated and has a mayor and a full quota of city officials.

There has not been a prisoner in the city jail for over five years, and the structure has been allowed to degenerate into a pig pen, where a drove of hogs now make their home.—St. Louis Republic.

Senator Vest's Favorite Yarn.

Senator Vest has a favorite story which he has told on the occasion of many a political speech, but, so far as known, never on the floor of the United States Senate, says an exchange.

"A temperance lecturer was struggling against odds in Kentucky," says the Senator. "He was talking to a not very large audience that had been drawn to the hall by curiosity. 'The effect of alcohol is to shorten life,' said the lecturer.

"'An old man at the rear of the hall rose at that juncture and said, 'You're a liar.'

"'Why?' inquired the advocate of Adam's ale.

"'Because, sir, I've been drinking for seventy-five years, and I am 90 and am likely to live to be 100. I am strong enough to lick you if you'll step outside.'

"'Oh, no doubt, sir. You're an exception, sir. If you keep on drinking —' the lecturer paused.

"'What?' asked the impatient old toper.

"'If you keep on drinking, you'll have to be shot on judgment day.'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

EVERY-DAY RELIGION.

"Earth has nothing more tender than a woman's heart when it is the abode of piety."—Martin Luther.

It is a part of my religion to look well after the cheerfulness of life and let the dismal shift for themselves.—Louisa M. Alcott.

The man or woman who smiles, filling the hearts of friends from day to day with sunshine, does more for the world than all the medics of the apothecary.

Endeavor to be patient in bearing with the defects and infirmities of others, of what sort soever they be, for that thyself also hast many failings, which must be borne with by others.—Thomas a'Kempis.

Collars and Cuffs

nicely laundered are essential to every gentleman's toilet. We have every facility for doing up collars and cuffs that are used by the manufacturers in Troy, N. Y. Our plant is an exact duplicate of theirs So is our work. If you want your collars and cuffs to look like new have our wagon call for them. We are the only laundry in New Jersey having a plant of this kind.

We guarantee linen to last longer when washed by us than when done elsewhere. We absolutely guarantee not to fade colored shirts that, when new, cost $1 or over. We don't know of another laundry that offers to do this. We don't charge any more than the others, either.

Concentrated Vitality.

The Vital Element of Life—Dr. Campbell Succeeds in Charging Impoverished Blood With Natural Iron.

Both beast and man quickly die unless their blood contains sufficient iron. It is the iron, in the form of Hæmoglobin or "Blood Iron," in the blood which enables it to carry oxygen from the lungs to every part of the body. It is the iron and this oxygen which keeps the whole system pure.

The only form of iron ever discovered that could be entirely taken up by the blood has just been produced by Dr. Campbell, an eminent English physician. Working on the theory that both animals and human beings secured their supply of iron from the same source, Dr. Campbell conceived the idea that iron must exist in the blood of animals in exactly the same form as in that of man. After much labor and tedious experiment he verified his belief by extracting the iron from a bullock's blood and subjecting it to the closest analysis. To demonstrate its efficacy it was necessary to prepare it in such form that it could be taken into the stomach by even the weakest infant. This was accomplished by first fully dissolving it and then enclosing it in small pointed globes of pure gelatine to which was given the name of Capsuloids. Close observation in various cases disclosed the fact that as soon as Capsuloids were taken into the stomach the gelatine covering dissolved and the pure natural iron was taken up by the blood, restoring vitality, giving strength, curing sleeplessness, anaemia, dizziness, paleness, and the more serious diseases of the blood, such as scrofula, erysipelas, rheumatism, liver trouble and kidney complaint.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 103 Fulton Street, New York City.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

Cooler Weather Helps Trade Some. General Activity Not Apparent.

New York, Nov. 13.—Colder and more stormy weather, so long needed to accelerate distribution of Winter goods, has materially helped in some quarters, and the resulting improvement in retail trade is mentioned in nearly every Northern dispatch this week, so that orders to fill stocks have been encouraging, and in some branches the multitude of demands for immediate delivery show that the distribution to consumers has already gone much beyond the expectations of dealers. But this is not yet the general rule, and with many complaints of delayed trade from other quarters there still remains the extensive shrinkage caused by fever and quarantines at the South. It is, therefore, the more surprising that the volume of all payments through clearing houses continues about as large as in 1892, and 16.7 per cent. larger than last year. Railroad earnings also nearly equal those of 1892 for the first week of November, and half the mileage in the United States shows earnings in October of $50,354,496, or 8.0 per cent. larger than last year, and 2.2 per cent. larger than 1892. Speculative markets feel disappointment because prices do not rise farther and faster, and it is fortunate for producers and dealers that the experience of some past years in that respect has not been repeated. There is nothing to cause general reaction, the purchasing power of the people is gradually increasing, and after the lull which follows extensive replenishment of stocks, trade should give ample evidence of that increase.

The boot and shoe manufacture surpasses all records in shipments from the East in November, which have been 27 per cent. larger than in 1892, and the total for the year is not 1 per cent, below the greatest ever known.

Woolen mills generally have orders for three months ahead, and are not seeking further engagements. Large sales of speculative lots of wool at prices not stated suggest that it may be lower before the mills need further orders.

Wheat dropped over 2 cents, but has since risen as much, with heavy buying for export. Western receipts continue heavy, in two weeks 14,028,007 bushels, against 10,581,192 last year, while Atlantic exports, flour included, have been 6,562,025 bushels, against 3,921,231 last year. An English authority reckons the world's yield at 161,000,000 bushels less than last year, which would mean a market for all this country has to spare. Corn exports are again larger than last year, and the price has risen 1⅝ cents.

Failures for the first week in November were $3,009,637, against $2,306,351 last year; manufacturing $1,408,056, against $963,203, and trading $1,462,856, against $1,273,108 last year. Failures for the week have been 291 in the United States, against 276 last year, and twenty-four in Canada, against forty-six last year.

TRADE WITH CANADA.

Negotiations for a Reciprocity Treaty to Be Begun.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Definite preparations have been made for negotiating a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada. Meetings have been arranged between Hon. John W. Kasson and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, and Sir Louis Davies, Minister of Marine. This is the result of the long conference held yesterday between Secretary Sherman and Sir Wilfrid.

The questions of border immmigration, north Atlantic fisheries, lake fisheries and all other subjects affecting the two countries will be taken up soon. The meeting with Mr. Kasson, however, will be confined to reciprocity. It is not expected that the reciprocity itself can be matured during the present visit of the Canadian officials, the desire being to arrive at some common understanding and perfect details later.

The dinner at the White House Thursday night assisted towards a friendly settlement of pending questions. At its conclusion the guests accompanied the President and his Cabinet advisers to the Blue Room, where an informal and personal exchange of views occurred. The general sentiment prevailed that the present time was opportune for more cordial intercourse between this country and Canada. The announcement of the meeting with Mr. Kasson followed this morning.

It is understood that the Canadian officials believe the markets of the United States and Canada are so closely connected geographically that it is essential that the countries look to each other, rather than to markets thousands of miles distant and difficult of access.

Buying Up Coal Mines.

Pittsburg, Nov. 13.—It begins to look as if the coal operators, tired of contention with one another, were encouraging overtures from a syndicate which is to assume control as soon as the various properties can be assessed and turned over to it. Following the purchase of the Waverly mines from Robbins & Co. comes a report that Henry Floerschaim, who owns large mining interests on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore & Ohio, is about to sell to the same persons who made the former purchase and to retire from business. The principals in the transaction are not yet known, as the business is done through brokers.

Won't Serve Under Eckels.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Directors Potter, Rawson and Ware, of the Commercial National Bank, have resigned because of Comptroller Eckels' appointment as president. They will not serve under him. The resignation will take effect on Jan. 1.

A majority of the Commercial National's directors wanted to get Eckles because it would advertise the bank's business. The three directors are opposed to this and decline to serve under Mr. Eckles.

Reward for a Liquor Constable.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 14.—Gov. Ellerbe last night offered a reward of $50 for the capture of Chief Constable W. H. Newbold, who shot down the Rev. J. H. Turner in Spartanburg on Tuesday, supposing him to be a blockade whisky dealer. The horse and buggy by which the constable made his escape from Spartanburg on advice of his lawyer, were returned to the livery stables yesterday by a boy, but nothing has been heard of the murderer.

THE SEA OTTER OF ALASKA.

That Beautiful and Valuable Fur-Bearing Animal Fast Decreasing.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Capt. C. L. Hooper, of the revenue cutter service, during his stay in Washington in attendance upon the seal conferences, has prepared a report on the sea otter banks of Alaska to Secretary Gage, which has just been made public. The sea otter, the Captain says, is entirely different from what he styles "that most stupid of animals, the fur seal," and it has disappeared from the Pribyloy Islands, the favorite haunt of the seal, in latter years, even before they were transferred to the United States. He comes to these conclusions:

"First. That the annual catch of the sea otter has been steadily and rapidly decreasing for the past ten years, the number killed yearly being apparently greater than the natural increase.

"Second. That it has actually changed its habits and is no longer found on or near the shore; further, that the sea otter grounds are very much reduced in area.

"Third. That about one thousand one hundred natives of the Aleutian Islands are almost wholly dependent upon the sea otter for the necessaries of life, and will be left distitute if the animal be exterminated.

"Fourth. That on account of the decreased area of the hunting grounds and the disappearance of the otter from the western Aleutian Islands, a large number of the natives are isolated and can only reach the hunting grounds by the aid of schooners.

"Fifth. By the withdrawal of the Alaska Commercial Company's stores from the different settlements the natives are left dependent upon Unalaska for the necessaries of life, and communication between this and the other settlements can be accomplished by vessel only. The present generation has not the art of building seagoing bidarras. Sea lions, from the skin of which the covering is made, have also decreased until there are only enough left to make the small bidarras, and in any event the schooner is more comfortable, safer, faster, and, made use of in a proper manner, will not be detrimental to the sea otter herd.

"Sixth. It does not appear that the use of firearms, although perhaps more wasteful, is more destructive to the herd than spears. The banks of the otter district, where the spear was used exclusively, were the first to be abandoned by the otter. It is not only necessary to preserve the otter, the most beautiful and valuable fur-bearing animal in the world, but to preserve it for the benefit of the natives, who have been dependent upon it for more than a century, and who will be reduced to suffering and want without it."

Capt. Hooper includes in his report a series of regulations intended to preserve the sea otter, which he recommends shall be approved and enforced, independent of the action of any other government, Judge Truitt of the United States Court in Alaska, having held that the present resorts of the animals lie altogether in United States territory. A table accompanying the report shows that the catch of sea otter has diminished from 3,114, the greatest number in any year since 1872, to 598 in 1894 and 724 in 1896. He includes also a census of the native inhabitants of the Aleutian Islands.

MILITIA SAVED THE NEGRO.

Alabama Soldiers Reached Carrollton in Time to Protect Him.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 13.—A mail rider who arrived in Eutaw last night from Carrollton, in Pickens County, brings the information that the soldiers who were sent over to Carrollton from Tuskaloosa by direction of Gov. Johnston to protect Bud Beard, the negro who is charged with assaulting Ella May Crockett, aged 7 years, near Renfro, saved the negro from the mob. The mob threatened the negro's life last night, and Sheriff Long was unable to move the prisoner from the Court House to the county jail. A messenger was sent through the woods, and a call for assistance was telegraphed to Gov. Johnston.

The Warrior Guards of Tuskaloosa were hurried through the country in wagons Thursday night, and succeeded in preventing the lynching. Yesterday morning the mail rider arrived at Eutaw, and said that the negro was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged on Dec. 10. The military is still guarding the prisoner, as the mob is unsatisfied. The mob has been after the negro ten days, and two forces of militia have been ordered out to protect him.

Arrested for Train Robbery.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 13.—Word has reached here of the arrest, at Palestine, Tex., of F. H. Merrill, a former prominent railroad man of Mexico, on extradition warrant, charging him with having committed a train robbery in Colombia, South America, a few years ago. It is charged that Merrill and his confederates obtained about forty thousand dollars in gold, which they were successful in getting out of the country without detection. Merrill returned to Mexico after the robbery, and was recently prominent in business affairs in San Luis Potosi. He was in Texas on business when arrested.

Children Blown Up.

Wichita, Kan., Nov. 13.—Near Garber, Okla., the two sons of Charles Walker, 3 and 6 years old, went to visit their bachelor uncle, a mile and a half distant, yesterday afternoon. They found no one at home. It is supposed that while playing with matches they set the house on fire, and the blaze communicated to a large quantity of giant powder that was stored in the house. An explosion blew the house to splinters and reduced the bodies of the children to fragments.

New York's State Capitol.

Albany, Nov. 13.—After twenty-four years one of the main approaches to the State Capitol Building has been completed and is open for use.

Superintendent of Public Works G. W. Aldridge says that another would be completed by Feb. 1, and the main approach by April 1, thus practically completing the building.

J. C. Bullitt, Jr., a Suicide.

New York, Nov. 13.—John C. Bullitt, Jr., who, up to a few years ago, was assistant counsel of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, killed himself with poison in the early hours of yesterday morning in his room in the Central Railroad Hotel, at 146 Liberty street.

GOSSIP FROM GRIDIRON.

HAPPENINGS AMONG THE LOCAL FOOTBALL PLAYERS.

Games That are to be Played and Points About Teams and Individual Players That May Prove Interesting to Cranks.

James Hennessey, who played full back on the Long Branch A. C eleven in this city a month ago, was killed several days ago at the Long Branch station. He was struck by a passing train and hurled some distance. When picked up he was dead. Hennessey was a good player and a gentlemanly one. He made many friends among the Plainfield players and all were sorry indeed to learn of his death.

The Irvington Athletic Club, whose eleven is to meet the Plainfield A. A. on the Martine common next Saturday afternoon, comes from the suburban town of Irvington, not far from Newark. The captain is a college graduate, now a young lawyer in Newark, and the team is composed of young business men of a similar calibre as those of the Plainfield team The Irvingtons have the reputation of being a strong gentlemanly team and while the Plainfield boys may meet defeat at their hands, the game is sure to be a clean and interesting one.

The football season is now almost over and Plainfield has seen a number of exciting games in this city. The Plainfield A. A. has proved a strong team and capable of holding its own among some of the best teams in this district. The tie games with the Long Branch A. C. and the San Remo Club were particularly creditable. The Plainfield A. A. team will play two more games at home. The one next Saturday will be with the Irvington A. C., and on Thanksgiving Day afternoon, the famous San Remos will again try conclusions with the local players.

BASKET BALL.

Last night the Y. M. C. A. team lined up for a lively struggle against the team from Summit. No sooner had the game commenced than the members from over the hill showed their intentions by making several sharp and well-directed passes. The time was called for first half with a score of 8 to 6 in favor of the visitors. Time was again called in ten minutes to decide which team should wear the laurels. The second half opened with a change of goal, which meant to the home team "now or never." Brilliant movs were made by both teams, but Plainfield's guards proved their efficiency by keeping the ball from their opponents' goal. Five minutes before time was called the scores were tied. Then came the exciting moments. Each captain inspired his men with words of encouragement. Then it was that the agility of the home team was manifested. The game ended with a score of 16 to 12 in favor of Plainfield. The team that represented the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. in the game consisted of E. Moraller, right forward; Long, left forward; Egan, centre; Smith, right guard; M. Moraller, left guard The goals were thrown by E. Moraller, 3; Long, 3; Egan, 1; M. Moraller, 1 There was only one foul called in the game and that was on Plainfield The game was rather a fierce one and several of the players received slight injuries.

RUNYON'S FRIEND TO HIS RESCUE.

The Editor Was Very Funny, But He Made One Little Mistake.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Mr. Runyon, of the Courier-News, is such a polished gentleman in his personal manner, and displays such fine culture and common sense in the conduct of his usually perfect journalistic product, that I was surprised, indeed pained, yesterday, to see the egregious blunder that he committed in the otherwise convincingly funny view he took of the admiration that The Press editorially expressed for Mrs. Lease. For no other reason than that I am a very close friend of the genial editor, and dislike to see him make a fool of himself, I write this little note. Mr. Runyon presumed to infer in parenthesis that "garrulous" was a glaring and laughable grammatical error when used to describe the view that some people possess of Mrs. Lease's utterances. I have always realized that Mr. Runyon's diction is quite perfect, and I had always thought his perspicuity was very marked. That "break" impairs my faith in his intelligence. I believe, however, that it was not due so much to actual ignorance of the word as it was to the hurry that he undergoes in the direction of such a monument of newspaper success as his paper represents. I am satisfied that that error is more than offset by the unctious humor that he displayed in reference to his advice that the sentimental thoughts of The Press be hereafter consigned to the Sanitary Company. Ah, but that was bon mot, and I shall paste it in my hat, so to speak, and hereafter when any of my alleged funny friends get too frolicsome I shall tell them to deliver their wares to the Plainfield Sanitary Company. I know that it will be a quelcher. A Friend of Runyon.

FIRE LADDIES WERE SOCIAL.

Engine Company's Ball Given in Washington Hall Last Night.

The autumn ball given last evening in Washington Hall by the members of Plainfield Engine Company, No. 2, was a success socially and financially. An unusually fine supper was furnished by Mrs. William Townley, who worked very hard to assist the boys. The committee in charge consisted of R. B. Rogers, chairman; William Chamberlain, Charles Van Winkle, Frank Eick, William Schaeffer and Charles Smith. William Chamberlain made an excellent floor manager. Music was furnished by O'Reilly. It was the general opinion of all that they never had a better time, and the committee was highly complimented for the excellent time provided.

Changes in the Time Table.

A few important changes have been made in the time table on the Central and B. & O. railroads. The train which formerly left Plainfield for Newark at 7:50 a.m. is now scheduled at 7:47 a. m., and the 7:58 a. m. train to New York, now leaves at 7:55 a. m. The Royal Blue line train which usually stopped at Plainfield going west at 6:45 p. m. is now a through train, and instead the Blue Line train leaving New York at 4:30 p. m. now stops at Plainfield at 5:09 p. m. to take on passengers. The new table will go into effect tomorrow.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Thomas Doud, of the borough, is in Cranford today looking after some business matters.

Miss Nellie Rockfellow, of Park avenue, is recovering from a severe illness, which has detained her at home.

Former Councilman Seymour G. Smith, of Putnam avenue, has returned from a business trip to Grand Rapids, Mich.

Miss Lizzie Coombs, of Bound Brook, has returned home after spending a few days with the Misses Searing, of Madison avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beckwith, of Elmira, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dudley S. Miller, of Orchard place, have returned home.

Mrs. S. M. Stack, of Pougkeepsie, was the guest of Fred W. Stack, of Sanford avenue, last night, and attended the Spielkartenfest.

D. L. Linbarger, the agent of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., was in town last evening looking after the interests of that company.

H. B. Reed, brother of Senator Reed, of the borough, who has been absent for a long time in search of health, has returned, and is feeling much better.

Mrs. John T. Baker and Miss Baker, of Stelle avenue, will be at home Friday evening, November 26th, from 8:30 to 11 o'clock. They also announce calling days December 9th and 16th from 4 to 6 p. m.

Boys Organize to Debate.

The members of the Boys' Club have formed a debating society and will meet next Wednesday evening for the first, when the question "Whether the trolley is an advance to Plainfield," will be debated. Clarence Waldron and Joseph Galbraith will support the affirmative, and Charles Peterson and John Kline will speak for the negative. The judge will probably be Olaf Saugstad, superintendent of the club. The society will meet every week and debate some popular question of the day.

Enjoying Life Roughing It.

A letter was received yesterday from George A. Rockfellow, of this city, who left Plainfield recently in company with William Flanders for the south. He is now in Washington. The letter was sent from Baltimore where the duo were yesterday. Both report being in the best of health and are getting along well. They will remain in Washington over Sunday, after which they will continue their journey south.

A Sermon of Great Interest.

Catarrh Means Danger,

Because if unchecked it may lead directly to consumption. Catarrh is caused by impure blood. This fact is fully established. Therefore, it is useless to try to cure catarrh by outward applications or inhalants. The true way to cure catarrh is to purify the blood Hoods Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, cures catarrh by its power to drive out all impurities from the blood. Thousands of people testify that they have been perfectly and permanently cured of catarrh by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

TRAINS LEAVE EARLIER.

A CHANGE IN THE TIME-TABLE ON THE CENTRAL RAILROAD.

The Principal Changes Are in the "7:58 Express" and Through Newark Train—A Few Commuters Were Late Today.

A change in the time-table on the Jersey Central railroad this morning made some of the forgetful commuters run for their trains. The express train that has hitherto left Plainfield at 7:58 started to leave here three minutes earlier. The special through train to Newark, that has left Plainfield at 7:50, left today three minutes earlier. Those were the only changes that affected the army of commuters, but as those trains carry a number of them, the difference of three minutes affected a number.

For some reason there are always more late for the train on clear days than on rainy ones, and the general rush for the train after it starts is not by any means as large when the rain is falling and the platforms are slippery.

The conductor and brakemen of the express have been trying to impress the remembrance of the change on their regular passengers for the last week and it seems that they succeeded for nobody was left behind this morning. The train was a trifle late in starting but the commuters were on hand early and boarded the waiting cars without having to run for them.

There was also a change on the fast morning express that left Plainfield at 10:24. It now leaves at 10:14, and arrives at Liberty street terminal, New York, at 11 o'clock instead of 10:50. The afternoon eastbound local that has been leaving Plainfield at 4:48 now leaves at 4:54. The evening New York express that left Plainfield at 6:40, now goes five minutes later according to the new schedule.

There are no changes in the west bound suburban traffic. The westbound Blue Line train that heretofore stopped here at 6:45 p. m., to take on passengers for the west will not stop now; instead another Blue Line will stop at 5:09 p. m.

WANTED VERDICT GUARANTEED.

German Complainant Who Demanded Favorable Decision for His Side.

Isaac Shrager, the tailor on Madison avenue, whose place was robbed several weeks ago for the third time, is in trouble again. This time his landlord is the agressor. Christopher Becker owns the premises, 236 East Fourth street, and some time ago he rented the place to Shrager, who brought thither his household goods and took possession.

Now a disagreement arose between landlord and tenant, the former claiming the rent must be paid in advance, and the latter refusing to pay until the month was up. Then Becker hurried to the office of Justice Newcorn and brought suit to recover his month's rent. He demanded that the Judge guarantee to give him a verdict and get his tenant out of the house in three days. The Judge promptly refused.

When the case came to trial last Friday the Judge demanded an interpreter as both plaintiff and defendant were Germans, and resorted to their mother tongue in the excitement. Becker couldn't get an interpreter and the case was adjourned until he could. This morning he refused to have one and the Judge declared a non suit for the tailor.

Domestic Differences.

Patrick Doyle and his wife had some trouble in their little home on East Third street Saturday night and Patrolman Watson was called in to end it. He locked them both up. They were afterwards released to appear this morning for a hearing before City Judge DeMeza. Their case, this morning, was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

How to Help the Poor.

The annual public meeting of the Organized Aid Association will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. An address will be delivered by Edward T. Devine, secretary of the Charity Organization Society, of New York, upon "How to Help the Poor by Organized Charity."

Lose Anything at the 'Fest?

All ownerless articles found at the Spielkartenfest last week and were not claimed, will be kept at Hall's pharmacy for the week. Owners can identify them there. There is a choice lot of umbrellas, overshoes, handkerchiefs and various other articles. After this week they will be disposed of.

Justice Mosher's Court.

A summons was issued yesterday in the landlord and tenant case of Ettinger against Hamilton by Justice Mosher. The case will be tried next Monday.

FORSAKING SINFULNESS

GREAT SUCCESS OF GRACE M. E. CHURCH REVIVAL MEETINGS.

The Edifice Filled With Interested and Enthused Listeners Last Night—Several Went Forward Seeking Solace for Souls.

The revival service at Grace M. E. church was continued last evening with encouraging results. Long before the meeting began every seat was taken and many were obliged to stand up during the first meeting.

The service opened with devotional exercises and a song service in charge of the Drew Quartette, and the regular choir of the church also rendered a pretty anthem. The sermon was preached by Rev. C. E. Hesselgrave, and it was a powerful one. It was taken from the text, "The Spirit and the Bride Say Come, and Let Him That Heareth Come." The speaker drew many practical lessons from the text and the audience was deeply impressed with the application. He urged all to forsake their sins and be converted at once, at a time when it was comparatively easy to stand for the Lord when so many were coming out from the world.

The largest part of the audience remained to the after meeting and of those who remained a number went to the altar, and thus gave themselves up to Christ publicly. It was rather late when the service came to an end.

Rev. Mr. Johnston, the pastor, announced that next Sunday morning the regular communion service of the church would be held and he desired all who had professed conversion to be present at that time for the purpose of being admitted to membership on probation.

The Drew Quartette concluded their labors last evening and have returned to the Seminary where they will continue their studies. They have felt the loss of the studies and are compelled by circumstances to withdraw from the revival meetings. The services will be continued every night, however, and Mr. Johnston will have charge.

Pastor's Impressive Appeal.

The congregation of Trinity Reformed church listened to an impressive appeal last evening by the pastor on the necessity of giving one's heart to God early in life, and many in the congregation were moved to tears. God's Holy Spirit seems to be hovering over this church and showers of blessings seem ready to fall. During the evening a volunteer choir from the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the church assisted very materially in singing the sweet hymns. A male quartette was also present and sang three solos tenderly. The quartette was composed of the brothers, Joseph C. and Horace J. Martin, and Mr. Martin's two sons, Horace J. Jr., and Willard.

A SNEAK THIEF'S VISIT.

Suspicious Encounter That Geo. Bowers Had With a Stranger.

As George Bowers was passing to his room he noticed a stranger come downstairs, carrying a handbag. Bowers lives with his wife in a flat over Moy's pharmacy on Park avenue and East Fourth street. This happened Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock When Bowers reached his room he found the door open and immediately suspected that the man he met had been an uninvited guest in his rooms. He looked over the contents of the rooms but could notice nothing missing. He reported the visit to Chief Grant.

The man was a stranger to Bowers. He was apparently a young man, dressed in a dark suit and with a red face.

RECEIVED A $25 REWARD.

J. E. Bailey Returned Miss Burt's Valuable Timepiece.

Miss Burt, a niece of Mr. Guion, of Carleton avenue, lost her gold watch Monday last, as advertised in this paper. The watch was returned Saturday evening by James E. Bailey, of Manning avenue, who received the reward offered of $25 and the thanks of the owner. The watch was found on Fourth street, near Watchung avenue, at 8:30 p. m., Monday, and as Miss Burt left the Rink at 5:30, it must have been lying there for three hours before Mr. Bailey found it.

The Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

At the young men's meeting Sunday afternoon there was a large attendance. John Fairchild, a converted bartender, spoke; also Joe Fisher, a converted saloonkeeper, who was started on the right track through the Y. M. C. A. in Newark, having been led to their meeting by card of invitation, distributed on the street. Mr. Fisher also sang solos. Next week the Sunday afternoon meeting will be addressed by Lieut. Col. Brewer, of the Salvation Army, one of the most noted speakers in the Army.

'FEST NOW LIVES IN PLEASANT MEMORIES ONLY.

THE GREAT HOSPITAL BENEFIT WAS ENDED IN AN AUSPICIOUS MANNER.

Principal Interest at the Close Centered in the Voting Contest for the Most Popular Dance—New Topical Song by Councilman Runyon—Many Deserve Credit.

The Spielkartenfest is over. That great event of the year is ended, to live only in the memory of those who witnessed that festival of grace and beauty, a result of the united efforts of the public spirited people of Plainfield. The treasury of the Muhlenberg Hospital, one of the most worthy charities in the city, for the aid of which that great benefit was given, has been enriched to the extent of several thousand dollars. What the exact amount is it is impossible to tell at present. The Crescent Rink which was transformed for into a "fairy land" of beauty and fashion, has lost that gay throng that haunted it day and night. The pretty booths are fast being dismantled and the decorations of every kind have disappeared. Plainfield has once more resumed its wonted serenity and the bright costumed dancers have resumed the regular duties of life. The Spielkartensest is over but its memory will long live.

Saturday evening saw the last of the great benefit. The Rink was crowded. Every seat was sold long before the performance began. Then there was a throng who came to stand up and occupied all the available standing room in the building. All came in holiday attire with expectant looks on their faces. Beautiful gowns were numerous in the audience and among the attendants at the booths. Society was well represented but it was not a society affair. The whole city was out and one and all agreed that the Spielkartenfest was a complete success.

The entire programme of dances was given Saturday night. The participants seemed to realize the spirit of the times and entered in the dances with more than the usual vigor. Everything passed off without a hitch. Round after round of applause was given each of the dances. The Pages were accorded a great reception. Friday night, the audience had tried in vain to recall them but Miss Stewart was firm in her determination that no encores should be given. Saturday night, the audience again tried and the young dancers appeared on the stage again after several minutes of applause but only to bow and retire.

As the audience realized that they were to lose the dances forever, they became very importunate as the different dances took place. The Hornpipe was the last on the programme. The applause it received was deafening and continued at intervals throughout the dance.

After the Hornipe, Former Mayor W. L. Saunders, one of the committee, stepped to the front of the stage with a banner which he announced was to be awarded in the contest for the most popular dance. He said that the contest would continue for just ten minutes after the close of the performance. He announced the way that the contest stood at time, with the Hornpipe in the lead and the Pages a close second.

The final result in the game of "Living Whist" was exciting, Messrs. McCutchen and Townsend winning for the week by just two tricks. Friday night, Messrs. Howell and Rogers won by a score of 10 to 8 tricks. Saturday night, the trump card was the Queen of Clubs, Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell, Jr., who danced a little duet with the Joker. Mr. Rogers had the lead and played the Ace of Hearts to have it trumped by Mr. McCutchen. Messrs. McCutchen and Townsend held the majority of the high trumps and lead them pulling all the trumps of their opponents. Their command of Spades gave them four more tricks and they won by a score of 10 to 3 trickes. The total score for the week was 40 to 38 in favor of Messrs. McCutchen and Townsend.

Former Borough Mayor Saunders then announced that the contest for the most popular dance was open for ten minutes, and there was a general rush for the voting booth in the rear of the room. Vote after vote for the Hornpipe and Pages dance was turned in. The supporters of both dances were determined, and the excitement grew as the additional ballots were announced. The time was growing shorter and the supporters of the Hornpipe added several hundred ballots in a bunch, giving them the lead. There was great cheering. Ernest R. Ackerman had a thousand ballots that he intended to deposit for the pages but there was a slight misunderstanding about the exact way in which the contest was to close and it was claimed he cast them a moment too late so that they did not count. Mr. Saunders then declared that the result of the voting was as follows: Hornpipe, 1,391; Dance of the Pages, 1,178; Danza Cubana, 90; Dance of the Red Cards, 71; Dance of the Court Cards, 24; Dance of the Aces, 19; Tambourine Dance, 15; Chrysanthemum Dance, 15; Dance of the Black Cards, 13; Mirror Dance, 9.

The banner was presented to the dancers in the Hornpipe, and they then led a procession of the dancers that closed the evening's entertainment. After an interval for dancing, the Hornpipe was repeated by request. Over $250 was cleared in the voting contest.

At the beginning of the programme, Councilman William N. Runyon appeared at the footlights and requested all ladies under ninety years of age to remove their hats. The audience appreciated the joke and most of the hats were removed.

Councilman Runyon also appeared toward the close of the evening, in an interval between two of the dances, and sang several verses of his own composition to the familiar tune of the "Son of a Gambolier." He received an ovation which was continued at the end of every verse. The audience was not content with six, but Mr. Runyon stepped to the front and remarked: "I'd like to sing all night, but a reporter of the New York Tribune is here and I don't care for him," in which he referred to a rather sarcastic editorial in the Jersey part of that newspaper in which Mr. Runyon and his song was referred to. The words of Saturday night's verses were as follows:

We're glad to see our friends tonight
In such a goodly throng.
We hope you've come with minds made up
To help our work along.
Just ask yourselves this question
"Now wouldn't it be immense
If every one who's here tonight
Would just spend fifty cents?"
You're doing it all for Charity
Just let me tell you this
You're doing it all for Charity
And a half you'll never miss.
Now whether you spend a hundred
Or just a widow's mite,
We'll thank each one, for all we want
Is every thing in sight.

Now if you don't like music,
And if you don't like noise,
And if you don't like dances
And don't like girls and boys,
I really must confess it,
You must be a funny "bloke."
But down the hall you'll find a room
Where you can hide and smoke.
We're doing it all for Charity,
Just bear this thought in mind,
We're doing it all for Charity,
For the lame and halt and blind.
The ladies need the money
To help them pay their debts.
So go and see the dames who sell
Cigars and Cigarettes.

A word or two I'd say to those
Who visit us tonight,
Who've traveled here from out of town
To see this gorgeous sight.
You may have been around the world
And may have seen the best.
But I'll bet the girls you've seen tonight
Can distance all the rest.
They're doing it all for Charity
These demoiselles so tart,
It's all on account of Charity
That each one's taking part.
With such attractions, 'tis not strange
That to our town you roam.
We marvel more that you can bear
To leave them and go home.

If we could get Alfonso,
The infant King of Spain,
To come and see the Cuban Dance,
A victory we would gain.
For with these little ladies
He would so enraptured be,
He'd go and tell his dear Mamma
To set fair Cuba free.
They're doing it all for Charity,
Their pirouettes and twirls,
They're doing it all for Charity,
These dainty little girls.
And many a poor bed-ridden soul
Will rise and call them blest
For all they've done to help along
Our great Spielkartenfest.

Now if we ever feel compelled
To go to war with Spain.
We'll rig our Hornpipe Sailors out
And send them 'cross the main.
Straightway they'll sail for old Madrid,
And do their funny stunts;
All Spain will say "We can't beat that,"
And pray for peace at once.
They're doing it all for Charity,
These sailors red and white,
They're doing it all for Charity
And they're simply out of sight.
To help old Muhlenberg extend
It's kind and watchful care,
St. Mary's boys and girls
Have more than done their share.

Now when this Spiel is finished,
We must never rest in peace.
We've got to raise some money
For our friends the good Police.
We ought to buy them nurses' caps
And teach them how to sing.
So they can tend the little kids
When the "Curfew" starts to ring.
They'll do a work of Charity
In mending family ties.

CAME TOGETHER HARD.

DISASTROUS COLLISION ON SOMERSET STREET IN THE DARK.

One Carriage Completely Wrecked While the Horse Disappeared From View at a Breakneck Speed—High Words Followed.

Last evening between 6 and 7 o'clock on Somerset street, just outside of the borough, two horses and carriages, going in opposite directions, collided and a bad wreck resulted.

In the carriage coming towards the city was Mr. Pearson, of Vine street, and in the other was a Mr. Witman, of Mt. Bethel, on his way home. Each one claimed that the other was on the wrong side of the road and driving fast, and when Chief Marshal Wilson arrived on the scene both men were arguing the question pro and con in an excited manner.

Mr. Pearson's carriage was completely wrecked and his horse had escaped to the mountains. The other carriage was much heavier and not so easily demolished, and the horse was caught before he could get away.

Mr. Pearson had been attending the funeral of his friend, Mr. Thums, who was killed last week while hunting at Martinsville, and he claims that he was driving very slow, while Mr. Witman, he says, was driving fast and recklessly. Both men also claim that they were on the right side of the road. When the two men parted the question of right and wrong had not been settled. Mr. Pearson says he is going to have Mr. Witman arrested and made to pay for the damage. As yet he has done nothing.

EXPLOSION THREATENED.

A Serious Accident Averted at the Sanitary Company's Plant.

That there was not a terrible explosion at the plant of the Plainfield Sanitary Company yesterday afternoon is due to Marshal Campbell, of the borough, who happened to be in the vicinity of the plant. He had driven there to examine the plant and when within a short distance of it he saw smoke so dense that the plant could not be seen. He investigated by opening a window, but the smoke almost suffocated him and he was obliged to close it. No one was in charge of the plant. By this time Bert Littell, of West Eighth street, appeared on the scene, and he was sent to the Clinton Avenue railroad station to telephone to Chief Doane.

The latter soon arrived and it did not take him long to ascertain what the trouble was. Manager McCarthy had filled one of the large hoppers in the crematory with garbage, thinking that it would last until he returned at 6 o'clock. But such was not the case. Owing to the fact that the regular apparatus for carrying off the smoke was not working, the large room was filled with smoke which came from the top of the hopper. This smoke was fast becoming superheated, and when it gets to a certain temperature it is liable to cause an explosion.

Chief Doane is not absolutely certain that such would have been the result, but he thinks that it is quite possible. The difficulty was soon remedied, and a little later Manager McCarthy returned and took charge of the plant.

GERMANS ENJOYED THEMSELVES

Enjoyed Music and Farce and Awarded a Prize Cake.

The members of the Gesang and Turn Verein enjoyed an entertainment in their hall on Somerset street last evening. An interesting programme was presented, opening with a few remarks by President Henry Haurand and followed with a vocal selection by the German and Swedish sections of the Singing Society. Frank Jellig, of New York, pleased the audience with selections on a guitar, accompanied by his boy and girl on zithers. The next number was a comical farce entitled "A Poor Poet," which was presented by the dramatic section of the society, including A. Wolf, O. Kellar, Henry Eimer, Mrs. Mentzenbach and Mrs. Bergen. This was very well received, as was also a violin solo by Mr. Filstraum. The singing section gave another selection, after which the drawing for the cake made by Messrs. Stueuerwald and Gardner took place. The lucky person was a visitor from New York and his name was not secured by the committee in charge. The proceeds from the drawing will be used to purchase a handsome frame for a painting of the late Henry Wedemeyer, which was purchased by the society recently.

GIBSON SCORES AGAIN.

PASTOR OF THE MT. OLIVE BAPTIST CHURCH HEADS OFF COLLECTION.

Sings His Farewell Song to the Congregation in Spite of Orders to Keep Silent, and Then Sells All of His Copies

Rev. Philip S. Gibson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Colored Baptist church, is not a man who can easily be relegated to oblivion. Ever since the beginning of the trouble between him and the members of his flock, some weeks ago, his enemies in the church have been trying to side-track him. But like Banquo's ghost, he will not down.

At the joint meeting of the trustees and the deacons of the Mt. Olive Baptist church with the deacons of the First Baptist church, in the office of City Judge DeMeza, Friday night Mr. Gibson agreed not to discharge any of the pastrol functions or be heard in the church until then courts had finally passed upon the charges preferred against him by Miss Lucy Swain.

Acting in accordance with this agreement, the trustees engaged D. W. Brown, a lay preacher, to conduct the morning services, yesterday, and in the evening, the Rev. E. V. Hare, of Newark, was secured to take charge, He preached an interesting sermon, and everything passed off smoothly until its close.

Just as the sermon was finished there was a stir in the back of the church. A minute later and Pastor Gibson came up the aisle. In his hand was a stack of printed sheets.

The congregation looked at one another questioningly, but nobody seemed to have an idea of what the pastor was going to do.

"There's a sick sister of this here congregation, and I mean to help her" Mr. Gibson said. "I holds in my hand copies of the pastor's farewell song, which with the consent of everybody present I will sing to this congregation. The copies will be afterwards sold and disposed of for the small sum of five cents each. Will some sister please preside at the organ."

No one remonstrated. Those opposed to the pastor were too much surprised to decide upon what to do. The only opposition which manifested itself was a groan from one of the antis in a back pew.

The dominie cleared his throat, and as the notes of the organ sounded forth, he sang:

A poor, forsaken child,
Out on life's troubled sea,
'Midst storms and raging billows,
Does no one care for me?
I've labored hard to bring you
With Jesus Christ to dwell:
My heart is almost broken,
I bid you all farewell.

After thus getting under way the pastor wandered through a dozen or more stanzas, all expressing his conviction of having done his duty and his sorrow at being discarded. The latter sentiment was expressed forcibly as follows:

Dear friends what have I done
That I should be thrown down?

Speaking of the probable outcome of the trouble, he sang:

Our labors will be ended.
All slanderers turned in hell.

At the close of the song the congregation flocked to the front of the church, and soon all the pastor's copies of his farewell song were sold at five cents a copy.

He then folded his tent and silently sneaked.

And after it was all over and Mr. Gibson had left, the opposition saw that they were again outwitted by the diplomatic pastor. The members had given all their spare change to the pastor and there was no money forthcoming when the collection box was passed.

BOY THIEVES SENTENCED.

Pleaded Non Vult and Sentenced to Thirty Days in Jail.

The four Plainfield lads who were arrested here several weeks ago on the charge of burglary, came up before Judge McCormick at Elizabeth this morning for sentence. The complaint had been changed to petty larceny and the prisoners had pleaded non vult. Charles Westerfield, Fred Rockafellow, Abe Connett and Samuel Riker were each sentenced to thirty days in the county jail for petty larceny and Watson Ralph and Albert Soper were sentenced to the same term of imprisonment for receiving stolen goods. Lawyers Walter L. Hetfield, W. R. Codington and G. W. DeMeza appeared for them.

YALE AND HARVARD TIE

Stirring Football Struggle Between Old Rivals.

BOTH SIDES FAIL TO SCORE

The Teams Put Up a Fast, Clean and Scientific Game—Both Fought Desperately and Successfully Defended Their Goals—25,000 There.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 15.—Yale and Harvard have played their first football draw. Neither could score against the other in their battle on Soldiers' Field on Saturday afternoon, their first meeting since the memorable Springfield game of 1894.

For two thrilling hours, in the presence of 25,000 persons, two sturdy elevens struggled over the white-lined gridiron, desperately disputng every inch of territory and vainly essaying to cross the coveted goal line. It was a case of two teams, each with a strong defense and weak ground-gaining powers, and the logical outcome of the contest was that neither side scored.

A Harvard victory had been so generally expected that the result of the conflict was dubiously received by the supporters of the Crimson. The fact that Harvard could not force the ball across Yale's goal line, as had been done by Brown, the Indians, West Point and Chicago, was the chief cause for regret, but it was not because of any failure on the part of the Crimson representatives to play desperate football. It was simply because Yale put up an unexpectedly fine defensive game and played with superb judgment all the way through.

The high wind was an important factor in the result. It made necessary a partially different system of offense and defense for both teams. Yale, in winning the toss and securing the wind, had Harvard at great odds. The fact that, heavily handicapped as she was, Harvard defended her territory so strongly, led all to believe that in the second half the Crimson would score an easy victory.

Harvard's well-known defense was impervious to the Yale attack, but that was expected all along. Harvard's failure to score was the subject of unbounded joy and happiness for Yale. The sons of Eli were particularly jubilant over the fact that, with a green eleven made up from raw recruits and coached by veterans, they had succeeded in standing off Harvard's array of experienced men in the rush line for a nothing-to-nothing score.

The game was played without delay, so much so that inside of two hours the playing time had been consumed and the crowd went on its way homeward. There was absolutely no brutality, no slugging, no roughing, and no injuries to amount to anything. The Harvard team was so well supplied with substitutes that whenever one of the regulars was rather rudely handled he was taken out.

The Yale men played through the game without making a change. At the end of the contest there were no cripples to speak of, and the best of feeling, barring disappointment over the fact that no definite result had been reached, prevailed everywhere. It was a model game, one that can be pointed to with pride by those who engaged in it, those who saw it, and those who believe in college football as a manly sport.

Yale-Princeton Game.

New Haven, Nov. 15.—Yale hears the Tiger's roar in the distance. The football players from Old Nassau are due here on next Saturday to close the season at Yale, and in many respects the contest will be one of the most memorable ever played here. It is the first Yale-Princeton championship contest at the Yale field since 1885, when Lamar won out for Princeton by his run, the most noted in football history. Yale is anxious to wipe out the sting of last year's defeat, but her team is made up of new and untrained material, and the chances are that the championship will again go back to Princeton. All the hotels here are planning for the largest crowds they have handled in years. The new grandstands are now ready for occupancy. They seat 15,000 persons and there will not be nearly enough tickets to satisfy the demand for seats. What changes the coachers will see fit to make as a result of the Harvard game it is impossible to predict. Of course Dudley will be back from Washington by that time, and is likely to take his former position of halfback. Cutten is recovering from his wrenched knee and may make another try for centre. It is expected that more than twenty thousand persons will see the Princeton match here.

Fire in an Aspen Mine.

Aspen, Col., Nov. 15.—A fire that gives promise to close down every big mine in the camp is raging in the 800-foot level of the Smuggler mine. In one of the immense caverns left from the excavation of ore a large crib is burning. This crib is 80 feet wide, 164 feet long and 300 feet high. It contains many thousands of cords of dry timber. At the place where the fire is raging, and for eighty feet above it, it is filled in with waste, but the timber is dry and punky, and will smolder for many months unless quenched. All efforts to reach the fire have proven unsuccessful, and an attempt to place bulkheads in the connection came near costing the lives of some fifty men. Over forty of these were so overcome by the deadly gas that for a time their lives were despaired of.

Dedication of Battle Monuments.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Chattanooga has been in the hands of Pennsylvanians, headed by Gov. Hastings, for the past two days. The object of the gathering is the dedication of the Pennsylvania monuments on the battlefields here. For the dedication the State made an appropriation of $15,000 and provided free transportation for the veterans.

The regimental dedication began Saturday noon and continued Sunday and to-day. To-morrow the general dedicatory exercises will be held on historic Orchard Knob, when the formal transfer of the monuments to the National Military Park will take place. Saturday night a public reception was tendered to the visitors at the Auditorium. The visitors were welcomed by Mayor Watkins. Gov. Hastings responded.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

Postmaster-General Gary Urges Their Establishment—Would Develop Thrift.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Postmaster-General Gary devotes a third of his first annual report to a presentation of his views upon the establishment of postal savings banks, which he strongly favors.

"The establishment of a postal savings system," he says, "would tend inevitably to the cultivation of thrift in a large class of people. Through its instrumentality those who have been improvident in little things, and who have not learned from experience that money makes money, will be educated slowly but surely to save a surplus over and above their living expenses, to the end that a fund may be created which will provide for them when sickness or old age overtakes them. When they realize that their savings may be so utilized under the direction and care of their government that even small amounts will earn money for them, it is but reasonable to suppose that they will be incited to greater exercise of thrift and industry. They would soon come to understand the necessity of depositing with the Government their surplus earnings, instead of expending them wastefully, and, therefore, uselessly. If but a small percentage of the money a young person expends unnecessarily, in the many ways known to all, could be saved and wisely invested, there would be a competency at hand when old age comes.

"In my judgment, the establishment of postal savings depositories would tend to better citizenship. If the masses of the people were thrifty and saving in their habits, they would more likely be contented and happy, and if their hard-earned savings could be placed in the hands of the Government, in the welfare of which they are all so deeply concerned, it is reasonable to suppose that they would come to a better realization of the duties they owe to their country and consequently to each other. The union of common interest would surely result in a broader, wiser and more useful citizenship. The successful operation of a postal savings deposit system would bring into closer relationship the Government and its citizens, and result in the development of practical and enduring patriotism. The citizen who feels that he has a personal interest in the affairs of the Government, beyond the payment of his share of taxes and the discharge of those other duties common to all, is of more value to the community and the nation than one whose conception of citizenship means merely the performance of those duties.

"The advantages to result from the adoption of a system so promising in the growth of patriotic sentiment and good citizenship, in my opinion, constitute a powerful appeal to statesmanship to provide by law for the application and the spread of its beneficent consequences. With the multiplication of depositors would come the elevation of the standard of citizenship, the cementing of the ties that bind the people to the Government, the strengthening of the public credit, and the ultimate betterment of all concerned."

BRUTAL MURDER.

New York Printer's Head Smashed in with Stones.

New York, Nov. 15.—Thomas J. Lyons, a printer employed by the Lockwood Press Company, of 143 Bleecker street, was killed with stones in a lot on Fulton street, near Saratoga avenue, Brooklyn, some time between midnight and 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Two twenty-pound stones stained with blood were found about forty feet from the body. The whole side of the head was smashed in, and the bones of the jaw and cheek on the other side were fractured in a half a dozen places. The condition of the ground showed that the murderer had dragged the body away from the spot where the stones were found. Across the breast he had placed the man's coat, carefully folded, while beside the head he had laid the black derby hat.

The remarkable thing is that a murder could have been committeed on a frequented thoroughfare like Fulton street, at a spot less than half a block from a station of the Kings County Elevated Railroad, without causing an alarm. There can be no doubt that there was a struggle. The ground showed that beyond question. It was more or less torn up for several feet around the spot where it is evident the man was killed, and small stones which cover the ground were scattered about.

Over thirty detectives worked from 9 o'clock yesterday morning until long after midnight this morning without getting a clue to the identity of the murderer. They managed to trace some of the movements of the dead man during the night, but that was all. What will make it a harder mystery to solve than any other one thing is the very evident fact that the murder was the result of an altercation which arose between the dead man and some one whom he had met, but with whom he had no previous acquaintance. It is known that Lyons was drunk during the night, and the police think either that he got into a brawl with some stranger and that they went into the lot to settle their differences, or that he was lured into the lot and murdered by some one under the impression that he had money. The police favor the theory of a drunken brawl because the man's coat was off.

Steel Trade Condition in Harrisburg.

Harrisburg, Nov. 15.—The orders coming at the plant of the Pennsylvania Steel Works are very encouraging for this time of year. The product of the past week was an average one, shipments being made as rapidly as possible. There were 4,716 names on the pay roll for October. For the same month last year there were 3,602, [illegible] 1895, 4,652.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Mrs. William A. Kline is dangerously ill at her home on West Third street.

How to Cure Bilious Colic.

I suffered for weeks with colic and pains in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicine all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people. Mrs. F. Butler, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to bilious colic can ward off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

—Charles Wyckoff, of West Front street, returned Saturday from a hunting expedition and he had a large bag of game consisting of rabbits.

Household Gods.

The ancient Greeks believed that the Penates were the gods who attended to the welfare and prosperity of the family. They were worshipped as household gods in every home. The household god of to day is Dr. King's New Discovery. For consumption, coughs, colds and for all affections of Throat, Chest and Lungs it is invaluable. It has been tried for a quarter of a century and is guaranteed to cure, or money returned. No household should be without this good angel. It is pleasant to take and a safe and sure remedy for old and young. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's, Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.

Former Assemblyman George Tice, of Perth Amboy, is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Hall, of Duer street.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life. He is in the drug business, a member of the firm of Johnson Bros. of that place, and they handle a great many patent medicines for throat and lung diseases. He had all these to choose from, and skilled physicians ready to respond to his call, but selected this remedy for use in his own family at a time when his child's life was in danger, because he knew it to be superior to any other, and famous the country over for its cures of croup. Mr. Johnson says this is the best selling cough medicine they handle, and that it gives splendid satisfaction in all cases. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss L. E. Chapman, of Crescent avenue, who has been very ill for the past six weeks, is now improving.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

WHERE IS CHARLES BOYD?

Eight Criminal Suits Against Him for Obtaining Money Falsely.

Pittsburg, Nov. 15.—Eight criminal suits have been entered here against one Charles Boyd for obtaining money by false pretense. Whether he is guilty or not a trial of the charges will determine. A stub book in the office of Boyd's alleged private bank shows that $50,000 worth of certificates of deposit were issued; there is no record that one cent of money was ever paid into the bank by the persons in whose name the certificates were made out. They were all issued to Boyd himself, his wife, and his two sisters-in-law.

Boyd came to Pittsburg a few months ago and started in business in Allegheny, calling himself "The Boyd Lumber Company." Shortly afterward a young man named Straub saw an advertisement in the newspapers and called on Boyd. Boyd told him he was going to start the Pennsylvania Lumber Company, and wanted a partner. Straub gave up $800 cash and was taken into partnership, but soon gave up his interest and left the firm.

A few weeks ago a young countryman from Lancaster County, James W. Johnston, came to town. Reading an advertisement for a bookkeeper, he called at the office of the "Allegheny County Bank," met Boyd, gave up $700 cash, and got the place of assistant cashier. There was no cash to handle, but occasionally Boyd gave him instructions to make out certificates of deposit. Johnston did not know that the alleged bank was but a few weeks old, and thought he had found a good place. Two weeks ago he went on a hunting trip, and when he returned on last Tuesday and went to the bank to open it up he learned from the man living next door that the institution had remained closed all day on Monday. He went to Boyd's house in Allegheny, but was told his employer was sick and could not see him.

Meantime the proprietor of a department store who had sold goods to Boyd deposited with his bank two certificates of deposit for $250 each on the Allegheny County Bank. The bank in which they were deposited investigated the standing of Boyd's bank, and learned that a commercial agency here did not know of its existence, and that the State Deputy Bank Examiners said it was not chartered. Other certificates of deposit turned up, and on Wednesday the holders of three of them entered civil suits against Boyd for the payment of bills he had contracted.

Everybody is wondering what became of the other certificates recorded in the "bank's" stub book. They are all made payable on Jan. 1, 1898. Detective John McTighe believes that they will soon begin to come in from the country banks, where they were deposited by saw mill men who sold lumber to Boyd and received from him certificates of deposit. The detective has learned that the Pennsylvania Lumber Company has sold large quantities of lumber, receiving in many cases only $18 a thousand feet for lumber that was worth $28. Boyd's brother-in-law, a man named Turney, has also disappeared. He was introduced to young Johnston by Boyd as one of the partners in the bank.

So far as young Johnston knows there were no depositors, and Boyd did not seem to worry about the absence of business. The bank was apparently only a department of the Pennsylvania Lumber Company.

THE SMUGGLING OF CHINAMEN.

The Government to Sue Canadian Pacific and Other Railroads.

Troy, Nov. 15.—The arrest of John McKerness, alleged to be an agent for smuggling Chinamen into the United States in violation of the Chinese exclusion act, is likely to be the beginning of an important lawsuit, the parties to which will be the United States and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. McKerness was arrested on a train while on the way from Troy to Plattsburg by Deputy Sheriff Curtis, of Waterford. He was accompanied at the time of his arrest by Lum Hu, a Chinaman, disguised as a woman, whom he was taking to New York to be delivered to Chinese labor contractors. McKurness and Lum Hu were arraigned before United States Commissioner Landon, and McKerness was Saturday taken to Auburn on a commitment to await the action of the Grand Jury, which sits at the session of the United States Court to convene there to-morrow.

Commissioner Landon says this is the first case of the kind to come within his jurisdiction, but violations of the exclusion act have become so frequent elsewhere that the Government is about to begin proceedings against the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and other common carriers for damages to cover the costs in cases brought before United States Commissioners and the costs of deportation.

Assistant United States District Attorney C. L. Brown, of Buffalo, who appeared before United States Commissioner Landon in the Lum Hu case, says that a compilation of the cases with a bill of costs is being made under orders from the United States Treasury Department.

OVER SNOW TO YUKON

Major Walsh's Party Leaves for Klondike by the Land Route.

WILL DESIGNATE STATIONS

Expects to Get Through in Two Months—Inspector McGregor Follows Two Days Behind His Chief with Horses, Dogs and Provisions.

Skaguay, Alaska, Oct. 30., via Seattle, Wash., Nov. 15.—J. B. McGregor, mining inspector of Major Walsh's staff, has left with the last of the administration's party. The Major started half of his party three days ago and left himself the next day with a determination cheerily expressed that he would certainly get through to Dawson City by January.

He takes one team of dogs only, for packing on the ice when it is reached, but he left Inspector McGregor, who will be several days behind him, to come on with horses and dogs and rescue him if he gets into a tight place. He believes, however, that Mr. McGregor will not catch up with him, but that he will be able, with the mounted police in advance of him with supplies, to push straight through.

Outcome Eagerly Watched For.

The outcome of the Major's endeavor will be eagerly watched for, as it is held that if he can get through on the soft snow, instead of waiting until February, others may do so.

Inspector McGregor is having made here sleighs with irons four inches wide. These are for the horses, of which he takes in ten. The Inspector will also take forty dogs. These were sent to Lake Bennett to be regularly exercised on the snow and hardened for the expedition. Three men go with the dogs and three with the horses.

Major Walsh on his way up will designate stations, fifty miles apart, and at each of these stations a train of dogs will be left for the mail service. With stations well provisioned, only fifty miles apart, a regular mail service may be depended upon.

Expedition Is Well Planned.

Then, if Major Walsh should be frozen up when Inspector McGregor catches up with him, the horses will be used to pack in his personal belongings and feed for the animals.

It is a well-planned expedition, and there seems to be no reason why it should not go through. McGregor's party takes 60 days' rations for the animals and 180 days' rations for the men.

There is a great activity in Skaguay building sleds, and several parties will not be able to restrain their impatience until there is a crust on the snow. One of these parties is making preparations to take in turkeys, cranberry sauce and mincemeat to Dawson, with the hope of reaching there by the Christmas holidays.

Beef to Be Taken to Dawson.

Willis Thorpe and his partner are sending in their cattle. The plan is to get the cattle to Lake Bennett, there kill them and freeze the beef, then to sell it to camps along the lakes, and get the remainder to Dawson City. About four hundred head will be treated in this manner, so that Dawson, about the beginning of next year, will be well supplied with beef for a time.

There is no diminution in the activity of Skaguay and Dyea, both of which places are now running a race to supply facilities of transportation over the passes. Skaguay's tram road of wooden rails has about thirty men at work, and at Dyea car wheels for a railroad up to near Sheep Camp have been delivered.

$9,000 IN THREE WEEKS.

News of the Rich Diggings on the Stewart River Confirmed.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 15.—Confirmation of the reported rich Stewart River finds is at hand in the person of R. W. Schmidt, who has just arrived from Alaska on the steamer City of Seattle. Schmidt, whose home is in San Francisco, has been prospecting in Alaska for eighteen months.

Last April he and his partners, J. S. Edwards, of Cincinnati; Edward Driscoll, of Indiana, and Fred Williams, of San Jose, Cal., located a claim on Stewart River, about three hundred miles up from the Yukon. After getting it in working condition he says they took out $9,000 worth of dust in three weeks. Some days they panned out as high as $150 to the man. The dirt on that portion of the Stewart River and its tributaries, Schmidt avers, runs from 90 cents to $250 to the pan. What is most remarkable, he says, is that, aside from his party, there are no white men in the district.

"I believe," he said, "there is enough paying dirt in the district where we located to keep five hundred men employed for five or six years. Edwards and I came out for food. One of the nuggets we took from our claim was worth $167."

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Rain Tonight and Probably Tuesday; Warmer Tonight.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 45 Degrees.

The Camden Review says: Senator Reed, of Somerset, has just discovered that some of the counties receive more money from the State fund for school purposes than they pay in, and announces his intention of moving for a change in the system when the Legislature meets. Inasmuch as the moneys have been apportioned on these lines for a great many years, with the admitted object of having the richer counties help the poorer ones, Senator Reed's discovery is much in the nature of a mare's nest. Moreover, he evidently fails to comprehend that the public schools are a State institution, conducted in the interest of the State, as a whole, irrespective of conditions in individual counties or this or that locality.

PASTOR'S SON CHRISTENED.

Interesting Ceremony Performed in the Congregational Church.

Two events of especial interest took place in the Congregational church yesterday morning. The first was the christening of the pastor's child, Carter Lyman Goodrich, who was brought into the church by his grandfather, Mr. Carter, of Montclair. The rite of baptism was administered by Rev. M. E. Dwight.

The second event of interest was the pastor's annual sermon to young men, which was an unusually strong, forcible and practical address. The text was a verse in Acts telling of the young man who informed the Roman colonel of the Jewish plot to assassinate Paul, and the subject was "A Young Man With Something to Say." This young man, said Mr. Goodrich, had something to say against evil, the evil plotted by these forty wicked Jews. There are more than forty evils for our young men to contend with in these days; let their voices be heard with no uncertain sound against evil in the body politic, against the saloon, against all in our business and social life and amusements that lower our moral or spiritual tone. This young man had also something to say to help a fellow-man. If you see temptation or danger overtaking another man give him a helping hand; live to uplift others, as well as help right yourself. And then this young man had something to say for the cause of Christ. A Christlike life is a grand thing, but a Christlike life, coupled with Christlike words, is a grander. Unsheath the sword of the Spirit, the Word of God that is in your possession, and God can enable you by it to strike such blows as shall have no small part in uplifting your fellowmen and winning the world for Christ.

Transfers and Contracts.

The following property transfers have been recorded in County Clerk Howard's office during the current week, as reported by the New Jersey Contractor and Gazette:

Richard E. Coriell, trustee, to William W. Coriell, Church street, corner John Johnson, Plainfield, $1. Sarah J. Johnson, ex, etc., to Richard E. Coriell, Church street, corner John Johnson, Plainfield, $1,800. William Picken to Adelaide W. Ayres, lots 23 and 24, section A, "Map of property of William Picken," Plainfield map, $300. Arthur J. Barrett to Albert Frank Fox, corner West Third street and Lyman place, Plainfield, $400.

The following contracts have also been filed at the same place:

Annie E. Doane and Charles E. Doane, two buildings, College place, Plainfield, $800. Trinity Reformed (Dutch) church and Robert Jahn, tinning and galvanizing work on church, Plainfield, $120. A. F. Leicht and Williams & Sherwood, heating apparatus, Sixth street, Plainfield, $200. A. A. Stryker and Williams & Sherwood, heating apparatus, West Front street, Plainfield, $200.

Faith.

The man who takes an umbrella to church and leaves it out in the vestibule, has got supreme faith, and the man who buys his jewelry at Colliers not only goes away with faith in the excellence and reliability of his purchase, but he gets the benefit of the trading stamp as well.

—Dr. McKane desires to start protracted meetings about December 1st and expects his wife about that time.

—The Endeavor Society of the Christian church will have a social in the chapel on Grove street, near West Front street, tomorrow evening. Thanks are hereby expressed to the Trinity and Dunellen Endeavorers, who helped to make last week's social so successful.

Bought Under the Auctioneer's Hammer

$12,000 Worth of Clothing for Men and Boys.

consisting of suits, overcoats and trousers, now being sold at 33c on the dollar. A great purchase and a great sale of the entire stock of a very widely known clothing manufacturer. Cash is King, and the money on the table enables us to sell this extraordinary purchase at less than 33c on the dollar. This sale would prove the greatest sensation of the day if maker's name could be published, but owing to the fact that nearly every retailer of prominence has a stock on hand from these manufacturers, the latter to protect the former, stipulated that their name must not appear in advertisements. The name, however, appears on every garment, which is an absolute guarantee of perfect satisfaction.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Dealaman are entertaining relatives from out of town.

Mr. Henry, father of J. E. Henry, has about recovered from his severe illness.

Miss Humpston, of Plainfield, was the guest of borough relatives last Saturday.

Miss Hubbard has been the guest of her sister, Miss Mamie Hubbard, of Plainfield.

Mrs. Elliott and family have moved from the borough to a house near Clinton avenue.

Mrs. M. Williams and daughter, Mrs. Lottie Taylor, have returned from New York.

George Craig left this afternoon for East Stroudsburg, Pa., where he will visit for several days.

Chas. Apgar, of Westfield, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Emily Apgar, of Church street.

Last Saturday morning Rev. A. I. Martine preached in the Seventh-day Baptist church at New Market.

Randolph Runyon, who has been very ill at his home, is much better and hopes to be out again in a few days.

J. E. Henry and family moved today from their present residence to the house on Front street owned by Mrs. Maier.

Chas. A. Coriell shipped 500 boat fenders to New York last Saturday, and he has received another large order.

Mrs. James Manning, of Trenton who has been visiting her parents, Mr and Mrs John Runyon, has returned home.

Mr. Kuhn finished painting the Presbyterian church today. The job is a good one and the church presents an attractive appearance.

Tomorrow night the Borough Council will hold a special meeting to receive a petition from the Brunswick Traction Company to operate a trolley in the borough.

There was considerable changing among the local pastors yesterday. Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, preached in the morning in the Presbyterian church, and Rev. A. I Martine, of the latter church, preached in the M. E. church, while Rev. Mr. Mead, of the M. E. church, occupied the pulpit of the New Market Baptist church. In the evening a union service whs held in the M. E. church and all of the pastors took part.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Harry Flannery is confined to his home with illness.

Edward Johnston has returned from a short visit with relatives in Tenafly.

Wm. Bacon, of Haverstraw, N. Y., was the guest of Miss Sadie Walpole yesterday.

Rev. J. P. Braker led the Christian Endeavor meeting in the Baptist church last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore, of Newark, spent Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. Westcott, of Fanwood.

J. E. Flannery, of East Front street, Plainfield, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. John Flannery.

Mr. and Mrs. Corey Johnson entertained Mr. McMasters, of New York State, Saturday and Sunday.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company meet in the Company rooms this evening Business of importance will come before the meeting.

Miss Robinson, of the Philadelphia Baptist Training School, gave a lecture, illustrated by steropticon views, in the Baptist church last evening on the work of the school and its graduates. Miss Robinson proved to be a very entertaining talker. A silver collection was taken for the benefit of the school. The Sunday-school and C. E Society of the church each donated $5.

Mrs. Springstim, who has been making her home in town for several weeks, was arrested Friday evening on a warrant sworn to by George W. Ogden, Sr., charging her with larceny. Mrs. Springstim had been Mr. Ogden's housekeeper for one week when she left him and went as housekeeper for Geo. W. Ogden, Jr., a son of the complainant. Mr. Ogden's son charged that she took with her a revolver and several other articles. Mrs. Springstim was brought before Judge Clark and found guilty. The Judge gave her 60 days and $20 fine. She was taken to Elizabeth Saturday morning.

The football game which was scheduled to take place in Westfield Saturday, between the Lincoln High School players and the Jersey City High School team, was postponed one week.

The football game which was to have been played on the North Broad street grounds Saturday afternoon did not take place, because of the failure of the Cranford players to put in an appearance at the time set for the game.

The Westfield Christian Endeavor Union, which includes the societies of Westfield, Cranford, Roselle, Willow Grove, Locust Grove and Branch Mills, will hold its annual conference in the Westfield Presbyterian church this evening.

Bishop Scarborough yesterday instituted Rev. Charles Fiske as rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church. The institution service took place at 10:30 a. m., with a sermon by Rev. Thomas Ritchey, D. D., of New York. The other services of the day were communion at 7:30 a. m., Sunday-school at 3:30, and evening service at 7:30.

The Westfield Club football team went to Rahway, Saturday afternoon, to play the Y. M. C. A. team of that place again in the Journal trophy series. Trouble was caused at the outset by the discovery that the average weight of the Rahway team was above 145 pounds, the limits established by the league. Westfield's manager entered a protest, and a goal was kicked by Westfield and the game claimed. The teams then played an exhibition game which resulted in a victory for Westfield by the score of 2-0. Westfield will play her last game in the Journal league series with Elizabeth on the North Broad street grounds next Saturday.

"The worst cold I ever had in my life was cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes W. H. Norton, of Sutter Creek, Cal. This cold left me with a cough and I was expectorating all the time. The Remedy cured me, and I want all of my friends when troubled with a cough or cold to use it, for it will do them good. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, cor. of Park and North avenues.

Mr. N. N. Osburn, well-known at Woodstock, Mich., was troubled with a lame back. He was persuaded to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It gave him relief in one night. This remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner North and Park avenues.

—This evening Prof. Thomssen, of India, will give an illustrated lecture in the First Baptist church. All are invited.

THEATRICAL.

"O'Brien, the Contractor," which will be the attraction at Music Hall Tuesday night, is the handiwork of America's two most brilliant writers, H. Grattan Donnelly, author of "Darkest Russia," "Later On" and other successes, and Leander Richardson, whose plays have always been accepted as of great literary value. "O'Brien, the Contractor," is a dramatic gem, tersely written, telling in bright, crisp language, a story full of heart interest, combining humor, pathos, Irish wit, and with such bright, exquisite comedy, that it takes first rank as the representative American play.

Fun will reign supreme at Music Hall next Thursday evening, the attraction being the roaring, rollicking farce comedy, "A Trip to Coontown." This successful comedy is from the pens of the clever comedians and song writers, Cole and Johnson, who were the stars of Black Patti's Troubadours last season. The comedy is brimful of clean, refined humor, catchy music, new songs, dances and clever specialties, executed by the best colored talent in the profession.

—There will be a "Faggot Evening" at Vincent chapel tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Home Mission Reading Circle of the First M. E. church.

MUSINGS BY THE WAY.

I said if I might go back again
To the very hour and place of my birth;
Might have my life whatever I choose,
And live it in any part of the earth;

Put perfect sunshine in my sky;
Banish the shaddow of sorrow and doubt;
Have all my happiness multiplied,
And all my suffering stricken out;

If I could have known in the years now gone
The best that a woman comes to know;
Could have had whatever will make her blest
Or whatever she thinks will make her so;

Yea! I said, if a miracle such as this Could be wrought for me at my bidding, still
I would choose to have my past as it is,
And to let my future come as it will!

My past is mine and I take it all,
Its weakness—its folly, if you please—
Nay, even my sins, if you come to that,
May have been helps, not hindrances!

If I saved my body from the flames
Because that once I had burned my hand,
Or kept myself from greater sin
By doing a less—you will understand—

It was better I suffered a little pain,
Better I sinned for a little time,
If the smarting warned me back from death,
And the sting of sin withheld from crime.

Who knows its strength, by trial, will know
What strength must be set against a sin;
And how temptation is overcome,
He has learned who has felt its powers within;

And who knows how a life at the last may show?
Why, look at the moon from where we stand!
Opaque—uneven, you say; yet it shines
A luminious sphere, complete and grand!

So let my past stand just as it stands,
And let me now as I may grow old;
I am what I am, and my life for me
Is the best—or it had not been, I hold!

—Phœbe Cary.

A COWBOY VIRTUOSO.

The persistence of Mr. Rime Jenks at length received its due reward—he was asked to fiddle for a dance.

You may remember that this gentleman, who was second to none when it came to close quarters in the branding pen or following a wild calf through the sage bush, had not one ounce of musical capacity in the hundred and sixty-odd pounds of his makeup, yet had a particular ambition and an unflagging zeal to become a fiddler. The object of this writing is to show that he received ample returns upon the zeal invested, but never attained to the ambition.

For so many years that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, he had packed a violin in his bed roll on the annual roundup, and at every opportunity, when the day's work was done, he rosined his bow. Throughout the winter months, when work was light and evenings long he had practised faithfully, if not intelligently, in the bunkhouse until banished by a plebiscite to a nearby dugout, where he found sacks of onions and bins of potatoes more patient sufferers than the general sitting-room afforded. In some former year the outfit had boasted a man who could "play any instrument," and Jenks, seeing how easy it was, decided to become equally accomplished. The violin was not his first choice, but his first opportunity, and, having accepted it, his code of ethics bound him to break the critter or break the cinch.

On February 29 there was a leap-year dance at Richmond's. This place was on a hill in the borderland between the open range and the settlements, and, however much cowboy might despise farmers and farmers detest cowboys, the social amenities were rarely disturbed and the country dance was a popular institution. My friend Rice voiced the general sentiment thus: "I like 'em because everybody is a-le'ping and a-skipping, and if anybody falls down he gits up again." The plain inference from Mr. Rice's statement is that at any other than a country dance if one falls down he stays down—which might embarrass and endanger his betters. When I called Rice's attention to this, he explained that he meant "in your mind." "It's like getting on to a bucking horse any morning after breakfast and being dumped," said he. "You don't mind it much, but just tighten your cinch another hole and climb on again. But suppose you are doing some fancy riding or roping at the county fair and your saddle gets emptied, why you feel so low down you don't get over it for a week."

Our boys all went over to the dance at Richmond's, and some one evidently told the committee that Mr. Jenks was a competent fiddler, for soon after his arrival he was approached by a bright-eyed young woman, who asked if he had brought his violin.

"No, I did not," replied the startled Jenks, nervously fingering a large piece of rosin, which he produced from a pocket, "but if you want to use it, I'll be very glad to go back to the ranch and fetch it. It is only about twenty miles."

"I was told," said the girl, just slightly showing several white teeth, "that you carry your violin with you wherever you go, and I'm sorry to find that it's not true. Our music has disappointed us; the house is full of people and nobody here to play for them but a 'cello and a mouth organ. But I think we can get a violin within less than twenty miles, and"—here she showed the full set—"will you kindly play for us until Mr. Smith arrives?"

"Miss, I should be delighted"—said Jenks.

"Oh, thank you, so much"—interposed the girl.

"If I knew how," he continued, "but I don't. You see I'm only learning. I can just start a few."

"Oh, I am sure you will do it well," she replied; "and I will go right out and send for an instrument," and she hurried away.

Mr. Jenks was astonished and perplexed. Of course he had hoped to play in public at some time, but this was so sudden. He was not in a hurry. Some other leap year would be soon enough.

Should he bolt, or face his own music? "What a very pretty girl when he laughs," thought he; "I'll stay. Wish I had practised more. Wonder if I'll break up the party."

In what seemed to him an incredibly short time in which to summon a fiddle from the subjacent valley, the girl reappeared with one in her hand, and, escorting the reluctant and protesting Jenks to the head of the room, introduced him to the 'cello, the mouth-organ and the floor manager.

"Now, boys," said he, when the committee had turned away, leaving him with his fellow musicians, who regarded him doubtfully, "let's have an understanding. I ain't in this like you for a dollar a head and free drinks, but I'm doing it to oblige a lady. I expect to make some pretty bad breaks, and the first one of you that snickers will eat his instrument right here. Are you ready?"

Jenks is not afraid of any individual man, perhaps not very much afraid of any woman, but when he stood up on that platform with the fiddle in his neck and faced the crowd he was badly rattled.

"Play a waltz first," said the floor manager, "and play it slowly." With a sigh of relief and a thought of "What'll I do when they demand fast music?" Mr. Jenks began that classical strain which fits the words, "Where, oh where is my little dog gone," the 'cello and mouth-organ struck in, the girls chose the best waltzers, the floor filled up, feet shuffled, boards creaked, and the ball was opened.

Accomplished speakers have recorded the difficulty experienced in learning to think upon their feet, but Jenks, facing an audience for the first time, and sawing away desperately at the first bars and repeat of a slow waltz, had no such trouble. He told me afterward that his thoughts "thunk themselves and came a-running" and that he was conscious of three distinct trains of thought running on parallel tracks. The first concerned Mr. Smith, the delinquent musician; the second subject was "what a very pretty girl when she laughs," and the third, accented to waltz time, ran: "Oh, I never can play them that second strain. I know I'll break down if I try."

To anticipate difficulty is to insure it. After repeating the first strain some twenty times, Jenks made a desperate effort to strike the second movement, failed, and collapsed. The 'cello and mouth-organ hammered along uncertainly for a time and ceased. The stranded waltzers dotted the floor like boats becalmed on a miniature lake.

The waltzers had been so engrossed in their own efforts and the rest of us in looking on, that the quality of the music had apparently received little attention. When the player broke down there was only a general movement of impatience at the interruption, and I looked to see the persistent Jenks start up again on the same eight measures. But he had entirely recovered his self-possession. Laying the fiddle aside, he advanced to meet the girl at whose request he had made the effort.

"Don't you think,' he asked, "that I have proved that I cannot play?"

"Well, it does come pretty close to a demonstration," she answered, "but I thank you for helping us out. Mr. Smith has come and will relieve you."

So Mr. Smith took the fiddle and Jenks took the girl's hand for the first dance, and perhaps for others, and the evening was a success.

Many hours afterward, as we rode sleepily homeward, in the gray light of morning, Jenks said to me: "What a very pretty girl when she laughs!"

"What did she say about playing?" I asked.

"Said I must play at the next leap-year dance; 1900 is not a leap year, you know—would give me eight years to practice."

"Did you promise?"

"I promised not to; told her I had something better to work for now."

Rime Jenks is a rather taciturn fellow, and I am not in his confidence, but I know that he goes pretty often to Richmond's Hill, and he has traded his saddle for a cow. I have also noticed him studying a book entitled "Comfortable Cottage for Six Hundred Dollars."—From the Argonaut.

How Bouquets are Made for Wines.

A peculiar industry of the river districts of Norfolk, in England, is the growth of the root of calamus or sweet flag, which sometimes yields as much as $200 an acre. It is used by distillers to give a much valued "bouquet" to certain liquors, including rare varieties of gin.

Such "bouquets" are now habitually manufactured by chemists for the lovers of rare wines and liquors. A substance which chemists call "oxide of propyl" is made from a certain kind of alcohol. Compounded in one way it yields the most delightful odors of ripening grapes and brings up visions of vine-clad hills, but a very slight chemical reaction, such as easily takes place in the human stomach during digestion, changes exactly the same elements so that their odors are those of herring-brine and decaying fish.—New York World.

Pashas.

"What is a pasha?" is frequently asked. "Pasha," also written "bashaw," is merely an honorary title given by the Turkish government to men of high political positions, as governors of provinces, or to great military commanders. There are three degrees.

He—Yes, "because" is a woman's reason—and it is about all the reason she has.

She—It is all the reason she could have for marrying a man.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Ready for Business

evidently, and the business shou d be done by all means. Buildings require paint. Of course, a house may be left unpainted and left to become weatherbeaten and a wreck. That doesn't pay, though; it's much cheaper to paint, and our paints in all colors are the best in the market for durability under the most trying conditions. They are well adapted to our exposure and we sell everything in the line of paints and painters' supplies at short prices.

Corporation Notice.

Proposals for Sewers.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a regular meeting held Monday, November 1st, 1897, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, November, 22d, 1897, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials in the construction of such portion of the sewers contemplated in the ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 23th, 1894, and "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved Nov. 6th, 1897, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted by the Common Council, Nov. 1st, 1897, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 109 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $300 payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required and the work to be done is as follows:

3,310 Lineal Feet of 8-inch sewer, 475 Lineal Feet of 4-inch house connections to curb, 85 Y Branches, 2 Manholes, 7 Lamp-holes, 4 Flush Tanks complete, 1 Flush Tank with old siphon, 1 1-inch flushing connection.

Duplicate plans, forms of proposal, specifications, contract, bond, etc., may be examined at the office of the Engineer, No. 152 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The right to reject any or all bills is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

All proposals must be endorsed, "Proposals for Sewers," James T. MacMurray, City Clerk.

Collars and Cuffs

nicely laundered are essential to every gentleman's toilet. We have every facility for doing up collars and cuffs that are used by the manufacturers in Troy, N. Y. Our plant is an exact duplicate of theirs. So is our work. If you want your collars and cuffs to look like new have our wagon call for them. We are the only laundry in New Jersey having a plant of this kind.

We guarantee linen to last longer when washed by us than when done elsewhere. We absolutely guarantee not to fade colored shirts that, when new, cost $1 or over. We don't know of another laundry that offers to do this. We don't charge any more than the others, either.

THREE INDIANS LYNCHED.

Taken from a North Dakota Jail by Twenty-five Masked Men.

Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 15.—A mob of twenty-five masked men took the law into their own hands at the county jail at Williamsport, Emmons County, early yesterday morning, and left the bodies of three men, accused of murder, swaying in the breeze as a testimonial of the completeness of their revenge.

The men were Paul Holy Track, Philip Ireland and Alec Coudot, Indians, who were under arrest for the murder of six members of the Spicer family at Winona, Emmons County, last Winter. They were roused from slumber at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, dragged from the jail to a huge beef windlass that stood near the jail, and hanged to a bar that served to suspend the carcasses of slaughtered animals.

The lynching of the men was evidently carefully planned. Late Saturday night a party of twenty-five men rode from the surrounding country into Williamsport, tied their horses where they could be easily and quickly secured, and made their way to the jail. After the hanging of the Indians they rode as hastily and quietly as they had come.

There was no noise, no disorder, and everything was conducted with a firmness and determination that bespoke the earnest intent of the lynchers. The Indians were all residents of the Standing Rock Indian Reserve. Two of them, Holy Track and Ireland, were mere boys, one 20 and the other 17 years of age. Coudot was a French and Indian halfbreed and leaves a wife and family.

FOUR BANKS GO UNDER.

Indiana Institutions Owned by Weathers and Willett Close.

Indianapolis, Nov. 15.—There is intense excitement at English and throughout Crawford and Perry counties over the collapse of four banks, which will affect nearly every man of means in the two counties and seriously cripple the local officeholders, including the county treasurers and township trustees, all of whom deposited trust funds with the broken banks. The crash came without warning, for no one suspected that the four institutions which have gone under were not on a safe financial footing. As late as Friday afternoon each of the banks received deposits, and when they failed to open their doors Saturday morning there was consternation among the business men, some of whom had deposited so closely Friday afternoon that they did not have change to begin business with Saturday morning.

The banks were owned by J. H. Weathers and R. H. Willett. One had been established at English, another at Marengo, another at Cannelton, and a fourth at Leavenworth. The capital stock of each was $50,000 and the deposits averaged about $75,000, being heaviest at this season of the year, when county taxes have all been paid and the treasurer has deposited the money. The revenue collected for school purposes was all on deposit in the banks, and it is now believed that all of the public schools in the two counties will have to be closed, as the trustees have lost all their money.

Treasurer Brown, of Crawford County, had $13,500 on deposit. He is completely prostrated by the failure. The trustees' deposits ranged from $1,600 to $2,800, and nine of them have been caught in the four banks. President Willett, of the Leavenworth Bank, has not been at the office for several days.

WORKING ON HIS MESSAGE.

The President Preparing Recommendations to Submit to Congress.

Washington, Nov. 15.—President McKinley has at last begun the preparation of his annual message to Congress. For some weeks he has been getting the material together, but now he is ready to write, or, rather, to dictate his opinions to a stenographer. President Cleveland, in preparing his message, usually retired to a quiet corner and struggled through it with pen and ink, but McKinley has become so accustomed to using a rapid stenographer that he will make light work of this task.

He will leave the questions of foreign affairs to the very last, that he may incorporate the latest developments in the document. He is now dealing with department matters, and is gleaning his knowledge from the reports that are being submitted to him by the Cabinet officers. While this is a little early for a President to begin to write his message, McKinley recognizes that if he delays a week or two longer members of Congress will be coming in and demanding a great deal of his time.

EXPLOSION OF THE MAASDAM.

Her Forward Engine Wrecked in Mid-Ocean.—Returns to Plymouth.

(Cable Dispatch to The New York Sun.)

Plymouth, Eng., Nov. 15.—The Dutch steamer Maasdam, Capt. Potjer, from Rotterdam, Nov. 3, for New York, before reported returning with her machinery disabled, has arrived here. She has 300 passengers on board. She reports that on Nov. 7, when she was in the middle of the Atlantic, there was a sudden explosion, which wrecked the forward engine and rendered the after one temporarily incapable of use.

On the day following a tank steamer took the Maasdam in tow, but the hawser parted shortly afterward. On Nov. 9 the engineers succeeded in working the after engine, and the Maasdam then returned to this port.

IN AN ANACONDA'S COIL.

Big Snake Kills a Horse and Nearly Kills a Man.

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—A Brazilian anaconda twenty-eight feet long made its escape from a box in a local dime museum yesterday, and after nearly killing a watchman, wrapped its coils around a valuable pony and crushed it to death.

The performing horse and the snake were part of the attractions at the museum for this week. The pony belonged to W. C. Reber, of New York, who placed a valuation of $10,000 on him. Mr. Reber announces that he will sue the management of the museum for his heavy loss.

Jumped Into the Firebox.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 15.—A dispatch to the Journal from Mandan, N. D., says that Joseph Williams, a fireman of the Northern Pacific Transcontinental train, committed suicide by jumping into the firebox of his engine.

MRS. NACK ADMITS ALL

Says That She Lured Guldensuppe to a Cruel Death.

GLAD THAT SHE CONFESSED

Mr. Howe Has Been Investigating Her Record, and Declares He Can Prove Her the Assassin—Has Obtained New Evidence.

New York, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Augusta Nack has issued a statement to the public. It was written by her in German, and was intended to show that she had really been converted and had not appeared as a witness against Martin Thorn in order to save her own life. She says she hopes for no leniency and she is ready to die.

This places her case in a very curious position. It has been assumed that her lawyer, E. M. Friend, had come to some understanding with District Attorney Youngs, of Queens County, and that she would be permitted to plead guilty to some degree of crime less than murder in the first degree. When she was examined on Wednesday she positively replied to the question put by Surrogate Weller that her confession was purely voluntary, and that no promises of any kind had been made by the District Attorney.

If this be true, she may be tried for murder in the first degree, as she is legally guilty of the crime, accepting her own version as accurate. If, as she says, she did not kill Guldensuppe herself, she was as guilty as Thorn, whom she assisted in all the preliminary arrangements, bringing not only the victim but the material for getting rid of his body, knowing that he was to be hacked to pieces.

Mr. Friend says he permitted her to confess, knowing that it would be for her benefit, as the case of the prosecution was far stronger than the public imagined. Mr. Youngs will say nothing on the subject, except that he will dispose of the woman's case after Thorn's trial is out of the way.

Evidences of Religion.

Mrs. Nack's statement is filled with evidences of a religious sentiment. Thorn has thus far refused the consolation of the church, and thinks of little except his own troubles, his hatred for the woman he once loved, his love for his dog, and playing cards with his cellmates. Sheriff Doht was very much surprised when he learned, through the confession of Mrs. Nack, that Thorn really had been the criminal. In reference to her confession, he says:

"Just consider what this woman has done. She is a most awful spider criminal by her own words. She, a married woman, loved both Guldensuppe and Thorn. She cannot have both. She plans Guldensuppe's death, takes her own money to hire the house in which to carry out her murderous plans, and lures Guldensuppe to that house, where she kills him, yes, kills him.

"She says Thorn killed him. We say she did it. Thorn was not the assassin, but her tool. At the last moment she swears Thorn's life away to save her own. We shall show this desperate criminal in her true colors."

Leopold Goldsmith, of No. 501 High Point avenue, West Hoboken, N. J., is to be a witness in the new trial of Thorn. He will testify in Thorn's favor.

"I always knew Thorn for a quiet, peaceable sort of fellow," he said. "I think he is less guilty than the woman. I have played cards with Thorn in Bucholster's saloon, at Twenty-ninth street and Sixth avenue. I knew Thorn for many years, and, as I say, he impressed me as being always a quiet, orderly person. I do not care to anticipate my testimony, but I think what I have to tell will create something of a sensation."

Mrs. Nack Has an Outing.

Mrs. Augusta Nack had a fine time yesterday. She was out of prison again. She rode in a carriage with gentlemen. She walked around in the fields. She breathed the fresh morning air, smiled with pleasure at the sun, and when she went back to her cell she prayed with Pastor Mills and told him how happy she was in her new consciousness of God's love.

Mrs. Nack went to the Woodside cottage, where, according to her own confession, she waited in the garden on June 25 while her new lover shot the old lover. She went there to find the saw with which the new lover cut up the old lover. It was not a pleasant errand, but she did it for her conscience's sake and presumably upon the advice of her counsel. While she did not find the bloody weapon she at least enjoyed her outing and prayed and returned thanks with much more fervor than has been her wont when her cell door once more closed behind her.

THE CURRENCY PROBLEM.

Silver Men Will Keep It to the Front at the Coming Session.

Washington, Nov. 15.—As the session of Congress approaches it is becoming more evident that it is the intention of the silver men to keep the currency problem to the front, and it is likely that the Republican leaders will be forced to give much consideration to the subject this Winter. Southern Democrats say that they will not vote for any compromise bill, as has been asserted they might do if a bill was drawn upon the lines of establishing a credit currency. Such a measure, they say, would only be framed for the purpose of sidetracking the free-silver issue. On the other hand, Eastern Republicans in Washington who were kept in line during the Presidential campaign by the promise of international bimetallism, say that they will insist that the House of Representatives, with its large Republican majority, shall redeem the promises made. It is doubtful if a satisfactory currency bill can be framed in the House and it begins to look as if an attempt to frame a currency bill will meet the same fate as it did when the House of Representatives was Democratic during the Cleveland administration.

The Texas Gold Field.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 15.—Another gold discovery is reported from the Llano district, 100 miles north of here. Col. T. C. Schriever, of this city, who made the first discovery of gold in that district a few months ago, is pushing work on his mine, and already has shipped four carloads of ore to the Pueblo smelter. The returns from these cars averaged $6,000 each.

HAPPENINGS AMONG THE LOCAL FOOTBALL PLAYERS.

Games That are to be Played and Points About Teams and Individual Players That May Prove Interesting to Cranks.

Charles Dupee, of this city, distinguished himself as fullback on the Yale freshman football eleven Saturday afternoon when the Yale freshmen defeated the Princeton freshmen by a score of 10 to 0. Dupee made one touchdown and kicked one goal. His punting called forth special commendation from the critics.

The Dunellen football team was defeated by the Cranford "Echoes" at Cranford Saturday afternoon by a score of 6 to 0. The Dunellen team was largely composed of the players from the Crescent team. Only one-half was played owing to the fact that Charles Woolston, quarterback for the Crescents, was ill when he came on the field and could not stand more than one-half.

GOLF.

The last game of golf, match play, was contested Saturday afternoon on the links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. The home team had for their opponents the team from the Suburban Club, of Elizabeth. That the visitors were not in it, is shown conclusively by the score of 31 to 9. The home team played a fine game and seemed to be in great luck, while the visitors could not seem to "get there." Owing to the fact that it was such a windy day, it was difficult to play well and all of the players were at a disadvantage. Below will be found the scores in full:

Saturday morning the contest for the Fisk cup was held among the Junior members of the club, and N. Pendleton Rogers, Jr., won with a gross score of 98.

BASKET BALL.

Five boys of the Y. M. C. A. rode over to Summit Saturday afternoon in order that they might have a game with players something like their own age and size. The game was played in two hours fifteen minutes and a half. The contest was a lively one, and both teams showed good courage. The Plainfield team won by a score of 9 to 6.

An Old Spoon.

Mrs. Joseph E. Mosher, of East Fourth street, is the possessor of a rather interesting relic in the form of a very ancient silver spoon. A sister of Mrs. Mosher, Miss Lillie Loring, of Dorchester, Mass., died some years ago and among a number of goods bequeathed to Mrs. Mosher was the spoon in question. Those into whose possession it came had no conception of its great age until a few days ago, when the date 1716 was discovered upon the handle, along with the initials of the original owner, who is supposed to have been an ancestor of the present owner. Time has nearly obliterated the inscription, which accounts for the failure of Mrs. Mosher to discover it before.

—Neuman Bros. have received a large cargo of Curtis Brothers' fine jams, preserves and soups, on which special prices will be made by the dozen or case.

—Danish services will be held at the German Lutheran church on Grove street, this evening, beginniug at 8 o'clock. Rev. Chas. Mengers will conduct the services.

—This week at Randolph's handsome soda counter a young woman will dispense to ladies and gentlemen samples of the Great American Brand Extract of Beef free.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., will hold a regular communication tomorrow evening, when the Master Mason degree will be conferred on two candidates.

—Of the 25 cases of French peas received by Neuman Bros., the Watchung avenue grocers, last Wednesday, only five cases now remain unsold. These will be closed out at 10 cents a can.

PASTOR'S RECEPTION.

The R's and S's of Seventh-Day Baptist Church Met Socially.

The third of Rev. A. E. Main's receptions to the members of his congregation of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was held at his home on Central avenue yesterday afternoon, from 5 to 7 o'clock. The congregation has been invited in alphabetical order and yesterday it was the turn of the R's and S's. Mrs. G. E. Stillman and Mrs. D. V. St. John presided over the table in the dining room. The guests were served by Miss Mary Tomlinson and Miss Ida Spicer. The last of the series will be held this evening when the members of the congregation whose last names begin with the letters from S to Z will be entertained from 7 to 9 o'clock.

A Former Rabbi Preached.

Rev. Samuel Frender, formerly a Jewish rabbi and now a Congregationalist minister, gave a very interesting address on "The Everlasting Nation" at the Congregational church last evening. The address was given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church. He told something of the extent of the Hebrew nation throughout the world today and spoke of their religious condition, giving their reasons for continued refusal to accept the Messiah. He showed the Rabbinical costume and chanted a Psalm in the Hebrew tongue. The meeting was well attended.

Aged Colored Woman Dead.

Mrs. Maria Stansbury, colored, aged 69 years, died at her home, in the rear of 129 East Front street, at 3:30 o'clock this morning, after an illness of two weeks. The funeral services will be in the Fillmore Baptist church, of which Mrs. Stansbury was a member, on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Rev. William Johnston, pastor of the church, officiating. The burial will take place in the Baptist cemetery.

The restaurant did a large business Friday and Saturday evenings. The workers in that department for the rest of the week have already been given. Friday night the restaurant was under the charge of committees from the First Presbyterian, the Trinity Reformed and the Unitarian churches. The first committee was composed of Mrs. Williams, chairman; Miss Josephine Petrie, Miss Remson, Mrs. Clarence Bond, Miss Jennie Abbott, Mrs. Hunt. The waitresses were Miss Evelyn Searing, Miss Helen Boice, Miss Nora Williams, Miss Julia Williams, Miss Lulu Avery, Miss Lillian Hunt, Miss Louise Holmes, and Miss Edith Bond. Trinity's committee consisted of Mrs. P. M. Demarest, chairman; Mrs. Frank A. Church, and Mrs. Gillem. The waitresses were Miss Smith, Miss Lillian A. Force, Miss Minnie Arnold, Miss Etta Krymer, Miss Edith Little and Miss VanFleet. Mrs. S. R. Krom, chairman; Mrs. A. C. Nickerson and Mrs. H. B. Wells was the committee from the Unitarian church. Their waitresses were Miss Carrie Haviland, Miss Caroline Minturn Hall, Miss Mary Wells, Miss Dorothy Wells, Miss Ellen Osgood, and Miss Laura Osgood.

Saturday night the Crescent Avenue church consisted of Mrs. W. L. C. Glenny, chairman; Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mrs. Henry Bowen, Mrs. Budlong, Mrs. C. B. Corwin, Mrs. George H. Goddard, Mrs. Samuel Kimball, Mrs. M. B. Long, Mrs. D. N. Groendyke, Mrs. A. B. Beers, Mrs. C. N. Abbott, Miss Nettie Haviland, and Mrs. Josiah Browne. The waitresses were Miss Edith Tracy, Margaret Tracy, Miss Dean, Miss Farnum, Miss Cook, Miss Sarah Ball, Miss Bronson, Miss VanDeventer, the Misses Ross, Miss Sutphen, Miss Clark, Miss Ada Marsh. Louise Howard and W. L. C. Glenny presided over the carving of the turkeys. The committee from the Congregational church consisted of Mrs. Eugene M. Laing, chairman; Mrs. Mrs. George W. Rockfellow, Miss E. E. Clark and Mrs. Joseph Fuller. The waitresses were Miss Adeline Parsons, Miss Mary Robinson, Miss Williams, Miss Shepard, Miss Cornelia Rockfellow.

Throughout the week not one serious accidend occurred and all the precautions happily proved unnecessary. Fire was most feared and several dozen Little Giant fire extinguishers had been donated to the cause by the manufacturers. Charles VanWinkle and W. H. Drayton were in charge of them and were on hand during the week to be ready in time of need.

That the Spielkartenfest has been the great success which more than equalled expectations, was largely due to that personality that was to be found interwoven through everything. The excellence of the dances, the beauty of the costumes and countless other details that made the Spielkartenfest what it was, are all to be traced to one master mind that designed and directed that magnificent affair, the greatest of its kind, which will long remain in the memory of those who saw it. Miss Lila Agnew Stewart is the one to whom so much is due. She accomplished what no one else could. In the face of discouragement and trials she was steadfast. Her bright and cheerful manner encouraged others to renewed efforts, and so after weeks of pianning and practicing her triumph came. Miss Stewart made scores of friends during her short stay in this city. The praise given to the Spielkartenfest from every side settled on her as its originator and director. Her wonderful patience and memory was shown in the training of the dancers, whose well-doing spoke for her ability in that direction.

Her popularity was evinced by the numerous gifts that she received Saturday night. She was led before the footlights a number of times by the Joker Saturday evening to receive different gifts. There were numerous bouquets, including a large one from the dancers in the Hornpipe. From the Ladies' Auxiliary Board she received a satin shopping bag, with gold extension top, her initials engraved on it and a gold chain purse containing several gold pieces. The Mirror dancers presented her with a sterling silver brush and comb, engraved with her initials and in a handsome plush case. From the other dancers she received a silver powder box and puff, a silver mirror and a silver shoe horn

Miss Stewart was not alone in her efforts to make the Spielkartenfest a success. A committee of arrangements, consisting of Mrs. D. T. VanBuren, William R. Cock, William L. Saunders and H. P. Reynolds, was at the head of affairs and has looked after the business end of the benefit. It has been no light task to make all the necessary arrangements, secure the necessary helpers in the different departments, and plan for the care of the audience. They have been active workers, indeed, and deserve no end of credit for the time and labors that they have spent on the affair. The printing committee was composed of Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. S. R. Krom and Mrs. G. H. Frost. They were assisted by the press agent of the Spielkertenfest, A. E. Kenney, who proved himself a valuable man for the place. There was plenty for the committee and their agent to do, and they did it creditably and to the satisfaction of all.

Samuel Kimball was in a difficult position as chairman of ushers, but he accomplished what he had to do well. The excellence of the arrangements in the care for the patrons of the reserved seats was remarked upon. Mr. Kimball was assisted in his duties by a corps of young men, consisting of J. Everett Kimball, Fred G. Smith, Joseph L. Myers, Max Munger, James P. Murray, Roger W. Erickson, Walter F. Murray, Edward M. VanBuren, R. A. Beebe, F. L. C. Martin James E. Murray, E. H. Frost, L. D. Lovell, E. T. Wilson, O. G. Waring, John I. Brower, Walter E. Stewart, Harry C. Munger, Henry West, E. J. Patterson, E. H. Ladd, Jr., Clement Morgan and Mr. Davison.

In all the Spielkartenfest there was no harder worker than the Court Jester, Laurens Hardy VanBuren. He played his part with a grace and easiness that made him an ideal one for the character. He also lent a hand wherever needed and rendered much assistance to the affair, besides filling his own part to the satisfaction of all. His costume was rich and gorgeous, after the fashion of the most improved court jester.

And then the firemen and police, they gave their services to the benefit willingly, and while it luckily happened that there was no occasion for their services, no one doubts but that they would have been at the place of danger ready to do all in their power to check any conflagration or trouble that might occur.

In the contest for the most popular of the afternoon dances, the Mardi Gras was victorious with 314, and the Minuet second with 298.

Tomorrow The Press will publish a tramp piece of poetry entitled, "The Boss Men of the Spielkartenfest." No one claims its authorship, but it is quite funny and appropriate. Look out for it. It is estimated that the profits of the Spielkartenfest will amount to about $3,000.

Four New Steel Freighters.

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—The Cramps have contracted to build four steel-screw steamships for the Boston Fruit Company, which operates several steamship lines between Jamaica and this country.

These steamers, perhaps, will be the most expensive vessels of similar dimensions ever built in this country. They will be 290 feet long, 36 feet beam, with a carrying capacity of from 2,500 to 2,700 tons. They will be equipped with electric lights, side ports and other modern appliances. They are to be fifteen-knot vessels, and will have accommodations for 100 passengers each.

Train Dynamited in Cuba.

Havana, Nov. 15.—Insurgents dynamited and derailed a train between Neuvitas and Puerto Principe.

The engineer, fireman and ten other persons were killed, and twenty-seven soldiers and passengers were injured.

The locomotive was overturned and several cars were destroyed.

American Loan to Hayti.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The United States Minister to Hayti reports from Port au Prince that the Haytien Government has concluded a loan for $4,000,000 in gold through Lazard Freres, of New York, at 9 per cent., to be delivered immediately.

The paper currency of Hayti will be destroyed and the fractional silver and copper coin will be recoined in the mints of the United States.

Gov. Atkinson's Ambition.

Petersburg, W. Va., Nov. 15.—Gov. Atkinson has announced himself as a candidate for the United States Senate. He wants to succeed Charles J. Faulkner, whose term expires in 1899.

Friends of the Governor are already hard at work in his behalf, and express great confidence that he will win.

They Will Refuse to Buy Our Cattle.

Glasgow, Nov. 15.—The Fleshers' Trade Protection Society have given notice to ship owners that after Dec. 1 they will refuse to purchase live stock carried from the United States and Canadian ports by shippers who carry or importers that are not members of the Fleshers' Society.

Dr. McVickar Will Become a Bishop.

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—The Rev. William Neilson McVickar, rector of the Episcopal Church, Holy Trinity, announced from the pulpit yesterday his formal acceptance of the appointment of Coadjutor Bishop of Rhode Island.

NAMES THAT ARE MENTIONED AS POSSIBLE CANDIDATES.

Netherwood Man Would Add Some Strength to the Citizens' Ticket—A Disposition to Insist on Home Merchants.

Day by day the campaign for the election of city officers to be chosen this year is drawing nearer, and interest in the developments and probable result is becoming the principal topic of conversation among the voters. The exclusive story in Saturday's Press telling of the inauguration of the Citizens' movement caused quite a stir and gave great impetus to the movement that is being made against the regular Republican organization.

Though possible candidacies have not figured a great deal in the talk up to the present time, names will now be connected with the various nominations oftener and give an additional interest to the gossip.

The name of Louis Brown, who resides in Netherwood, is mentioned in connection with a Councilmanic nomination by the Citizens' movement. Mr. Brown is a Republican at heart, but it is thought that he can be induced to stand as a representative of the independent movement at this time.

There is every probability that Councilman Frost will be renominated in the Second ward by the regular Republicans, and it is considered that Mr. Brown's candidacy would attract a large proportion of the Netherwood voters to the Citizens' ticket. Netherwood people claim that they have been treated in a slight manner by the present administration, and if a Netherwood man is put up they will rally to his support. Mr. Brown is a woollen merchant in New York. The fact that he is not a home merchant may arouse some opposition among the large element who believe that the all-the-time Plainfielders should have an inning at conducting city affairs.

Gen. W. H. Sterling, of Third place, is being mentioned as a candidate for School Commissioner by the backers of the Citizens' party. It is generally conceded that General Sterling would make a model member of the Board of Education.

It is said that J. Evarts Tracy, of West Seventh street, the well-known New York lawyer, longs to be a Councilman from the Third ward, and that this year his friends are going to make an effort to secure the regular Republican nomination for him. Rowland Cox's name is also mentioned in connection with this same office.

In the Fourth ward Isaac D. Randolph's name is being mentioned for a Councilmanic nomination on the Citizens' ticket, but he declares that he does not want it. George O. Stevens, the coal merchant, is also hinted at as being in the eligible list for the honor.

J. T. Slauson, of East Ninth street, is suggested as a strong candidate in the Second ward to oppose the regular Republican nomination. Though Mr. Slauson is identified with Wall street, in New York, he is opposed to trusts and combinations, and is known as what is popularly termed a "people's man."
